Tarbox, in reference to the change in the day of Prayer for Colleges, to the last Thursday in January, embodying the opinion of the Presidents of various Colleges, was presented by the Secretary. The Association voted to recommend to the churches to accede to the change in the day.

NATIONAL COUNCIL.

Rev. A. H. Quint, Chairman of Committee appointed at the session of 1870, reported the proceedings of a Convention of delegates from the several General Associations, whereupon the Association

Voted, That it is expedient, and appears clearly to be the voice of the churches, that a National Council of the Congregational churches of the United States be organized, and that this Association be represented in the same.

Rev. N. S. Dickinson offered the following resolution :

That inasmuch as the organization that is to represent the Congregational churches of the United States is not to exercise any ecclesiastical authority, and is to be modelled, not after our ecclesiastical Councils but after the Conferences of our churches, it is the judgment of this Association, that in order to prevent all misunderstanding of the motives and objects of the proposed organization, it should be called the National Conference of the Congregational Churches of the United States.

After considerable discussion the resolve was adopted by a vote of 33 to 27 ; and the nomination of delegates was referred to the Nominating Committee.

HOME EVANGELIZATION.

Voted, That a Committee of five be appointed to receive and examine the circular prepared by the Committee on Home Evangelization for returns from the churches, together with all other communications bearing upon the same subject, and report upon the same at their earliest convenience.

And Rev. Horace Parker, Rev. John Dodge, Rev. J. D. Kingsbury, Rev. Amos Holbrook, and Bro. Augustus Mudge, were constituted the Committee.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN CHRISTIAN UNION.

A Committee consisting of Rev. Wm. I. Buddington, Rev. Ray Palmer, and Rev. Henry M. Storrs, deputed by the Conference of New York and Brooklyn, were introduced and made statements in regard to the present condition and future prospects of the American and Foreign Christian Union. After listening to the deputation, Resolved, That the General Association of Congregational Churches of Massachusetts withdraws its former recommendations of the American and Foreign Christian Union as an almoner of the contributions of the churches.

Resolved, That for the further prosecution of the work of the Gospel in nominally Christian countries a Provisional Committee of five be appointed by this Association to take measures in concert with such other committees as may be appointed to act with them, in order to preserve the work from detriment and prosecute it with increased energy until settled arrangements shall be made for the direction of the work; and that until that time the churches be advised and requested to intrust their contributions for this work to the charge of this Committee.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Association it is desirable that in the arrangement for the prosecution of this work no addition be made to the number of organizations for collecting and disbursing the contributions of the churches.

Rev. Edward N. Kirk, Rev. E. B. Webb, Rev. Wm. A. Stearns, Bro. Wm. B. Washburn, and Bro. John M. Pinkerton, were chosen as that Provisional Committee, with power to fill vacancies.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The Association then proceeded to ballot for officers for the term of three years, and elected

Rev. ALONZO H. QUINT, of New Bedford, Secretary,
 Rev. JAMES P. KIMBALL, of Haydenville, Registrar,
 Bro. STEPHEN T. FARWELL, of Boston, Treasurer.

After which the Association adjourned.

2 o'clock P. M. The Association reassembled. The first half hour was spent in devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. Henry M. Storrs. At 2½ o'clock the Moderator took the chair. An hour was then occupied by the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, Rev. Wm. A. Stearns presiding. At 3½ the Association resumed its business sessions.

AMENDMENT TO THE RULES.

Rev. S. T. Seelye introduced the following amendment, which was laid over, under the rules, until the next day.

Resolved, That Rule 15, Sect. 2, be amended by assigning the Sermon and Sacrament to Tuesday evening at the option of the Provisional Committee, permitting the Provisional Committee to select a preacher for Wednesday evening.

HOME EVANGELIZATION.

The subject of Home Evangelization was then taken up. A report was presented by Rev. Daniel P. Noyes, which was accepted and the following resolve adopted :

Resolved, That this General Association, without entering upon a careful examination of all details included in the suggestions of the State Committee on Home Evangelization, cordially approves of their tenor, and recommends them to the attention of the churches.

The Secretary presented Memorials in relation to Home Evangelization from Worcester South and Brookfield Associations and Brookfield Associational Conference, which were referred to a Special Committee consisting of Rev. Edward Strong, Rev. E. B. Webb, and Bro. Wm. G. Tuttle, with instructions to report during the present session.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The Secretary presented his annual report.

HOME EVANGELIZATION.

The Committee on Blanks made a report, which, pending the report of the Special Committee on Home Evangelization, was laid on the table.

TEMPERANCE.

Rev. J. Jay Dana submitted the following resolutions on the subject of Temperance, which were adopted :

Whereas, The religion of Jesus Christ is the source of the power and triumph of all true moral reforms, and imparts to them that tone which the Bible alone evokes and imposes upon all who have embraced it, the duty of teaching and practising every virtue which the reformation and salvation of men require; and whereas the church cannot live without the Temperance reform, any more than the Temperance reform can live without the church : therefore

Resolved, That we believe entire abstinence from all intoxicating drinks : to be a Christian duty, alike necessary to a pious life and a consistent Christian example, and therefore binding upon every disciple of Jesus.

Resolved, That we heartily approve all appropriate moral agencies to advance the Temperance cause, such as Temperance sermons and lectures, the introduction of the pledge in the Sabbath and Public schools, as well as among adults, the circulation of Temperance literature, the organization of Temperance societies, and all other instrumentalities necessary to advance the cause of total abstinence.

Resolved, That since the traffic in intoxicating drinks of all kinds is antagonistic both to the moral agencies used to promote the Temperance reform, and to the means of grace employed by the Church to save men, we hereby record our uncompromising hostility to this traffic, and pledge our support to its legal prohibition.

THE TREASURY.

The Auditing Committee reported the Treasurer's report to be correct, and submitted the following recommendation, which was adopted :

The Committee would recommend that the local Conferences raise a sum equal to two cents for each resident member of their several churches, and remit the same to S. T. Farwell, 15 Cornhill, Boston.

The Committee on Nominations submitted the names of the following persons as delegates to the National Council, who were unanimously elected :

The Association then adjourned.

7½ P. M. The Association reassembled, and was led in prayer by Rev. Wm. M. Thayer, after which addresses were made by Rev. Samuel H. Lee, Rev. A. H. Clapp, Rev. Jonathan Edwards, Rev. H. Q. Butterfield, Rev. E. B. Webb, and Rev. A. H. Quint.

THIRD DAY.

Thursday, June 22. The Association assembled at 8½ A. M. The first half hour was spent in devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. Edward S. Atwood. At 9 A. M. the Moderator took the chair. The minutes were read. Brother Samuel Williston was introduced, and welcomed by the Association. Prayer was offered by Bro. Ezra Farnsworth.

CONGREGATIONAL HOUSE.

The work of the Congregational Association was presented by Rev. E. B. Webb and bro. Ezra Farnsworth. The moderator being obliged to leave, Rev. Edward Strong was called to the chair.

The Association adopted the following :

Resolved, That the General Association expresses its gladness at the progress of the movement for a CONGREGATIONAL HOUSE in Boston, and earnestly recommends all the churches to assist in its speedy completion; considering, that while it is a movement of national interest, it is particularly a work in which our own churches should be foremost.

SESSION OF 1872.

It was Voted, That the session of 1872 be held with the South Congregational church in Pittsfield, and that Rev. Edward Strong, Rev. John Todd, Rev. Charles V. Spear, Hon. Thomas Colt, and Dea. H. M. Pierson, be Provisional Committee.

COLLEGE SOCIETY.

Rev. H. Q. Butterfield presented the cause of the College Society.

HOME EVANGELIZATION.

The State Committee on Home Evangelization, for the current year, was appointed as follows :

Chairmen and other appointees of Local Conferences, the same as last year, with the substitution of James G. Buttrick, Rev. John W. Dodge, Rev. Hartford P. Leonard, Rev. Walter Rice, in place of retired Chairmen in their several Conferences.

Also, the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society ; and as members at large the same as last year, with the omission of A. W. Dodge, and David Whitcomb ; and the addition of Rev. Joshua W. Wellman, Rev. John W. Harding, Rev. Joshua Coit, Rev. Stephen Knowlton, Rev. John H. Windsor.

CORRESPONDENCE WITH OTHER BODIES.

The Committee on delegation to corresponding bodies, presented the following report which was adopted :

Resolved, That while this Association of the Congregational churches of Massachusetts cherishes with warm sympathy and affection the various ecclesiastical bodies with which we have hitherto been in correspondence, and while in the future we shall be no less happy than in the past to receive their Christian salutations, nevertheless, in order to economise wisely the time allotted at our annual meetings to necessary business, and in view of the fact that a National Council, if organized, will better answer the objects of fellowship, we deem it inexpedient to continue the appointment of delegates to convey to these bodies in form, the yearly expression of our Christian regards.

HOME EVANGELIZATION.

The Special Committee to whom Memorials on Home Evangelization were referred, made the following report :

They cordially approve the spirit and purpose of these memorials, looking as they do toward a rigid economy in the disbursement of the funds contributed by our churches for benevolent purposes. At the same time they desire to express their very high appreciation of the value of what has been accomplished by the agency of the Secretary of Home Evangelization, and of what he may yet be able to accomplish. He has been commendably earnest, indefatigable, inventive, and persistent in his work, and we think in good degree successful. He has stimulated pastors, churches and conferences to a greater activity in this direction. He has collected valuable statistics and made valuable use of them. He has been the occasion of the planting of Mission Sabbath schools, and neighborhood prayer-meetings, and of starting not a few individual Christians in personal Christian work.

In labors of this kind he has naturally met with varying success. Your Committee are not surprised to learn that in some sections, like those from which the memorials have come, it is beginning to be felt that the local churches and individual Christians no longer need the special stimulus and activities which he has supplied. Quite likely they are correct so far as relates to the sections they represent. There are however other portions of the State, including some of our large manufacturing towns and cities, in which all his time and experience may well enough for the present be employed. There are still problems of Christian work and church work to be more thoroughly wrought out than they could be by the honored and beloved Secretary of the Home Missionary Society, and for which the Secretary of Home Evangelization is eminently qualified, and in which he is deeply interested. Agreeing then with your memorialists that the two Secretaryships, that of the Home Missionary Society and of Home Evangelization should, at least ere long, be united and filled by one person, we are of opinion that the time for such union has not yet fully come. All which is respectfully submitted.

EDW. STRONG.
EDWIN B. WEBB.
W. G. TUTTLE.

This report was adopted. The report upon blanks for statistics of Home Evangelization was also taken from the table, and that subject was referred to the Committee on Home Evangelization.

AMENDMENTS TO RULES.

The amendments proposed on the day previous [page 8] were then taken up and adopted.

VOTES OF THANKS.

On motion of Rev. Edward S. Atwood, it was Resolved, That the hearty thanks of the Association, for cordial welcome and Christian hospitality which has made this session so memorably pleasant, be tendered to the Payson church in Easthampton, and its beloved pastor, and also to the First Church and its pastor, for their kind cooperation. The Association appreciates the warmth of welcome and Christian love in this beautiful town, and it appreciates the privilege of dining together daily at a public house, successfully conducted while free from all unlawful traffic. Our thanks are also tendered to the choir of the Payson church for their very acceptable assistance in the service of song, and to the several railroads which have given return tickets to persons attending this meeting.

On motion of Rev. A. H. Quint,

Voted, That the Association express its sense of the courteous manner in which the Moderator has fulfilled his duties.

Voted, That when we adjourn we adjourn to meet for the sermon and sacrament, at the close of which the Association stand adjourned sine die.

The minutes were read and accepted, after which the Association took a recess until two o'clock.

Thursday, 2 o'clock P. M. A sermon was preached by Rev. Joshua Coit of Brookfield, from Matt. viii, 7: "And Jesus saith unto him, I will come and heal him."

The devotional services were conducted by Rev. E. B. Palmer, of Chicopee.

After the sermon, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered, Rev. J. H. Bisbee, of Huntington, and Rev. Thomas Shepard, of Bristol, R. I., officiating.

The Association then stood adjourned sine die.

JOSHUA W. WELLMAN, Moderator.

EDWARD STRONG, Moderator pro tem.

REPORT ON THE
Work of the Churches and State of Religion :

BEING THE SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE STATE COMMITTEE ON HOME EVANGELIZATION.

GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES

AT EASTHAMPTON, JUNE 21st, 1871.

Reports of Church work have been received by the State Committee from eighteen of the twenty-four Conferences. At the present date, the following Conferences have not been heard from, viz. : Andover, Berkshire North, Essex North, Middlesex South, Middlesex Union, Suffolk North, Worcester South. In the first, second, and fifth, the omission is accounted for by changes in the Local Committees; and the last has never given notice of the appointment of any Committee on Home Evangelization. It is understood that peculiar difficulties have been in the way of the commencement of a vigorous and systematic effort in that part of the State. Pastors have reported a discouraging aspect of affairs.

The following extracts from the Narratives will give some idea of what the churches have been doing and of the religious condition of the surrounding communities. Additional particulars, with some of the statistics, will be found in the Appendix.

ANDOVER CONFERENCE.

BARNSTABLE CONFERENCE.

Reports have been received from fourteen of the twenty-two churches in this Conference — those not reporting being without pastors, and three of them without regular services. The response to inquiries, though tardy, has been cheerful.

In West Barnstable, the Sunday-school has been substituted for the afternoon service, to relieve the pastor who has found himself compelled to take charge of the High School during the week. A large part of the church members are advanced in years. The church is not active. The Sunday-school is sustained with difficulty. Some of the neglecters, — who are for the most part Universalists, Spiritualists or Skeptics — are drawn into neighborhood prayer-meetings. The losses of the church have been greater than the additions.

The pastor of the church at Centreville makes a statement of great interest. A revival has been blessed to “the permanent awakening of the majority of its members.” An expository service on Sunday afternoons has stimulated new interest in the study of the Scriptures. Once a month it is customary to devote this exercise to the benefit of the Sunday-school; after which, the young people remain for personal conversation upon the subject discussed; the pastor availing himself of the opportunity to press home the truth directly upon the heart, conversing, when practicable, with each one singly. At times, many have seemed deeply affected. On every Sabbath also, after the regular service, an invitation is given to meet the pastor for personal conversation. There has been a constant religious interest in the Sunday-school.

During the revival, some of the ladies began speaking in the meetings — and are now the life of them — though previously opposed to the practice. Two years ago the prayer-meetings were so dull that at last the pastor could bear it no longer; so, leaving the desk, he took his seat among the people and introduced an informal talk. The meetings are now natural, conversational, sometimes delightful, and always good.

The out-districts are reached by prayer-meetings and the distribution of religious reading. The neglecters are numerous; but the pastor endeavors to visit every one for personal conversation. He suggests a restoration of the daily meeting, and thinks that nothing else can overcome the daily power of the world.

Revivals have also been enjoyed at Chatham, South Dennis, Harwich Port and Wellfleet — with from nine to nineteen additions in each.

The church in Harwich has paid off its debt. Harwich Port, Falmouth and Orleans have secured new pastors. Truro affords a good illustration of the advantage of a permanent pastorate. Its minister has been there more than twenty-one years, and is one who truly watches for souls. Though the town is declining in population and the church suffers greatly from removals, the proportion of church attendance, instead of diminishing, has increased. Three fourths of the congregation are in the Sunday-school — many having been gathered in by “solicitors” appointed for the purpose. Some of the Portuguese, also, are by personal effort brought into meetings. Here, as at Centerville, women “have taken part in the prayer-meetings, speaking and praying, to edification.”

The church in Wellfleet has had a year of prosperity. A revival commenced with the week of prayer; nineteen have been added to the church, and hopes are cherished that others still are to come. There has been a good deal of visiting from house to house, for personal conversation; and a female prayer-meeting, held weekly through the year, has also seemed to do much good. In South Wellfleet, there have been a number of hopeful conversions. Intemperance is scarcely known in the vicinity.

The church in Yarmouth has completed its new meeting-house, at a cost of $18,000, all paid. The two out-districts have been cared for, as in past years; but untoward influences from abroad have interfered with their progress. A general improvement, however, is visible; and the labor expended has by no means been lost.

The church at Hyannis invites special attention not only from its sister churches of the neighborhood, but from all Congregational churches in the State. Since last Fall it has had no minister. It is at such a distance from the nearest Congregational churches, that the people are practically out of their reach. The congregation have become discouraged; and the church, organized seventeen years ago, and upon which a large amount of missionary funds has been expended, is in danger of becoming extinct. Planted in the midst of an active population, its present condition may well give rise to a question of some difficulty and of great importance.

In Provincetown, also, the ancient church, founded in 1714, and reorganized in 1774, which ought long ago, it would seem, to have been eminent for numbers and every kind of strength, has actually fewer members than it had in 1860. Surrounded by a population of five thousand souls, its congregation embraces but forty-one families, and its house of worship is of “very unattractive appearance,” while those of other denominations are “large and beautiful.” It is without a pastor. The Chairman of the Committee well adds: “This spot, first pressed by Pilgrim feet, should not be abandoned by their sons.” The harbor where their compact was signed ought never to want a witness to their principles. The church polity which they have bequeathed us, “is peculiarly adapted to the vigorous population of this place,” and only needs an earnest and determined spirit in those who hold to it, in order to secure its proper position and usefulness in this its ancient home.

The Committee of this Conference close their report with “a few suggestions.” “It is very evident,” they observe, “that while in most of the towns of this county we have the advantage of numbers and a preponderating influence,” we suffer for lack of “systematic plans of action, as churches.” We need “more enterprise”; such as will “lead to a general reconnoitring of the ground and a discovery of the elements of our weakness as well as the points of our strength." While "each church must understand its own field and its peculiar work, there are certain particulars deserving the attention of all."

"First. There is a call for special doctrinal instruction in the pulpit and the Sabbath-school, adapted to counteract Universalism, Spiritualism, and current scepticism."

"There are masses of unbelievers in various localities between our churches whose influence is more or less felt." "A part of the inefficiency of the churches is owing to the feebleness of the hold that even many Christians have upon their faith."

Second. Greater spirituality is called for in the Sabbath-school.

"Our opportunities for reaching our young men are confined, in great measure, to the first twelve or fourteen years of their life." "It is evidently our duty, not merely to sow the good seed, but to seek the regeneration of the heart, before they so early embark upon their perilous voyage of life." The teachers in our Sunday-schools need to be "more spiritual and personal in their application of truth, and more watchful for souls."

Third. We would suggest the need of a more thorough training of teachers for their work. Their power is in proportion to their fitness.

Fourth. "The value of the assistance rendered by Christian women in the prayer-meeting, is matter of demonstration in this county." "Whatever may be said of the duty of women to keep silence in the churches, in ordinary cases, the fact that so large a portion of the brethren are most of the time absent, renders it expedient for them to take a large share in the meetings here. It is the uniform testimony, that they have added interest and efficiency wherever they have spoken freely."

Finally, "We close with the suggestion, that special effort be made throughout the Conference for some concert of action in church work, in all parts of the county."

BERKSHIRE NORTH CONFERENCE.

BERKSHIRE SOUTH CONFERENCE.

This Conference embraces sixteen churches. The earnest efforts that have been made to supply these with pastors have been successful; and their condition is much better than in former years, ten churches now having pastors, and six, ministers employed for the year, while none are vacant. Very naturally, this has been attended by an increase in the congregations. A new church has been organized at Mill-river, a large congregation gathered, a meeting-house built and paid for, and a pastor installed.

The out-districts have generally been cared for. In many of them branch Sunday-schools and preaching services are regularly held, with encouraging results. South Lee, which a few years ago was but an outpost of a neighboring church, now enjoys the services of a Congregational minister, sustained by the people. Glendale, also, now has regular preaching as well as a Sabbath-school. It may well be inferred, say the Committee, in view of the particulars which they give, that we have not abandoned "Home Evangelization, but have pursued it with as much vigor as in any former year. We believe in the work as important and practicable." "In comparing the efforts now made for the out-stations with what was done for them before our Home Evangelization movement began, it is manifest that a decided gain has been made. We have only to renew our strength by waiting upon the Lord and to practise the blessed doctrine of the Perseverance of the Saints, and we shall reap in due season."

The general moral condition of the people remains without material change. Secret organizations for the promotion of Temperance have generally been given up, as not adapted to interest the members permanently.

BROOKFIELD ASSOCIATIONAL CONFERENCE.

Of the twenty-one churches of this Conference, only fourteen have settled pastors; and yet this is a little better than their record of last year. Three others have stated preachers; and the remaining four are supplied with transient preachers.

"Usual outward prosperity has been granted to the churches, and the Master has given them many very precious testimonials of his goodness." "Large numbers," however, "in all these towns habitually neglect the sanctuary, and many of the children and youth are not brought into the Sabbath-school. It is to be feared that they receive very little religious instruction anywhere." "In some of the churches there appears a laxity of discipline that indicates a lack of love for our holy cause." "It is written, Thou shalt in any wise rebuke thy neighbor, and not suffer sin upon him."

"We are happy to note a commendable abiding by the principles of Temperance; and, as we believe, a growing conviction that the traffic in ardent spirits should be wholly suppressed."

Houses of worship have been repaired and beautified, and a new one has been dedicated at West Warren.

Several churches make grateful mention of refreshings from on high; and have received considerable additions.

Out-districts are generally looked after with a good degree of care,

ESSEX NORTH CONFERENCE.

ESSEX SOUTH CONFERENCE.

“The Committee have tabulated and printed such portions of the annual returns of the churches as seem most desirable, to be circulated among the membership at large, who cannot be expected to be present at the semi-annual meetings. From the narratives of several pastors the following additional notes are extracted.”

North Beverly speaks of a great lack of union — union of sentiment and affection — and many obstacles in the way of the success of the gospel. Dane Street Church, Beverly, reports energy in all that pertains to Christian work in the spirit of union. Washington Street Church, Beverly, reports a slowness on the part of persons hopefully converted to unite themselves with the church. Quite a number of such, however, have joined during the past year. The Sabbath-school flourishes as never before. Boxford finds only about one stranger a year to be looked after, little poverty and no criminals, and but few habitual liquor drinkers in town. Much is done in visiting the sick and in thoughtful sympathy with all who are distressed. Christ's kingdom seems to have gained in the hearts of the people. The First Church, Danvers, reports fewer additions than in any of the eight years past. The meeting-house has been further improved since last year. Georgetown testifies to a decided gain in Temperance. West Gloucester mentions an increase of religious interest in the Winter and Spring of 1870, which did not result, however, in any decided conversions at the time. Lynn has been the scene of considerable excitement on controversies relating to the Moral Perils of Shoe Factories, and there have been some promising movements in regard to the City Missionary work — yet waiting to be commenced, — and in regard to Temperance, as a concern for the churches to take united hold of. A series of meetings has also been held in several churches under the direction of a committee of pastors of Evangelical denominations, to discuss the interests of workingmen from a moral and Christian point of view. The conviction of impartial observers seems to be, that after the excitement generated by personal conflicts shall have had time to subside, permanent good will be found to have resulted, in an increased watchfulness for the moral and religious welfare of our operatives.

The out-post at Tower Hill, which has been under the care of the First Church in Lynn for some fourteen years, and where a great deal of labor and money have been expended, is not, at present, in an encouraging condition. The neighborhood is increasing in population, and able to do much toward sustaining a church; but the incomers are not Congregationalists. A Congregational enterprise can hardly be built up there without outside help — and it is a question whether it is wise to grant this, under all the circumstances.

Manchester reports several hundred Romanists who hold no public worship, and for whom little is done; other foreigners also, whom it is hoped to reach this summer by a Branch school. Marblehead, Third Church, reports that lectures by the pastor on Spiritism have led to the disbanding of a progressive lyceum, and the giving up the Spiritist meetings. Intemperance increases. Neglecters are sought after by pastoral visitation. Middleton reports that during the Spring and Summer, unusual religious interest prevailed, which, besides twelve or fourteen conversions, resulted in deepening the religious sentiment of the whole community. Attempts are made to reach neglecters by pastoral visitation, and social meetings in different parts of the town. "Those who love the Lord Jesus have much occasion for gratitude in reviewing the year." Rockport continues to carry on work in her two out-districts. Neglecters of worship are reached to some extent by visiting.

The revival in the South Church, Salem, occurred in connection with a union effort of four churches, and the labors of Rev. Mr. Earle, at the commencement. Some hundred souls, in all, obtained hope—thirty in the South church, mostly heads of families and young men, who are now, without exception, earnest, efficient workers. One of the week-day meetings (the other being occupied with a lecture by the pastor) is mentioned as "the Brethren's Meeting," conducted by members of the church in alphabetical order, thirty of whom have pledged themselves to share in the work. The topic chosen by the leader is announced beforehand, and there is speaking to the point.

The Tabernacle Church, Salem, beside the meetings ordinarily sustained in the other churches, holds two afternoon meetings of young ladies, with the pastor's wife; also a monthly mothers' meeting. We "keep trying to improve on our social meetings," the report continues—"do not let them get into ruts." "In this and other respects we make as little discrimination as possible between church-members and non-church-members, thinking that an artificial gulf often exists, which it is better to bridge over. While in our view the church must be the nucleus of all organized Christian activity, it is best to have all enlisted that can be, whether they belong to the church or not. The state of religion has been, for the most part, very healthful and encouraging, especially among the young men and young women."

Saugus, and also Topsfield, report the general state of Religion as low, and intemperance as troublesome.

Of nineteen churches reporting their charities, not one gave to Theological Seminaries, or to the Congregational Union; only seven to the Bible Society, and only nine to the Education Society. The committee believe that a thoughtful comparative analysis of the table of charities in this year's report might result in a decided and well apportioned increase of the sacrifices of benevolence, with which, it is written, God is well pleased.

FRANKLIN CONFERENCE.

Most of the twenty-eight churches of this Conference remain in the same condition as last year. One, however, in Heath, has had preaching for but few Sabbaths; and two or three others for only a part of the time. A number are without settled pastors; but some of these have enjoyed the services of the same preacher for a number of years.

The church in Charlemont has adopted the principle of free seats. The Second Church in Greenfield has dedicated its new and beautiful house of worship (costing, all told, about $60,000,) and has received considerable additions to its membership. In Montague, there has been a most interesting and powerful work of grace. Seventy-five hopeful conversions are reported; forty-five additions already to the church — some of whom have been Roman Catholics. In Orange, also, it has been found necessary to add sixty pews to their meeting-house. Shelburne has received a new pastor. A work of grace has been enjoyed at Shelburne, South Deerfield and Shelburne Falls. At Miller's Falls, where a manufacturing village is springing up, a new enterprise is on foot, which is expected to grow into a church; and the same result is looked for at Montague City. The Sabbath-schools in Buckland and in Shelburne are worthy of special mention as embracing nearly the whole congregation.

The pastors of this Conference now "no more think of neglecting the out-districts under their care" than their Sunday-schools; and in this they have the cooperation of their churches. "Our out-districts are all in-districts."

On the whole, the churches have enjoyed a fair degree of prosperity. "What is lost in one locality, by the changes of population, is gained in another." The Temperance cause holds its ground.

HAMPDEN CONFERENCE.

The reports of this Conference are made out in the Fall. The Committee open their last regular narrative with the following preface:

According to the programme of exercises for the Conference, "Written Reports" were requested of the churches in conformity with the prime objects of the Conference; viz., our better mutual acquaintance as churches, through the knowledge of each other's welfare and mutual consultation with regard to the common interests and Christian work belonging to our Redeemer's kingdom. It is desired that these reports shall furnish the basis of our church history from year to year, something as the gospel of the "Acts of the Apostles" recorded the church history of the primitive times.

It is desirable that our church members, who cannot attend the annual meetings of the Conference, should be informed of any facts that concern the general welfare and fellowship of the churches, that "whether one member suffer all the members may suffer with it, or one member be honored, all the members may rejoice with it"; that we may learn how "to bear one another's burdens," and to cooperate more heartily and efficiently in our Christian work throughout the country, "considering one another to provoke unto love and good works."

Such reports, carefully prepared and digested, will also be valuable for future reference and comparison. As these objects were not fully understood, the reports from the churches for this year were incomplete. Several were made orally, and while containing facts of interest and importance, it was impossible to preserve them with accuracy as thus reported.

Of the thirty-six churches belonging to the Conference, twenty-one made written reports.

We have room here for but brief extracts from these statements :

The Second Church in Chicopee reports a revival. "From about the time of our last Conference meeting, an increasing activity in our church work was apparent, which continued steadily through the Winter and Spring. It showed itself in our social meetings, in general Christian labors, and in conversions to Christ.

"Our social meetings became more familiar and earnest, and their exercises were shared by a larger number of the attendants, of both sexes. A young people's weekly meeting, conducted by themselves, was soon established, which is still in vigorous life. A deeper and broader feeling of Christian responsibility is rooting itself in the church." "We have a band of young Christian workers coming on with excellent promise. The church has received twelve additions, of whom one was by letter and eleven on profession. Of those thus received on profession, six were heads of families, and two only were youths."

"Bible Service" abandoned. — "After trying for a year and a half the plan of an afternoon Bible service, attended by the pastor, the experiment was not regarded as a success, and the congregation has returned to the former custom, of the afternoon sermon. The numbers attending public worship under these different arrangements, are about the same, with us. The attendance on the Sunday-school is less of late, than formerly. But so is the number of our families, on account of the removal of an unusual portion of them, within the last year and a half, from the village."

Change in Mode of Admission.—"The church, by a unanimous vote, has modified its form of admitting members on profession, retaining its former articles of faith, in the new Manual, as showing our doctrinal basis unchanged, but no longer requiring an unqualified acceptance of it on the part of candidates; a briefer and more devotional form of confession having been substituted for public use and acknowledgment."

The following narrative is worthy of thoughtful perusal. It is full of suggestion and encouragement. If all our pastors could but settle down to their work with a feeling of permanence, steadfast in one well considered system of methods, year upon year, fully proving what virtue there is in a continuance in well doing, what could hinder like results in most of the parishes now so enfeebled by emigration?

A Rural Parish.—The church in Longmeadow report: "Our church has held its own under the disadvantages of emigration and depletion it has suffered in common with many country churches. The increasing distaste for agriculture has of late years led our young men to forsake the old homesteads, and the rising prosperity and attractiveness of Springfield have almost wholly absorbed our manufacturing interests, taking away the youthful and enterprising element that once contributed so much of vigor and hope. As the fathers pass away, new occupants seldom take the position and interest in church affairs that characterized the old inhabitants who were 'to the manner born.' But notwithstanding our losses by death and emigration, we still have a remarkably homogeneous and united people. Our field is small and definite and left wholly to our care.

"As a church we are learning how to cultivate it better. More care is given to the early religious training of children, than in former years. They are oftener brought into the full membership of the church. Our young people's meeting has greatly advanced during the past year in numbers, interest and efficiency.

"Our household prayer-meetings have become established as a practical and delightful means of Christian acquaintance and fellowship and of reaching some who keep aloof from the stated forms of worship. We have been gaining upon the old stiffness and formality in the weekly prayer-meeting. Our Sabbath-school is becoming more thorough in instruction.

"Our Christian work is becoming recognized as steady work rather than the occasional blazing up of short-lived and spasmodic feeling. There is still a great lack of real Christian acquaintance and mutual love — but we are gaining on it. Still a lack, also, of personal searching of the Scriptures, especially among the adult members, few of whom come into the Sabbath-school. But we hope to gain on this.

"Our Benevolent Association is going on as it has for thirty years, gathering in our charitable contributions by male and female collectors who go their monthly rounds. It has much more than held its own, considering the number who have left us. We have just dispatched a valuable box to a Home Missionary, and its preparation has blessed us as a work of sympathy and love.

"A fine piano has been purchased for our Chapel. The parsonage has been thoroughly repaired. Our church music has been revived and improved. We have inaugurated praise-meetings and Congregational singing, in part. We observe the week of Prayer, and have our Sabbath-school Concert in connection with a Bible Service on Sabbath afternoon, once a month, in place of the usual service. We have in our Parish 137 families, of whom 104 are American and 33 foreign. Of the American families 90 per cent. are represented by more or less of their members at the public worship on the Sabbath. During the past year there have been eight admitted to the church, six by profession, five dismissed, and three baptized."

Weekly Contributions. — The First Church in Springfield report: "The grace of giving has received new attention, and the change of our method has shown a new field for its growth. The fact that giving is so little done on Scriptural principles, led the church to vote, in the beginning of the year, to take a collection in the congregation every Lord's Day morning as a part of the service. This vote went into effect February 1st. The open collection was ordered to be divided pro rata among different objects approved by the church, and every inclosed contribution applied according to its direction. The result has been very satisfactory, as showing its agreement with the principles of grace. The enlargement of this idea into a part of the regular service of worship—the universal invitation, by an act to remember the Lord Jesus—the connection of this act with His offering of Himself for us, have been happy results upon the minds and hearts of many in the congregation. It is salutary too in training the young to daily and personal remembrance of their obligation to the Lord for all temporal blessings.”

Comparison of the Systems.—“The report for the year now made, from October to October, enables us to compare fairly the old and the new system. The whole amount given, excluding the Bible service collection, is $2,501.09. Our former method was, to take up for a specific object, every third Sabbath in the month, and for extra objects at other times. And so there would often be a collection every Sabbath for some distinct object. Our present method, is a collection, of the nature of a thank-offering to God, every Sabbath morning. From October 1, 1869, to February 1, 1870, the first third of the year, the amount was $636.85. The second third, from February 1st to June 1st, $1,079.35. June 1st to October 1st, $784.89.

“These figures are strong facts, when we consider that the action was not unanimous in the church, and that some of the congregation have had no share in the offering, upon principle.

“Another way in which we have found peculiar blessing, has been in the Home Concert of prayer.”

Neighborly Fellowship of Churches.—“During a portion of the year, we have sent brethren to visit sister churches, and report what God is doing among them. The cultivation of this fellowship has been profitable to them and to us. In large part the general success of the Kingdom of Christ in our county will be increased by fulfilling this duty of the churches, their fellowship and mutual growth. It is a principle of our polity which has been widely neglected, and yet contains the secret of our strength.”

“Hope Chapel.”—The South Church in Springfield report: “With us the most important Christian enterprise of the year has been the erection of “Hope Chapel.” Five years ago, two of our young men started a Sabbath-school in a private house, and finding themselves no longer accommodated, they purchased a barn, knocked out the stalls, put it in a decent condition, and put their school in there. Here it prospered, and proving a blessing to the neighborhood, which is remote from any church, the funds were readily raised for the erection of this Chapel. It has a convenient and tasteful interior, being handsomely frescoed, with considerable lettering, and cost thirty-five hundred dollars. The Sabbath-school is flourishing, with a regular attendance already of one hundred and twenty-five. Religious services of some kind are held there every Sabbath evening, and it promises to be a great blessing to that part of the city, if not to become the germ of another church."

Revival. — The Olivet Church, Springfield, report: "The year has been one of many blessings, and of some progress. The attendance in the sanctuary and in the social prayer-meetings has been good; the church has grown stronger, 'built up in the most holy faith,' and led by the Holy Ghost.

"During the Winter and Spring the church was greatly revived, and souls were converted. In one Sabbath-school class, five young men; in another class, three young ladies; and other classes, some one or more. Some of them have united with the church; others are intending to unite in due time.

Vigor. — "The Bible service has been of increasing interest and profit. The ladies of the church have been earnest and faithful. They have sustained their prayer-meeting well. They began the temperance movement; secured one hundred and seventeen names to a call and pledge, laying both before the church. In response, the Springfield Temperance Union was formed, which has held several meetings of increasing interest and power. Some noble men have been reclaimed, and now stand firm in the grace and strength of Christ.

"In benevolence, the church and congregation have increased nearly fourfold in three years — 1867, $337.40; 1868, $835.13; 1869, $1,139.12. Besides, the people have procured a new bell, at an expense of between five and six hundred dollars, and a new organ costing $3,700. The Monthly Concert and the Home Concert have been sustained fully by the brethren,—some twenty or more reporting from the various missions and missionary stations."

Revival. — The Church in South Wilbraham report: "At the communion service in December, a lady who had been restored from a dangerous illness united with the church on profession of faith, and her two children were baptized. Soon after this, indications of unusual religious interest appeared among the members of the Sabbath-school. Apparently there was not much increase of fervor among the members of the church at large. A few, however, seemed earnest for a revival, and were unusually animated and encouraged by the tokens of the Holy Spirit's presence among the young, and were very punctual in attending the usual social meetings.

"A young people's prayer and inquiry meeting was commenced at the parsonage, at which five persons were at first present. The number increased to some forty. Thirty-five of them requested prayers. Their conviction of sin was generally pungent, their feelings tender, and the interest of a quiet, undemonstrative, abiding kind. There was a marked punctuality and persistency in attending these meetings, held for a period twice a week, and frequently the nights were dark and stormy. Freedom in speaking and readiness in taking part in meetings, among some very young people, was a pleasing characteristic. Those who were the most punctual and took the most pains to be present, soon found peace, and appeared cheerful, feeling that they had been forgiven and had found acceptance with the Saviour. At a Sabbath-school Concert about this time, some twenty-five persons rose at once to express their desire to become Christians, and to solicit the prayers of God's people. About twenty gave pleasing evidence of having met with a change of heart, among them some members of the Academy having homes in other places. The readiness of such as resided among us to express their desire for union with the church and the privileges of the Lord's table, was very gratifying.

"Since the beginning of this interest, a young people's prayer-meeting has been sustained, once a week, and the perseverance and punctuality of those who have attended, has been very encouraging. Their views have been enlarged, and those who have exercised their gifts have evidently grown in grace and obtained a growing facility in the power of expression."

The Home Evangelization Committee, which acts under instructions from the "Benevolent Association," (a kind of County Home Missionary Society,) appropriated $940 in aid of six feeble churches. This plan meets with cordial approval.

General Condition of the Churches.—"The rest of our churches are not only self-supporting, but as a whole, are gaining in numbers, and strength, and benevolence. We have now thirty-six in all, and almost all of them have pastors, or stated supplies. Within twenty years, their membership has increased more than one quarter—their annual additions more than one third—the members of their Sabbath-schools more than doubled, while their charities have increased in a still greater proportion."

Wisdom of Home Missionary Aid.—"Churches which once received aid from the Home Missionary Society, like North Wilbraham, South Wilbraham, East Longmeadow, Indian Orchard, Chicopee Falls, Huntington, Chester Factories, and Feeding Hills, are not only sustaining their own religious institutions, but they are helping sustain others, and engaged with us in all home and foreign work. This is the fruit of wise sowing in former years. The wisdom and Christian kindness of our churches in looking after their struggling brethren, repays them thus. They have so many more to aid them, and so much more ability with which to aid, in carrying forward all Christian work. It is the plainest dictate of wisdom, as well as the prompting of Christian love, to sustain and encourage all such feeble churches."

Need of Fraternal Encouragement.—"And they sometimes need encouragement, quite as much as they need pecuniary aid. A church is small, finds it difficult to sustain a minister and has no great ability with which to do anything. The population of the town is diminishing, and the young people are leaving, and the loss of a single member, by removal or death, is felt to be a great calamity. The few who remain, and who have long borne a heavy burden, now that it is to be increased, lose heart and hope. And if they lose their minister and are obliged to find another, and especially if they are obliged to pay him a somewhat larger salary, as is very likely to be the case, and if, moreover, the church must be repaired, and perhaps the parsonage also, they are in utter despair. But let a little aid be furnished them about their repairs, or towards the minister's salary; let them be aided in finding a minister, and encouraged to give him a better support; let them be shown the capabilities of their parish, and urged to a better cultivation of the field; let them see that their condition is not a peculiar one, but only the counterpart of so many others, that have been blessed of God, and built up; and especially let them be assured of the sympathy of their brethren, and of their readiness to help them bear their burden; and we may have saved that church. Those good but dispirited souls take courage, and assume a heavier burden, and undertake more Christian work, and God rewards them for it, and builds them up, until they are not only self-supporting, but able to return the kindness to others, and to help about all Christian work. This is the history of so many churches, that our feeble churches do well to remember it, and take encouragement from it, while the rest of us would be foolish indeed, not to sympathize with and help every such struggling church."

HAMPSHIRE CONFERENCE.

To the churches of the Hampshire Conference, (embracing all of Hampshire County, west of the Connecticut River, except Hatfield and Middlefield,) the past year has been a year of blessing.

Early in November, at a Christian Convention held in Williamsburg, there were manifest tokens of the Holy Spirit's presence. A revival was then reported in progress at Worthington, and the work went on until fifty or more were hopefully converted; and thus one of the larger churches among the hill towns has been greatly strengthened. Many who attended the Convention carried home the spirit of the meeting with them, and almost immediately in several other parishes there began to be conversions.

In Florence, a large village in the town of Northampton, where a few years ago the "Free Religionists" held almost entire control, there was in the course of two or three months, a quiet yet powerful work of grace, which has reached young and old, and has brought even scoffers upon their knees. Not less than fifty or sixty have indulged the Christian hope. The Second Church in Huntington has also experienced a precious revival, which has brought in many heads of families and made the Gospel a new power in that community. The First Church in Williamsburg has been greatly refreshed, and about thirty, mostly among the young, have been hopefully converted. In the Haydenville church, the religious interest has been quiet and deep. All through the Winter and Spring the meetings have been well attended, and scarcely a week has passed without one or more conversions. In the village of Leeds, — connected with the Haydenville Parish, though having a Chapel of their own, — a few faithful workers have been reaping a rich harvest. In the two villages last named, there have been not less than sixty or seventy hopeful conversions, of whom forty have already joined the church. The young men of Northampton have been busy at the “Bay State” and at Hospital Hill, where a beautiful Chapel has just been completed, and in those union efforts many have found the Saviour. Other towns have received some measure of blessing, and the feeling has many times found expression, that this is one of the years of the right hand of the Most High.

The churches, with hardly an exception, are supplied with ministers, and in general are more than maintaining their ground. The Edwards church, in Northampton, whose house was destroyed by fire, are bringing towards completion a beautiful edifice which will be an appropriate home for them. The Conference, which has been sleeping for the past four years, has just been revived, and an excellent meeting was lately held with the church in Southampton.

HAMPSHIRE EAST CONFERENCE.

Returns have been received from fourteen of the nineteen churches of this Conference. Some of them report unusual efforts for the promotion of church fellowship, and also a marked advance in the amount of church activity; though in the majority there has been no change. Many church members “are still neglectful and unbelieving as respects the duty of the baptismal consecration of their children.” Sunday Schools are almost universally prosperous; in one church the afternoon is given up to it. No general or powerful revivals are reported for the year 1870, but churches were quickened and refreshed and souls converted.

The churches have been mindful of their duty to out-districts. From one, we hear, “the pastor preaches there a great deal; prayer meetings are held, and tracts systematically distributed.” In another, “all the families receive pastoral calls; several persons have recently indulged a hope, others are coming to church.” In a third, a meeting is regularly held every Sabbath evening; two persons have recently expressed a hope, though the mass remain uninterested. A region is reported, however, as demanding a measure and kind of work that the neighboring pastors are unable to give. This is one of the instances in which the aid of a lay-helper, or of a “County Assistant,” would be most appropriate. Without some such instrumentality, it is hard to see how the district in question is to be effectually reached.

Intemperance prevails in some places to a considerable extent, and there is little activity anywhere for its removal.

NORFOLK CONFERENCE.

Reports have been received from twenty-two of the twenty-nine churches of this Conference. From these and the statement of the Local Committee we make the following extracts:

Abington, First Church. An addition has been made to the house of worship. All pew-rents have been abolished, and the Treasury is mostly supplied by weekly collections. One Sabbath evening in a month is devoted to the cause of Temperance.

Two Roman Catholic missionaries have been securing Temperance pledges among the population of their own faith, and are reported to have obtained five hundred; as a consequence Thanksgiving day and Christmas passed off with unwonted stillness. Abington, Second Church. Infant baptism practically ignored. Nothing done in out-districts. The state of religion low. No pastor. East Abington, also, is still without a pastor. North Abington. "Mixed up with Second Adventists, Annihilationists, Spiritists, Nothingists." The Sabbath desecrated. Infant baptism neglected. The church in a cold state. The present Temperance law works badly.

From Beechwood—recently an out-district—we hear good accounts. Debts have been paid; the church is gaining, and the general aspect is hopeful. The pastor reports, however, that a more stringent Temperance law is needed. The church in Easton has been holding meetings in out-districts with good results. A similar report comes from the Porter church, North Bridgewater, from Campello, South Weymouth, and Sharon.

Hyde Park. Special pains are taken to interest the young people, to promote social intercourse, to pay suitable courtesy to strangers and newcomers, and to engage and assist Sunday School teachers in their work. "By the Rules of the Church and Sabbath School, the school is accounted an organization of the church for the promotion of the study of the Word of God, and not a body separate from the church. The recognition of this relation has proved highly beneficial. The school is prosperous and increasing."

"It is believed that the Prohibitory law would be better than the present."

The church has raised about $9,500—nearly the whole as a "jubilee contribution"—for paying off a debt.

Campello. "The first week of the year was observed, in concert with churches in different parts of the world, as a season of special religious service. Sermons were preached by neighboring clergymen four evenings in the week, and a union meeting, in which the different churches in the town were represented, was held one afternoon. These meetings were very well attended, were deeply interesting at the time, and it is believed were not wholly unprofitable in their results. Our Fellowship meetings have been held in the week following the communion. They have been pleasant seasons of Christian intercourse, and, as we believe, have been blessed spiritually to those who have attended. During the warm season our Superintendent, and a few others, have maintained a Sabbath-school within the limits of an adjoining town, in a neighborhood where very few persons are attendant upon the worship of the sanctuary. The labors of these brethren were very cordially received, and from thirty to fifty persons became members of this school. Although four miles away from us, the school was held every Sabbath until the approach of cold weather, when it was thought best to close for the Winter. The school was started at the request of an unknown individual who did not himself attend, and it is hoped that through his instrumentality a good work was done.

Stoughton. This church is now making trial of the "Bible Service," which seems to give general satisfaction — though not universal. Fellowship meetings are held in connection with the Preparatory lecture. A Neighborhood meeting has been recently established about two and a half miles from the centre of the town, and has secured a good attendance. The weekly prayer meeting has, for the time, gained new interest from the adoption of the following method:

"The pastor previously designates two brethren, who are to select a topic or passage of scripture for the next week, and prepare themselves to speak on it at the opening of the meeting. They notify the pastor, on or before the next Sabbath, what the topic or text is, and he mentions it from the pulpit. The people are thus informed of the subject, and can prepare themselves accordingly, if they wish to take part in the meeting. The pastor occupies the close rather than the opening of the meeting; and thus the brethren feel that they have a chance to say something before the pastor has gone over all the ground. As a temporary change in the way of conducting our prayer meetings, it seems to work very satisfactorily."

"There has been but one case of infant baptism, though the duty, as well as the privilege, of Christian parents to consecrate their children to the Lord in the Abrahamic covenant is urged.

"The substitution of a 'Bible Service' in the afternoon allows more variety and interest in the exercises of the Sunday School. The members, old and young, all unite in offering the Lord's Prayer, and in responsive reading of the scriptures, making use of Mrs. Perry's 'Bible Manual,' which we find very admirably arranged for this purpose. The pastor has a class in the Sunday School, and also occupies ten minutes or more in addressing the whole school on some topic connected with the lesson. We are using 'The Mimpriss System' of graded lessons on the Life of Christ, harmonized from the four Evangelists, and find it an excellent text book.

"Intemperance has prevailed to a great and alarming extent among us during the past year. There is no active Temperance organization in the place. The existing law is not useful in suppressing the dram-shops which are such a curse to any community. Three murders have been committed during the past year, one by negroes, and two by Irishmen."

"Little gain has been manifest in the cause of morals or the kingdom of Christ for the last year. The call of God, 'Go work in my vineyard,' is urgent, but the response is feeble. The work is great, but the laborers are few. The direction of Christ to his disciples is still applicable: 'Pray ye, the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth laborers into his harvest.'"

Weymouth. The Second Church has enjoyed a quiet work of Divine grace. The Union Church has raised about $30,000 for a new house of worship. The church at East Weymouth is reaping the reward of the devoted efforts of its recent pastor, at Lovell's Corner, in witnessing an organized and successful effort among the people of that vicinity to supply themselves with regular preaching.

The Committee of the Conference observe in conclusion: "From the reports and statistics which have been sent in, it appears that the outward prosperity of our churches has not differed much from that of last year. The charitable contributions have been somewhat larger. The attendance on public worship is about the same. Interest in and labor for our Sabbath-schools seem to be on the increase. A little more attention has been given to Christian fellowship. There is but little encouraging in the cause of Temperance and public morals. Few additions have been made to our church membership. The number of converts reported is very small."

OLD COLONY CONFERENCE.

Reports have been received from nine of the fourteen churches of this Conference. From these the statistical returns are nearly complete. The number of neglecting families in the several parishes varies from five to forty-nine; and the number of individual neglecters, from fifteen to one hundred and seventy-four. The number of neglecters brought to church, from ten to fifteen; and the number brought to Sunday-school falls between the same limits, though the extremes are in different churches. The reports of expenses and charities are full.

For two months, union meetings, for preaching and for conference, were held in the different churches of the city of New Bedford, and did much good in strengthening the feeling of brotherhood among Evangelical Christians of different denominations.

In the Pacific church, New Bedford, the "Jubilee effort" was turned towards the establishment of a building fund for a new meeting-house, in a locality where more may be done toward the evangelization of the city. The church holds a "Bible service" on Sabbath morning, which has increased in interest and value.

In connection with the Union meetings above mentioned, a deep and prevailing religious interest was developed among the young people. The church was a good deal awakened, and numbers who for years had kept away from the prayer meetings began again to attend. The Ladies' prayer meeting was greatly blessed, and became a power in the church. Christian women were alive for every good work, and especially for prayer. In the judgment of the committee more good was done in this Ladies' meeting, than by all the public speaking and praying by women — and there was considerable — in the Union meetings.

The Pacific church has held the Fellowship meeting once a quarter; and has, by rule, established this as one of its permanent institutions. A "Committee on strangers," consisting of four men and three women, have done good service in welcoming new-comers to church and visiting them at their homes.

The church in Fairhaven is in an encouraging condition — its prayer meetings full, and a gratifying religious interest at its outpost, Nasketucket, where there were about twelve hopeful conversions. There is no dram shop in the place. The general moral condition is good. There has been a gain in all directions.

From the church at Acushnet — of twenty-six members — we hear that "church fellowship has been promoted by a monthly Christian sociable." There has been more giving and better attendance.

In connection with the Branch Sunday School, evening meetings have been occasionally held, and a decided gain, in every respect, is visible in the community.

The church in Westport — thirty-one members — has been stirred up by its pastor to rebuild the steeple of the meeting house. The observance of the week of prayer, was followed by good results. Services have been held in out-districts; but the difficulty of effectually impressing them is very great. In certain localities morals are at a low ebb; hundreds pursue their accustomed work on the Sabbath; parents unblushingly defy the laws of God and of the State, and the wonder is, that things being so bad they are not much worse.

From South Dartmouth, we hear that the children have nearly all been gathered into the Sunday School — which now takes the place of the forenoon service — the preaching coming in the afternoon and evening. In the evening all seats are free, and many attend then who are rarely, if ever, seen at other times. The pastor regards the substitution of the Sunday School for the morning service a success. There have been six hopeful conversions.

At Marion the church, few in numbers, is earnestly striving, not without encouragements. The Fellowship meeting has been greatly enjoyed. On the whole, there has been some progress.

At North Rochester, the church, which is very feeble, reports a small gain in membership, and an increased respect for public worship. The people are scattered, and the church does not sustain a prayer meeting. The young people come out in good numbers on Sunday evenings, but only one voice, besides those of the pastor and the singers, is heard in any of the meetings. The pastor preaches twice on the Sabbath, and holds a Bible class during the week — when any attend. The Communion is celebrated, in accordance with long established custom, four times a year. The law prevents the sale of drink. There is little intemperance or crime, and little religious life or growth.

In New Bedford, the “open sale of liquor has been completely stopped. As a consequence, crime has much diminished, and the morals of the city improved.”

“On the whole, the churches of this Conference are on a better footing than they have been for several years. Nine out of the fourteen churches have now settled pastors, and two of the remaining five have stated preachers. There is promise of more aggressive work hereafter, and so, of a brighter day for Zion.”

PILGRIM CONFERENCE.

Of the fifteen churches in this Conference, ten have furnished reports. It embraces one church more than last year. The majority are small and weak; most of the territory which they occupy suffering from emigration. Four churches only have pastors; six, acting pastors; leaving five without a resident ministry. Six report small gains, and six, losses; leaving the membership almost exactly the same. Three make mention of seven hopeful conversions.

The following brief notes respecting a portion of the churches, may be taken as indicative of the general condition of others also :

In Carver, (North,) “the people are, to quite an extent, a church going people”; are “stable, and love the gospel.” District meetings have been useful. The general condition is hopeful. Three neglecters have been induced to attend church, and four, the Sunday School.

In Duxbury, the church, originally organized in the Wesleyan Methodist connection, having for a number of years been upon most friendly terms of intercourse with the neighboring Congregational churches, has within the past year, by unanimous vote, formally joined their communion. The best state of feeling prevails. Evening meetings have been crowded with young people. A few have, it is believed, entered upon the Christian life. The cause of Temperance is receiving fresh attention, with prospects of good. The parsonage has been improved. A new hymn book is promoting Congregational singing. The general aspect is encouraging.

From Marshfield, First church, we learn that the pastor's salary has been slightly increased; the Neighborhood meetings keep up their interest and usefulness, and some successful efforts have been directed toward the multitude of visitors that flock in the Summer to the shore.

In the North Parish “meetings are held as often as possible in an out-district, and the attendance is good — few of the families thus reached being members of the principal congregation.” Intemperance is a crying sin.

The Church of the Pilgrimage, in Plymouth, holds a Fellowship meeting once a month; reports a good degree of activity, with some special interest; the general state of religion good, and an apparent improvement in the moral and religious interests of the community. An effort is in progress "to place things in the church on a better basis." From another church we hear, "Nothing done to promote Christian acquaintance. Not a working church. No revival — though three hopeful conversions. Religion low. Out-districts in a most deplorable condition; yet little intemperance, unless among the colored people and the Irish. No pastor."

The towns within the borders of this Conference have a poor soil, and most of them suffer from emigration. Many years ago, the churches were reduced in pecuniary strength by the Unitarian separation, and most are financially feeble. Naturally, there has often been a lack of enterprise and of hope; ministerial salaries have not increased as elsewhere; churches have been without settled pastors; the borders have not always been carefully tended; in some places the moral tone has not been fully maintained, and unbelief and superstition have helped each other, so that lawyers and judges note a difference in the character of juries which they sometimes find in their courts. There is need of an effort to counteract the causes that have been working so unfavorably; and in this, the churches of the Conference have a right to count upon the cordial cooperation of brethren beyond their bounds.

SUFFOLK NORTH CONFERENCE.

SUFFOLK SOUTH CONFERENCE.

All the churches connected with this Conference have reported. We can make room for only brief extracts from the long and interesting summary of the Committee.

Park Street Church has an "auxiliary" Sunday School in Eliot street, occupying a field having a population of about 4,000, among whom are many Germans. A Chapel has been newly fitted up. Five hopeful conversions have occurred during the year. Prayer meetings are held there on Sunday and Wednesday evenings. A sewing school gathers eighty or a hundred children. Mothers' meetings are held — including some of German mothers; and a systematic visitation of their classes is encouraged on the part of the teachers.

Union Church. A junior pastor was installed in December, 1870. The congregation is now worshipping in its new sanctuary. Changes have also been introduced into the Sabbath services. A "Bible Service" is now held on Sunday afternoon, and the evening meetings are designed to interest the church in the following objects — an evening in a month being assigned to each — "Missions, the Sunday-school, Christian Praise, and the conversion of their own people."

Berkeley Street Church. "This church has gained thirty-one members during the year. A system of visitation has been adopted, which promises excellent results. A Superintendent is appointed, by the church, to have charge of the work. Under his guidance the Sunday-school teachers and others call on neglecting families whose children have been added to the school. They also aim, in a systematic way, to become acquainted with new families taking seats in the church. The division of this labor is so minute that no one can worship many Sabbaths with them and remain a stranger. Under the same direction, also, a popular course of lectures, at very low rates of admission, is arranged for next season. Some of the leading lecturers of the country are engaged."

Central Church. This church supports an auxiliary, the Old Colony Sunday-school, on Tyler street. It is an old enterprise, having been established forty-five years, and now has twenty-six teachers; an average attendance of 170 scholars, and a total of 240. Several hopeful conversions have taken place during the year. The exercises of the school are followed immediately by a children's service, when the Superintendent and his assistants explain the truth of God to the children in the most familiar ways. A regular preaching service is held in the evening. A Wednesday evening prayer-meeting, a Mothers' prayer-meeting, a Sewing-school, a Teachers' meeting, fortnightly, and a Mothers' Temperance Society, quarterly, are among the many means of good employed. The Superintendent reports a gradual but constant improvement in the spirit and conduct of the children and a growing interest on the part of parents.

Shawmut Church. The total gain in the membership of this church has been forty. "At the May Communion," says the pastor, "as the result of a precious revival, in which the pastor and church were most effectually and sympathizingly aided by Rev. Mr. Plumb, of Chelsea, and Rev. Mr. Means, of Boston Highlands, thirty-four persons were received into the church on confession of their faith." In the Mission Chapel, on the Sabbath, we have a Sunday-school, and a prayer-meeting; and during the week, prayer-meetings, a singing-school, and sewing-school. The "Fellowship meeting" has been a means of acquaintance and comfort to us all. The number of persons that know nobody, in a city congregation, is very large, and the obstacles to social intercourse which such persons encounter, are numerous and forbidding. The Fellowship meeting removes the barriers and opens the way. Children of the same Father, disciples of the same Saviour, come together and clasp hands, exchange Christian salutations, and join in common conversation, and go away strengthened and cheered.

E. Street Church, (South Boston.) The church has gained nineteen members. The parish includes sixty-five neglecting families, which embrace two hundred and fifty souls. Endeavors are made to develop the activity of the entire membership of the church, both male and female. The church hold a monthly social gathering and a bi-monthly church conference; the former for social, the latter, for spiritual acquaintance. Says the pastor, "We sustain a Neighborhood prayer-meeting, and have a Mission Band to invite children to the Sabbath-school. We have organized a young people's Working Association. It holds a prayer-meeting every Thursday, save the last one of the month. We then have literary or musical exercises, or a social gathering. The present Temperance law operates badly for us, and there is no particular activity in this reform. We need a more stringent law."

Eliot Church, (Boston Highlands.) The pastor of this church has been compelled by sickness to seek a brief rest from his labors. "Ninety of its members have been dismissed; nearly all of them having united to form another church in the neighborhood. This is the third church that has gone out from the Eliot church within fourteen or fifteen years. The Superintendent, librarian, and eighteen teachers of the Sabbath-school, with sixty or more scholars, left our school among the ninety. Nevertheless, through the energy of a new Superintendent and others acting with him, scholars were brought in, so that the average attendance for the three months following the departure of this large number, was equal to the average of the school for the nine months preceding."

Dorchester, Second Church. This church has sustained, with some aid from other churches, a Sabbath-school and preaching services at Mattapan. The neighborhood meetings have been more numerous and better sustained.

Trinity Church, Neponset, Boston. Sixty persons have been brought to church and fifty to Sabbath-school, during the year. There has been five hopeful conversions. The church has gained sixteen members — eight by profession of faith. The Sabbath-school has increased about fifty per cent. and is still growing. Plans are on foot for a systematic effort to reach the whole community, by districting the parish and appointing a sub-pastoral committee. "The beer clause of the liquor law," says the pastor, "is having a very injurious effect on the laboring population. They stay away from the sanctuary to guzzle their drinks all the day long."

Evangelical Church, Brighton. The parish has been divided between twelve visitors, who have called on all the families. General good feeling was increased, if nothing more. Intemperance is widespread, and there are no good results from the existing law.

Harvard Church, Brookline. Notwithstanding the removal of their pastor, the year has been one of activity and success. Pledges to the amount of $50,000 have been secured toward a new church building. Much interest in Congregational singing has been developed, and the experiment of adopting this style of service is entirely successful. The monthly sociables and the church Fellowship meetings have been influential in holding the people together, and developing neighborly and Christian sympathy. "The general state of religion," says an officer of the church, "has improved."

South Church, Dedham. The usual Fellowship meetings are held; also, a Neighborhood prayer-meeting in an outlying district on Saturday evening. Efforts for reaching neglecters are made by holding prayer-meetings, preaching services, and, in the Summer, by open air meetings. Intemperance has greatly increased, and the present law is thought to be the cause. The church has been recently refreshed with some conversions. Seventy-five neglecters are reported, living in twenty families.

Grantville. "This church has had to contend, from its very birth, with a strong and positive spirit of unbelief, intensely antagonistic to Evangelical doctrines." Among the encouraging signs are an evident growth of church fellowship and a disappearance of old sources of discord. Says the pastor, "We have the material for a grand working church. Not a department of Christian labor but might be well filled. There is to be found in our members the energy and fire of youth and the experience of age. The field is fairly ours."

Second Church, Newton. Occasional Fellowship meetings are held after the communion. The Young Men's Christian Association sustains a course of lectures and social gatherings. There is no special interest in temperance, and the law is void. A youths' temperance organization, under the care of the pastor, flourishes.

Eliot Church, Newton. This church reports twenty-three hopeful conversions and a gain of fifteen members. Occasional Fellowship meetings are held. This church still aids in supporting the church at the "North Village," both pecuniarily and by furnishing Sabbath-school teachers. The results are good, every way. The children of believers are generally baptized, and the pastor meets the children occasionally by themselves. Seven individuals have been brought to church, and forty-five into the Sabbath-school during the year,

North Evangelical Church, Newton. The pastor reports that ninety were brought into the Sunday-school; but that this is no criterion of success, as nearly the whole population changes in the course of the year. Seven conversions are reported. One evil which this church has to fight is intemperance; and reform is thought to be much hindered by the existing law.

Central Church, Newtonville. This church has made a gain of twenty-nine members during the year. There have been six hopeful conversions. Teachers' meetings have been sustained with considerable vigor; and the plan of a uniform lesson has met with great success. Four Sabbaths in the year are called Children's Sabbaths, and the exercises of the day are wholly devoted to them.

The narratives of the churches omitted from the foregoing extracts are in general of a gratifying character.

The committee conclude their report with the following statistical summary.

1. The salaries paid in twenty-nine churches, amount to $75,025. — Average, $2,587.

2. The Expenditures, additional to salaries, amount to $62,660.79. — Average, $2,160.70.

3. The Charities of twenty-seven churches were, $80,333.04. — Average, $2,975.29.

4. In eighteen churches reporting gains and losses, we find a gain of 167 members over all losses.

5. Ten churches report an aggregate of 65 hopeful conversions during the year. Five churches report having brought 138 neglecters into the sanctuary. Nine churches report bringing 425 children into the Sunday-school.

TAUNTON CONFERENCE.

Eleven of the twenty churches in this Conference have sent reports. The number of neglecting families recognized as under their care, varies from five to seventy — of individuals, from thirty to two hundred and fifty, and the number of neglecters brought to church, varies from two to twenty — to Sunday-school, from three to thirty.

The church in Dighton reports a revival, and twenty-one additions on profession of faith. The Second Church in Attleborough, counts one hundred and seven neglecters in its parish — some of them Americans, clinging to the remembrance of an old quarrel; some, Irish. Two out-districts are supplied with Sunday-schools, and with regular preaching by ministers of various denominations. The young men of the church reach several others, sustaining prayer-meetings wherever there is an opening.

The pastor of the Winslow Church in Taunton, reports a branch Sunday-school at Prattville, a small village on the borders of Raynham, maintained, in good part, by teachers from the two principal churches of the city, who “usually walk three miles and back again”; and who also sustain a monthly prayer-meeting. A Sunday evening meeting at the Almshouse has been attended by persons living in the neighborhood, who have filled the room, stairways, and entries, making the number, all told, from two hundred to three hundred and fifty. Several hopeful conversions have taken place. A movement is on foot to secure a chapel. Still another prayer-meeting, a mile and a half further off, has also been maintained the past Winter.

At a manufacturing center on the outskirts, a costly Episcopal meeting-house has been built; but the people prefer the free outflow of the heart in a prayer-meeting, held on Sabbath evenings in a hall.

Much of this Christian activity is led by members of the churches working in a Young Men’s Christian Association. The pastor is, however, strongly of the opinion, that “the evangelic work possible and pressing here, will not be done thoroughly until the churches, as such, take hold of it as their own bounden duty. Then it will be systematized, harmoniously directed, and fully reported.”

“I see,” he adds, “the work to be done in our own church, and plans which should be discussed, adopted, and thoroughly carried out; but I have not yet seen the way clear to begin. It is a great and grave problem how the church, as a Christian body, under Christ its head, is to get hold of the world, and hold it still enough and long enough to hear the gospel message and think upon it.”

Certain districts within the limits of this Conference have long been notorious for ignorance and moral degradation. A layman, in response to inquiries, states, that in one of these districts, a small church (not of our name) was established some time ago, but its influence is feeble. Copies of the Bible and the New Testament were distributed by a neighboring Congregational church, two years ago, to every family. Assistance has been rendered by Christian people in New Bedford and other towns; and within the last ten years, a decided improvement, both intellectual and moral, has taken place.

Of another region, he remarks, "It can hardly be called a 'district' now; for the school house is rotting down, the inhabitants have died or moved away, and the forest is rapidly covering their cleared lands. What was once the rendezvous of the dissipated from New Bedford, Fall River, and Taunton, is so no longer; for the finger of God has wiped out the dark spots, and left in the place the greenness of Spring."

"You can count the families, now, on the fingers of one hand; and the only scholar there attends, in good weather, the Sunday-school in a neighboring town."

WOBURN CONFERENCE.

The report of the Committee of this Conference is as follows:

"The religious work of the Woburn Conference has been prosecuted with a good degree of success. There have been no general revivals; but some of the churches have received quite numerous additions. Two of the societies have completed new houses of worship, and others have signalized the memorial year by reducing their parish debts. The amount of money raised for parish expenses, church building, debts, &c., was not far from $104,229. The sum contributed to the regular objects of benevolence, was not far from $12,000 — the amount given to foreign objects sustaining to that given for home objects the ratio of one to five. The largest sum given to any single society, was that given to the American Board. Three pastors were settled during the year, and but one dismissed. Out of eighteen churches, twelve have no settled pastors.

"This Conference, some years since, took upon itself the task of assisting the feeble churches within its bounds to sustain pastors. For a time, the object was partly secured through the agency of a Conference Committee annually appointed for the purpose; but, difficulties arising, the plan of operations was changed. A Conference Home Mission Society was established; and, during the four years of its existence, it has accomplished, in a quiet and effective manner, the object sought in its formation. The fear that formed the chief obstacle to this method of action was, lest funds that would otherwise find their way to the treasury of the general society should be absorbed in supporting our own churches; and thus a work dear to all the churches would suffer. It became, therefore, an object of primary importance to stimulate the benevolence of our churches to such a degree that the flow of money to the general society should be kept undiminished. Different measures for this purpose were devised; one being, the appointment of one of the brethren, each year, who should bring the cause to the attention of all the churches, either by letter or by preaching on exchange with the pastors; and another being, the holding of anniversary exercises, in connection with the Spring meeting of the Conference.

“The result of this action of the Conference has fully equalled our expectations. The receipts of the society have been for two years past, more than double the sum contributed by our churches in many former years to the general society. Four churches have received aid, in sums varying from one hundred and fifty to three hundred dollars annually. During most of the time, for four years, they have all had settled pastors; and it may well be doubted whether one of them could, without this aid, have sustained a pastor. In all these churches there has been a good degree of prosperity, and in two of them revivals have occurred. The Conference itself has received a marked advantage from this work of self-girding. The churches have been drawn together, and a new interest enkindled in each other. So far, therefore, as this experiment has now gone, it is believed to be the sentiment of all the churches, that it is highly successful, and worthy of the attention of our brethren in other Conferences.”

WORCESTER CENTRAL CONFERENCE.

“The Home Evangelization movement was early seconded in this body. In some towns, the work has been relaxed. In others it has been prosecuted more energetically. Pastors have generally failed to make the annual returns by schedule. It is not for want of interest in the home work. In several of the towns, a radius of a mile and a half would take in nine tenths of the population. There can hardly be an “out-district” in such a town. One half of the towns, however, have out-districts. The church in Oxford maintained, a while, successful efforts. The last year, with no pastor, less has been done. In Leicester, the several out-districts are supplied with preaching or Sabbath-schools, or both. The Young Men’s Christian Association of Holden cares for the several districts in that town quite efficiently. The church in Rutland has enjoyed a work of grace which has added to their number some twenty converts, from the age of twelve to seventy years. The out-district of North Rutland, where a prayer-meeting has been held weekly, for twenty-five years, shared richly in the work. Clinton, of some three thousand inhabitants, though small in territory, has several out-districts, which the Young Men’s Christian Association cares for attentively. Out-of-door preaching has been maintained also, and their labors extend into villages of some adjoining towns. The Union Church in Worcester holds a Sabbath evening meeting in one of the school districts. The Young Men’s Christian Association holds meetings in six or eight of the villages and neighborhoods. The Plymouth Church, of Worcester, has not yet secured a pastor, but has purchased a site for a church edifice. The church in Paxton, though without a settled pastor, has enjoyed a quickening revival, adding numbers to the church.

“The churches report general prosperity, but a low spiritual condition.”

WORCESTER NORTH CONFERENCE.

Statistical returns have been received from fourteen of the fifteen churches of this Conference — most of them quite full. But the churches appear to have omitted the usual narratives of church work. We are accordingly obliged to make entry at this place of, No report.

WORCESTER SOUTH CONFERENCE.

CONCLUSION.

In taking a general view of the condition of the churches, various encouraging signs appear. It is clear, in the first place, that new efforts are on foot in many of them for the promotion of acquaintance and affection among the members; and also for stimulating activity, and organizing for constant work. From the nature of the case, however, improvement in these things must be gradual, if it is to be permanent. Bodies of people do not readily adopt new habits of life. A sudden advance would be spasmodic and transitory. But there is not a county in the State — upon the main land — in which indications do not appear of the working of new conceptions respecting the duty of churches. The out-districts also have been cared for with a good degree of fidelity. Revivals have been enjoyed in many churches; and others have been greatly strengthened and cheered by the presence of the Comforter.

The recent series of discourses, known as “Boston Lectures,” and which are viewed by this Committee as a part of the Home Evangelization work of the State — having originated in action taken by them — were marked, in general, by a high order of ability, and listened to by large and attentive audiences. It is evident that the influence of the first series was both wide and deep; and a similar usefulness is hoped for the second. Would it not be well if in other important centres also the forces of unbelief were met by a solid assault?

Your Committee has also been cheered by signs of progress in other States and denominations; and are glad to know that in some instances, at least, the example of the Congregational churches of Massachusetts has been an encouragement to brethren in regions remote. The most extended and the most hearty “notice” which the System for “Church Work,” that we are trying to carry out, has received in any religious newspaper, was given by one of the organs of the Presbyterian church, in New York. This attracted attention in the Middle States and at the West.

In Pennsylvania, the Presbytery of Lackawanna has commissioned a Secretary of Home Evangelization, a man of intelligence and manifest enthusiasm, who has thrown himself with an admirable zeal into the work of strengthening the feeble churches, stirring up the sleepy ones, and organizing systems of charities and labor. A little book, the counterpart of the one issued by our Publishing Society, but adapted to Presbyterian names and usages, has very recently been published, and is scattered broadcast among their churches. A little newspaper also, has been started at Scranton, specially devoted to the work of stimulating the churches and their members to all manner of labor for the Lord.

The several Christian denominations are to be viewed as so many army corps in one mighty host. The enterprise or constancy of any one is a help to all the rest. We feel admonished to zeal and persistence.

In Connecticut, also, our Congregational brethren appear to be quite up to the line which we occupy, if they are not ahead of us. The churches of that noble State — so great, though small — maintain two vigorous and enthusiastic ministers, who devote most of their time to what is at present known among us as, specifically, the work of "Home Evangelization." "Our aim," says Rev. Mr. Moore, "is to bring up the churches of Connecticut, — aided and self-supporting, — to a higher efficiency in the culture of their own parishes and in their relation to the cause of Christ in the world. We spend very little time in trying to raise money for Home Missions." He adds, "I have had the feeling for years, that there ought to be at least four State Missionaries laboring among the five hundred churches of Massachusetts."

While we have no reason to believe the religious condition of our own State to be inferior to the average of past years, certain of our defects and faults now come out into a prominence, which may well occasion serious reflection.

1. In the first place, your Committee can hardly be mistaken in their belief — which, however, they do not propose to support by proof in detail — that many of the churches do not know their own members — where they are, who they are.

We do not affirm that, in this respect, we have been more careless than others; but it is our conviction, that church lists are altogether too loosely kept, and that the covenant of "watch and care" is not faithfully observed. This neglect is an injury to those members of our churches who are called in Providence to change their residence. Many of them, it is to be feared, are doing dishonor to their Master, which a seasonable reminder from the church that they have left would have prevented. But this neglect reacts with equal injury upon the church itself. It is a trifling with sacred vows; it enfeebles the spiritual tone of the church, and lowers the general estimate of its value. People are not thus careless of membership in money making corporations. They value very highly their right to the dividends. If they put a low estimate upon membership in Christ's body, what does that signify? And what kind of results may this feeling be expected to produce? Of one thing we may be sure, that while it lasts, churches will not, generally, organize for work.

2. But still more largely and sadly is it true that churches do not know what families are properly embraced in their parishes. Many of them are understood to acknowledge this.

But if so, how do they know but that some of these families are suffering from a poverty which will drive them forever from the sanctuary and from God, when timely aid might have bound them to both? How do they know but that some are visited by sickness, and are in sorest need of material or of spiritual help? And how can they be sure that this indifference on the part of the church, will not be the occasion of a permanent alienation from it, both in this world and in the next? And how do they know but that there are children in these families growing up without God, and that some of the families themselves are not hot-beds of error or iniquity? If they do even know the households, for whose religious care they are 'responsible before God, how can they be sure that his judgment does not impend over themselves for this their neglect?

It is matter of sad notoriety that multitudes of poor people have come to be separated from God's house, and alienated in feeling from the church, because in their affliction they were not visited; that other multitudes of unbelievers have come to be haters and scoffers, because the real warmth of the heart of the church did not reach them in their homes; and that neglected children are daily becoming a peril to the State, as well as a grief to all the good, by reason of a similar lack of timely care. And do we not all of us feel that God's judgment is on us, today, because of our neglect of known duty — and that heavier condemnations must descend, if the churches do not awake in earnest?

If there has been, occasionally, a seeming unwillingness, on the part of churches, to take pains to ascertain the families under their care, let no one imagine that this is real. No church has formed any resolution to be ignorant of its proper work; nor are any to be accounted as unwilling to communicate information concerning the progress or methods of this work, to sister churches throughout the State, desiring and requesting their cooperation. The too frequent omission to furnish information so complete as we could wish, can be otherwise explained.

3. In too many churches the members are not yet acquainted as they ought to be, and their intercourse is lacking in the appropriate warmth of Christian fellowship.

4. In many, again, there is still but little individual activity, and no satisfactory study of their work or cooperation in it.

5. While most of our large towns contain clearly marked classes of neglecters, it is by no means true that in all of these towns energetic measures are taken to reach them.

These classes are sometimes defined by occupation, sometimes by forms of unbelief. They are often the victims of the absurdest errors or prejudices, which would be sure to yield to wise and kind approaches, made in boldness of faith; and it is painful to think how little the churches are directly doing, and how little they are counseling, in their behalf.

6. Many churches are without pastors, and realize but feebly the importance of permanency in the office; while many are unable to secure pastors without more help than the Home Missonary Society can now afford to give.

7. Numbers even of our strong churches have, as yet, but very inadequate views and feelings concerning the church; very unworthy conceptions of the power of a church that is really in earnest and organized for work, and very poor habits of church life and labor. The conception of what an American church in this nineteenth century should become, as a household and a working society, has not begun to dawn upon them; and when it does will find heavy mists of prejudice and indolence to disperse, before it can do much to make anything grow.

8. Many Sunday-schools are conducted loosely and feebly, without a sufficiently definite purpose, on the part of Superintendent, teachers, or parents.

9. Churches are by no means making such use as they might of Sacred Song, either as a means of attracting people, or of impressing the truth on their hearts.

10. Nor have our churches more than begun to avail themselves of the sagacity, the tact and zeal of Christian women, who constitute so large a proportion of their membership.

11. Intemperance rests, like a curse, upon the State. Congregational churches are not doing their duty for removing it.

12. There is a vast amount of poverty, sickness, and orphanage, which can best be relieved by the churches; and the churches are doing but little in regard to it.

13. Romanism, growing by continual immigration, is debasing the land. The churches seem apathetic.

14. There are considerable districts financially or spiritually so weak that they cannot be expected to work up into a satisfactory religious state, without help, and which need assistance suited to their particular circumstances.

Finally: Many of our ministers, in view of these enormous tasks and the inertness of churches, ask, almost in despair, What can we do?

Your Committee would answer, we can pray and we can also work; and — what seems to them quite essential to success — we can pray and work together, — the members of every individual church, together in their own parish; the churches of every Conference, shoulder to shoulder among the populations which it covers; and all the churches of the State heart to heart and hand in hand, in this Association and among our fifteen hundred thousand people.

Your Committee would further answer, that this is no time for looking back, for taking the hand from the plough, or for relaxing our efforts to rouse and instruct the people. We need more laborers for this purpose, not fewer; and must have them before we shall see the religious interests of the State in a condition of satisfactory improvement.

But what, then, you have a right to ask, do we propose? We propose a united, widely diversified movement aimed definitely at the Christianiza-tion of the people; a system not to be set in operation all at once, but to be worked out, as with God's help, we are able; slowly, without doubt, but yet surely; and we venture to do this in implicit faith in the words of our Lord, "Lo! I am with you."

Any rational proposition looking to an end so vast, must rest on principles that lie deep; and must make its beginnings thorough, if it would build for permanence. It must be based upon scriptural views of the church — its material, structure, end, and methods; and must carry them out. The order of steps will, of course, vary in different communities, and churches must begin as they think best; but the system which we would outline for the approval of the Association includes, among others, the following points:

1. That the churches, under a sense of covenant vows and a proper appreciation of church membership, should clear their lists, and make them true; also that they should each make such permanent provision as it judges best for keeping them true, and insuring a better fulfilment of the vow of "watch and care."

2. That the churches, solemnly conscious of the responsibility which rests on them, for carrying the Gospel, each to a certain people, should also define their parishes — territorially, if they judge best, but always by a list of families and individuals annually corrected and made conscientiously complete.

3. That every church provide — and enter, if they please, among their by-laws — some permanent method for keeping up Christian acquaintance and a spiritual fellowship — the "Fellowship meeting" and "Church Circle," or something better.

4. That the churches provide — in their by-laws, if judged best — stated occasions for a review of their work and for prayer and counsel in regard to it — the "Home Concert," or its equivalent.

It is as really necessary that churches have permanent provision for the promotion of fellowship and activity, as of orthodoxy and piety.

5. That churches in large towns where there are distinct classes of neglecters, indifferent or inimical to religion, enter upon such special measures as may seem wise, for winning back their confidence and communicating the power of the Gospel — by no means assuming this to be impossible. Among such measures may be counted, Protracted (or Revival) meetings, Praise meetings, City Missions, Lectures on historical and other themes, Public meetings, for the discussion from a Christian point of view of the particular subjects which at the moment may be most deeply engaging the thoughts of the classes in question. If they will not come to us, we should gladly go to them.

6. That the Conferences adopt effectual measures — after the example of the Woburn Conference, briefly described on page 40 of this report, or in some better way — to enable the feeble churches among their number to secure pastors.

7. That the pastors in the several Conferences make such arrangements as they can cordially agree upon, for calling the attention of their people to the subject of church work for popular Christianization, and for having sermons preached to every congregation upon the "Doctrine of the Church," and upon the present duty of the churches, and of each church in particular.

8. The improvement of our Sunday-schools, and the securing greater definiteness and energy of purpose in their administration, is a matter of unspeakable importance; but your Committee can only, at the present time, urgently call attention to the subject, not venturing on particular suggestions.

9. That churches enlist companies of singers for Sunday-schools, Branch Sunday-schools, the Weekly prayer-meetings and Neighborhood meetings; and that they make use of the Praise meetings (or "Even Song") both in the sanctuary and in private houses — connecting with the reading of hymns brief expositions of the truth which they convey.

10. That the women in our churches be assisted to engage more largely in works of mercy and other Christian labors; and that meetings be held of such a character that they shall feel disposed to take part in them freely, so that the church shall not continue to lose, so largely as now, the benefit of their knowledge of Scripture, their sympathy with Christ and their practical wisdom.

11. Churches, if earnestly resolved, can find appropriate ways of doing more for the education of the young in habits of temperance, for the reform of the intemperate, and the removal of the various conditions that promote the habitual use of intoxicating drink. They can do this through Sabbath-schools, Temperance Committees, and measures for the general social and intellectual improvement of the intemperate classes.

12. We see no reason why the churches should not immediately proceed to organize, whenever practicable, among their own members, and especially among Christian women, companies of visitors, for the relief of the poor, the sick, unprotected children, and all others who may be accessible to neighborly benevolence — such companies, designed for both a temporal and a spiritual ministry, to bear the name of THE CHRISTIAN NEIGHBORS — every one who joins them taking this one secret vow, to prove herself, or himself, a true Christian neighbor in some way to somebody.

13. The Congregational Churches ought to enter as soon as practicable upon a Christian work among Romanists. This is strictly a home, as well as a foreign work.

Finally: With respect to the regions requiring special help, as well as in view of the whole work before us, do we not all agree, that in a spirit of brotherly love, the churches should strive earnestly to work together — to assist each other with information respecting the condition of their parishes, their modes of labor, successes and failures, to encourage the weak and desponding, to revive the lukewarm, and, in every possible way, especially in their Conferences and this Association, with abounding warmth of affection, to help and incite one another, — proving to the world, as well as to themselves and to Christendom, that it is possible to have a great, harmonious sisterhood of churches, made one by their love, and neither needing nor tolerating authority? And let us all exhort and pray for one another, that we may not be faithless but believing, and may move on, shoulder to shoulder, one embattled army of the Lord God Almighty.

In conclusion, your Committee do not ask that the General Association formally adopt the suggestions made in this report, but they propose for its consideration the following resolution :

Resolved, That this General Association, without entering upon a careful examination of all details included in the suggestions of the State Committee on Home Evangelization, cordially approves of their tenor, and recommends them to the attention of the churches.

By vote of the State Committee on Home Evangelization.

DANIEL P. NOYES, Secretary.

PARISH STATISTICS.

The leading object in seeking these returns is, to keep prominently before the churches the principle which lies at the foundation of the Home Evangelization movement in this State, that every church is responsible for a definite parish. This principle, recognized so clearly by Dr. Chalmers, and the secret of his success, is of universal application. Upon no other basis is it possible to prosecute Christian work by means of churches. Departing from it, we necessarily fall back upon the clergy, acting as mere preachers, or on the voluntary societies.

But these returns, if complete, would also have a statistical value, hardly inferior to that of any that the churches make — showing as they would, from year to year, their progress in getting at the people. Until more complete, however, the Committee propose to publish only enough of them to show their practicability and their significance. We have selected such as are well filled out, and such as illustrate the condition of a considerable variety of churches and communities.

PARISH STATISTICS.

PAYMENTS AND CHARITIES.

Again, in this department, we give only a very few returns, enough to prove the practicability of making them, and partially to exemplify their use.

Complaint is justly made of the insufficient salary of many pastors. But how can we create a healthy public sentiment on this matter, unless we "keep the facts before the people"? And how can any of us really know what the facts are, unless the churches furnish them to us?

The orderly classification of Charities, again, and their publication, are needed, that the churches may see clearly what causes any of them are neglecting, and may know whether they are apportioning their money wisely.

REMARKS UPON THE TABLES.

From the foregoing returns it appears that thirteen parishes of Suffolk South Conference — embracing, however, few of the larger churches — average 104 church going families, 20 neglecting, total 124. In fourteen parishes of the Norfolk Conference, the same averages are 107, 19, 126.

Again, nine parishes of the Taunton Conference, average 78 church going families, 22 neglecting, total, 100. While in eight parishes of the Old Colony Conference, the same averages are 71, 22, 93.

These families include, on an average, in the portion of the Suffolk South Conference, 361 church-goers, 91 neglecters, total 452. The same averages in the portion of the Norfolk Conference are, 364, 100, 464; in the portion of the Taunton Conference, 257, 106, 363; and in the portion of the Old Colony Conference, 259, 71, 330. About 19 or 20 per cent. of the families, and of the persons, recognized by these churches as distinctly under their care, they consider neglecters.

Thus these parishes, in the judgment of their pastors, stand today. But so they will not remain for another year, if the churches engage vigorously in their work. It is to be hoped, that they will be interested in scrutinizing their own progress, so that, when the year comes round, they will know how much they have seemed to make; and can give to each other and to affiliated churches, the benefit of their experience.

It is not at all improbable, that they will find, upon more careful examination, that some families have been omitted who fall properly under their care; and, especially, that there are some neglecting households and individuals who have been overlooked. The parishes are probably somewhat larger than the returns indicate. The “neglect” may also be larger. Churches are but beginning to look narrowly into their responsibility, and it is possible that some of them may find it broader than they have supposed.

The neglecters brought to church or Sunday-school, average, in the several church groups above given, 16, 7, 13, and 10.

The Fair-day Audiences, average — in the same order — 252, 220, 170, and 171; and embrace, respectively, 70 per cent., 60 per cent., 66 per cent., and 66 per cent. of the church going people.

The hopeful conversions reported, were, for each church, in the same groups, 4, 3-7, 2 $\frac{2}{3}$, and 5 — certainly not a very gratifying story.

EXPENDITURES AND CHARITIES.

A single glance at the returns from a portion of the Worcester North Conference, gives rise to some important questions — among them the following: Is it right that a minister should be asked, in these days, to live upon $400 or $500? — why ought not the strong to make up the lack of the weak? Our answers must be given in view of all the circumstances. Again, how happens it, that only two of these eleven churches contributed to the cause of Christian education — as represented by our Theological Seminaries, Education Society, College Society, and all other ways of promoting it? Again, only two contributed to our own Publication Society, and only one to the Congregational Union, for church building. Similar hints may be gathered from the other tables; which, however, we leave our readers to obtain at their pleasure.

METHODS IN ACTUAL USE.

The first two of the following schemes are used in Congregational churches, and the third in an Episcopal church.

CONSTITUTION OF THE LADIES' ASSOCIATION OF THE TABERNACLE PARISH.

ART. 1. The name of this Association shall be the LADIES' ASSOCIATION OF THE TABERNACLE PARISH.

ART. 2. The object of this Association shall be the promotion of the mutual acquaintance of the members, of organized effort of Christian Benevolence, and of whatever else pertains to the welfare and prosperity of the parish.

ART. 3. Every lady habitually attending divine service at the Tabernacle, shall be of right, a full member of this Association, — no invitation or election or initiation being prerequisite; and no annual dues shall be exacted of the members for any purpose whatever.

ART. 4. The officers of this Association shall be a President, a Chief Manager, fourteen Assistant Managers, and a Secretary and Treasurer. These officers shall be chosen annually by ballot, at a meeting called by notice from the pulpit, on the second Wednesday in January, or as soon thereafter as is convenient.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the President to preside at the Annual Meeting, and at other meetings of the Association for the transaction of business, and she shall be ex-officio a corresponding member of the Board of Managers. In her absence, the Chief Manager shall have the power of a Vice-President.

ART. 6. The government and direction of the affairs of the Association shall rest chiefly in the Board of Managers, and of this Board the Chief Manager shall be the presiding officer, and as such she shall be the officer deemed primarily responsible to the Association for the carrying out of such measures as may be resolved upon, in the fulfilment of its general object.

ART. 9. The Standing Committee may associate with themselves any members of the Association as their assistants, and the Managers may delegate any work for which they are responsible to assistants whom they may select, whenever the interests of the Association seem to require it.

ART. 10. Besides the Annual Meeting of the Association, occasional meetings may be held on call of the President, and a meeting shall be called whenever the Board of Managers shall deem it desirable. Meetings of the Board of Managers shall be held on call of the Chief Manager, or at such times as they themselves shall appoint.

A PASTORAL LETTER.

The Pastor of the Orange Valley Church to the Members of the Church and Congregation :

I take this method of calling the attention of my people to a plan for systematic Church work, which has been prepared by the Standing Committee, after prolonged and careful consideration.

I know that the best way in which any of us can serve our Lord is in the hearty and loving performance of the duties of the home and of our various callings. And I know that the faithful performance of these duties leaves some of us but little time for the particular work which the Church, as an organization, is trying to accomplish. But while we should do, first of all, the former duties, we should not leave the latter undone. To many of us the fact that we can do so little in the Church, is a difficulty in the way of our doing anything. More still are hindered by the fact that they do not know precisely what modes of work the Church is using, nor how the little time and experience and ability which they can offer can be made available. This plan shows what the Church is trying to do; and gives to the whole congregation a chance to say in which of these ways they may be willing or able to help. I invite all to read it carefully, to see where help is most required, and to volunteer their personal service, whether it be much or little.

I am sure that many will be glad of the suggestions which are thus made. Some are at work already in one or more of these departments. In all of them there is room for more assistance. In some of them there is urgent need of help. There is hardly anybody who is not doing, or can not do, something to help in one or more of the ways now pointed out.

We all of us recognize our responsibility to do what we can for Christ and for the Church of which we are members. Let us avail ourselves of this opening year to put new energy into our work, choosing, each one of us, what we will try to do, not only as Christians, but as members of this local church. I ask for no formal response to this letter; except that those who are willing to help will signify such willingness to the person in charge of the particular department in which they desire to labor. But I earnestly invite every church member to have an active part in the church work, and to lose no time in entering upon it. Delay in such a matter is unwise. Each one of us ought to know what he or she intends to do. And the various superintendents should know upon whom they have a right to call.

I do not restrict this invitation to church members, but to all who love our common Lord Jesus Christ, and desire to work for him. The Church was never in better condition. The week of prayer through which we have just passed has kindled our devotion and increased our fellowship. The effort to pay our debt has tested our fidelity and encouraged us by its results. But let us not be content with past achievements. Let us not be weary in well doing. Let us press toward the mark!

Affectionately, your pastor,

GEORGE B. BACON.

ORANGE VALLEY, January, 1871.

ORANGE VALLEY CHURCH.—A PLAN FOR SYSTEMATIC CHURCH WORK.

The work of this church divides itself, naturally, into six general departments, each one under the supervision of one or more church members. In each general department there are various kinds of work to be done, which are indicated in the subdivisions of the plan. Persons who are willing and able to work in any of these ways are earnestly invited to give their names to the proper superintendent, who will thus know upon whom to rely for help, and will call for it when it is needed.

I. THE SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK.

— — — — —, — — — — — St., Superintendent.

- a. Teachers in the Church Sunday-school.
- b. Teachers for other Sunday-schools in need of help. (Assistance in the Second Valley School would be especially welcome.)
- c. Reserve corps of teachers; (to supply occasional absences and temporary wants.)
- d. Bible class; (which will be organized if a sufficient number of adults desire it.)
- e. Aid in the selection of Library books.

II. THE PRAYER-MEETING WORK.

— — — — —, — — — — — St., Superintendent.

In this work some may be willing to help only by their attendance; others may be willing to lead in prayer or in remark, or to take charge of and conduct the meetings. Let it be remembered that to attend is to assist, if one can do nothing more.

- a. Friday evening meeting, including Monthly Concert.
- b. Neighborhood prayer meetings; (which it is proposed to establish immediately in the Valley, and in which help is earnestly requested.)
- c. Sunday evening meetings; (which will be established if a sufficient number of persons shall request and promise to support them.)
- d. A Mothers' meeting; (which will be organized if desired by a sufficient number.)

III. THE INDUSTRIAL WORK.

In charge of Ladies of the Church.

This department of work is already in very efficient operation; but the ladies will welcome an increased attendance and interest. Offers of assistance may be made through the pastor, or any of the deacons, or Standing Committee.

- a. Sewing Society and Home Mission work. (The Society meets usually every other Wednesday at the school-house, and upon notice from the pulpit.)
- b. Women's Foreign Missionary work: the Zenana Band.
- c. Industrial school; (Saturdays) in the school-house.

IV. THE CHARITABLE WORK.

— — — — —, — — — — — St., Superintendent.

a. Occasional visitation of the poor and sick. (There is very urgent need of help in this work. It is very burdensome if left to a few. But if many engage in it it becomes easy and efficient. The superintendent earnestly requests the names of men and women who are willing to give a little time, when called for, to examine into the applications for aid and to see that the charities are wisely and usefully expended. It is preeminently a Christian work, and one for which Christian women are peculiarly fitted.)

b. Assistance in collecting contributions.

c. Distribution of religious literature.

d. Cooperation in organizing charities of the community, such as the Orphan Society, relief of destitute children, etc.

V. THE SOCIAL WORK.

— — — — —, — — — — — St., Superintendent.

a. Courtesies to strangers on Sundays.

b. Hospitality to new families joining the congregation.

c. Social meetings of the congregation. From the nature of the case, this social work, which is exceedingly important, must be done by the thoughtful and ready attention of individual members of the congregation. And the families of a particular neighborhood should feel a special responsibility of courtesy to other families attending the church whose residence is in the same neighborhood. When a new face is seen in the prayer meeting, or a new household in church on Sunday, let it be the business of every one to find out the new comers and assure them of a welcome. The business of the committee having THE SOCIAL WORK in charge will be to furnish information as to what new comers there may be who ought to be called on; and from time to time, to provide social meetings where the congregation may become better acquainted. Faithful attention to such courtesies ought to be regarded as work done for Christ and for his Church.

VI. MISCELLANEOUS.

— — — — —, — — — — — St., Superintendent.

a. Efforts in aid of temperance and moral reform.

b. Young Men's Christian Association work. Suggestion, as well as labor, is invited for the promotion of this and other Christian work.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH, WORCESTER, 1870-1.

Every regular worshipper is invited to enlist in one or more of the Departments named in the following schedule.

DEPARTMENT I.—VISITATION OF THE POOR.

This is a work in which both men and women can engage to advantage. In order to help the destitute and the sick, we must find them, for it is commonly only the least worthy who come to our knowledge unsought. Those among our recently arrived foreign population who were brought up at home in the Church of England, or, if Germans, as Lutherans, have a peculiarly strong claim upon our hospitable attention. Our Church is their natural refuge. To search out such families; to show a kind interest in their welfare; to invite them to Church, and their children to the Sunday-school and the Sewing School; to bring to the attention of the appropriate Departments cases of sickness and poverty among them; this is what the visitors will be expected to undertake and do.

DEPARTMENT II.—CLOTHING THE DESTITUTE.

This Department is intended to enlist the services of all the women of the Parish who are willing to make a conscientious duty of sewing for the poor. Efficiency will be the first and only aim. It is thought that a compact body of real workers, pledged to do systematically what they have undertaken to do, will be likely to accomplish more than usually results from the labors of a loosely organized and intermittent "Sewing Circle." A Depository of Clothing under the care of this Department will be kept in the Chapel, from which needy applicants recommended by the District Visitors, by Sunday-school Teachers, or by the Rector, can be supplied. Contributions of worn garments, as well as gifts of cotton and woollen cloth, not made up, will be welcome at the Depository.

DEPARTMENT III.—CARING FOR THE SICK.

The duties of this Department require for their thorough discharge special gifts, a ripe experience, and a considerable command of leisure. Yet we must not leave a good work unattempted on account of its difficulty. By degrees we may hope to educate a skill which does not now exist, and perhaps by and by maintain a cottage hospital of our own. There is no reason why any who feel an attraction to this kind of work should not make a beginning. Such simple acts of kindness as watching with the sick, preparing delicacies for their use, joining with them in the Holy Communion, reading to them, and praying with them, are possible for those who lack the qualifications of trained nurses; and yet they are acts which hallow and bless the life of a Church in the performance.

DEPARTMENT IV.—INDUSTRIAL INSTRUCTION AND EMPLOYMENT.

A SEWING SCHOOL for the instruction of girls is held in the Chapel on Saturday afternoons, from November to May. Faithful and constant teachers are much needed.

A WOMENS' MEETING is held at the same place on Tuesday evenings, at which employment in needlework is furnished to those who desire it, on favorable terms. Reading aloud, Bible instruction, and a Lending Library, are features of this branch of the work of the Department.

DEPARTMENT V.—THE VOLUNTARY CHOIR.

This organization has become, during the few years of its existence, almost a necessity in our Church life. On occasions of week-day worship, when the regular choir of the Church cannot be in attendance, it is a great advantage not to have the service of song left dependent upon chance impulse.

The Voluntary Choir is moreover an admirable school of congregational singing, for its members distributed over the church on Sundays can do much to encourage by example that general participation in the choral portions of our worship which is so much to be desired. In view of the increased labors that will fall to this Department during the coming year, there is need that its members be strongly reenforced.

DEPARTMENT VI.—HOSPITALITY.

Calling on new parishioners to enlist them in the charitable activities of the church; providing for the entertainment of clerical and other delegates to Conventions held in this city; showing courtesy to strangers at times of public worship; assisting at the social assemblies of the parish; and in general doing all that is possible to promote a kindly and cordial feeling of brotherhood among all the members of the congregation, these are the varied but important duties of the Department of Hospitality.

RULES OF THE GENERAL ASSOCIATION.

I. NAME.—This body shall be called THE GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES OF MASSACHUSETTS.

II. OBJECT.—Its object is to secure Christian union, fellowship, and intercourse among the ministers and churches; promote spirituality; and to cooperate with one another and with other ecclesiastical bodies in advancing the Redeemer's kingdom.

III. DOCTRINAL BASIS.—This Association agrees to the Declaration of Faith adopted by the National Council of Congregational Churches in the year 1865; the doctrines therein set forth being understood by us to be distinctly those which, from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the gospel.

IV. DENOMINATIONAL BASIS. — Being based exclusively upon Congregational principles, this Association shall, under no circumstances, exercise ecclesiastical authority over churches or individuals, or interfere with the government or discipline of the churches, or consent to hear appeals, or give advice in ecclesiastical causes of any kind.

V. MEMBERS. — Each District Association of ministers consenting to the principles above stated, may appoint, annually, two delegates; and each District Conference of churches, also so consenting, may appoint, annually, three delegates, who shall be laymen; which delegates, with the Secretary, Registrar, Treasurer, and the pastor of the church with which the annual session is held, shall compose the General Association. Delegates from corresponding bodies, ministers appointed to preach sermons, and chairmen of committees attending to present reports, shall be honorary members, together with such other persons as the Association may vote to admit:

VI. OFFICERS. — 1. A Secretary, a Registrar, and a Treasurer, shall be chosen by ballot, each to serve three years from the close of the session at which the choice was made; to these offices any member of any Congregational church connected with this body shall be eligible.

2. A Moderator, and an Assistant Registrar, shall be chosen by ballot from the members at each session, to serve during that session.

3. The Secretary shall conduct the correspondence of the Association, collect the statistics of the ministers and churches, and have charge of the printing thereof, distribute the publications of the Association, and preserve, for the permanent use of the Association, copies of all its publications.

4. The Registrar shall make the records of each meeting, and preserve them as the permanent property of the Association; to whom the Assistant

Registrar shall render his aid. He shall seasonably notify the time and place of each annual session.

5. The Treasurer shall receive all money raised for the use of the Association, disburse the same as directed, and present an annual report, to be audited as the Association may direct.

6. The Secretary, Registrar, and Treasurer, shall be ex-officio members of the Association, and be the Committee of Publication unless another be chosen. Their travelling expenses in attending the several sessions shall be paid by the Association.

VII. QUORUM. — Twenty-five delegates shall constitute a quorum.

VIII. ANNUAL MEETING. — The annual meeting shall be held on the third Tuesday of June, at four o'clock P. M., (or at some other more convenient hour,) at such place as shall have been duly designated.

IX. HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY. — The Massachusetts Home Missionary Society may annually elect two delegates, to be members of this body, while it consents that this body may nominate two persons for membership in the Executive Committee of that Society.

X. CORRESPONDENCE. — 1. Our principles of fraternal intercourse with all ecclesiastical bodies in correspondence with us are, that this Association, and each body so connected with it, shall annually appoint delegates to the other, who shall be admitted to the privilege of sitting and deliberating upon all matters which may come under consideration.

2. The Delegates shall, as far as practicable, be selected, one from the District Associations, and one from the District Conferences, in rotation. Brethren chosen substitutes in the delegations to the bodies in our connection, shall, at our next session, be considered as Delegates to the respective bodies, if they shall not previously have taken their seats there through the failure of their principals.

3. The printed Minutes of the Association shall be sufficient testimonials of the appointment of Delegates to Corresponding Bodies.

4. It shall be the duty of those Delegates who attend the meetings of Corresponding Bodies, whether they be primaries or substitutes, to certify the Secretary in writing, on or before the opening of the annual meeting next after their appointment.

[The tenth article is suspended by action at the session of 1871, but the Rule was not formally amended.]

XI. ORGANIZATION. — The pastor of the church of the place of meeting, or the Secretary, may call the Association to order, and preside in the meeting until it be properly organized. The certificates of the delegates present shall be presented, — only the names of members being read by the Registrar. The Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator and an Assistant Registrar, and the Moderator shall open the session with prayer. A Committee on Credentials shall then be appointed, to whom all certificates shall be referred.

XII. SERMONS. — A sermon shall be preached on the evening of the first day of the session, and another, adapted to the occasion, before the Lord's supper. [Modified, but not formally amended, by change in Article XV.]

XIII. COMMITTEES. — 1. The Committees for the session are these :

(1.) A Committee on Credentials, who shall be appointed by the Moderator immediately after the opening of the session.

(2.) A Committee on Nominations, to nominate the following, and any other committees referred to them.

(3.) A Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the pastor, or some member of the church shall be one, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the Committee. But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

(4.) A Committee to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the churches of the several Conferences connected with this body,

(5.) A Committee to nominate delegates to Corresponding Bodies.

2. To act after the adjournment :

(1.) A Provisional Committee of five, to arrange the schedule for the next annual meeting; to select a preacher for a sermon on Wednesday, and persons to prepare such written papers as they shall deem desirable.

(2.) A Committee on Home Evangelization, who shall make an annual report to this body, upon the Work of the Churches and State of Religion, unless otherwise ordered at any session.

XIV. EXERCISES. — The time of the annual session shall be occupied by devotional services, the consideration of the state of religion, the wants and methods of Home Evangelization, addresses and discussions of practical religious interest, the reception of delegates from corresponding bodies, and attention to the objects of benevolent enterprise sustained by the churches.

XV. SPECIAL ORDERS. — 1. At the opening of the session, on the morning of Wednesday and Thursday, the Moderator shall take the chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned; shall immediately call the members to order; shall direct the roll to be called; shall open the meeting with prayer; and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

2. The associational sermon and Lord's supper may be assigned to Tuesday evening, at the option of the Provisional Committee. Salutations of delegates from corresponding bodies (which are expected to be confined to ten minutes each,) and reports of delegates to such bodies, shall be heard on Wednesday morning. Wednesday evening shall be devoted to exercises having special reference to the people of the place of meeting, or a sermon may be preached, the preacher to be selected by the Provisional Committee,

3. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer. One session of the Association shall be devoted to the cause of Home Missions and Home Evangelization.

XVI. PLACE OF MEETING. — Previously to the close of each meeting, the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and designate the Association (in alphabetical order,) to appoint a preacher for the sermon before the Lord's supper. And the church of the place of meeting selected, is requested to make preparation to celebrate the Lord's supper in the course of the service. The Lord's supper shall be administered, generally, without remarks.

XVII. RULES OF ORDER. — 1. Every motion, on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing; and no motion shall be opened to discussion until it be seconded.

2. The Moderator may speak to points of order in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

3. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question, without leave of the Association.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, except for adjournment, laying on the table, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question. The previous question is this: Shall the main question be now put? And the effect of adopting it shall be to put an end to debate, and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon the amendments, if any are pending, and then upon the main question proper.

5. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair; and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members, to call him to order.

7. No member shall leave the Association before the session is closed, except with the consent of the body; nor shall any one leave the house during a sitting, without the consent of the Moderator.

XVIII. AMENDMENTS. — 1. Any of the above Rules, except the first five, may be amended at any annual session by a two-thirds vote, the proposed amendment having been submitted in writing on the day previous to that of action.

2. Amendments to either of the first five articles shall not be made except upon their proposal at the annual meeting next prior to that of action; and after notice has been sent to the several Associations and Conferences; and by a two-thirds vote.

TIMES OF MEETING.—Second Tuesday in January, April, July, and October.

Rev. Alvan J. Bates, Saundersville, Scribe.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

EXPLANATIONS.

1. The counties are arranged in alphabetical order, except that Dukes and Nantucket are on the same page with Barnstable. Towns in each county are arranged alphabetically; churches in each town, according to age; and of each church, (1) its town, (2) its name (if it have a peculiar one,) which is always followed by "ch.," (3) its locality in the town, when that locality has a name distinct from the town; when the name of a church follows the name of a locality subordinate to the town, it shows that the church has a distinct number in that subdivision of the town.

2. The contracted headings to the columns of figures, denote as follows: "Church Members, 1871, Jan. 1,"—under which are "Males, Females, Total, Absent." "Admitted—1870,"—under which are "Profession, Letter, Total." "Removals, 1870," under which are "Death, Dismissal, Excommunication, Total." "Baptisms," in 1870,—under which are "Adult, Infant." "Sabbath Schools,"—under which are "Total, Average Attendance." "Benevolent Contributions," in 1870,—not including parish expenses.

3. The column specifying Ministers is corrected up to the time of publication. Church members are reported as numbered on the morning of Jan. 1, 1871. Admissions, removals, and baptisms, cover the year 1870. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females," and "total," but included in them. "Sabbath School" includes total membership of teachers and scholars Jan. 1, 1871, or when the school is in successful operation (if not at that date,) covering "branch schools" so far as maintained by the reporting church; and the "average" attendance for the year 1870.

4. Dates earlier than 1752 are given in "old style." To reduce these to "new style,"—if it be a date in the 17th century, add ten days; if it be a date in the 18th century (prior to 1752,) add eleven days.

5. "Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry "by the laying on of hands." "Installed" denotes the date of his present pastorate. "A. p." denotes "Acting pastor."

6. All Post-office addresses are to be found in the "Index of Ministers," and not in the tables. For churches, see "Index of Towns."

7. In no instance is the report of any church in these Statistics copied from the returns of previous years. But there is included in the totals of each county, a careful estimate of the numbers in any unreporting church; and also the occasionally missing items of "absent," and "average attendance" in Sabbath Schools,—which are assumed to be, in each case, equivalent to the average percentage of their county.

Many of those (not in pastoral service) whose occupation is in Boston, reside in other counties. Benevolent Contributions are, as usual, imperfectly reported.

COMPARISONS.

The comparisons of the summaries of this and the last previous annual reports, are seen on page 110.

It will be noticed that the number of vacant churches is 14 less than last year, but that the improvement is only in the direction of acting pastors.

The membership gains 517.

The deaths are .01706 of the membership reporting deaths.

The decrease in the Sabbath-schools is now on its second year. The average attendance is .6764 of the membership; in years next preceding, respectively, .6679, .6515, .6718, .6760, — which shows an improvement over the last four years.

Benevolent Contributions show an increase of $2,010.22; 46 churches not reporting, against 53 not reporting last year.

DELINQUENT.

Two churches, only, fail to report this year, viz. : Pelham, Hampshire county, and Walpole, Norfolk county.

MINISTERIAL RECORD.

ASSOCIATIONS OF MINISTERS, 27, as given (with lists of members, etc.) on pages 77-93. No change appears in the number or name of the Associations. The Associations do not comprise all the ministers in the State. A few pastors and acting pastors are not members, but their names are given with their churches. Ministers not in pastoral service and not members of Associations, are necessarily officially unknown. Of the 166 without pastoral charge, many are officials of religious societies, officers of colleges and schools, editors, and the like. About one sixth are known to be disabled by age or bodily infirmities, and many are known to be in secular business.

NAMES OF MINISTERS,

IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER, WITH THE POST-OFFICE ADDRESS OF EACH,
AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE PAGE IN WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS
IN THE STATISTICS OF ASSOCIATIONS OR CHURCHES.

This list includes only pastors or acting pastors and members of Associations not of any other denomination. Its post-office addresses often differ from the foregoing pages, by reason of removals.

The first column of figures, (including pp. 77-93,) refers to membership in Associations; the second column (including pp. 95-109,) refers to pastoral position. A blank, in either case, signifies, — in the former, that one is not a member of any Association; in the latter, that he is not reported as in pastoral service. Post-office addresses outside of Massachusetts are printed in italics.

Bro. Alfred Peck and Bro. Charles E. Kimball were chosen Auditing Committee, after which the Association took a recess until evening.

Tuesday Evening, 7½ o'clock. The Association met according to adjournment, and was opened with singing. The following question was then presented for consideration: What is the duty of our churches at the present time in regard to the sacredness of the Sabbath? The discussion was opened by Rev. John Todd, whose remarks were introduced with a few words of welcome to the Association, and was continued by Rev. John D. Kingsbury, Rev. Zachary Eddy, Rev. Gabriel H. De Bevoise, Rev. Henry B. Hooker, Rev. James M. Bell, Rev. William Barrows, and Rev. Charles B. Sumner.

After singing, the meeting closed with the benediction, pronounced by the Moderator.

SECOND DAY.

Wednesday, June 19. The Association assembled at 8½ o'clock A. M., and half an hour was spent in devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. John L. R. Trask.

At 9 o'clock the Moderator took the chair, and the minutes were read and approved.

THE SABBATH.

In response to a memorial from the Brookfield Association, Rev. John Todd, of the Committee of Arrangements, presented resolutions, which, after subsequent discussion and amendment, were adopted as follows, viz. :

Resolved, That this Association deeply deplores the almost universal tendency of the day to desecrate the holy Sabbath, — to take it out of divine appointment and make it a day of pleasure, or to drive over it for worldly gain, — a mere human convenience.

Resolved, That we earnestly recommend ministers and Christians individually, and in their families, to be very circumspect as to their example; that they urge in the pulpit and in the Sabbath-schools the teachings and authority of God as to its sacredness and its blessings to the world.

Resolved, That we view with pain and alarm the fact that our railroads, so convenient and so powerful in developing the resources of the country, are violating the Lord's day by depriving so many of their employees of their Sabbath, disturbing the repose and the worship of the Christian community, and thus instructing our children that property and gain are to be ranked higher than God's laws.

Rev. James P. Kimball, Acting Treasurer, presented his report, which was examined by the Auditing Committee and found to be correct. They recommended that the report be printed, and that a sum equivalent to two cents for each resident church member be collected by the Treasurer of the Local Conferences of Churches for the expenses of the ensuing year.

Bro. George E. Clark, of Jamaica Plain, was elected Treasurer of the Association.

Rev. J. W. Harding and Bro. O. W. Willcox were recommended as candidates for election as members of the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society.

HOME EVANGELIZATION.

A memorial from the Hampden East and West Associations, recommending the union of the secretaryship of Home Evangelization with that of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, was received and referred to a special committee consisting of the following persons: Rev. J. T. Tucker, Rev. E. P. Blodgett, and Bro. S. W. Wright.

A memorial from the Old Colony Conference in relation to the employment of evangelists by the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, was received and referred to the following committee: Rev. G. H. De Bevoise, Rev. W. C. Reed, and Bro. James Adams.

The following question was then discussed: Do the circumstances of our day and country create any new responsibility in our church in regard to Home Missions?

Rev. William Barrows, Rev. H. Q. Butterfield, and Rev. J. W. Sturtevant, President of Illinois College, participated in the discussion.

The following question was also discussed: Are new efforts demanded on the part of our churches in behalf of the communities where they are located?

The discussion was opened by Rev. G. R. Leavitt, who was followed by Rev. John Todd, Rev. D. P. Noyes, and Bro. A. Peck.

Rev. G. R. Leavitt presented resolutions, which were referred to the Committee of Arrangements.

The roll of members was then read, and the Association took a recess.

Wednesday P. M. The Association reassembled. The first half hour was spent in devotional exercises, conducted by Bro. O. W. Willcox.

An hour was occupied by the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, Rev. Wm. A. Stearns, its president, in the chair.

At 3½ o'clock the Association resumed its session.

The Secretary presented an abstract of his annual report.

The Secretary of Home Evangelization read an abstract of his report.

The Association then took a recess, giving place for a short time to the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society.

The business of the Association was then resumed.

HOME EVANGELIZATION.

The committee on the memorial of the Hampden East and West Associations made a report, which was referred to a special committee, consisting of Rev. Chas. R. Bliss, Rev. J. M. Bell, Rev. C. B. Sumner, Dea. John Smith, and Bro. T. R. Dennison.

The report of the Secretary of Home Evangelization was referred to the same committee, and the resolutions of Rev. G. R. Leavitt were recalled, and received a similar reference.

AMENDMENTS TO RULES.

Rev. A. H. Quint, in behalf of the committee on harmonizing the rules, presented a report, which, after being laid over the usual time, was adopted, and the rules were modified as follows :

To substitute for article X, the following :

X. Official fraternal intercourse with the several State Congregational organizations, and with other denominations, is sufficiently had by the representation of this body in the National Council of the Congregational churches of the United States.

To omit Article XII, and the fifth section of Article XIII.

In Article XIV, omit the words "the reception of delegates from corresponding bodies."

In the second section of Article XV, the first sentence to read: "The Associational Sermon and Lord's Supper shall be assigned to Thursday P. M., but may be changed to Tuesday evening, at the option of the Provisional Committee." Omit all regarding corresponding bodies. Transfer to the end of this section the second and third lines of the third section of the same Article.

The Association then took a recess until evening.

Wednesday, 7½ P. M. A sermon was preached by Rev. Zachary Eddy, of Chelsea, from Rev. iii, 2: "Be watchful and strengthen the things which remain." The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. A. H. Clapp and Rev. John Todd.

THIRD DAY.

Thursday, June 20. The Association assembled at 8½ o'clock A. M., and half an hour was spent in devotional services, led by Rev. Edward A. Smith.

At 9 o'clock the Moderator took the chair. The roll was called and the minutes were read.

Bro. Geo. H. Sheldon, Secretary of the Systematical Beneficence Society, addressed the Association.

TEMPERANCE.

The following resolutions were adopted :

Resolved, I, That this Association express gratitude to God that so large a number of the towns in this Commonwealth have decided that beer and other lighter intoxicants shall not be sold within their borders.

Resolved, II, That we thank God for the firm position taken by His Excellency Governor Washburn in behalf of prohibition, and we trust that his efforts will be crowned with such success that he shall be a terror to evil-doers in high places as well as in low.

Resolved, III, That we bless God that there is an increasing interest on this subject in many of our towns, and especially among our foreign population, and hope this work will go forward with increasing interest and power.

HOME EVANGELIZATION.

Rev. C. R. Bliss, in behalf of the special committee on the general subject of Home Evangelization, presented a report, which was accepted, and its recommendations adopted as follows :

Resolved, That this General Association of the Congregational Churches of Massachusetts expresses its hearty approval of the efforts of officials in charge of the correctional and reformatory institutions of the Commonwealth, to promote the religious and secular instruction of their inmates, and the hope that those efforts may be amplified and extended.

Resolved, That the State Committee of Home Evangelization is hereby instructed to secure, if practicable, the formation of committees or other organizations in the neighborhood of all the prisons of the Commonwealth, to promote the reformation of prisoners, and especially to aid and encourage them at the time of their discharge.

Resolved, That the churches and conferences be invited to consider the question of introducing devoted Christian women to a fuller participation in direct efforts to promote the cause of Christ.

In view of the necessities for Christian work outside of the immediate centres which are more particularly occupied by our churches,

Resolved, That in the judgment of this Association, this work may generally best be performed by different members of the local churches, yet where this is impossible a suitable layman, to be paid therefor, should be employed a part or all of the time, as the necessities may require.

Resolved, This Association, thankful for the success which has already rewarded their efforts in the work of Home Evangelization, under the indefatigable labors of their Secretary, yet recognizing the magnitude of the work still resting upon their hands, deem the present no time for lessening their efforts in its behalf, but on the contrary, feel called upon to enter upon a more active prosecution of the design which has already enlisted so much labor and prayer.

Resolved, They see increased reasons for urging upon the churches a more exact and thorough mapping out of the Christian work before them in marking the boundaries of their parishes, in making out full lists of the families and individuals for which they are responsible, and in adopting all feasible measures for strengthening Christian ties and promoting the peculiar work of the churches.

Resolved, Inasmuch as questions have arisen with regard to the continued prosecution of the work of Home Evangelization in its present form, and inasmuch as the work itself is closely connected with the work of the Home Missionary Society, this Association deems it advisable that a consultation be held between the officers of that Society and the Home Evangelization Committee of this body, with a view of determining the following points, viz. :

1. Whether that Society cannot, consistently with its own mission and aim, take upon itself the peculiar work which this Association by its committee has sought to perform.

2. Whether that Society, by the employment of suitable agencies, cannot enter more fully into the work of repairing the wastes in our own Zion, building up new enterprises, and by a more liberal expenditure preserving and increasing the religious interests of our churches.

3. Whether it would not be wise in that Society to enter into arrangements with churches and conferences by which lay preachers and Christian women, selected by the former to perform needed Christian work, might be appointed and paid by the latter.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Association that Bro. Noyes, the present Secretary of Home Evangelization, should not be permitted to retire from his office before Jan. 1, 1873.

Rev. J. T. Tucker, Rev. Nelson Clark, Bro. James Adams, Rev. A. H. Coolidge, and Bro. C. M. Parsons, were appointed a committee to act with the Home Evangelization Committee and the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, in considering the whole matter presented in the report.

The report of the committee on the memorial of the Old Colony Conference was referred to the same committee.

The following vote was adopted :

In view of the sad fact that there are in our denomination several hundred more churches than ministers who can become pastors; and in view of the fact that we make a net gain of only thirty or forty a year on our ministerial list, while our vast interior and extended frontier are making annual demands for hundreds,

Voted, That we commend to each of our churches the judicious and prayerful inquiry, whether it cannot and ought not to be turning the attention of one or more of its members toward the Christian ministry, and that destitute churches be advised to avail themselves at once of the services of valuable ministers now unemployed.

NATIONAL COUNCIL.

Rev. A. H. Quint presented a brief report of the attendance of delegates to the National Council, and proposed the following, which was unanimously adopted :

The General Association records its gratitude that the Congregational churches of the United States have been led to associate themselves so happily in National Council. And particularly :

That the organization was accomplished in entire harmony and Christian love ;

That the Council carefully recognized the integrity of the churches, and the right of government as being exclusively in the local church ; and equally disclaimed all control over the several benevolent organizations ;

That the Council recognized " the great doctrines of the Christian faith," the teaching of God in his word and by his Spirit, to be a safe and yet unsectarian basis of such a union ; and

That the Council has proved to be alike the evidence of the spirit of fellowship in our churches, and of the awakening of new zeal to meet the responsibilities pressing upon them ; and that its recommendations of the several agencies of the churches were so wise and judicious.

SESSION OF 1873.

Voted, That the session of 1873 be held with the First Congregational church in Natick ; and the following were chosen a Provisional Committee : Rev. F. N. Peloubet, Rev. L. R. Eastman, Dea. Leander Coolidge, Rev. E. Dowsé, Dea. John Adams.

The Association designated Essex North to appoint a preacher before the Lord's Supper.

VOTES OF THANKS.

On motion of Rev. J. P. Kimball, it was Resolved, That the hearty thanks of the Association be tendered to the First church in Pittsfield and its beloved pastor, and also to the South church and its pastor, for receiving us so cordially to their homes and extending to us such ample Christian hospitality. Our thanks are also tendered to the choir of the First church for their very acceptable assistance in the service of song, and to the several railroads which have given return tickets to persons attending the meeting. These railroads are, the Boston & Albany, Housatonic, New Haven & Northampton, Connecticut River, Vermont Central, Providence & Worcester, Worcester & Nashua, Boston, Clinton & Fitchburg, Boston & Lowell, and Old Colony.

On motion of Dr. Todd, the thanks of the Association were given to the Moderator, for his courteous manner in presiding.

Voted, That when we adjourn, we adjourn to meet for the sermon and sacrament, at the close of which the Association stand adjourned sine die.

The minutes were read and accepted, after which the Association took a recess until two o'clock.

Thursday, 2 o'clock P. M. A sermon was preached by Rev. John W. Dodge, of Yarmouth, from Matt. xviii, 20. "For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them."

The devotional services were conducted by Rev. Jas. P. Kimball.

After the sermon the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered, Rev. J. T. Tucker and Rev. A. H. Quint officiating.

The Association then stood adjourned sine die.

J. T. TUCKER, Moderator.

I. NAME.—This body shall be called THE GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES OF MASSACHUSETTS.

II. OBJECT.—Its object is to secure Christian union, fellowship, and intercourse among the ministers and churches; promote spirituality; and to cooperate with one another and with other ecclesiastical bodies in advancing the Redeemer's kingdom.

III. DOCTRINAL BASIS.—This Association agrees to the Declaration of Faith adopted by the National Council of Congregational Churches in the year 1865; the doctrines therein set forth being understood by us to be distinctly those which, from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the gospel.

IV. DENOMINATIONAL BASIS.—Being based exclusively upon Congregational principles, this Association shall, under no circumstances, exercise ecclesiastical authority over churches or individuals, or interfere with the government or discipline of the churches, or consent to hear appeals, or give advice in ecclesiastical causes of any kind.

V. MEMBERS.—Each District Association of ministers consenting to the principles above stated, may appoint, annually, two delegates; and each District Conference of churches, also so consenting, may appoint, annually, three delegates, who shall be laymen; which delegates, with the Secretary, Registrar, Treasurer, and the pastor of the church with which the annual session is held, shall compose the General Association. Delegates from corresponding bodies, ministers appointed to preach sermons, and chairmen of committees attending to present reports, shall be honorary members, together with such other persons as the Association may vote to admit.

VI. OFFICERS.—1. A Secretary, a Registrar, and a Treasurer, shall be chosen by ballot, each to serve three years from the close of the session at which the choice was made; to these offices any member of any Congregational church connected with this body shall be eligible.

2. A Moderator, and an Assistant Registrar, shall be chosen by ballot from the members at each session, to serve during that session.

3. The Secretary shall conduct the correspondence of the Association, collect the statistics of the ministers and churches, and have charge of the printing thereof, distribute the publications of the Association, and preserve, for the permanent use of the Association, copies of all its publications.

4. The Registrar shall make the records of each meeting, and preserve them as the permanent property of the Association; to whom the Assistant

Registrar shall render his aid. He shall seasonably notify the time and place of each annual session.

5. The Treasurer shall receive all money raised for the use of the Association, disburse the same as directed, and present an annual report, to be audited as the Association may direct.

6. The Secretary, Registrar, and Treasurer, shall be ex-officio members of the Association, and be the Committee of Publication unless another be chosen. Their travelling expenses in attending the several sessions shall be paid by the Association.

VII. QUORUM.—Twenty-five delegates shall constitute a quorum.

VIII. ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual meeting shall be held on the third Tuesday of June, at four o'clock P. M., (or at some other more convenient hour,) at such place as shall have been duly designated.

IX. HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.—The Massachusetts Home Missionary Society may annually elect two delegates, to be members of this body, while it consents that this body may nominate two persons for membership in the Executive Committee of that Society.

X. CORRESPONDENCE.—Official fraternal intercourse with the several State Congregational organizations, and with other denominations, is sufficiently had by the representation of this body in the National Council of the Congregational churches of the United States.

XI. ORGANIZATION.—The pastor of the church of the place of meeting, or the Secretary, may call the Association to order, and preside in the meeting until it be properly organized. The certificates of the delegates present shall be presented,—only the names of members being read by the Registrar. The Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator and an Assistant Registrar, and the Moderator shall open the session with prayer. A Committee on Credentials shall then be appointed, to whom all certificates shall be referred.

XII. COMMITTEES.—1. The Committees for the session are these:

(1.) A Committee on Credentials, who shall be appointed by the Moderator immediately after the opening of the session.

(2.) A Committee on Nominations, to nominate the following, and any other committees referred to them.

(3.) A Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the pastor, or some member of the church shall be one, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the Committee. But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

(4.) A Committee to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the churches of the several Conferences connected with this body.

2. To act after the adjournment :

(1.) A Provisional Committee of five, to arrange the schedule for the next annual meeting ; to select a preacher for a sermon on Wednesday, and persons to prepare such written papers as they shall deem desirable.

(2.) A Committee on Home Evangelization, who shall make an annual report to this body, upon the Work of the Churches and State of Religion, unless otherwise ordered at any session.

XIII. EXERCISES.—The time of the annual session shall be occupied by devotional services, the consideration of the state of religion, the wants and methods of Home Evangelization, addresses and discussions of practical religious interest, and attention to the objects of benevolent enterprise sustained by the churches.

XIV. SPECIAL ORDERS.—1. At the opening of the session, on the morning of Wednesday and Thursday, the Moderator shall take the chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned ; shall immediately call the members to order ; shall direct the roll to be called ; shall open the meeting with prayer ; and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read ; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

2. The associational sermon and Lord's supper shall be assigned to Thursday P. M., but may be changed to Tuesday evening, at the option of the Provisional Committee. Wednesday evening shall be devoted to exercises having special reference to the people of the place of meeting, or a sermon may be preached, the preacher to be selected by the Provisional Committee. One session of the Association shall be devoted to the cause of Home Missions and Home Evangelization.

3. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer.

XV. PLACE OF MEETING.—Previously to the close of each meeting, the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and designate the Association (in alphabetical order,) to appoint a preacher for the sermon before the Lord's supper. And the church of the place of meeting selected, is requested to make preparation to celebrate the Lord's supper in the course of the service. The Lord's supper shall be administered, generally, without remarks.

XVI. RULES OF ORDER.—1. Every motion, on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing ; and no motion shall be opened to discussion until it be seconded.

2. The Moderator may speak to points of order in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose ; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

3. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question, without leave of the Association.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, except for adjournment, laying on the table, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question. The previous question is this: Shall the main question be now put? And the effect of adopting it shall be to put an end to debate, and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon the amendments, if any are pending, and then upon the main question proper.

5. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair; and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members, to call him to order.

7. No member shall leave the Association before the session is closed, except with the consent of the body; nor shall any one leave the house during a sitting, without the consent of the Moderator.

XVII. AMENDMENTS.—1. Any of the above Rules, except the first five, may be amended at any annual session by a two-thirds vote, the proposed amendment having been submitted in writing on the day previous to that of action.

2. Amendments to either of the first five articles shall not be made except upon their proposal at the annual meeting next prior to that of action; and after notice has been sent to the several Associations and Conferences; and by a two-thirds vote.

REPORT

OF THE

Work of the Churches and State of Religion:

OF

PRESENTED TO THE GENERAL ASSOCIATION, AT PITTSFIELD, JUNE 19th, 1872.

The importance of the Home Evangelization movement within our churches has grown more impressive with every year. The difficulties which it must necessarily encounter have never shown themselves in a more striking manner, nor have the encouragements been more decisive, than during the year which now ends. Probably the resolve of those most deeply interested, to push it forward with all their might, was never so strong as it is this day.

Although the goal which the churches seek can hardly be said to be in sight, as yet, except to eyes of faith, nevertheless much has been gained. We have reached a point where important modifications of our methods demand consideration. The movement is organized in all the Conferences but two, — perhaps we should say, in all but one. An increasing number of the ministry, especially of the younger pastors, are actively at work, upon principles and methods that it has suggested. From nearly all the Conferences we hear of a more careful attention to out-districts; of the holding of Fellowship Meetings, and of other efforts to promote acquaintances and brotherly love; Praise Meetings have become very numerous; the Enlistment Card has found its way into more churches within the past twelve months, than ever before; Open-air Meetings promise to become an institution (for the summer months) in some of our most populous towns; a larger number of churches, it is believed, than in any other one year, have begun vigorously to organize for labor; and the pastors of Boston have set the example of a unanimous agreement in a mapping out of their work, having divided the whole city among themselves, into districts, for constant inspection and regular effort. The minds of brethren who have long taken an interest in the movement, would seem to have reached a well nigh perfect accord upon its leading principles and methods.

Under these circumstances, it is certainly proper to consider the question, whether any changes can be made, with advantage, in the mode of conducting it. Can the expense of the movement, now that it is so far advanced, be wisely diminished? Can the present appropriation be more effectively made, in some other way? Would it be well to substitute the labors of County Assistants for those of the Secretary? Can any different adjustment and division of labor between the two Secretaries now maintained by the Home Missionary Society, be made to advantage?

Similar inquiries have often been entertained by this Committee, but hitherto have been answered in the negative. Now, however, in order to open the way freely to any policy which may recommend itself to the wisdom of the Association, the Secretary of Home Evangelization has taken upon himself the responsibility of requesting the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society to omit his reappointment for another year, and to consider the expediency of the employment of one or more County Assistants.

It is no secret, that in the opinion of many, our general system for the care of feeble churches, the supply of destitutions, and the effective reaching of out-districts and neglecters, needs some revision. As no one part of this question can be intelligently acted upon separately from the others, and as the whole matter is probably to come before the Association, it is not necessary to consider it further here.

Interesting details in the work of the churches for the year may be found among the statements from Local Conferences, which form the body of this Report. Some of the methods newly adopted by different churches are given in the APPENDIX.

SUGGESTIONS.

The attention of the General Association is invited to the following measures, some of which, at least, in the judgment of this Committee, can be successfully carried out during the year on which we now enter.

1. The prisoners in the State Prison and in the Houses of Correction belonging to the several counties, have special claims upon the sympathy of all who confess themselves sinners and followers of Him who came to seek and save the lost. It is expected of the disciples of Jesus Christ, that they will visit those who are sick or in prison, remembering "them that are in bonds as bound with them." This duty the members of our churches have not forgotten, as their labors in Prison Sunday-schools have long testified. And yet the moral and religious condition of these prisons is by no means satisfactory; and is inferior to that of similar institutions in some of the countries of Europe and in parts of our own. In very few of them is any provision made for that secular instruction of prisoners which is so helpful to a moral improvement; and in none are the religious influences such as the case demands. We commend this subject to the attention of the Association, for such action as at present may seem expedient.

2. Another important duty has been too long neglected. It seems very strange that, at this late day, no adequate arrangements have been made for helping prisoners at the close of their confinement, when they are so peculiarly open to good influences, and so much in need of friendly offices. We suggest, therefore, the propriety of some action by this Association, providing for the formation of committees, or other organizations, in the neighborhood of the Houses of Correction in this Commonwealth, for aiding prisoners upon their discharge to obtain employment, and for encouraging them in purposes of reformation.

3. The opinion has been expressed by pastors of churches, that certain of their out-districts cannot be reached effectively except by the labors of godly laymen, devoting the whole, or the greater part of their time to the work, as Lay-helpers, under the direction of the churches within whose proper oversight the districts fall. It seems not unlikely that this class of laborers may be profitably employed to some extent also in populous towns.

4. We are deeply impressed, also, with the fact that "of honorable women, not a few" would gladly devote themselves wholly to various forms of Christian labor, who yet find no way open. Some have already turned to other denominations. Clearly, this ought not so to be. We hope that such public and orderly provision will be made, that godly women having a call from heaven to consecrate their whole time to religious labor, shall find an open door, a warm welcome, and an adequate support.

THE WORK OF THE CHURCHES.

ANDOVER CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 23; pastors, 19; stated preachers, 4; churches vacant, none; churches aided, 1.

This Conference has printed an "Abstract of the Report of the Committee on Home Evangelization," for circulation in its congregations; a custom which may well be adopted by other Conferences. From this we make the following brief selections.

Membership. The returns show a loss of 5.

Sabbath Schools. Twenty-two Sabbath-schools of the churches of the Conference have a membership of 4535, with an average attendance of 4099, or 68 percent. Nearly all the schools are reported as being in a prosperous condition, with an attendance above the average. The John Street church, Lowell, employ a lady missionary, to whom they pay $300 per annum, who gives her whole time to the work, and whose labors are blessed. The practice is extending of holding the Concert in the afternoon.

Sabbath Services. Five churches report a gain in the attendance upon the Sabbath services. The High Street church, Lowell, tried the experiment for a short time the last summer of giving up the afternoon service; but such was the opposition to the plan that it is not likely to be repeated.

Praise Meetings. Many of our churches have taken a "new departure" the past year in "the service of song in the House of the Lord" — in Praise Meetings, from which we receive a uniform report of their usefulness. Only one church reports holding the Praise Meeting regularly, the South church, Lawrence, which has one monthly.

Out-Districts and Mission Work. Two churches report having Branch Sabbath-schools, — the High Street church, Lowell, and the Lawrence Street church, Lawrence. The latter church has also sustained two District prayer-meetings through the winter. Prayer-meetings in out-districts have been held by the churches at North Chelmsford, North Andover, Tyngsborough, and West Dracut. The meeting in Dracut is sustained by brethren over seventy years of age, who have all been greatly refreshed thereby. The church has sustained a second one since the Week of Prayer. The West church, Andover, has sustained two meetings weekly; as also the Methuen church, at one of whose meetings there is a regular preaching service by one of the deacons of the church; which service, from its useful character, is urged by the pastor as an argument in favor of lay-preaching. The Free church, Lawrence, have held through the winter what they very beautifully call "cottage services."

Temperance. With a few exceptions, the cause of Temperance does not seem to have made any progress the past year. In North Andover the law is reported to be a dead letter, while there is much intemperance among the foreign population. The same is true of Lawrence, where the execution of the law is impeded by the "beer clause," and by the fear of losing votes, which paralyzes the hands of the party in power. Practically in that city it is "Free Rum," and the increase of intemperance is truly alarming. The picture is quite as dark in Lowell; or rather has been. Just now it begins to look as if the morning light were breaking. We have a Temperance Mayor, who is making an honest effort to enforce the law. The result is that a restraint today rests upon liquor-selling in that city, which is constantly growing more severe and burdensome; and to escape this, some have already given up the business. The Free church, Andover, reports holding a regular monthly Temperance meeting. The Free church, Lawrence, reports that a Band of Hope, formed among them, has been instrumental in doing much good, giving prominence to signing the pledge.

Contributions. It is a matter of regret that these returns are not more complete; and it seems a pity, that when most of the churches have taken pains to make full reports, the returns received should be rendered nearly valueless from the lack of returns from the remaining few. The parish expenses of twenty churches amounted to $73,780.25. This includes the regular parish expenditures, and the moneys raised for the payment of church debts. The charities of twenty-one churches, including contributions publicly given by the members of the congregation, amount to $66,788.38. In addition, some of the churches have made home improvements, and many of them make mention of an increase of the spirit of liberality among their people.

Week of Prayer. Several of the churches report their observance of the week of prayer, and I believe in every instance with happy effect. The meetings seemed to have been spiritual and earnest, and from them have proceeded streams of influence that are still flowing on, imparting blessings as they flow. In some cases they have been followed by extra meetings, in consequence of the interest then awakened.

Social Meetings. Many of the reports mention the vigor which characterizes their prayer-meetings and social gatherings. Some of the churches hold social meetings every two and three weeks, believing that the closer the people become united in social bonds, the more favorable the condition for development of the church's activities. The Free church, Andover, have infused new life and power into their meeting by drawing somewhat upon that large reserved latent power in our churches, namely, its female members.

BARNSTABLE CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 22; pastors, 7; stated preachers, 12; churches vacant, 3; churches aided, 2.

Population. The population of this county is very homogeneous, and almost wholly American. The only exceptions are Sandwich and Provincetown; the former being the only manufacturing town, and the latter the largest seaport. Those who have derived their impressions of the inhabitants from tourists like Thoreau— who spent three weeks on the back side of Cape Cod, a few years ago, and wrote a volume of caricature of the people and their civilization— have necessarily fallen into many false conceptions as to the present condition of this section of the State. While still retaining some peculiarities of earlier days, as was to be expected from their comparative isolation from the rest of the State for many years, the present aspects of this field are not greatly different from those of other rural districts of the State. Most of the men in the lower towns are devoted to marine pursuits. In the upper towns, manufactures are beginning to be introduced to some extent. Few communities are able to retain their most enterprising young men at home, and the churches consequently feel the lack of many of their strongest men. There are several out-of-the-way hamlets, where few religious privileges are enjoyed; and the problem for Home Evangelization in this county is, to determine the best means of reaching and elevating such communities.

Churches. The proportion of strong churches is very small. Most support themselves with difficulty. The actual valuation of property in some towns is diminishing— as in Truro; and the church diminishes with the population and the falling off in business enterprise. There is no instance of steady growth among them all.

Pastorates. A large proportion of the churches hire their ministers from year to year. Salaries are small, and changes are frequent. One church that has been in existence thirty-eight years has had twenty-five ministers; and the tendency is in the same direction throughout the Conference.

Revivals. During the past year all the churches — with the exception of that at Monument — have enjoyed the labors of faithful men, and revivals are reported in Provincetown and Harwich. There were a few conversions also at West Yarmouth.

Truro. There is not a family in this parish that does not attend public worship, more or less constantly; and not a child in the families who is not a member of the Sabbath-school. The only unreachable population in the town is some twenty Portuguese families. They are Romanists, but not very bigoted.

Christian Women. The pastor, who has been here upwards of twenty years, expresses his unchanged conviction of the importance of allowing women to take part in prayer-meetings. Their aid is invaluable, as, with meekness and fear they give a reason of the hope that is in them, and approach the mercy-seat with singular importunity and humility. This feature of the meetings promotes church fellowship and Christian acquaintance.

Neighborhood Meetings have been held in Centreville through the winter on every possible evening, — sometimes crowded, sometimes very affecting. “They seem to draw the families closer to the church, and to revive religion in the hearts of the family with whom they happen to be held. A prayer-meeting has been established to pray especially for the church, consisting only of those who earnestly believe in the promise of God. It is a constant centre for the most devoted believers.”

Provincetown is moving effectually towards building a new church. They have raised seven eighths of the amount required, and the result is assured. There has never been so much interest there as at the present time. The revival of the past winter has given them a new impulse, and awakened new courage in the despairing.

A few points of general interest are suggested by the inquiries instituted by the committee.

1. The history of several of the churches shows, that the gradual introduction of lax doctrine in the pulpit has been the occasion of the sad state of things witnessed in the present religious condition of the people. It is clear that high-toned preaching is a bulwark of real religion. History shows that the prevalence of errors and the multiplication of neglecters in several of these communities, are traceable to the failure of the ministers in past years to teach the whole truth.

2. The practice of hiring ministers by the year, is working serious injury to many churches. It is almost impossible to maintain any parts of the service except the preaching and the Sabbath-school, unless there is a regular pastor. The line which includes the churches supplied with pastors, excludes all the feeble and thriftless churches, or nearly so.

3. The declension of business has had intimate connection with the decline in religious prosperity. The "sinews" have been wanting in some communities, for maintaining the struggle, and ground has thus been lost. This section of the State has suffered, especially during the last five or six years, from the depression of the shipping interests. The churches show it.

BERKSHIRE NORTH CONFERENCE.

BERKSHIRE SOUTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 17; pastors, or pastors elect, 11; stated preachers, 4; churches vacant, 2; churches aided, 4.

The past year has been marked by no events of special interest in this part of the county. The strong churches are moving prosperously forward. Those of moderate ability are in better condition than in some previous years. The very weak churches have not gained. One town, Alford, is entirely without the regular ministrations of the gospel. In West Stockbridge Centre the case is a little better, since the former pastor, Rev. Lewis Pennell, still resides there, and gathers audiences of 30 or 40 in his own dwelling or in a school-house. The church building has been repaired, however, at an expense of $300, and the people are hoping soon to secure a minister.

Church Work. A highly encouraging degree of religious interest has been manifest at Housatonic and Monterey. At Stockbridge, also, several conversions have followed the regular and persistent labors in out-districts. In four of these districts regular weekly prayer-meetings are sustained, with preaching by the pastor once in four weeks. In one there is a thriving Sunday-school. A gratifying ingathering of the young is reported. From Lee, again, we receive a similar account, of the hopeful conversion of young people and children. The chapel at East Lee still gathers a goodly attendance. "Praise Meetings" and "Fellowship Meetings" have been held with good success. The church at Housatonic has also kept up meetings in out-districts, and has thus reached families not attendants elsewhere. The Missionary church at Otis, in addition to its principal Sunday-school, has sustained others at West Otis, Cold Spring, and the Hunter District, with a total attendance of 244. Efforts to establish another at East Otis were unsuccessful. From Monterey we receive an interesting account of a method of organization long in use there, and apparently well suited to an extended country parish. The system has been in operation since 1855, and has worked well. It is given in the Appendix. Several churches report "no afternoon service," its place being taken by the Sunday-school, with preaching in the evening. In some cases, also, afternoon meetings are held in out-districts.

Review. On the whole, the churches of this Conference may be said to be holding their own, with some gains. But it will take long to Christianize the masses of the people here, with a progress no more rapid than these reports show. Moreover, the hold which the feebler churches have upon their respective communities is weak and uncertain. We have no right to be satisfied with the present rate of advance. Some way must be devised for reinforcing the weaker portions of our line of battle, or it will suffer serious check, if not defeat. A whole town ought not to be left without the regular ministrations of the gospel; nor should any populations be neglected because they are indifferent and unwilling to pay for preaching. Such indifference is but another reason for taking special pains to send the gospel to them. The absence of a demand is an imperious necessity for a supply.

BROOKFIELD ASSOCIATIONAL CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 21; pastors, 15; stated preachers, 2; churches vacant, 4; church aided, 1.

Revivals. Ten of the churches have enjoyed, and some of them in very remarkable manner, the special and reviving influences of God's spirit. The churches in Barre, Brimfield, Charlton, the two churches in North Brookfield, the churches in Oakham and Spencer, the two churches in Ware, and the church in Warren, are all able to report unusual interest and activity, and a large number of hopeful conversions among the impenitent. The drooping graces of Christians have been revived; hundreds among the impenitent have been born again.

Church Work. Renewed interest is felt in all church work, and the gospel is more faithfully, plainly, and pointedly preached. Christian activity has been in wonderful degree increased, and those who are without have been reached by having the gospel carried to them. District meetings and Sunday-schools have been established, supported, and blessed. A healthy state of feeling and a commendable degree of action pervades the churches with reference to the subject of Temperance. One new house of worship is in course of erection. A parsonage has been in one instance provided. Some of the churches have been repaired and beautified. There is a willingness to assume and discharge increasing liabilities in the maintenance of public worship, and many of the churches report larger contributions to the various objects of benevolence. On the whole, we review the year with grateful hearts. We thank God and take courage.

ESSEX NORTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 23; pastors, 16; stated preachers, 4; churches vacant, 3; churches aided, 2.

Revivals. The First church in Ipswich reports considerable interest in connection with the Week of Prayer. Meetings were held nearly every night for a month, were largely attended and full of life. Many Christians were revived, at every meeting persons rose for prayer, and some 15 hopeful conversions occurred. At West Haverhill, also, a revival began with the Week of Prayer. As a result, there has been a net gain of 27 members, — mostly young persons, and all but two from the Sunday-school. "There is, in general, a delightful manifestation of kindly feeling, a deepening spirituality, and a growing disposition to do good. The benevolent contributions have increased." "Prayer-meetings among the older brethren, the young men, the ladies and the young ladies, have been numerous and full. No new agencies have been employed. The signs of good are multiplying."

Church Work. The First church in Bradford reports the work in its out-station as very promising. The Sabbath-school numbers 140, with an average of 100, and is well organized, with a good room, an organ and library. Neighborhood meetings are well attended, and are carried on by members of the church in rotation, the Standing committee making the appointments.—A more particular account of the methods adopted by this church may be found in the Appendix.—The Centre church in Haverhill has printed an "Annual Report" of eight pages, covering the past year, and treating of the following topics: Additions, Dismissions, Deaths, Election of Deacons, Church Manual, Expenses and Contributions, The Young People's Society, The Social Life of the Church and Congregation, Church Attendance, The Sunday-school, The Bible Class, The Weekly Meeting, and the General Condition of the Church. The names of church officers and committees are given, and also those added, removed, deceased, and such as were constituted Life Members of Benevolent Societies. This report presents an encouraging view of the condition of this church. The church in West Amesbury, also, is evidently managing its affairs with a watchful energy and skill. The church in Rowley shows unmistakable signs of strength renewed. Other churches in this Conference which have not taken pains to furnish narratives for the year are known to be in excellent condition.

ESSEX SOUTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 31; pastors, 24; stated preachers, 5; churches vacant, 3; churches aided, 3.

Church Work. The church in Gloucester reports an increasing congregation, well attended prayer-meetings, and a prosperous Sunday-school. A Sabbath-school and prayer-meeting are sustained in an out-district by the young men. Committees for visiting strangers and the sick are appointed. Intemperance is the great evil. — The Central church, Lynn, has received 11 members; has added 25 families to its congregation; distributes 100 copies of "Good Words"; and sustains the Fellowship meeting.—The North church, Lynn, has gained 13 members; the congregation has largely increased; the debt of $8,800 has been paid. Special preaching services for the children are held. When a fifth Sunday evening occurs in any month, it is devoted to a Temperance meeting. During the winter a Praise meeting occurs, ordinarily, once a month. A Sewing and Singing school, for the children, occurs once a week. The congregation unite in the Lord's prayer in the morning service of the Sabbath. An improved freedom has been gained in the prayer-meetings by a suitable arrangement of the seats. The Fellowship meetings are partly devotional, partly social, and sometimes are devoted to the discussion of church work. Church work is carefully systematized through the employment of enlistment cards, and otherwise; and pains are taken to enlist new communicants. Every month 330 copies of "Good Words" are distributed throughout a district which the church undertakes to cover, as well as it can, with systematic Christian oversight and labor.—The Chestnut Street church, Lynn, is making special effort to enlist every member of the congregation in some form of Christian activity. Enlistment circulars are used. The congregation and Sunday-school steadily grow.—“The united efforts of the churches in Lynn, of all denominations, secured a triumphant vote against the sale of malt liquors. The good effects are seen everywhere.”—The church in Swampscott has enjoyed considerable religious interest. Here, also, a wiser arrangement of seats has added to the freedom of the prayer-meetings.—From Wenham and Topsfield favorable reports are received. In other churches, not reporting in detail the present year, faithful and wise labors have met with encouraging success.

Review. The Committee of the Conference express the opinion that more “systematic efforts to reach neglecters is necessary. Large numbers still remain outside of all direct church influence. Many are unobserved, and hence uncared for. Might not something be accomplished by engaging individuals in different sections of the parish to look up these persons, and report their names to the pastor?”

Secondly. “There is a demand for united counsel and work on the part of the churches. The success of the Temperance movement shows the advantage of this union. Allied to the Temperance cause is that of the Sabbath, which seems now to call for special attention.”

FRANKLIN CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 25; pastors, 11; stated preachers, 8; churches vacant, 6; churches aided, 7.

Owing to the sudden death of Rev. CHARLES LORD, the chairman of the Committee in this Conference, no regular report has been received. The following general statement is taken from a brief narrative furnished by the delegates to the General Association.

Narrative. Seldom if ever before have so many pastoral ties been sundered in a single year as in the year just ended. Rev. Charles Lord, of Buckland, and Rev. P. K. Clark, of Charlemont, have been taken by death; the Second church in Greenfield, and the church in Conway, have dismissed their pastors; while the church in Orange, and the First church in Greenfield, have received pastors.

Orange and Sunderland have remodeled and dedicated their sanctuaries, and have now beautiful houses of worship.—The enterprise at Miller's Falls has resulted in the formation of a Congregational church. It starts with about 40 members, is in a young and growing community, and has a good prospect of success. In the churches generally there has been an average measure of prosperity. Many of them are a little flock among the hills, struggling against apparent destiny, but struggling nobly. Some of our churches have manifested, the past winter, unusual activity.—The Second church in Greenfield, and the church in South Deerfield, held daily prayer-meetings for many weeks after the Week of Prayer. In others since that time the meetings have been unusually frequent. In some cases there has been a little awakening, and in Sunderland a powerful revival. This church reports some 80 conversions, and about half of that number have already made open profession of their faith. In general we believe that the cause of Christ is gaining, and that amid many discouragements we have no reason to be disheartened.

HAMPDEN CONFERENCE.

This Conference publishes an "Annual Report" of its churches and its own doings. The Report for 1871 makes an interesting pamphlet of 32 pages, containing, besides the usual details, a Historical Sketch of the Conference, and the "Benevolent Association" which preceded it.

One new church, the "Park Street church, West Springfield," has been organized during the year. The church in Montgomery, having been reduced to nine members, two males and seven females, its field has been left in charge of the Methodists, who are more numerous.—The churches have increased their contributions nearly $5,000 over those of last year, nearly $14,000 over those of the year before, and about $20,000 over those of 1868.

Revivals. Seven churches report revivals. At Chester Depot the additions were chiefly "a gathering in of fruit which had long been ripening." The First church, Holyoke, reports an addition of 34 persons at one communion, most of them persons in middle life.—In Ludlow, also, the church has been "greatly blessed."—The First church, Palmer, recounts "a cheering work of grace" and a "very happy change in the moral aspects of the community."—The South church, Springfield, held an extra communion season in April, for the reception of new members, when 21 persons, among whom were 13 young men, made a public confession of their faith in Christ.—At Feeding Hills, also, the church enjoyed the quickening influences of the Spirit.—At Blandford 14 were received, and five family altars "were added to the spiritual power of the church."

Church Activity and Improvement. In Chicopee Falls the Second church has paid off a debt of $4,580, has joined with others in organizing a "Temperance Union," and established a "Sunday afternoon prayer-meeting in a destitute neighborhood." The churches at East Granville, East Longmeadow, Mitineaque, the Second church in Palmer, and the First church in Holyoke, have repaired their houses of worship. The chapel at Longmeadow has been thoroughly renovated.—The First church in Chicopee has thoroughly canvassed its field, and reports that "within the area of the parish there is not another family whom we have any reasonable hope of drawing in."—In Longmeadow, of the 137 families, 30 are Irish or French, and 15 of the remainder are neglecters. Young People's meetings, Praise meetings, "Household meetings," and Bible services are well sustained. The Bible service comes monthly, in connection with the Sabbath-school concert, in place of the regular afternoon service, and is a "very efficient and delightful help and stimulus to the study of the Word, and an important aid to the preaching of it from the pulpit."—In Monson, a thorough Christian visitation of the town has been successfully carried through, by "the younger members of the church," "many of whom testify to the benefit they have themselves received." Bibles, Testaments and other books were sold or given away. Half a dozen families were found without any part of the Scriptures. Meetings have been held in school-houses at a distance from the Centre. Two female prayer-meetings are a source of strength and encouragement. — The "Bible service" of the First church, Springfield, has been heartily sustained, and its Home prayer-meeting "is always a refreshing occasion." A "Young People's Society" has been formed, for "active service and taking care of strangers."—The mission work of the South church, Springfield, is "eminently prosperous." Its "Hope Chapel" is more than full, having a Sunday-school of more than 200 scholars, with regular preaching and a prayer-meeting. A Sunday-school, with other religious services, is also sustained in part by this church on Long Hill. — The "only regular out-district work" of the Second church, Westfield, has been continued. The "Fellowship Meeting" holds a secure place in the affections of the church; a variety of religious newspapers have been largely distributed; and a new parsonage has been completed.

From most of the other churches hopeful accounts are received. No other Conference in the State shows a better history or more hopeful prospects. In no other have such earnest measures been taken for the promotion of fellowship. A spirit of hope and enterprise characterizes its meetings and its policy.

HAMPSHIRE CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 17; pastors, 12; stated preachers, 2; churches vacant, 3; church aided, 1; church members, 3446.

This Conference occupies the portion of Hampshire county lying west of the Connecticut. About one half of its churches are found in agricultural, and half in manufacturing communities. Nearly all of the former suffer from emigration. In many instances the places of those going away are left vacant; but more frequently they are taken by persons but little interested in religious things. In some of these towns the population is not diminishing; but the numbers being kept up by an increase of the foreign element, the number of those who attend our Protestant churches is decreasing. In the manufacturing towns, on the other hand, the population is generally increasing, and the churches are gaining in strength. Three churches — in Williamsburg, Huntington, and Chesterfield — are without either pastor or stated preachers. These are the only vacancies.

Revivals. During the fall and winter of 1870-71, the churches in Flor-ence, Huntington Village, Williamsburg, Haydenville, and Worthington, were blessed with revivals of considerable power, and large additions have been made to their membership. Quite recently, the church in Westhampton also has been visited with a gentle refreshing from the Spirit. On the whole, the churches may be regarded as in a very prosperous condition.

Temperance. In many of the towns there has been very decided progress in the cause of Temperance, — a result due largely to the efforts of the ministers and churches. The great majority of church members, however, exhibit too little interest in the matter.

So far as can be ascertained, the out-districts are well cared for.

Home Evangelization. The Conference, which has recently been resuscitated, is sustained with interest, and seems to be doing good. At its last meeting a Committee was appointed, to report at the next meeting some plan for promoting religious interest among the churches and developing their efficiency; and to take such other steps as will advance the work of evangelization within the limits of the Conference. This action had special reference to the wants of the feebler churches and those which have not for a long time been blessed with a revival. It is hoped that in all these places the way may be so prepared that God can, consistently with the principles on which he acts, bestow the blessings of his grace.

HAMPSHIRE EAST CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 20; pastors, 17; stated preacher, 1; churches vacant, 3; churches aided, 2; holding no religious services, 1; number of church members, 3373.

Communities. The population of most of the towns is chiefly rural; and yet in a few of them there are manufacturing and commercial interests of considerable magnitude, giving employment in some instances to large numbers of foreigners of various nationalities. With few exceptions, our communities require no extraordinary modes of church work, nor are there any peculiar difficulties in the way of reaching them.

Strength of Churches. Six or seven of the churches may be accounted large and strong. About the same number may be designated as of medium size and strength, while the remaining six or seven may be regarded as small and more or less feeble. A few of them, though not many, have suffered considerably from emigration.

The Pastorate. The number of pastors is the same as reported last year, and there is a good degree of permanency in this relation, its average length being 10 years. One pastor has been in his place 12 years; another, 14; another, 18; another, 24; another, 29; and another, 31; while others range from 4 to 8 years. The effects of this permanency are most happy.

Salaries. The salaries are none of them large, for the churches which pay them. Several of them are much too small; but most of the pastors contrive to live upon what they receive, not many, if any, being able to lay aside anything for the future.

Services. Some of the churches report a decided increase in attendance, and in the value and success of the religious meetings. Prayer-meetings are improving in spirit and in modes of conduct. They are becoming less formal and more free, and are participated in by a larger proportion of the members of the churches.

Fellowship. Some of the churches report the inauguration of special efforts for the cultivation of Christian fellowship within the church, and for the manifestation of greater Christian interest towards those without. In one instance, the "Fellowship meeting" takes the place of the usual prayer-meeting of the week which follows the communion; and a monthly tea-party for the whole congregation is an established feature of the methods adopted for mutual interest and helpfulness. Another church is attempting to lift the tone of ordinary "social circles," by giving prominence to music and literary readings.

Activity. There is a lamentable want of activity in many of our churches, yet there is an increase of it, and a good degree of it in some of them. One church speaks of an efficient working force of young men who hold meetings in remote parts of the town.

Sunday-schools. Sabbath-schools are, on the whole, more flourishing and successful than heretofore. Special efforts are put forth in some places to increase their efficiency. In one place, the pastor preaches a short, informal sermon to the school, at the concert, on the afternoon of the second Sabbath of the month.

Revivals. There was a revival of considerable interest and power in Belchertown, which brought 37 persons into the church. — In South Hadley Falls, also, there was a quiet work early in the year, as the result of which 13 persons came into the church by profession. But the largest work was wrought at Enfield. The pastor's words concerning it are: "The event of the year with us has been a revival of remarkable power and extent. This began, to outward view, toward the close of January, and continued with increasing interest for nearly three months. About the middle of March Rev. J. T. Avery began to labor with us, and his efforts were specially blessed. As one result of this gracious work, the church has been raised to a somewhat higher plane of religious living and activity. As another, 51 persons, many of them heads of families, have connected themselves with us on profession of their faith, besides four who have been received from other churches."

Out-Districts. Meetings have been held and Sabbath-schools sustained in "out-districts" in several of the towns, but the churches generally are not half awake to the importance of this work.

MENDON CONFERENCE.

MIDDLESEX SOUTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 18; pastors, 12; without pastors, 6; churches aided, 3.

The churches without pastors are none of them very strong in numbers or wealth. They find it difficult to raise the sum of money necessary for a minister's support. There is considerable disparity in the salaries paid by the stronger and the weaker churches. These evils are always increased by the multiplication of sects; and yet it is here, as elsewhere throughout the State, that such weakness operates as a temptation to the formation of new churches. The only way of meeting such difficulties is found in an increase of Christian devotion and activity.

In general, there was more religious interest among the churches of this Conference last year, than for many years before. In some the interest was of very marked character. All are in an improved condition.

In many towns there is a large element of old Unitarianism. This manifests its influence in many families and individuals who do not attend church anywhere. The question, How is it possible to awaken a new interest in this portion of the community? is one of much difficulty. Pastoral visitation and neighborhood meetings have been useful. Special preaching services, with sermons by some pastor from a neighboring town, have seemed to have a better effect than labors of "Evangelists." Probably if the churches themselves could be roused to some good measure of enthusiasm for their whole work, so as to engage earnestly in the endeavor to carry the gospel effectually to every family within their reach, this most difficult problem would approach solution. The truth is, it is time for us all to have done with specifics, and to address ourselves, instead, to the building up of the constitution and the harmonious development of its energies by their natural and continuous exercise. If, by the favor of God, churches should grow warm in work, their general health and vigor would so improve that many ailments would be healed, and burdensome tasks be made lighter.

MIDDLESEX UNION CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 17; pastors, 9; stated preachers, 4; churches vacant, 4; churches aided, 2; pastors elect, 3.

Communities and Churches. In twelve of the towns of this Conference the pursuits are chiefly agricultural, and the people are mostly native Americans of the better class. From the towns wholly without manufacturing interests, the young men very generally emigrate. Though but two of the churches — in Ayer and Boxborough — receive missionary aid, four others — Dunstable, Littleton, Lunenburg, and Shirley — are small and poor; but services are regularly maintained by very generous efforts and gifts of their members. During last year the Rollstone church, Fitchburg, paid a part of its debt; those of Ashby and Harvard made interior improvements; that in Acton refurbished its house, at an expense of about $500; the Calvinistic church, Fitchburg, remodeled its house, at a cost of $12,000; and that in Lunenburg spent $5,300 for the same purpose and for a parsonage; Groton, Acton, Littleton, Westford, and Pepperell, have also secured parsonages; and Townsend has entered upon measures for the same object. With the help of the other churches, the church in Boxborough has paid off a debt which for a long time had been a serious incumbrance.

Membership. There has been a net gain, on the whole, of about 50 members.

Revivals have been enjoyed in Lunenburg, with an addition of 23 persons to the church; in Townsend, with an addition of 24; in Pepperell, with an addition of 63; and in Groton, with possibly still larger gains. Here the work commenced in an out-district called The Community, spreading thence to other neighborhoods and to the Centre. It was carried on by the pastor and the church members, and has resulted in from 80 to 100 hopeful conversions; in about 60 cases, of persons in the Congregational parish. Fifty have already joined the church, and others are expected.

Special Meetings. Fellowship meetings have been held with more or less constancy in Pepperell and Townsend. Out-district meetings have been continued in Ashby, Dunstable, Fitchburg, Groton, Harvard, Lancaster, Leominster, Lunenburg, Pepperell, and Townsend, and in several cases have resulted in reaching neglecters and in marked conversions. During the summer months, out-of-door meetings were held in Leominster and Pepperell with great success, a large number attending who belong to the class that cannot ordinarily be induced to enter even a school-house to hear the gospel.

Benevolence. There has been an evident increase in the spirit of benevolence, the reported contributions being about $3000 in advance of last year. The Conference has been holding meetings during the winter every three weeks, in behalf of Home Missionary enterprises, which have greatly deepened the interest in all departments of the work.

Temperance. In the last part of the year the law was enforced better than formerly, and closed up quite a number of liquor establishments. It is generally felt that the "beer clause" is a very weak point, offering an opportunity which many are ready to improve, to do a sad work, with good prospect of evading punishment.

Pastorates. It is very difficult to secure pastors that are acceptable to the churches, or to find pastors who will accept the churches; and very difficult to keep them long, when found. This is especially true of the weaker churches. We have but one pastorate of five years' standing! Eight of the seventeen churches have stated supplies, or no regular ministers. The frequency of change is chargeable to both pastors and people. Young ministers find it difficult to meet all the demands made upon them, and after two or three years' service feel so completely exhausted that they think a change to be a necessity. Some leave when very slight difficulties arise, rather than remain and attempt to remove them. A few find the salary so small that a larger one is an irresistible temptation. Then the people sometimes prefer a "smart" man to a devoted man; sometimes fail to cooperate with the pastor, and drive him, by the discouragement thus induced, to another field. It must be confessed, also, that a very general feeling prevails in many communities that short pastorates are preferable to very long ones.

Destitute Fields. We have here four places that very much need the stated means of grace, — North Leominster, South Acton, Shirley Centre, and Stowe. Some of these will undoubtedly be occupied by other denominations before long, if not by our own. Our Home Missionary Society is as much needed in these places as in many occupied at the West.

General Remarks. Universalism and Unitarianism prevail largely in the region covered by this Conference, though there are fewer churches by five, of these denominations, than there were twenty-five years ago; and in no town is their relative strength so great as then. Among the recent converts are found a husband and wife, the former of whom had been profane and a scoffer at religion; and another, very intemperate, who had not attended a religious meeting for eight years. The churches might undoubtedly diminish somewhat the number of Neglecters by the adoption of the system of "free seats," by earnest efforts to persuade attendance, and by a warm welcome to those who may begin to come. It is probable, however, that the great majority can be reached only by the most prayerful, judicious and persistent labors.

NORFOLK CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 30; pastors, 18; stated preachers, 6; churches vacant, 6; churches aided, 2.

The Communities. Most or all of these towns are in a prosperous condition, growing in population and in material resources. Nearly all are engaged in manufactures. A disposition is shown to gather into the centres of population and to abandon the outlying districts; and in the populous villages too many of the people, instead of seeking permanent homes, are changeable, going from place to place in search of better openings for business or work. In consequence of these frequent removals, many lose their place in the sanctuary and their interest in religious things, fall under the influence of scepticism, or, in the pursuit of pleasure, become indifferent.

The gathering of so many young men and women in these manufacturing establishments exposes them to great moral dangers, and oftentimes the teachings of the one day of the week that is consecrated to religious instruction are more than counteracted by those of the shop, given six days in succession. The ease with which the young people of these towns can reach the metropolis, by the frequent day and night trains, while it may be of some advantage, is an exposure to the temptations of the city. The city allurements are oftentimes more dangerous to the youth of these towns and villages, than to those who live in the city, who are immediately surrounded by the safeguards of home.

The churches are mostly in a condition of external prosperity. They are nearly all self-supporting. The church at Beechwood receives missionary aid; the First and Second churches in Milton, though maintaining separate worship, are united in one pastor; and the Second church of Randolph (now Holbrook) has not maintained public worship for several years. It appears from the returns that considerable attention has been paid to out-districts, and much labor expended to reach other neighborhoods remote from churches. The church in Easton has sustained prayer-meetings in four or five different places, and a Sabbath-school has been kept in one district for six months. Some of the prayer-meetings have been in behalf of Temperance. A young man and a young woman have been hopefully converted in connection with the district meetings. The First church in Randolph has organized one Sabbath-school and aided another, in two out-districts; and in a third a room has been fitted up where prayer-meetings and preaching services are frequently held. Such a room, it is found, draws together many who would not assemble at a private house, and some families are reached, not before brought under the direct influence of the truth. — In still another district a preaching service is kept up, in cooperation with other churches, every Sabbath evening, and a prayer-meeting each Saturday evening. — In Sharon, meetings in two districts have been maintained with a good degree of interest, and in one a Sabbath-school of forty members has been held weekly. — In Bridgewater, a Sabbath-school of from 50 to 80 members has been sustained, and meetings in connection with it. — In Stoughton, a meeting has been held on Sabbath evenings in the west part of the town, at which the pastor has been present every fortnight, the meeting being conducted on the alternate Sabbaths by the brethren. — The Second church in South Weymouth has held two prayer-meetings a week in different parts of the parish. — In Braintree meetings have been held most of the year in one or two parts of the town where the people do not get out much to the regular church service. — Members of the Sabbath-school of Campello have continued with much interest through the summer months a Sabbath-school started by them a year or two ago, about four miles distant in a neighboring town.

Bible Service. In Stoughton, a Bible service has been held in the afternoon, in place of the usual sermon. The consequence has been a gain in attendance over that of the Sunday-school of the year previous. The change in the character of the services seems to have steadily grown in favor with the people, though some of them — of the older ones especially — cling tenaciously to the old method, of two sermons with the Sunday-school between. — In Braintree, the Bible service was adopted for the afternoon, — the pastor teaching a Bible class, and then talking about the lesson to the whole congregation about fifteen minutes. The plan was very successful, so far as concerns the increase of numbers and the degree of interest in the service. Some of the older members of the congregation did not fall in with the plan readily, and on their account the experiment was not continued. Accordingly, during a part of the year the Sabbath-school lesson was made the topic of the afternoon sermon, following the session of the school, service being somewhat abbreviated. This plan has seemed to have many of the advantages of the Bible session, without being open to the objections which have been urged against that service.

Fellowship Meetings have been held by the Second church in South Weymouth, on the Monday evenings following the communion, and much interest has been manifested in them. They have been held also in Campello, on Wednesday evening following the communion, and have been pleasant and profitable to those who have attended them; likewise in Brain-tree, several times in the year, and attended by considerable numbers.

Praise Meetings have been held at Cohasset once a month, the congregation joining in the singing more freely than before. Two or three Praise meetings have been held at Campello, making good impressions, and occasionally in Randolph on Sabbath evenings.

Large audiences of six or seven hundred persons have gathered at these meetings. Many who have no church-going habits, and some who have not been seen in a church for years, are glad to meet in this service of song. The opportunity is improved to make as earnest appeals as possible in behalf of the truths of the gospel and men's need of a Saviour. It is proposed to continue this effort for reaching the masses. One fact of interest in connection with these meetings is, that though they are so entirely different from anything in the past, no word of objection has been heard against them from any source.

Temperance. This subject has continued to receive much attention, and in many places more vigorous efforts have been put forth to promote the cause. From the First church, Randolph, the report is: There has been a strong movement. A very thorough-going pledge, to aid in suppressing the sale of liquor, has been signed by scores of the American-born citizens of nearly every class; and for a time no shops were open upon the streets. But those engaged in the traffic have many dodges and modes of evading the law, and it is difficult to follow all their turns. We believe the matter will be pushed forward earnestly, and that we shall see a better state of things.—In Cohasset, Temperance principles have been advocated frequently in lectures. The old law is wanted.—In Stoughton the cause has been making progress during the past year. An open organization has been established, and meetings held weekly in the vestries of the different churches. Lectures have been given and discussions held, and a greater interest developed than has been manifested for years. Vigorous measures have been taken to enforce the law, and several of the illegal rum-sellers have been kept, from twenty to sixty days, at the public expense. The Temperance pledge has been introduced into the Sabbath-school, and more than one hundred and twenty have signed it. Some intemperate men have been reclaimed, and the cause seems in hopeful condition.—In Campello, new efforts have been made and new interest developed. Several intemperate persons have been hopefully reclaimed, and are now active promoters of the movement.—In Sharon, new interest has been awakened by the formation of a Union Society of all the friends of Temperance, holding monthly meetings.—In Bridgewater, the Roman Priest is an earnest advocate of Temperance, and the prohibitory law does good.

Revivals. The church in Cohasset has gained 12 by profession, and there has been decided progress spiritually. — In Stoughton, several young persons have become interested, and some are indulging hope. One young man, a member of Amherst College, has recently become a Christian, his conversion being connected with the services of the annual day of prayer for colleges. He was remembered specially, and it is believed that the regenerating influence of the Spirit was given in answer to fervent supplication. — Easton reports some unusual spiritual interest in the church, and two or three hopeful conversions. — The First church, Braintree, reports: "It is hoped that nearly 50 persons have become Christians during the year, — religious conversation the chief instrumentality relied upon, with some increase in the number of religious meetings, — the preaching in one line, for revival purposes. A private meeting of the brethren has been held during a considerable part of the year, in which prayer has been made for particular individuals, and conversation has been held relative to the ways of reaching them. This meeting has been very useful. A prayer-meeting of young lads, from nine to fourteen years of age, numbering from seven to twelve, has been held during the greater part of the year. Some adult usually meets with them, and pains are taken to give them systematic instruction. They determine for themselves the time and place of their meetings. The young misses also have a similar meeting. Some of them — from eleven to thirteen years of age — have united with the churches. Systematic attempts have been made to interest the very young people in missions, and in studying for the ministry." — With the church at South Weymouth, the year was one of both temporal and spiritual blessing. Twenty-three persons were added on profession of their faith. Prayer-meetings were sustained throughout the year on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday evenings. No special means were used in connection with the revival, save that certain meetings were held for those particularly interested in religion, and a course of lectures on Christian Doctrine was given by the pastor. Fellowship meetings were held after the communion, and much interest was manifested in them.

OLD COLONY CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 14; pastors, 10; stated preacher, 0; churches vacant, 4; churches aided, 2.

Communities. The larger communities within the bounds of this Conference have suffered greatly from the decay of the whaling and the shipbuilding interests. Some of the remainder are engaged in manufactures, mostly of iron and of cotton, which bring an increase of wealth, but add largely also to the floating and neglecting classes. The churches in the purely rural communities are nearly all weak. One of these churches, however, the old First church, of New Bedford, is earnestly striving after "a new order of things." "A fresh interest has been started in the Sabbath morning service for responsive Bible reading and Topical reading. The Praise meeting has been introduced; also occasional lectures to the young, — both with good effect. It is intended, likewise, to have ‘Promise’ and ‘Purpose’ meetings.” “A social gathering is held monthly, in the vestry, for everybody to attend.”

Out-Districts. Within a few years renewed attention has been given by churches of this Conference to their out-districts. The First church, Middleborough, has two Branch Sunday-schools, in one of which the Central church assists. — In Rochester, the pastor has been preaching and holding prayer-meetings out upon the “borders,” in private houses and school-houses. “Hopes long ago cherished but well nigh abandoned have been revived; aged and infirm Christians have again heard the voice of the living preacher; and people, old and young, ordinarily strangers to the Sanctuary, have come out to hear the gospel.” But “there is still great need of Christian work” in these same borders. — In Fairhaven, also, the large farming districts of the eastern part of the town are reported as in hopeful condition, with two weekly prayer-meetings and Sunday-schools well attended.

Fellowship. A large proportion of the churches are also endeavoring, by means of the Fellowship meeting, Sociables, and familiar Neighborhood prayer-meetings, to promote Christian acquaintance and affection.

Sunday-schools. A growing interest is manifest in this important department of church work. In Fairhaven and South Dartmouth the entire Sabbath forenoon is given up to it, the pastor of the latter church occupying the post of superintendent, and questioning the whole school upon Bible subjects almost every Lord’s day. The Pacific church, in New Bedford, devotes the afternoon to the school. Other churches make encouraging reports.

Temperance and Morals. From Rochester, we hear: “The state of morals is far above what it is in most places. Very little intemperance; the young people steady, intelligent, industrious, and far from anything like rowdyism.”—From Mattapoisett, — “the general moral condition is good. No liquor sold in the place. An energetic Temperance organization.”—From another town, of several thousand inhabitants, — “a large majority are neglecters. Notwithstanding there are Temperance organizations, with earnest workers in the cause, much liquor is sold. A stolid indifference to religion seems to have settled down upon many households.” But here the state of things is improving. Audiences are increasing, contributions enlarging, and the past ten years show marked progress. — South Dartmouth reports: “No place where liquor is sold. A quiet moral village.”—Of still another place, we read: “Many children in this town are under little or no restraint from their parents or others. The Sabbath is fearfully desecrated in this region. It is hard to say whether, on the whole, the kingdom of Christ has gained during the last year.” (It may here be remarked, that neither Puritanism in general, nor any Congregational church in particular, is responsible for this state of things.) But here also there are signs of promise. A wise and energetic administration of the church is giving the people more definite and more commanding views of truth, is promoting habits of friendly intercourse, is enlisting parents and other adults in the Sunday-school, and is beginning to get hold of young men, and to engage Christians in efforts in behalf of the neglecting and neglected.

Free Seats. The free-seat system went into operation in the Central church, Middleborough, April 1st, 1872.

Organized for Work. The Trinitarian church, New Bedford, has been deprived of its beloved pastor, whose health compelled him to go away; but it is in a better condition than most, to bear the temporary lack of pastoral labors. "There are many workers among its members, arranged and combined in systematic manner. The parish is divided into twenty-two districts. These are apportioned under the special charge of forty persons, who have one hundred copies of Good Words for distribution, and who visit the sick and the afflicted and search out neglecters. The church appears to be really alive to those within its parish bounds."

General Remarks. It is believed that there is a disposition among the churches of this Conference to fill their parishes, in similar manner, with thorough-going Christian labors, and that they are striving to work up to a higher standard of effective discipline. At the last Conference of Churches the following resolutions were adopted :

In view of the urgent need of extra Evangelical labors in many of our churches from time to time,

Resolved, That this Conference earnestly recommend to the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society to select and commission some two or three men, "full of faith and of the Holy Ghost," to labor as helpers in such churches as may call for them, special attention being given to our feebler churches.

And we would suggest that one of these helpers be selected from our pastors, the others being licensed lay preachers; and that in case they should fail to receive in full the stipulated salary from the free-will offerings of the grateful love of those with whom they labor, the deficiency be made up from the Treasury of the Home Missionary Society, these laborers being regarded as home missionaries at large.

Resolved, That as the next best thing, till some such arrangement be made, we, the pastors of this Conference, do pledge ourselves to aid one another in extra labors as circumstances may require.

PILGRIM CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 15; pastors, 4; stated preachers, 9; churches vacant, 2; churches aided, 3.

Population. During the ten years from 1860 to 1870 the population of the twelve towns covered by the Pilgrim Conference declined. Of these 12 towns only three increased in population, Plymouth, Scituate, and Hanover. Duxbury diminished in numbers 247, — almost 10 percent; Marshfield lost 211 inhabitants, — 11 percent; and Plympton, though its loss has been only 187, being a smaller town, has suffered most of all, — 19 percent. Taking the entire territory into view, the loss has been nearly 3½ percent.

This is a serious aspect of affairs, in its bearing upon the standing and prospects of the churches. If under these circumstances we hold our own, much more, make progress, there is reason for encouragement. When we take into view the fact that families in this generation are small; that it is the young who emigrate; that the existing style of civilization and the pressure of business tend to drain the rural districts, and to build up cities and villages, we are impressed with the feeling that many of our towns are doomed to decay. It is true that railroad facilities are increasing; but the effect remains to be seen. The probable result will be the building up of some of the business centres, the retaining of a portion of the population at home, and the increase of residents and visitors at the summer watering places. While thus the rural districts are declining, the shore towns are passing through a process of transition, in various ways affecting the spiritual progress of the churches.

The town of Kingston has diminished in population within ten years, notwithstanding the immigration of two or three hundred foreigners, mostly Romanists. The congregation, however, shows a relative gain, though not large. Its pecuniary ability has increased very much. The church is not quite so large as it was twenty-five years ago. Several hopeful conversions last year were encouraging. The present pastor, Rev. Joseph Peckham, has occupied his post—a period of three years excepted—for more than twenty-nine years, longer than any other in the Conference.

The Church of the Pilgrimage, in Plymouth, reports progress. The general activity of the church has increased. A Fellowship meeting is held once a month. "The Departmental method of church work was adopted at the beginning of 1872. A weekly prayer-meeting and a Branch Sunday-school are maintained upon the northern border of the town. Praise meetings have been held on Sunday evenings, for the purpose of attracting the indifferent; and outwardly, at least, with encouraging success. The year is believed to have brought 'essential and abiding gain to the Redeemer's Kingdom.'"

The church in Plympton holds occasional "Fraternal meetings." The pastor is in the habit of making the circuit of the school districts, holding social meetings in each. In Scituate, Praise meetings have been attended with an increase of interest.

Review. One church has neither received nor lost a member. In four, the removals have equalled the receptions; while in eight churches they have been greater. In all, the number added on profession is 15; by letter, 18,—making 33. The number removed by death is 27; by dismission, 18; by excommunication, 8,—making 53, a loss on the whole of 20.

When we examine further into the statistics of the churches, we find their aggregate membership 1265, of whom 895 are females, and but 370 males. Leaving out the three churches which contain over 100 members each, the average membership of the remaining twelve is but 66—18 males and 45 females.

The average salary paid by thirteen churches reporting, is $828.45. But the average salary paid by ten of these churches is only $705.

These facts go far toward explaining the religious condition of the twelve towns within this Conference. Now that railroads are favoring a revival of business, it would seem that the churches were called upon to labor and pray for a spiritual revival, which should recruit their thinned ranks and bring a large reinforcement of courage and energy.

SUFFOLK NORTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 20; pastors, 14; stated preacher, 1; churches vacant, 5; churches aided, 2.

From the interesting reports furnished by churches of this Conference, we make the following extracts.

Salem and Mariners' church, Boston. The Boston Seamen's Friend Society sustains the relation of an ecclesiastical society to this church, and pays the current expenses. Its work is by no means confined to sailors, but extends over the whole of the "North End" of Boston. It is conducted with a good deal of vigor. In addition to the usual Sabbath services, prayer-meetings are held at 9.30 on Sunday mornings, and at 6.15 in the afternoon. The pastor meets the children who wish to see him, on Mondays at 6 o'clock P. M., when a Young People's meeting is held, open to all. On Tuesday evenings there is a meeting at the Sailors' Home; on Wednesday afternoons, a Children's meeting at 2 o'clock, and a Mother's meeting at 3 o'clock; on Thursday evenings, a prayer-meeting at some private house, and a Scandinavian prayer-meeting in the vestry. At the latter, the attendance often numbers sixty persons. Several conversions have occurred. A Bible class, composed of Scandinavians, meets in the church every Sabbath. These frequent prayer-meetings are all so conducted as to be really meetings of church fellowship. There are cordial greetings and handshakings, with a genuine home feeling. They are no burden, but a delight, — an occasion of social and sacred repose to those wearied by trouble or toil. Christian women bear their part in the exercises, and are among the most efficient helpers.

"We go into the streets," says the pastor, "invite people to come in, and at the end of our meetings converse with them. It is a common thing to have brief seasons of prayer with individuals before they leave the house. But there is a vast demand for the most skilful and self-sacrificing labor in this part of the city. More than one hundred houses of ill fame and four hundred grog-shops, are continually spreading their baleful influences abroad. This earnest church stands, as it were, hard by the gate of hell. It keeps employed a noble band of workers." The pastor testifies of the church, that "it is the best working force he has ever known; by the grace of God, maintaining a persistent, unflagging interest, — its members joyful and happy in each other and in their employment."

Maverick church, East Boston. "This church holds a Sabbath morning prayer-meeting, attended by a goodly number who come together to pray for the blessing of God upon the preaching of the gospel. The Young People's meeting, at 6.30 p. m., is maintained with a good degree of interest. On the first Sabbath evening of each month, a Foreign Missionary meeting is held, at which reports are made by the President of the 'Woman's Board,' and by several of the brethren. The 'Woman's Missionary Society,' auxiliary to the Woman's Board, the 'Zulu Helpers,' and the 'Maverick Rill,' are doing a good work for Foreign Missions. On the third Sabbath evening, the Children's meeting gathers a congregation of from six hundred to a thousand people. On the fourth Sabbath evening comes the Home prayer-meeting. When there is a fifth Sabbath, a Temperance prayer-meeting is held in the evening, preceded by a Temperance sermon in the afternoon. We find most of the poverty and crime in our community closely connected with intemperance; and we have nailed the motto to the masthead, — Total Abstinence, for the individual; and Prohibition, for the State."

"Five Neighborhood meetings are held on Tuesday evenings. Open-Air meetings were carried on successfully during the summer, with an average congregation of over 1100. They will be resumed as soon as the weather permits."

"Every Sabbath morning our young men circulate religious papers among seamen, some of whom are thus brought to the house of God. We are scattering broadcast on the island copies of 'Everybody's Paper,' 'Good Words,' 'Good Cheer,' 'Glad Tidings,' and others, hoping in this way to counteract the influence of the trash that is found in half of the homes visited. In six months there were circulated over 14,000 of these papers, and over 7000 pages of German and Swedish papers and tracts, together with seventy-six Bibles and Testaments."

"An Enlistment Circular has recently been sent to all the members of the church, and over a third of them have already designated departments of Christian work in which they will do something for the Lord. We are thus organizing the church, to gather neglecters into the Sanctuary and Sabbath-school, to relieve the poor and sick, visit new families, &c."

"This church reports as under its care 311 families — 1432 individuals — whose names and places of residence are all entered in a Church Register. During the past year over 100 persons were brought to church. The Sunday-school has a membership of 546, — average attendance 338. There have been 12 infant baptisms. Amount of contributions, $3,370.60."

North Avenue church, Cambridge. "The Sabbath evening service of this church continues one hour. Then a half-hour prayer-meeting is held in the vestry, and those impressed by truth during the day are sure to be there. To promote church fellowship, the pastor has given names of families to the Church Committee, from whom he expects reports of visits. The Young People's Association has maintained a Tuesday evening meeting, and provided teachers for a Mission Sabbath-school. Good success has attended a Young Men's prayer-meeting in bringing out Christian young men, and there have been several conversions."

“A long continued and deep revival, lasting some four months, has been enjoyed. Among the means employed were, a Business Men’s prayer-meeting and preaching for six weeks on Wednesday evening; also, during one week ‘Uncle John Vassar’ visited among the families of the congregation. About 45 persons have been hopefully converted. The general state of religion in the community is very hopeful. There has been great improvement. There are more church-goers than a year ago. The kingdom of Christ has gained much. This church reports a gain of 49 members. Under its care are 215 families, — 190 church-going and 25 doubtful or wholly neglectful. The Sabbath-school has a membership of 256, — average attendance 182 — a gain of 30.”

Pilgrim church, Cambridgeport. The past year has been, with this church, a time of transition, in which its strength and its thought have been to a great extent engaged in the erection of a new meeting-house. There is nothing new in any branch of its work. [It has since been blessed with a powerful revival.]

Stearns chapel, Cambridgeport. “The work at this chapel is progressing favorably. The attendance at the Sunday-school has averaged upwards of 100; at the preaching service, from 75 to 100; and the prayer-meeting, about 20. Half or two thirds of the teachers in the Sunday-school come from the Prospect Street church. Arrangements are now being made to secure a pastor. Another church may be built up here. The Prospect Street church has raised about $1500 in aid of the work.”

Winthrop church, Charlestown. “During the past year the church has paid a debt of $5000; and Mr. Carleton, a member of the church, has contributed $50,000 to Carleton College, Northfield, Minnesota.”

“In addition to the regular services, the young people have held a meeting on Monday evening, and some of the young men have been active in the Young Men’s Christian Association in such work as the distribution of tracts among seamen, meetings on the wharves, and Open-Air meetings in the square. A meeting for social purposes is held on the first Wednesday evening of every month. The Sunday-schools are well attended, the average attendance of the two on a fair day being about 500. In connection with the Branch school, meetings are held on Tuesday evenings in the homes of the people. The church has under its care 1400 persons.”

Evangelical Congregational church, Revere. “This has long been a struggling church. Except when preaching has been suspended, missionary aid has been received every year since 1828. No revival of religion has ever been enjoyed. It is the custom of the present pastor to visit all the families — except the Roman Catholics — within the territorial bounds of the parish. The church reports a gain of one member. Under its care are 52 families, — 26 church-going, and 28 doubtful or wholly neglectful. The Sabbath-school has a membership of 96, and an average attendance of 46.”

Trinitarian church, Waltham. “The year covered by this report has been a marked one in the history of this church. It has entered a new house of worship; between 30 and 40 families have been added to the congregation, and the average attendance has largely increased. Unquestion-ably, there has been an advance in the influence of evangelical religion in the community."

"The Sunday-school has increased somewhat in numbers and interest. The Fellowship meeting is held semi-annually; and it is very fully attended. So far as promoting acquaintance goes, it is a decided success. Its value is very great, and yet it does not meet the deeper need of spiritual acquaintance and fellowship. The Praise meeting has now, for a year, been an established institution here, — held on the evening of the third Sabbath of each month. The church is always crowded; and many who never at other times enter the Sanctuary, are seen at these meetings. There is much evidence that many have been not merely interested, but spiritually profited by these services."

"The church has a system of visitation, but owing to the illness of the pastor, with a variety of other causes, the work was not pushed forward last year as he hopes it will be in the future. — Intemperance prevails in this town to a sad degree, and little is done to stay the evil."

"This church reports a gain of 16 members. Under its care are 202 families, — 183 church-going, and 19 doubtful or habitual neglecters. The number of persons led to attend church or Sunday-school during the year is 36. In addition to $816.76 raised for charities, legacies were left by members of this church to the amount of $10,000."

The foregoing are given only as specimens. Doubtless we should find the record of other churches in this Conference equally encouraging, if given with equal completeness.

SUFFOLK SOUTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 31; pastors, 26; stated preachers, 2; churches vacant, 3; churches aided, 0.

[Very full reports from this Conference have been published in past years, rendering an extended statement less important at the present time. The Secretary of its Home Evangelization Committee was prevented by an extraordinary pressure of business cares from making up the usual annual report.]

TAUNTON CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 20; pastors, 7; stated preachers, 10; churches vacant, 3; churches aided, 4.

Most of the churches in this Conference are rather small; and the rural communities in which they are planted are some of them stationary, and some diminishing. Taunton and Fall River, however, are centres of important manufactures; growing rapidly, but not clearly growing better.

For a part of the year, the church at Assonet, in Freetown, was without stated preaching; and the pastor of the Second church in Berkley, Rev. J. Austin Roberts, is laid aside by ill health. — Seekonk reports itself as without a resident minister; but the house of worship has been repaired, and prayer-meetings have been maintained with interest in the out-districts. — From Lakeville, we hear that the Sunday-school was maintained during the winter of 1871-2, for the first time; that, the population being scattered and containing many neglecters, prayer-meetings have been held and lectures delivered in not less than five out-districts, — in one of which the audience is nearly as large as in the church, while in the smallest it numbers 35. — Rehoboth again reports “many neglecters,” but also prayer-meetings increasingly attended, the Sunday-school flourishing, a Branch school maintained for several years under many difficulties and some opposition. Preaching services are connected with it, and a prayer-meeting. There have been some conversions.

In like manner, from West Attleborough, we learn that every family is reached by the pastor, and that some Christian visitation is done by members of the church. There was a religious awakening in the spring, and a few conversions. A Branch Sunday-school is maintained, and prayer-meetings are held at out-stations. The meeting-house has been repaired.

The general impression produced by the reports from the smaller towns is, that amid many difficulties the churches are manfully struggling, and with many signs of success.

From the larger churches good reports also come. The Second church, of Attleborough, (East,) records a considerable increase in charities; an improvement in the service of song; and the parish districted for visitors; but its pastor was dismissed at the close of the year. — In Taunton, there is “very considerable activity in Home Evangelization”; and a new pastor taking hold vigorously in the largest church; the Winslow church has adopted congregational singing, with great enthusiasm, and finds the interest of its prayer-meetings largely increased by the preannouncement of the portion of Scripture to be read, and by the presentation of questions for answer on the following week. — The new enterprise at Whittenton is very successful; its Sunday-school prosperous and “a great help”; and a house of worship going up. — The East church reports good progress, and the West church is gathering a new congregation in an out-district, — Oakland.

Fall River finds its manufactures exceedingly prosperous, as the world counts prosperity; but whether as much can be said for the city itself, is not so clear. Large numbers of poor foreigners have been imported, to work in the mills. The city is rapidly increasing in population, the foreign-born element greatly predominating. Business would seem to be conducted too exclusively for pecuniary profit, and not sufficiently with a view to the building up of an intelligent Christian community. The churches, however, are doing a good work. Almost every church in town has a Branch Sunday-school, and some have several. One of them reports “piety deepening, with an increase of individual activity and sense of responsibility; cases of quiet conversion; the young people manifesting more interest in religious things; mission work successful.” In the other, the missionary work is vigorously carried on and very successful; a city missionary employed; a new parsonage built; congregational singing adopted and a great success; prayer-meetings well attended; quite a number of hopeful conversions.

WOBURN CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 18; pastors, 13; stated preachers, 2; churches vacant, 2; churches aided, 4.

Revivals. There has been unusual religious interest in the churches of Malden, Melrose, and North Reading. Over 50 conversions are reported to have occurred in connection with the first named church; and a number in the others sufficiently large greatly to encourage the brethren.

New Church. One new church, consisting of twenty-five members, has been formed in the thriving village of West Medford. They hope soon to build a church edifice, and the influx of new residents gives promise of success to the enterprise.

Home Missions. "The point of chief interest in the work of the Conference centres in its Home-Missionary efforts. An extra meeting of this body was held in the spring, in part to consider the plan of making one meeting each year a missionary meeting. The question was decided in the affirmative, the local Missionary Society being expected to present yearly an account of its work, and other societies to send representatives to address the Conference. The successful operation of the Woburn Conference Home Missionary Society has served to awaken the churches to a knowledge of their ability to do more than formerly for the cause of Christ. The receipts of the society for the past year were three times as great as the sum that the churches were accustomed, before its foundation, to give to the national Home Missionary Society. This success led the Society, at its spring meeting, to assume the entire care of all the feeble churches of the Conference, releasing the Massachusetts Society from the responsibility it has so long borne. The prospect for the coming year allows the hope that, in addition to the amount needed for the entire relief of all our feeble churches, a sum twice as large as that raised in former years will be paid to the parent Society. The experiment of stimulating benevolence by a local organization, works well with this Conference."

Home Evangelization. Some churches of the Conference have held Fellowship meetings with good success. The cause of Temperance has received unusual attention in some of the towns. The feeling of responsibility for the neglected classes seems to be growing in many of the churches.

WORCESTER CENTRAL CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 20; pastors, 16; stated preachers, 3; church vacant, 1; church aided, 1.

"The churches of this Conference report general prosperity, with several seasons of refreshing in different places. By these especially, between two and three hundred have been added to the churches. Clinton has been the field of greatest interest. Worcester has shared in blessing."

"The Conference, at its last meeting, discussed the desirableness of help by evangelists; and though we have occasion gratefully to acknowledge the result of such labors in several of our in-gatherings within the last two years, the sentiment of the Conference runs, quite largely in the majority, not against evangelists, but in favor of like labors among ourselves as churches."

"The Sabbath question has acquired new interest, and a dissertation read upon the subject was ordered to be printed. Within our borders there has been little change in the Sabbath services. Few are willing to give up the afternoon to the Sabbath-school. Bible exercises for the afternoon have not been adopted."

"The organization proposed by the Home Evangelization movement has not been very fully attempted. The ground seemed to be covered in part by the Young Men's Christian Associations; yet it is plain that these cannot supply the means which Home Evangelization contemplates. Too many churches seem but too willing to let this work pass into other hands than their own. God adds his blessing to all labors for Christ; but will he not more abundantly prosper his own church when it shall assume its own responsibilities in his name?"

"The Plymouth church, Worcester, has settled a pastor, as have also the churches in Paxton and Sterling. The Old South, Worcester, is again vacant, as also the church in Princeton."

WORCESTER NORTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 15; pastors, 9; stated preachers, 6; church vacant, 0; churches aided, 5.

General Traits. Three of the larger churches of this Conference are in centres of trade and manufactures; three others are in manufacturing centres that are surrounded by rural districts; the nine remaining are in agricultural communities. Two of the churches have more than 250 members each; one has between 200 and 250; three between 150 and 200; three between 100 and 150; three between 50 and 100; and three have less than 50 members. The average is 133.

The churches in the rural districts suffer from removals more than the larger churches gain by the same, because there are large centres near by but not embraced within this Conference. Portions of the rural parishes are so remote from the Sanctuary that their population is but scantily represented there. Two of these out-districts together cover an area of about 60 square miles, and contain 468 families, — lying in seven different towns, and in nine parishes.

Pastorates are mournfully short, with a tendency to grow shorter still. The frequent changes foster a spirit of indifference, neglect and contention; favor the development of an ill balanced character and habits of "spasmodic" Christian effort.

The salaries of the pastors are fair, though some appear to be too small. The average is $986.63; and in the eight smaller churches, $644.25. The large salaries do not give the several churches so great a burden on each member as the smaller. It would seem to be the dictate of Christian equity, therefore, that the stronger churches should aid the weaker, and partly, if not wholly, relieve the Home Missionary Society of this privilege.

Little systematic effort to reach the masses is made within the Conference. Many of the ministers labor beyond their strength, but the members of the churches are very slow to heed the command, "Let him that heareth say, come!"

The Second church in Royalston has attempted to have every family visited by some member of the church once in three months. An efficient Committee was appointed, but sickness, removals, and a lack of interest among other members of the church, prevented a satisfactory result. Pains are taken, however, to see men at their work and in their homes, and to give them cordial invitations. "Class prayer-meetings" have been held by some of the classes of the Sunday-school, with good results. The First church, Winchendon, holds occasional services in out-districts, and a special parish gathering once a fortnight. There has been a growing interest in religious things, and some conversions.

Out-Districts. A Sabbath-school is maintained at South Ashburnham, and preaching services are frequently held by different clergymen. It would seem to be time that this place was permanently occupied. Burrageville and Factory Village appear to have had little done for them. — A lay-preacher has been laboring with the little church in North Ashburnham, with good results. If there were more of these helpers, the outposts could be better cared for. — The church at Hubbardston has done much toward keeping up regular preaching in the school-houses of the town, with encouraging results. — Several attempts have been made by the church at North Orange to occupy an important outpost called Furnace Village, but without success. — The church at Petersham has maintained a Branch Sunday-school in an out-district, and preaching services in others. — In Phillipston, also, the pastor has made many calls and held many meetings, in similar localities. The attendance has been good, the smallest numbering 25; the largest, 120; and the average being 48,—one half of the whole neglecters. This would appear to be the best record of the kind furnished by any church of the Conference.

From Petersham a revival is reported, resulting in 19 hopeful conversions.

WORCESTER SOUTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 14; pastors, 9; stated preachers, 2; churches vacant, 2; church aided, 1.

Revivals. "Seasons of religious quickening" have been enjoyed at Sutton, Westborough, Whitinsville, and Upton.

Young Men's Christian Associations are in operation in East Douglas, Grafton, Whitinsville, Upton, Uxbridge, Webster, Westborough, and Millbury. They appear to work in harmony with the churches and their pastors.

The Sunday-school work deepens in its hold upon the conscience of the people, and is much promoted by the semi-annual conventions.

"Most of the churches are in a reliably firm condition; but of that earnestness of the Christian life which is at once the condition and pledge of aggressive and successful labor, they have less than they could wish."

MENDON CONFERENCE.*

Number of churches, 12; pastors, 6; stated preachers, 4; churches vacant, 2; churches aided, 2.

"The self-supporting churches of this Conference are among the stronger and more prosperous churches in the State. The two which are dependent occupy important fields, and could not be spared from their places without serious loss to the whole. They are making commendable effort for themselves, and should not be left to suffer for the lack of substantial sympathy, from the stronger. As a whole, it is believed that these twelve churches are as prosperous as any to be found elsewhere."

"Several, during the year, have either built new houses of worship or essentially repaired the old. As a general rule, they gather full congregations on the Sabbath. The pastors are well paid. The cause of Benevolence receives liberal support. The cause of Temperance is appreciated and loved, and is a power in the community. The Sabbath is honored, though desecrated not a little by pleasure parties and railroad travel. The out-districts are looked after, and the gospel carried to them, to no little extent — though the number of neglecters is yet numerous, and in those manufacturing neighborhoods where foreigners are employed is probably on the increase."

"There have been no revivals during the year, but additions have been made to most of these churches; and where the interest has not been 'special,' it yet has been pleasant and abiding. The gospel has been preached to the gathered assembly, and also from door to door. The young have been trained in the way they should go. The people have grown in knowledge and in grace."

THE HOME EVANGELIZATION WORK.

The present time seems appropriate for a brief review of the Home Evangelization movement in this State.

This movement commenced upon the organization of the "General Conference of the Congregational Churches in Massachusetts," in 1860, the first committee having been appointed by that body at its first meeting. For four years this committee did what it could to arouse the churches to the necessity of more thorough organization for local work; but in 1864 acknowledged their failure, and recommended the employment of a man who should give his whole time to this matter. "He is needed," they said, "to attend the State and Local Conferences and Clerical Associations, and other Christian Conventions, and to visit pastors and churches, to talk and preach and organize, in the interest of this enterprise." The Conference approved their recommendations. Acting under its instructions, the committee requested the present Secretary of Home Evangelization to accept the office. As for many years he had been greatly interested in the views which were actuating this movement, he very readily assented to their proposal, and entered upon the work in January, 1865.

We suppose that the correctness of the general policy adopted by this committee has not been called in question. And yet there are probably many persons whose attention has failed to be so directed to this policy as to secure them a clear perception of the reasons for it. But a recognition of these reasons is important to a correct appreciation of the movement.

Why, then, we ask, did not this committee instruct the Secretary to engage in direct missionary labor? Or, why did he not cooperate with some of the "Associations" for promoting Christian work? Because, however useful his labors might have been in any of these directions, they would yet have served to call off attention from the true cause of all the difficulty. For, what was this cause? How had it come to pass that so many néglectors were unreached? Manifestly, it is not enough to say, that there was a lack of individual enthusiasm for Christian work, — a low state of religion. The churches had neglected their duty; and this neglect is traceable to a lack of right ideas concerning the church and of interest in its work.

But why this lack of ideas and enthusiasm? The answer to this question involves facts of the utmost significance. — Because, for generations, the teachings of the pulpit respecting the church had been meagre; because ministers had taken little thought concerning the organization of their churches into societies of workers; because the Theological Seminaries never had an inkling of any such idea or aim; because, in the great reaction against Romish errors, a spirit of individualism took such possession of the minds of men, that the Doctrine of the Church failed of a perfect reformation, and the image of the Christian Society, ordained of God, the world's great need and end, was not grasped; because no large body of believers have ever held this image clearly in view; because, in fine, this thought comes up in our day, for the first time complete, the slowly ripened product of nearly nineteen hundred years of Christian warfare and experience, — the conception of the church as a household and a working band, the heavenly society and the heavenly army on earth, — wherein believers are so united that they are members one of another not only in fellowship but also in aggressive Christian labor. The churches of the past did not carry out this conception, because they did not possess it. They did not, as churches, undertake to carry the gospel to all out-districts and all néglectors, because they regarded this to be the duty of ministers, and other individuals. By individuals, accordingly, this work has often been attempted; and from the necessity of the case has been unsystematic, inconstant, and incomplete, — in too great a measure, a failure; and a failure it must continue, until a more complete doctrine rules in the pulpit and lives in the hearts of believers.

It was clearly the duty of the Secretary, therefore, carefully to avoid doing any of the work which properly belonged to the churches, but to leave it in all its weight resting upon them; and to give his time to magnifying, to their just proportions, the dignity and responsibility of the churches of Jesus Christ, pressing upon their attention not only these general views, but also the particular ways in which the local church can become a household of believers and an organized band of workers.

Exactly this he has endeavored to do. But it is no more than just that the intrinsic difficulties of this "Home Evangelization" movement should be recognized.

First. The churches are independent. While every believer has a right to offer suggestions to any other, nevertheless it is one thing to plead with church or pastor some great cause of benevolence, and quite another to approach either with reference to a modification of their modes of working.

But secondly. If the true conception of a working church had been missed, in a too exclusive contemplation of mere individual duty, it could not be otherwise than that many able ministers and faithful churches would be slow to admit the new views. People do not readily alter their fundamental and governing ideas. And the churches are not to be hurried. You must wait patiently until they are ready to act from their own independent thought. If your ideas are right, indeed, the coming of the morrow's sun is not more sure than their final acceptance. But it may be slow.

Thirdly. It ought not to be forgotten that our Conferences of Churches are, in general, mere occasions for conferring, not for debate with a view to action. Hence a serious difficulty. The Home Evangelization movement aims at definite measures. But the brethren have come together for the purpose of enjoying a spiritual, intellectual, and social feast. They are not in the mood for grappling with the hardest of all practical problems. Very likely some of them will assent to all that you propose, merely to be rid of you; and with too many, that empty vote is the end of the whole matter.

These facts suggest some of the difficulties with which the committee must needs contend. But the greatest is to be found, Fourthly, In the nature of the work itself. To bring the stream of the water of life within easy reach of all the people, requires little additional labor in Massachusetts; but so to commend these waters to their lips that they shall drink, is more difficult. Could we wonder if some of the churches were, at first, to call in question the value of even the wisest measures, though bearing the fullest indorsement of this Association? Such doubt is certain beforehand. We now ask attention to a brief review of two measures proposed by this committee for general adoption.

This problem, of popular christianization, the churches have been working at for about nineteen centuries. Our own ministers and churches have never forgotten it for a day. Manifestly no "committee" was going to undertake to furnish the wisdom that is to carry on the ever diversified process of its solution; and yet it was equally manifest that the wisdom of the churches, as at present applied, was failing to solve it. It became clearly the duty, therefore, of your committee, to secure, if practicable, the adoption of such usages, on the part of the churches, as should result in a more close and constant study of this whole matter, by the pastors, by many church members, by the churches, and by the Conferences.

This they have attempted. They have requested every church, first, to define, once for all, or else annually, as it may think best, its own work; and, secondly, to set apart one of its regular prayer-meetings in every month, to consultation and prayer in regard to this work. They have, likewise, obtained the appointment of Committees on Home Evangelization in the Local Conferences, which bring up the subject for regular discussion there.

1. In thus earnestly defining its "parish," the church practically adopts the principle of church responsibility for communities, and lays aside the principle — so long dominant — of ministerial responsibility.

2. By defining its work, it makes the details of that work clearer; both increases the general feeling of responsibility, and also comes to see certain particular results as achievable in certain particular ways, — certain duties as appropriately falling to certain of its members.

3. By meeting regularly once a month, it associates its members in considering and in carrying on this work, and becomes a "working society."

4. It makes this study practical, since the study is associated with active efforts; and prayerful, for this is a meeting for prayer.

5. It fastens the attention of the minister upon the work of the church. There may be changes in the pastorate; but before any new comer has been a month in his place, his attention is drawn to this matter. He may be lacking in practical interest or skill, a mere scholar or an orator. It matters not, he must face the facts. The "Home Concert," earnestly worked, makes it impossible for either pastor or church to forget any family of the parish or any important undertaking.

6. It affords an opportunity for the pastor to follow up his sermons on Christian fellowship or activity, with those more detailed suggestions which are necessary to make the sermons effective; and almost obliges him to do so.

7. These two measures tend to make the preaching of the pastor more definite and more vital.

Finally, In these measures we have the only way in which the whole wisdom of the local church and its whole force can be permanently concentrated upon its work.

This work must remain undone and impossible, unless this wisdom and force are concentrated upon it.

The measures are simple and flexible, and can be adopted by all the churches.

Adopted by all, they unite all — with the help of the Conferences and their committees — in permanent Christian work.

This seems very clear, and very easy, perhaps, on paper. But how can it be accomplished? In the nature of the case, it is no easy matter to get five hundred churches to unite in anything requiring the independent activity of each one of them.

In order, therefore, to render this union as easy and as certain as possible, a question was put into the blank for returns, which could not be answered unless some steps had actually been taken toward the definition of a "parish." The inquiry was this: "How many families do you reckon in your parish?" And the term "parish" was defined as including, besides the regular congregation, all neglecters whom the church distinctly knows and recognizes as within its responsibility.

Upon the briefest reflection it becomes apparent,

1. That this is not an unusual inquiry.
2. That it differs from the one continually on the lips of ministers, only as it includes the neglecters.
3. That these neglecters cannot be lost sight of, if the churches propose to reach them.
4. That God holds the churches accountable for all persons properly within their reach. He puts the question to every pastor.
5. If any pastors or churches are ever in danger of overlooking any who are placed by God under their care, it is a service of brotherly kindness, on the part of this Association, to put them in the way of a self-reminder of such possible omission.
6. Such an inquiry is a duty which we owe also to the neglecters themselves.
7. It is a notorious fact that multitudes of persons, really within reach of the churches, and properly, therefore, under their care, are overlooked.
8. If only one such family, on an average, were discovered by each church, it would add 2000 souls to those whom they acknowledge themselves bound to reach. If, during the coming fall, ten such families were found, then for the rest of the year the churches would be watchfully intent upon 20,000 souls for whom they are now doing little or nothing.
9. The very investigation required by this question helps to awaken interest and activity in the churches.
10. It is impossible for the churches to systematize their work, to do their work thoroughly, or even to study it carefully, unless they possess the information here sought.

There is no sense in the "church principle" which lies at the bottom of our movement for Home Evangelization, if this question is improper or unimportant. And, if this principle were given up, then the sooner we substitute other societies in place of our churches, the better.

Finally, starting upon this basis, simple as it is, it is possible to secure for our Protestantism and Puritanism an organization founded on its own scriptural principles, minute, comprehensive and powerful enough, through the blessing of God, to cope with the forces of Romanism, and with the omnipresent infidelity and depravity. Without the constancy and the unity which can only be had in these ways, we are sure to fail. Other soldiers, consenting to the better discipline, will win our battle.

To some, these measures have seemed insignificant. In reality, they involve a revolution in the methods of our churches and in the spirit which has prevailed in them for generations, and necessitate a vast amount of hard thought and hard work, on the part of both pastor and church. And a revolution in our church methods is necessary. Our fathers had definite parishes. Every minister knew all his families, and kept watch over them. He was acquainted with every individual, gave personal instruction to the young, and often to others. There were no persons outside of religious connection. Communities were stable; pastorates were permanent; people were acquainted; few parishes contained strangers; not a soul was overlooked; according to the ideas of the time, everybody was directly and stately reached with the influences of the gospel.

But great changes have taken place. There has been a vast immigration from abroad, and vast migrations within. Multitudes are not living in the places of their birth, and are continually removing. The old parish lines have disappeared. The very idea of a parish has grown so indistinct that it has to be explained. People are slow to see the possibility of marking off a distinct sphere of responsibility for each church. The habit of exercising a minute watch and care over families and individuals, had long ago almost ceased. Churches had come to do their work by wholesale, through revivals; and this work was often not so much an education and nurture, as a series of spiritual raids, — exciting, exhausting, and followed by long seasons of a peculiarly sluggish inactivity. Ministers had dwindled to preachers — ceasing to be bishops.

The evil consequences are seen in a neglect of many of the families scattered along the borders, and of some of the out-districts; in the growth of masses of neglecters in towns and villages; in a lack of the systematic spiritual nurture of congregations, and even of church members; in a diminution of theological knowledge and interest among the body of our population, and even among religious people; while the increased lay activity, abounding in zeal, is often lacking in sagacity, system and dignity; and methods of labor and forms of pious character show an unnecessary crudity; until it has become perfectly clear that the churches will never conquer the world, while adhering to methods so lacking in minuteness and completeness. Churches must not only furnish sermons in sanctuaries; they must labor with individuals. They must not only do this during revivals; they must keep doing it, all the time. They must not only be faithful to those who willingly come to hear, but must know all and reach all. In a word, we must restore the parish system; and with it, the habit of steadfast watchfulness over all families and individuals. This, conjoined with the improved methods of teaching, and the greater variety in modes of approach and of influence, characteristic of our times, may be expected, under the blessing of God, always waiting for us, to work out joyful results.

But in what does the "parish system" begin? In the definition of the parish, and a list of its families.

And now, let us lift up our eyes to a not impossible future. Let us venture to suppose that every Congregational church in Massachusetts knows, from the beginning of the year, among what families it proposes to labor. Once a month it meets expressly to pray and to take counsel in behalf of this its work; and hence, in all the prayer-meetings and in all closets, this great theme has been remembered much more earnestly and constantly than before. Year after year has been adding to the number of neglecters accepted under its care, and also to the number won over to the sanctuary and to the Lord; until at last we can almost say that none are overlooked,—that there is not one family in the Commonwealth whose name is not on the book of some church, and whose threshold is unblest by the feet of its visitors.

As a result of these thoughtful and constant labors, revivals have been more frequent, and have not usually been followed by seasons of reaction and coldness; but instead have heightened the every-day life of the churches; the number of active Christians has increased; whose patient continuance in well-doing has added to the stability of the churches, to their repute and their influence; the name of Jesus is honored; the kingdom of heaven is rising like the light of morning upon the land.

Is this an impossible future? Need it be so very remote? Certainly, those who believe in a present Saviour and in the continual gift of the Holy Ghost should not be faithless of early results, even so great as these.

CHURCH WORK.

METHODS IN ACTUAL USE.*

THE CHURCH OF THE PILGRIMAGE, PLYMOUTH.

This church has published for the benefit of its members a circular, of six pages, giving its "System of Christian Work" in five departments, together with the names of those who propose to share in the labor. The division is made as follows :

I. DEPARTMENT OF GENERAL VISITATION.

Church, Society, Strangers.

So we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another. Rom. xii. 5.

II. DEPARTMENT OF SICK, AGED, AND AFFLICTED.

I was sick, and ye visited me. Matt. xxv. 36.

III. DEPARTMENT OF THE POOR.

For ye have the poor with you always, and whensoever ye will ye may do them good. Mark, xiv. 7.

IV. DEPARTMENT OF THE SABBATH-SCHOOL.

Gather the people together, men, women and children, and thy stranger that is within thy gates, that they may hear and that they may learn, and fear the Lord your God. Deut. xxxi. 12.

V. DEPARTMENT OF NEGLECTERS OF DIVINE WORSHIP.

Go out into the high ways and hedges and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled. Luke, xiv. 23.

The town of Plymouth has been divided into nine districts, for the purpose of a systematic Christian visitation.

MONTEREY.

The "acting pastor" of this church has furnished one of the most complete Annual Reports returned this year. The following extract is valuable, as illustrating ways of working adapted to a very large number of the churches in the rural districts. Monterey is a mountain town in Southern Berkshire.

"At the annual meeting of the church, a committee is chosen for each school district in the parish. The duties of this committee are, to endeavor by visitation and personal conversation to promote the spiritual welfare of each one in their district; to gather in the children to the Sabbath-school; to report any case requiring discipline. Also to report in writing the number of inhabitants; the number of church members, and their denomination; the number of persons indulging a Christian hope but not communicants; how many do not attend church; how many children do not attend Sabbath-school, and why; together with any other facts of interest or importance."

"This committee has been chosen annually since 1855; and secures a pretty thorough visitation of the families in the parish, at least once in a year. But we have not been able to get written reports from every district in the town in any one year—as we could wish.”

“This church is the only one in town; and its parish embraces the whole town, except a few families, and includes also some families in towns joining on the east.”

“In one of the school districts are 13 families,—one of them Roman Catholic. In these families are 68 persons. Of these, only 13 are church members. Ten others indulge hope. There are 32 children, 20 of whom are in the Sunday-school. Every family of this district has been represented at church, on the Sabbath, during the year, by some member. Eight of these families may be called church-going families; the other five are irregular,—some member going if the weather is pleasant and all things favorable. Two families in the district were church-goers in 1871, who were total neglecters in 1870.”

TOWNSEND.

The pastor of this church has addressed a Pastoral Letter to its members, accompanied with the following schedule of WORKING COMMITTEES, FOR 1872.

1. Com. on Relief of Sick, &c.—To collect money for the sick, and attend to all cases requiring material aid. To visit the sick, act as nurses or night watchers, carry help and sympathy to all suffering.
2. Attention to Strangers.—To extend the hand of fellowship to all new-comers, bid them a cordial welcome to our sanctuary, Sabbath-school, prayer-meetings, and to our homes, and introduce them to the pastor and to church members.
3. Temperance.—To aid in its promotion in the church and in the community in every possible way.
4. Sabbath-school.—To labor for the promotion of its interests by introduction of new scholars, acting as teachers or otherwise.
5. Missions.—To promote interest in and love for missionary labor at home and abroad, by attending and actively laboring in the Monthly Concert, Woman's Board, or Juvenile Missionary Society, and in distribution of tracts and other religious reading.
6. Prayer-Meetings.—To take charge of and labor in the weekly church prayer-meeting and in neighborhood meetings.

BRADFORD.

This church has published a circular for distribution, giving the names of the pastor, deacons, and standing committee; the various religious and social meetings; the appointments of the Sabbath-school; and the following additional committees:

1. THE COMMITTEE TO VISIT NEW FAMILIES.
2. THE COMMITTEE TO WELCOME STRANGERS AT THE CHURCH.
3. THE COMMITTEE TO SECURE PEWS—for persons wishing them.
4. THE COMMITTEE TO VISIT THE SICK AND NEEDY.
5. THE COMMITTEE ON SINGING IN SOCIAL MEETINGS.
6. THE PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEE OF THE PARISH.

A statement is also made respecting the times and objects of collections; and concerning the LADIES MISSIONARY SOCIETY, which meets once in two weeks.

The church maintains a Branch Sunday-school numbering 140 scholars, with an average attendance of 100, in good working order, and furnished with library, organ, etc.

Neighborhood meetings are regularly sustained by members of the church, the Standing Committee making the appointments.

The Standing Committee likewise make appointments for the Monthly Concert, printed on slips of paper. The following are examples :

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, NATICK, MASS.—CHURCH WORK FOR 1872.

Name.....

Address.....

MY DEAR BROTHER, — You are affectionately and earnestly requested prayerfully to consider this circular, and before the Lord to determine what, in your circumstances, with God's help, you will endeavor to do.

It is not expected that any one member will work in all departments. Put a mark (X) in those blanks which indicate what you are able and willing to do. And if you have a preference for one department over another, please state it in the appropriate blank.

One thing we can all do. Pray daily for the church and pastor; and also select one or more individuals who are yet unconverted, and pray for them daily by name. Will you do this?

Will you aid in

THE DEVOTIONAL DEPARTMENT —

By attendance (this alone is a great help.)

By praying, speaking, or repeating verses.

By singing.

In the prayer-meeting.

In the Bible class.

In the Mother's meeting and Ladies' prayer-meeting.

THE SABBATH-SCHOOL DEPARTMENT.

- By your presence.
- By teaching a class regularly.
- By teaching a class occasionally.
- In other ways.

THE STRANGER'S AND SOCIAL DEPARTMENT.

By endeavoring at the Sabbath services, prayer-meetings, social receptions, and other meetings, to welcome strangers and to make everybody feel at home.

By giving one afternoon or evening a month to calling, visiting, especially new families and the more retiring members of the congregation.

By endeavoring to see that in your neighborhood every family and person not attending elsewhere, is invited and welcomed to church and Sabbath-school, either to ours or to any other they may prefer.

By distributing religious reading.

THE RELIEF DEPARTMENT.

- By taking part in the Ladies' Sewing Circle.
- By visiting the sick, when acceptable.
- By sending flowers and delicacies to the sick room.
- By watching with the sick.
- By friendly calls on the poor.
- By supplying needed aid.

It is requested that you mark both these circulars, and keeping one as a memorandum for yourself, send the other to your pastor, not to be made public, but in order to systematize and develop the working power of the church.

WAKEFIELD.

The Pastoral Letter addressed to this church presents the following scheme of work.

I. CHRISTIAN INSTRUCTION.

- (a.) At home.
- (b.) In the Sabbath-school.

The superintendent has abundant work for new teachers, as well as places for new scholars.

II. RELIGIOUS MEETINGS.

- (a.) The Weekly Prayer-meeting.

Every Christian needs one meeting in the week. Bear in mind that "to attend is to assist."

- (b.) Neighborhood meetings.

The pastor will appoint them wherever they are desired, and generally attend them.

- (c.) The Monthly Concert:

This is in charge of laymen, and volunteers for the service are desired.

III. SOCIAL ATTENTIONS.

- (a.) To the more retired members of the congregation.
- (b.) To new residents of the town.
- (c.) To strangers visiting our church.

The Christian spirit is genial, and every church should be made homelike to all within the reach of its influence.

IV. CHARITABLE RELIEF.

- (a.) In caring for the sick.

By visiting, and sending kind messages, delicacies, and flowers.

- (b.) In caring for the poor.

By friendly calls, orders left at the provision store, and aid in getting profitable employment.

- (c.) In sustaining either of the three Sewing Circles, viz., The Ladies' Charitable Society, The Young Ladies Benevolent Association, or the Mission Helpers.

These are well organized and efficient societies, but would welcome new members.

V. SACRED MUSIC.

- (a.) In the church choir.
(b.) In the voluntary choir.

Our effort to establish Congregational Singing needs for its complete success the aid of a supplementary choir, composed of many singers in the congregation, and meeting often for instruction and practice.

VI. MISCELLANEOUS SERVICE.

- (a.) Canvassing for Contributions.
(b.) Arranging for Social Gatherings.
(c.) Laboring in the cause of Temperance.
(d.) Removing, by personal attention, the small evils often referred to in the remark,
"What is everybody's business is nobody's."

NORTH CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, LYNN.—DEPARTMENTS OF CHRISTIAN WORK.

A. THE SERVICE OF THE SICK.

"I was sick and ye visited me."

1. Visiting, when acceptable.
2. Preparing delicacies, sending flowers, &c., to the sick room.
3. Night watching, in turn with others.

The services of our band of watchers have been very valuable the past year.

B. THE MINISTRY TO THE POOR.

"He that giveth to the poor, lendeth to the Lord."

This includes friendly, not patronizing, visits; the relief of pressing need by timely gifts, and such other help as will encourage and aid to self-help. Every family in comfortable circumstances ought to charge itself with looking after at least one family or person among the pinched or destitute. Remember that it is neither wise nor generous to forbear aid till the moment of utter destitution and collapse.

C. CHARITABLE SEWING.

"And all the women that were wise-hearted did spin with their hands, and brought that which they had spun."

1. Aid in the Ladies' Sewing Society.
2. Aid in the Girls' Sewing School.
3. Supply of the Bureau of Clothing.

A Bureau of Clothing is to be kept under charge of a competent person at the chapel. Contributions of serviceable garments of all kinds are solicited. These will be carefully distributed to deserving applicants.

D. THE DEVOTIONAL WORK.

"Men ought always to pray."

"Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord."

1. Attendance at devotional meetings.
2. Leading in prayer.
3. Assistance in singing.
4. Ladies' prayer-meetings.

Attendance is great assistance. Singing is one of the best helps. A meeting where there is good devotional singing is never unprofitable. The Ladies' prayer-meeting cannot be neglected without detriment to the best interests of the church.

E. THE MINISTRY OF THE WORD.

"Holding forth the Word of Life."

"Living Epistles."

1. Teaching in the Sabbath-school.
2. Speaking at devotional meetings.
3. Reporting information about Christian work in other places, or missionary movements.
4. Circulation of religious reading.

All these sections need special reinforcement. In Nos. 1 and 4 we want a reserve corps of substitutes, to fill occasional gaps. No. 2 is indolently thrown upon a few, to their own improvement, but the detriment of those that neglect to cultivate the gift. Attention to No. 3 would promote not only the interest of our meetings, but the success of our work. In all these ways let not that more private ministry of the word, in family and social intercourse, be forgotten, whose only record is on high.

F. THE SOCIAL SERVICE.

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

1. Giving invitations to religious or social meetings.
2. Courtesies to strangers when present among us.
3. Visiting new members of the congregation.

The families of any neighborhood should feel a special responsibility of courtesy to other families of the congregation residing near them. Forget not to greet your fellow-shippers at all meetings.

The spirit of true religion is warm and neighborly.

G. UNION WORK.

"Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity."

1. Cooperation with the Young Men's Christian Association. [Membership $2 a year.]
2. Cooperation with the Woman's Union for Christian Work. [Membership $1 a year.]
3. Cooperation with the Woman's Board of Missions through the "North Church Auxiliary." [Membership $1 a year.]
4. Temperance movements.

The good name of our church and the spirit of brotherly love together bid us join hands with those in other churches who ask our help in promoting any moral or religious interest of the community at large.

H. MISCELLANEOUS.

"Gather up the fragments that nothing be lost."

1. Aid in occasional canvassing for names or contributions.
2. Aid in the library, or in folding and stamping papers, &c.
3. General assistance at social entertainments.
4. Occasional visiting of the prayer-meetings of other churches, as an act of fellowship, and making report of the same.
5. Keeping the "Fragment Box" in the house, to gather loose bits of money, as a reserve for special calls.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, BOSTON HIGHLANDS.

"Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" Acts, ix. 6.

"Go work to-day in my vineyard." Matt. xxi. 28.

DEPARTMENTS OF CHRISTIAN WORK.

1. Regular attendance at Sabbath service, A. M. and P. M.
2. Attendance at prayer-meetings.
3. Prayer, or speaking at devotional meetings.
4. Attendance at social gatherings.
5. Work in Sabbath-school, as teacher or scholar.

6. Efforts to increase the Sabbath-school.
7. Giving invitations to church and prayer-meetings.
8. Welcoming and introducing strangers.
9. Visiting neighbors and new-comers.
10. Ministering to the sick and needy.
11. Seeking opportunities to lead souls to Christ.
12. Special prayer, in private, for church, pastor, and individual friends.
13. Contributions of money, according to ability, to all gospel work.

MEASURES FOR PROMOTING CHURCH WORK.

The following resolutions were adopted in May, 1872, at a conference of the State Committee with pastors of churches in large towns.

MODES OF DEFINING PARISHES.

Resolved, 1. That, in the judgment of this meeting, it is of the greatest importance that the churches of the State define their parishes, after one of the following modes:

(1.) A division of the whole town or city into permanent territorial districts, each church taking one.

(2.) An acceptance by each church, annually, of a certain district for the year; the same to be increased as the ability of the church grows.

(3.) A formal union of the several churches of the town, for Christian work, through a joint committee of pastors and others, reporting monthly to each church, — the whole town forming their common parish.

(4.) Poll parishes, — each church adding annually certain families of neglecters to those already numbered under its care — the whole making up its parish for the year.

THE HOME CONCERT.

Resolved, 2. That we strongly recommend the adoption of the Home Concert by all the churches of the State, as a means of keeping up a familiar acquaintance with the condition of all portions of their respective parishes and a permanent and growing activity.

THE ENLISTMENT CARD.

Resolved, 3. That we recommend the enlistment card, or its equivalent, as often a convenient method for assisting Christian people to find something to do.

THE FELLOWSHIP MEETING.

Resolved, 4. That the Fellowship meeting may not only be used for introducing the new members of our churches to the older ones, and for promoting a general Christian acquaintance, but also for familiar conversation respecting details of church work, and even for personal interviews with those who have begun to be religiously thoughtful.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE HAMPDEN CONFERENCE.

Resolved, 1. That we recommend to each church in our Conference to test by experiment some plan of labor which to them shall seem best calculated to develop and increase the spiritual efficiency of their church, and to report the results to our next Conference.

Resolved, 2. That we pledge aid to any church, (by preaching or otherwise,) that may request special service of the Committee.

Resolved, 3. That it is the opinion of this Conference that more effective measures should be adopted for the promotion of acquaintance and fellowship, in individual churches. In particular, this Conference recommends to the churches, that they hold a FELLOWSHIP MEETING during the week following the communion of the Lord's Supper, and that reports be made at the autumn Conference, of the success of this movement.

During the year, there has been no change in the number or names of the Associations. The Associations do not comprise all the ministers in the State. A few pastors and acting pastors are not members, but their names are given with their churches. Ministers not in pastoral service and not members of Associations, are, necessarily, officially unknown to the General Association.

LICENTIATES.— Given under the respective Associations. Total now under care, 74. Number approbated during the year, 27.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

EXPLANATIONS.

1. The following tables contain the names of every Congregational church in Massachusetts, whether the church reports or not, each in its own county. The counties are arranged in alphabetical order, except that Dukes and Nantucket are on the same page with Barnstable. Towns in each county are arranged alphabetically; churches in each town, according to age; and of each church, (1) its town, (2) its name (if it have a peculiar one,) which is always followed by "ch.," (3) its locality in the town, when that locality has a name distinct from the town; when the name of a church follows the name of a locality subordinate to the town, it shows that the church has a distinct number in that subdivision of the town.

2. The contracted headings to the columns of figures are more fully given with the Summary.

3. The column specifying Ministers is corrected up to the time of publication. Church members are reported as numbered on the morning of Jan. 1, 1872. Admissions, removals, and baptisms, cover the year 1871. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females," and total," but included in them. "Sabbath School" includes total membership of teachers and scholars Jan. 1, 1872, or when the school is in successful operation (if not at that date,) covering "branch schools" and "mission schools," so far as maintained by the reporting church; and the "average" attendance for the year 1871.

4. Dates earlier than 1752 are given in "old style." To reduce these to "new style,"—if it be a date in the 17th century, add ten days; if it be a date in the 18th century (prior to 1752,) add eleven days.

5. "Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry "by the laying on of hands." "Installed" denotes the date of his present pastorate. "A. p." denotes "Acting pastor."

6. All Post-office addresses are to be found in the "Index of Ministers," and not in the tables. For churches, see "Index of Towns."

7. In no instance is the report of any church in these Statistics copied from the returns of previous years. But there is included in the totals of each county, a careful estimate of the numbers in any unreporting church, if there be such; and also the occasionally missing items of "absent," and "average attendance" in Sabbath Schools,—which are assumed to be, in each case, equivalent to the average percentage of their county.

NAMES OF MINISTERS,

AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE PAGE IN WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS
IN THE STATISTICS OF ASSOCIATIONS OR CHURCHES.

This list includes only pastors or acting pastors (not of any other denomination) and members of Associations. Its post-office addresses often differ from the foregoing pages, by reason of removals.

The first column of figures, (including pp. 79-95,) refers to membership in Associations; the second column (including pp. 98-112,) refers to pastoral position. A blank, in either case, signifies,—in the former, that one is not a member of any Association; in the latter, that he is not reported as in pastoral service. Post-office addresses outside of Massachusetts are printed in italics.

In the following list a star (*) denotes that the person, although an "acting pastor," is not a member of any Association in this State.

After singing, the Association took a recess until evening.

Tuesday Evening, 7½ o'clock. The Association met according to adjournment. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Solon Cobb, of Medford. A sermon was preached by Rev. Jonathan L. Jenkins, of Amherst, from I Corinthian, xvi, 2: "Upon the first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him." Prayer was offered by Rev. Daniel P. Noyes, of Brookline, and the meeting closed with the benediction, pronounced by the Moderator.

SECOND DAY.

Wednesday, June 18. The Association assembled at 8½ o'clock, A. M., and half an hour was spent in devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. George R. Leavitt, of Cambridgeport.

At 9 o'clock the Moderator took the chair and offered prayer.

The minutes were read and approved.

The roll of members was then called by the Registrar.

Bros. George S. Taylor and George A. Fuller were appointed Auditing Committee.

THE EVANGELICAL ALLIANCE.

The Secretary read a communication from Rev. S. S. Schmucker, D. D., and others, suggesting an advisory union of all Evangelical denominations, which communication was referred to a special committee consisting of Rev. Israel P. Warren, Rev. Nahum Gale,

Rev. John O. Means, Rev. Erastus Maltby, and Dea. Charles W. Hill, who subsequently made the following report :

The subject referred to this Committee comes before the General Association in a letter of Rev. Dr. S. S. Schmucker, Professor in the Theological Seminary at Gettysburg, Pa., signed by himself and fifty-two other clergymen of distinction, of different Evangelical denominations. It proposes "the establishment of more definite relations of fraternal unity and love, among the disciples of our Lord, by the formation of a voluntary Advisory Confederation; which, whilst it leaves intact the denominational organization of all the churches, will confer greater visibility on the spiritual unity now actually existing." The letter is accompanied by a "Provisional Sketch of a Plan for a general Protestant Union among all Evangelical denominations."

The basis of this "Plan" is to be the existing "World's Evangelical Alliance" instituted in London in 1846, with its several Branch National Alliances, British, American, German, Dutch, French, Swiss, etc. It is proposed to add to this as a new feature, the making of the several denominations themselves, through their highest Ecclesiastical bodies, the constituencies of the National Alliance,—at least in the United States; so that the members, instead of being simple individuals having no representative character, shall consist of delegations from said bodies, to the number of twenty-five for each denomination having not less than five hundred ministers, or a proportional number for a smaller denomination; these delegates to be lay and clerical, of each an equal number.

The doctrinal basis of the Union is to be that of the World's Alliance as adopted in London in 1846.

Its powers are to be those only of an Advisory Council.

Its general objects will be: 1. To promote the Evangelization of the heathen by a comprehensive survey of the great missionary work, and by mutual consultation to secure the most harmonious and economical prosecution of that work throughout the world. 2. To labor for the application of the principles of the gospel to all international questions, and to secure the triumphs of universal peace. 3. To discuss and promote the cause of religious liberty.

The "Provisional Sketch" presented in this communication gives in considerable detail, the methods of organization and of work which are embraced in the plan, but as these are confessedly only provisional and suggestive, to be adopted or modified by the Union itself when formed, it does not seem necessary to dwell upon them here. Enough, perhaps, has been said, to show the general design of the movement, and something of the mode in which it is proposed to seek to carry it out.

In regard to the subject thus brought to our consideration, — the union of all Evangelical Christians in love and labor for the cause of our common Lord, — your Committee believe there can be no difference in sentiment in this body or among the churches it represents. From its earliest history the spirit of Congregationalism has been one of large and comprehensive liberality. It has ever believed that vital union with Christ is more than adherence to sect; nay, for two hundred years in its practical unselfishness, it has, in this country been too indifferent to its denominational interests, to seek to maintain its own, in the growth of the nation. Had it done so, with the zeal which has characterized some of our sister denominations, there is little reason to doubt that it would today, in membership as well as in moral power, have been the foremost religious communion in America. And especially at the present time, when assaults are multiplying on either hand from avowed unbelief, and from hierarchical and ritualistic propagandism, do we hail with joy, every manifestation of a warmer love among all true Christians, and a sweeter fellowship of spirit, and service to our common Saviour. We rejoice at the removal of each barrier that has hitherto separated the different families of his people. Such barriers, whether they be of opinion or practice, of organization or of ceremonial, we believe to be contrary to the spirit of the gospel, which must be put away before the kingdom of God can come with power, and the world can be converted to him.

The question, however, whether the union of love and labor so desirable among Christians is to be sought by an organic connection, is quite a different one. There has been of late years a growing conviction among the best men of all denominations that such attempted ties are inconvenient, and, in the infirmities of our nature, more apt to endanger, than to secure, a true union. In the work of missions, for example, there can be no doubt that much more is being done and better done by the several denominations since each has come to have its own agency for doing it, than ever before. And just as fast as the missionary spirit has increased among their members, and their prayers and gifts have abounded, just so fast have their hearts been drawn out in love towards all those who are doing a similar work. When our eyes are most intently fixed on the great field of the world, we see least of the narrow bounds which fence in our own little sectarian territories. But while we have doubts as to the wisdom of attempting to effect the purposes in view by any organic union of denominations, we have still so much at heart the beautiful result which is sought, that we cannot be indifferent to any earnest endeavor in any quarter to effect it. It is well known that a large delegation of eminent gentlemen from abroad are expected to visit this country in October, in behalf of this cause, and to attend the meeting of the World's Alliance, to be held that month in New York. The meeting will be one doubtless of great interest, and the presence of those brethren among us will be most cordially welcomed. We should deeply regret it if they should fail to meet as cordial a reception, and as warm a response to the sentiments of Christian love and fellowship they may extend, from the Congregational churches of this country, as from those of any other denomination. It would do us great injustice, if through any seeming indifference or inattention, they and the various religious bodies in Europe which they represent should receive the impression that Congregationalists who are certainly not behind any others in catholicity of spirit should be least ready to partake in any promising endeavor to promote the cause of Christian union.

While, according to the plan suggested, it will be left to the National Council of our churches to appoint, if they see fit, the delegation of twenty-five to represent them in the National Branch of the Alliance, yet as that body does not assemble till 1874, it is desired by the authors of the communication sent us that a delegation, in proportion to the number of our churches, be appointed by this General Association, to meet the World's Alliance next October. Your Committee, therefore, while expressing no opinion as to the proposed details of the business to be done on that occasion, see no harm that can be likely to come from a meeting for prayer and conference with so many brethren from other branches of the Christian family, while they should hope that great good may come from it. They would therefore respectfully recommend the adoption of the following resolution :

Resolved, That in compliance with the request which has been sent to this General Association, three ministers and two laymen be appointed to attend the meeting of the World's Evangelical Alliance, in the city of New York, in October next, for fraternal consultation and fellowship with the members of that body; it being understood however, that these delegates shall have no power to commit either the Association or the churches of the commonwealth to any plan of organic connection with said Alliance, or the religious bodies represented in it; and that they shall report their proceedings to the next annual meeting of this Association.

The report was accepted, the accompanying resolution was adopted, and the following brothers were appointed delegates, viz: Rev. Mark Hopkins, Rev. James H. Means, Edward S. Tobey, Rev. Alonzo H. Quint, and Dea. William Hyde.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

Bro. George E. Clarke, Treasurer, presented his report, which was examined by the Auditing Committee and found to be correct. They recommended that the report be printed, and that a sum equivalent to two cents for each resident church member be collected by the Treasurers of the local Conferences, and forwarded to the Treasurer of this Association. It was voted that the report be put on file and the recommendation adopted.

HOME EVANGELIZATION.

Rev. Joshua T. Tucker, in behalf of a special committee appointed at the last meeting of the Association to consider the whole subject of Home Evangelization and Home Missions, presented a report which was accepted and laid on the table.

TEMPERANCE.

Rev. John W. Chickering made a statement of the work of the Massachusetts Temperance Society.

The following resolutions, reported by the Committee of Arrangements, were adopted :

Resolved, That we have reason to rejoice in the recent action of our State Legislature by which beer is included in the Prohibitory Law; and that all lovers of sobriety and order are called to the exercise of union and vigorous action in putting into execution the law as it now stands.

Resolved, That the reported wakeful and earnest endeavors of the brewers and their allies to secure a repeal of the beer clause and to proclaim their business as at once respectable, honorable and safe, call for great vigilance on the part of all temperance men and women.

Resolved, That it is a matter of regret that the Legislature did not also include cider in the articles prohibited.

Since a symmetrical Christian character is to be sought most earnestly, and consistency is essential hereto; and since whatever habit injures the body, in so far hinders the attainment of such a character, and the use of opium and tobacco as truly as of alcoholic drinks does this: therefore

Resolved, That truth, love and righteousness alike require all Christians, and most especially all ministers, to abstain from such use.

CONGREGATIONAL HOUSE.

Rev. Isaac P. Langworthy made a statement in regard to the Congregational Building in Boston.

DISCUSSION.

After singing, and prayer by Rev. Wm. P. Paine, the following question was taken up for discussion—How can we best develop the grace of giving among our church members? The discussion was opened by Joseph S. Ropes, of Boston, and continued by Geo. T. Shelton, of Birmingham, Conn., and by Rev. Messrs. Mason Noble, Jr., John W. Harding, George R. Leavitt, Jesse H. Jones, James M. Whiton, Ephraim W. Allen, and Solon Cobb. The following resolution, presented by Rev. George R. Leavitt, was adopted.

Resolved, That this Association has heard with interest, that many churches have found the weekly offering a help in developing the grace of giving, and desire to express approval of this method of raising contributions.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The Secretary presented an abstract of his annual report, which was approved.

MASSACHUSETTS HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Rev. John W. Harding and Bro. Chas. H. Coffin were recommended as candidates for election as members of the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society.

The Association then took a recess till afternoon.

Wednesday, 2 o'clock, P. M. The Association reassembled and was opened with singing, and Rev. Thomas C. Biscoe offered prayer.

HOME EVANGELIZATION.

An abstract of the report of the Home Evangelization Committee was presented by Rev. Daniel P. Noyes, and it was voted that the report be accepted and printed.

At 3 o'clock, prayer was offered by Rev. Wm. A. Houghton, and the Association took a recess, giving place to the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, Rev. Wm. A. Stearns, its president, in the chair.

At 5½, P. M., the business of the Association was resumed.

HOME EVANGELIZATION: "CHRISTIAN NEIGHBORS."

The State Committee on Home Evangelization laid before the Association a Form of Preliminary Organization, entitled "Christian Neighbors," designed to bring together the Christian people in any new place, so as to secure to them the benefits of communion in word and work, while as yet the communicants there are too few or too much divided to form a church,—with the following preamble:

When a few Christian people find themselves providentially thrown together in some little community, at inconvenient distance from church, they OUGHT TO UNITE, in a simple way, for the promotion of their own spiritual good and that of the people about them. Putting out of sight differences about unessential matters, let them come together on terms of perfect individual equality, SIMPLY AS CHRISTIAN NEIGHBORS:—agreeing that they will try to be to one another what this name signifies; and fixing upon certain particular ways in which they will do this.

This matter was referred to a special committee consisting of Rev. Stephen H. Hayes, Rev. Luther Keene, and Bro. E. Boynton, who reported as follows, and the report was adopted :

Your committee have considered the question submitted to them with less time and thought than they could wish, but they find that many churches have been gathered from the simplest beginnings, and that often neighborhoods have been greatly benefited and souls saved by Christian effort where churches could not be formed; and they find also with sorrow that many opportunities of great usefulness have been lost, and ground that ought to have been held has passed into other hands for want of some plan of effort, and are persuaded that much may be accomplished in reaching neighborhoods and outlying districts by some method which the churches shall propose and approve; and they rejoice to believe that our church polity is safe and will not suffer by such methods, and that this polity is wise enough and flexible enough to do all necessary work in the Kingdom of Christ on earth, and that on a truly Scriptural basis, and under the watchful eye of our pastors and churches we are not likely to encourage loose and unsafe methods. Therefore your Committee recommend the following basis of action for the neighborhoods in question :

BASIS.

“We acknowledge God’s claims upon our gratitude, love and faithful service, our need of salvation through Christ, and our dependence on the Holy Spirit. We receive the Bible, God’s inspired word, as our only safe guide in faith and duty. We recognize the obligation to keep the Sabbath holy, to worship God, to train our children in the love and fear of God, and to do good to all men as we have ability and opportunity.

“Holding these truths and desiring to secure these objects,”

Two forms are suggested, to be modified as circumstances may require :

FORMS.

One form is as follows :

“The undersigned agree to unite as the Christian Neighbors of

“We purpose to do what we can, to maintain a real Christian fellowship among ourselves, and to awaken the love of the Saviour in the hearts of those within our reach. ALSO, in a neighborly way, to be attentive to strangers, the young, the sick and the poor.”

“The association is organized by the appointment of a Chairman and Clerk; with such other officers and such committees as may, from time to time, be necessary.”

“It will hold regular meetings for prayer and conference; and adopt such other measures as may promise to promote the above named object.”

Another form, more explicit, is as follows :

“The undersigned agree to unite as the Christian Neighbors of

“WE PURPOSE to do what we can, both jointly and severally, to prove ourselves true Christian neighbors to one another and to the people about us; to maintain a Christian fellowship and activity; and to awaken and cherish the love of the Saviour, in all within our reach.

“To these ends, we propose—To maintain Prayer-meetings, and a Sunday school—with the preaching of the Gospel as often as may be practicable :

“To hold meetings for the service of God in song;—obtaining suitable instruction in sacred music :

“To make arrangements for securing a prompt welcome of strangers :

“To give neighborly sympathy and help to the poor, and persons temporarily out of work :

“To see that the sick receive thoughtful care, and that persons are always ready to watch with them :

“To look after neglected children; or youth that may be in peculiar moral danger.

“To promote Temperance and good morals :

“To provide occasions of wholesome and pleasant social intercourse, bringing all ages together.

“The Christian Neighbors will have a Chairman, Clerk and Treasurer :—with Committees, of at least one man and one woman, to look after so many of the aforementioned objects as can be provided for.

“A record shall be kept of all prayer meetings and meetings for business; and, so far as convenient, of all work reported and its results.

“Once a month at a regular prayer meeting, these records shall be reviewed, and the question of any advance or improvement may be considered.

“If a minister is to be engaged for an extended term, all persons aiding in good faith in his support and in promoting the objects of the Association, have a right to vote upon any nomination.”

AMENDMENTS OF RULES.

The State Committee on Home Evangelization recommended modifications of the Rules of the Association, as follows :

In Article XII, Section 2, paragraph 2, instead of “A Committee on Home Evangelization,” read A State Committee on the Work of the Churches. In Article XIV, Section 2, omit from the end of the paragraph the words, “and Home Evangelization.”

Which recommendations, after being laid over the usual time, were adopted.

The Association then took a recess till evening.

Wednesday, 7 $\frac{3}{4}$ P. M. The Association met for conference and prayer under the lead of the Moderator, who read the 17th chapter of John. The following persons, with others, took part in the exercises by prayer or remarks,—Rev. Messrs. Nahum Gale, Stephen R. Dennen, Josiah W. Turner, Asa Mann, Charles Seccombe, Joshua T. Tucker, Marcus Ames, Hiram W. Gilbert.

The meeting was closed with singing, and the benediction pronounced by the Moderator.

THIRD DAY.

Thursday, June 19. The Association reassembled at 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ o'clock, A. M., and half an hour was spent in devotional exercises led by Dea. William Thurston.

At 9 o'clock the Moderator took the chair. The roll was called, and after prayer by the Moderator, the minutes were read.

SESSION OF 1874.

Voted, That the session of 1874 be held with the First Church in Lynn; and the following were chosen a Provisional Committee: Rev. Stephen R. Dennen, Dea. J. W. Abbott, Rev. Albert H. Currier, Dea. N. C. Rollins, and Rev. Edward S. Atwood.

The Association designated Essex South Association to appoint a preacher before the Lord's Supper.

CHAPELS.

Rev. Chas. B. Rice presented the following resolutions in respect to the erection of Chapels, which were adopted.

Resolved, That the importance of adequate provision for the seasonable erection of Chapels, in places where there is no church organization, should lead the churches to consider the needs of the population in such localities, and to furnish the American Congregational Union with the funds necessary for the erection of such Chapels wherever they are needed throughout the State.

Resolved, That local organizations auxiliary to the American Congregational Union, or action in the District Conferences of churches, in connection with the American Congregational Union, to meet local wants as respects houses of worship, would receive our hearty approval.

On motion of Rev. A. H. Quint, it was Resolved, That the central idea for the sessions of the General Association is the consideration of the state of Religion, and of the various methods of the work of the churches in the cause of the Redeemer. And that it is desirable that the Provisional Committee for the next year arrange the programme in that special view.

SEAMEN.

Rev. Stephen H. Hayes offered the following resolution, which was adopted.

Whereas, Among the great interests of the Redeemer's Kingdom, are the four or five millions of seamen, from all nations, toiling for our common welfare, and on an average wearing out in less than twelve years. And whereas they are without home, or country, or religious privilege, as we count these blessings, and yet are seldom sceptical, easily reached by the gospel, and manly in the defence of it. And whereas our commerce is increasing, our vessels multiplying, there having been 10,000 entries of various classes of vessels at the single port of Boston in 1872. And whereas, whether Christians or not, seamen represent our Christianity among the nations: Therefore,

Resolved, That we ought to remember more earnestly in our prayers this useful but much neglected class of men, and that we should increase our efforts and our contributions to furnish them with the Bread of Life.

BENEVOLENCE.

On motion of Rev. Joseph Boardman, it was Voted, That a Committee of five be appointed to report at the next annual meeting what action, if any, this Association may wisely take in the endeavor to lead the members of our churches to the more general practice of proportionate and systematic giving of property to Christ's work.

And Joseph S. Ropes, Rev. Jas. M. Whiton, Rev. John D. Kingsbury, Rev. Joseph Boardman, and Rev. Eli B. Clark, were chosen such committee.

ABSENTEES.

Rev. Elnathan E. Strong presented the following resolution:

Resolved, In view of the fact that our statistics show that one sixth of the enrolled members of our churches are living away from the churches to which they belong, the Association calls attention to what it can but regard as a great evil, resulting in detriment to the piety and efficiency of these absentees and to the general success of the Kingdom of Christ. And we recommend to pastors and churches a more vigorous effort to enforce a rule requiring that in all ordinary cases members absent for more than one year shall apply for letters of dismissal and recommendation to the church where they reside.

This resolution was referred to a committee consisting of Rev. Elnathan E. Strong, Rev. Albert H. Plumb, and William R. Hill, with instructions to report at the next meeting of the Association.

On motion of Rev. Francis N. Peloubet, it was Voted, That the Association tender to Rev. Daniel P. Noyes, their sincere and hearty thanks for the valuable service that he has rendered to the work of Home Evangelization in this State, in laying good foundations for its more rapid and efficient development.

MINISTERIAL AID.

Rev. John Pike made a statement in behalf of the Board of Ministerial Aid, and after remarks from several members of the Association, it was Voted, That the ministerial fund to provide for disabled and superannuated ministers, and their families, be put upon the list of our charities and that we recommend that a collection be taken up for it by our churches annually.

DISCUSSION.

After singing, the Association entered upon the discussion of the following subject—The relation of the church to the non-professing part of our population, and how to reach them.

The discussion was opened by Rev. William C. Pond, of California. He was followed by Rev. William P. Paine, Rev. Luther Keene, Rev. Jesse H. Jones, Rev. Asa Mann, Rev. Alonzo H. Quint, Rev. Joshua W. Wellman, and Rev. Nahum Gale.

VOTE OF THANKS.

On motion of Rev. James P. Kimball, it was

Resolved, That the thanks of the Association be tendered to the First Church in Natick and its pastor, for receiving us so cordially to their homes and extending to us such ample Christian hospitality. Thanks are also tendered to the choir of the First church for leading us so acceptably in the service of song, and to the several railroads which have given return tickets to persons attending the meeting. These railroads are, the Boston & Albany, Boston Clinton & Fitchburg, Old Colony, Connecticut River, and New Haven & Northampton.

Voted, That the thanks of the Association be given to the Moderator for his courteous manner in presiding.

Voted, That when we adjourn, we adjourn to meet for the sermon and sacrament, at the close of which the Association stand adjourned sine die.

The minutes were read, amended, and approved, after which the Association took a recess until two o'clock, P. M.

Thursday, 2 o'clock, P. M. A sermon was preached by Rev. Samuel J. Spalding, of Newburyport, from Matt. xxvi, 20: "And when the even was come, he sat down with the twelve."

The devotional services were conducted by Rev. Franklin P. Chapin.

After the sermon the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered, Rev. William C. Pond and Rev. George E. Adams officiating.

JAMES H. MEANS, Moderator.

JAS. P. KIMBALL, Registrar.

JAMES H. FITTS, Assistant Registrar.

II. OBJECT.—Its object is to secure Christian union, fellowship, and intercourse among the ministers and churches; promote spirituality; and to cooperate with one another and with other ecclesiastical bodies in advancing the Redeemer's kingdom.

III. DOCTRINAL BASIS.—This Association agrees to the Declaration of Faith adopted by the National Council of Congregational Churches in the year 1865; the doctrines therein set forth being understood by us to be distinctly those which, from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the gospel.

IV. DENOMINATIONAL BASIS.—Being based exclusively upon Congregational principles, this Association shall, under no circumstances, exercise ecclesiastical authority over churches or individuals, or interfere with the government or discipline of the churches, or consent to hear appeals, or give advice in ecclesiastical causes of any kind.

V. MEMBERS.—Each District Association of ministers consenting to the principles above stated, may appoint, annually, two delegates; and each District Conference of churches, also so consenting, may appoint, annually, three delegates, who shall be laymen; which delegates, with the Secretary, Registrar, Treasurer, and the pastor of the church with which the annual session is held, shall compose the General Association. Delegates from corresponding bodies, ministers appointed to preach sermons, and chairmen of committees attending to present reports, shall be honorary members, together with such other persons as the Association may vote to admit.

VI. OFFICERS.—1. A Secretary, a Registrar, and a Treasurer, shall be chosen by ballot, each to serve three years from the close of the session at which the choice was made; to these offices any member of any Congregational church connected with this body shall be eligible.

2. A Moderator, and an Assistant Registrar, shall be chosen by ballot from the members at each session, to serve during that session.

3. The Secretary shall conduct the correspondence of the Association, collect the statistics of the ministers and churches, and have charge of the printing thereof, distribute the publications of the Association, and preserve, for the permanent use of the Association, copies of all its publications.

Registrar shall render his aid. He shall seasonably notify the time and place of each annual session.

5. The Treasurer shall receive all money raised for the use of the Association, disburse the same as directed, and present an annual report, to be audited as the Association may direct.

6. The Secretary, Registrar, and Treasurer, shall be ex-officio members of the Association, and be the Committee of Publication unless another be chosen. Their travelling expenses in attending the several sessions shall be paid by the Association.

VII. QUORUM.—Twenty-five delegates shall constitute a quorum.

VIII. ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual meeting shall be held on the third Tuesday of June, at four o'clock P. M., (or at some other more convenient hour,) at such place as shall have been duly designated.

X. CORRESPONDENCE.—Official fraternal intercourse with the several State Congregational organizations, and with other denominations, is sufficiently had by the representation of this body in the National Council of the Congregational churches of the United States.

XI. ORGANIZATION.—The pastor of the church of the place of meeting, or the Secretary, may call the Association to order, and preside in the meeting until it be properly organized. The certificates of the delegates present shall be presented,—only the names of members being read by the Registrar. The Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator and an Assistant Registrar, and the Moderator shall open the session with prayer. A Committee on Credentials shall then be appointed, to whom all certificates shall be referred.

(3.) A Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the pastor, or some member of the church shall be one, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the Committee. But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

And the church of the place of meeting selected, is requested to make preparation to celebrate the Lord's supper in the course of the service. The Lord's supper shall be administered, generally, without remarks.

XVI. RULES OF ORDER.—1. Every motion, on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing; and no motion shall be opened to discussion until it be seconded.

2. The Moderator may speak to points of order in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

3. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question, without leave of the Association.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, except for adjournment, laying on the table, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question. The previous question is this: Shall the main question be now put? And the effect of adopting it shall be to put an end to debate, and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon the amendments, if any are pending, and then upon the main question proper.

5. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair; and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members, to call him to order.

7. No member shall leave the Association before the session is closed, except with the consent of the body; nor shall any one leave the house during a sitting, without the consent of the Moderator.

XVII. AMENDMENTS.—1. Any of the above Rules, except the first five, may be amended at any annual session by a two-thirds vote, the proposed amendment having been submitted in writing on the day previous to that of action.

2. Amendments to either of the first five articles shall not be made except upon their proposal at the annual meeting next prior to that of action; and after notice has been sent to the several Associations and Conferences; and by a two-thirds vote.

REPORT
WORK OF THE CHURCHES AND STATE OF RELIGION:
OF
THE STATE COMMITTEE ON HOME EVANGELIZATION.*
PRESENTED TO THE GENERAL ASSOCIATION, AT NATICK,
JUNE 18th, 1873.

The General Association of 1872 adopted resolutions in which it expressed itself "thankful for the success which has already rewarded its efforts in the work of Home Evangelization"; "yet"—the resolutions proceed—"recognizing the magnitude of the work still resting upon its hands, deems the present no time for lessening its efforts" in behalf of this movement, "but on the contrary, feels called upon to enter upon a more active prosecution of the design which has already enlisted so much labor and prayer." The Association then specifies certain particular ways, in which it considers that this design ought to be more actively "prosecuted by the churches, declaring that it sees "increased reasons for urging upon the churches a more exact and thorough mapping out of the Christian work before them, in marking the boundaries of their parishes, in making out full lists of the families and individuals for whom they are responsible, and in adopting all feasible measures for strengthening Christian ties, and promoting the peculiar work of the churches."

* This Committee is hereafter to be known as the STATE COMMITTEE ON THE WORK OF THE CHURCHES.

The Association then proposed a conference of Committees,—to consist of its own Committee on Home Evangelization, the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, and a Special Committee, with “a view of determining” the whole matter respecting the “form” under which the work of its Committee, with certain portions also of the Society’s work, should hereafter be carried on.

The Committees met in conference, as requested. This Conference, in its first meeting, recommended some very important additions to the recognized work of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society. In a second meeting, and after a very full comparison of views, it determined in general the sphere of action hereafter to be assigned to your Committee. There was a general agreement, that the work of the churches within their own parishes belongs to themselves alone; and that the privilege of promoting correspondence among the churches, of collating such reports as they may choose to make to one another, in this Association, and of gathering therefrom a general yearly Report of church work and a Narrative of the State of Religion throughout the Commonwealth, appropriately belongs to those to whom the Association assigns this duty, and not to any voluntary Society.

In carrying out the work thus left upon their hands, your Committee has held three meetings, one in the fall, one during Anniversary week, and one this morning. These meetings were all attended by brethren from parts of the State remote from each other, and have been of important service, as we believe, in promoting the communion of the churches in their work. They also held a public Meeting, on Wednesday, May 28th, at which the following resolutions were discussed and adopted :

RESOLUTIONS OF MAY 28TH, 1873.

Resolved, 1, That in all our conflicts with evil, our only hope is in the promised presence of our Lord and the gift of the Holy Ghost.

Resolved, 2, That we look to the church of Jesus Christ, as the one grand instrument and channel of divine operation; and the appointed agency on which, under God, we must ever chiefly rely for the salvation of men and the establishment of heavenly society throughout the earth.

Resolved, 3, That the churches of Massachusetts are imperatively called upon, at the present time, not to expect to do all their work in occasional seasons of revival, but, on the contrary, to organize systems of constant effort, enlisting, so far as practicable, all their members.

Resolved, 4, That, to this end, it is important that each church should define its work; maintaining a register, not only of all attendants upon its worship, but also and especially, of all non-attendants clearly within its care.

Resolved, 5, That it is essential to the success of the churches in their arduous task, that they stand shoulder to shoulder, helping one another in every possible way; freely communicating to each other the facts illustrating their position and experience; and stately uniting in the consideration of these facts and of the lessons thus providentially given. We cordially indorse the practice, now frequent in the local conferences, of regular reports and discussions on the work of the churches; and we would call the attention of all conferences to the importance of making this yearly review as searching and as earnest as possible.

Finally, resolved, that we call upon the General Association of this State to redouble its efforts for rousing the churches to earnest, organized, united and enthusiastic action. And we urgently invite our fellow believers throughout the country, to join in the prayer and endeavor, that the churches of our land may more and more be mighty and beloved, true temples of the Holy Ghost, and the dearest homes of the people.

In commencing a survey of the past year, your Committee cannot refrain from an expression of gratitude, that, so much earlier than it had ventured to hope, effective provision has been made for three important objects — the seasonable formation of new churches, the employment of ministerial assistants, wherever needed, and of lay helpers, men or women. • The Home Missionary Society, which has now accepted this addition to its responsibility, is in most respects as able as it is willing to fulfil its requirements. In one respect, however, its power is inadequate.

In order to make certain the timely formation of a new church, in a growing community, it is often necessary to build a small chapel before there are people on the ground able and willing to do it for themselves. Some other denominations, more eager for growth than our own has been, have already provided funds for this purpose. We commend the subject to the attention of the Association, and offer, for its adoption, the following resolution :

Resolved, That the attention of the American Congregational Union is invited to the importance of some adequate provision for the seasonable erection of Chapels. The Association hopes that some effective plan for the accomplishment of this object will be set in operation at the earliest moment, throughout the State.

Your Committee herewith lay before the Association a Form of Preliminary Organization,* entitled "CHRISTIAN NEIGHBORS"—designed to bring together the Christian people in any new place, and to secure the benefits of Christian communion in word and work, while as yet the communicants are too few or too much divided to form a church; and we request that this paper may be referred to a special committee; with instructions to examine it and to report to the Association during the present session.

Furthermore, inasmuch as it is the principal duty of this Committee to prepare an Annual Report on the work of the churches and State of Religion, we recommend that hereafter it be known as THE STATE COMMITTEE ON THE WORK OF THE CHURCHES.

It is understood that some of the Local Conferences have already made a similar change of name.

THE WORK OF THE CHURCHES.

The reports from most of the Local Conferences have been made, this year, in a gratifying manner. We had feared lest, while the new adjustment was in progress, the impression might get abroad, that the duties of this Committee had ceased. Undoubtedly, to some extent, this impression prevailed. But it is very evident that the great body of the pastors throughout the State are cordially cooperating with us; and that they are finding the blanks issued by the Committee to be a valuable help in preparing their annual statements. We have no doubt that this will more and more be the experience of the pastors; and that, by degrees, their returns to their respective Conferences will furnish materials for more instructive "Narratives" than have hitherto been possible. Doing this, they interchange the results of their experience and continually encourage one another to the utmost development of the working power of their churches. The churches are thus their own Superintendents.

The reports received vary greatly in length. Some Conferences which have hitherto sent in only meagre statements, now occupy large space. We have made no effort to reduce them to equality. They speak for themselves—and, so far as the nature of the case allows, in their own way.

ANDOVER CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 22; pastors, 18; stated preachers, 4; pulpits vacant, none; churches aided, 1;

The report prepared by the Chairman of the Committee of this Conference is here given nearly in full.

CHURCHES AND MINISTERS. The number of churches is one less than a year ago; the Free church, Lawrence, having dissolved, December 1, 1872. The West church, Draçut, is hereafter to be known as the Pawtucket church.

Two pastors have been dismissed; and one minister has been installed. Three ministers have entered upon their labors as stated preachers. All the pulpits are filled.

MEMBERSHIP. At the close of the year, the communicants numbered, males, 1287; females, 3210; total, 4497. Of this number, 1099, or 25 per cent, are reported absent.

Five churches report no additions. The remaining 17 churches received on confession, 249; by letter, 133; total, 382. The removals were, by letter, 109; by death, 53; by excommunication, 3; total, 165. The net gain was 217; which is shared by 14 churches. Six churches have suffered a loss of 34; and in the other 2 churches, the membership remains unchanged.

THE BAPTISMS. Adults, 135; infants, 69. Of the 249 persons who united upon confession, 114 had been dedicated to the Lord in infant baptism. The South church, Andover, reports that, among its members, the baptism of infants is the rule, and the neglect of it the exception. Likewise from North Andover, we hear, that most of the children have thus been dedicated to Christ.

THE SABBATH SCHOOLS have a membership of 4884; and an average attendance of 3506; or 72 percent. This is an increase of 349 members over last year; and an improvement of 4 percent in average attendance. Two Schools show a decrease, and 7, a large gain.

The pastor of the Central church, Lawrence, devotes the afternoon service to an exposition of the lesson—an exercise which proves of great profit. At Phillips Academy, Andover, Biblical exercises are attended on the Lord's day by 180 students. The reports from the churches indicate that the "Lesson Papers" are generally very much liked.

SABBATH SERVICES. Some of the churches in Andover report a diminished attendance; and dread a growing disposition to devote to public worship only half the day. On the other hand, North Andover reports a marked increase, equally noticeable in the afternoon and in the morning.

An attempt has been made, in Lowell, to meet this evil, of a small afternoon audience, by deferring the second service till 6 o'clock—the Sunday school following the morning service; while that of the evening is succeeded by a prayer meeting. Up to the present time, the result is most satisfactory. The Kirk Street church is holding but one preaching service.

MISSION WORK. Some of the churches appear to have been negligent in their reports of work. Otherwise we should be compelled to consider that not a few of them are failing to meet their responsibilities. The West church, Andover, sustains two prayer-meetings, weekly, in out-districts. The Seminary church sends out its students regularly to labor in two branch Sunday schools. The Pawtucket church, Dracut, carries on two prayer-meetings in out-districts; one of which gathers in a goodly number of non-attendants. The Lawrence Street church, Lawrence, has a branch Sunday school of 150 members. For a part of the year, out-district prayer-meetings have been held by the church of Methuen, and the church of Tewksbury, with encouraging results. The Appleton Street church, Lowell, has recently mapped out the parish for which it counts itself responsible, and has organized a "Mission Circle" to work therein. Its endeavor is to enlist as many of its members as possible in canvassing this parish, and "to connect every house with some church." The Pawtucket church, Dracut, is at work upon the same plan. The First church, Lowell, and the churches of Ballardvale and Tewksbury, have likewise defined their parishes. The Andover Conference, at its meeting in the fall of 1872, recommended this measure to all its churches. Another year may see it still more largely adopted.

TEMPERANCE. In the cities, there is "free rum." The hope of making the law effective seemed, last year, to be growing less and less. This fact is leading some to lean more strongly toward moral suasion. In Lawrence, where the sad workings of intemperance are reported as "fearful," a "Reform Club" has been organized, and has done much good; leading hundreds of drunkards and moderate drinkers to sign the pledge; thereby saving many young men, and giving a check to the drinking habits of the community. Methuen, likewise, reports a "temperance revival," in which the town has been aroused.

THE PRAYER MEETINGS appear to be generally in a vigorous condition. Some country churches however feel the loss of the young men. The report of the Lawrence Street church, Lawrence, dwells upon the advantages of "variety." By adopting the form of a "promise" or of a "praise" meeting, and by introducing Scripture recitation or reading upon a given topic, it has added to the interest.

CONTRIBUTIONS. These are given in a Table, furnished for the use of the churches.* The Pawtucket church, Dracut, has systematized its methods of collection, using envelopes and cards, and has thus increased them a hundred percent.

UPON THE WHOLE, the reports are highly encouraging. In Andover, there exists "a healthy religious interest better than the average of the last ten years"; and there has been "gain and improvement." At Ballardvale, "all is harmonious"; they "rejoice in conversions, and are hoping for more." At North Chelmsford, there is a visible improvement in the material, intellectual and spiritual tone of the community; there are promising tokens of harvest. The Pawtucket Church, Dracut, reports "quite a thorough organization for Christian work. The several committees are growing in efficiency and are doing good service." In Lawrence, society has been becoming more settled; in some of the churches there has been a steady growth, and Christ's kingdom has gained. The Lowell churches have increased in strength—with the exception of one, for six months deprived of the services of its pastor. The First, the Kirk Street, and the John Street churches have all been especially blessed, and have largely added to their membership. At North Andover, there has been an improvement, not only in attendance but in seriousness and interest; and new converts are adding new life to the social meetings. Tewksbury rejoices over a neat and well arranged vestry; and still more, over the in-gathering of nonattendants, and a steady gain in both numbers and interest. Upon a review of the year's history "we have fresh reason for laying strong hold upon the Divine promise: 'In due season ye shall reap, if ye faint not.'"

BERKSHIRE NORTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 17; pastors, 9; stated preachers, 4; pulpits vacant, 4; churches aided, 3.

The Committee of this Conference, in reviewing the past year, find cause of congratulation in the fact that "so many vacancies in the pastorates have been filled, and that the churches are so well equipped for efficient work." They "call attention to the increase of membership in many of the churches, and the enlarged contributions." The enterprise at the White Oaks has nearly tripled its membership, and has continued to make the desert to blossom. In a peculiar manner, God has been pleased to crown with his blessings the labors and prayers of the founder of this church, and of those who have taken his mantle and caught his spirit."

The Report concludes as follows:

* See Appendix.

ORGANIZED CHURCH WORK. "Your committee would emphasize the necessity of a complete occupation of the territory belonging to us as a Conference; and urge such union in the development, by each church, of the parish idea, that each may feel the sustaining and overlapping cooperation of the others.

"We would urge the division of each parish into neighborhoods, each one under the charge of committees of the church, who shall feel responsibility for the members of the church or congregation, and also for the habitual neglectors of the sanctuary, within specified bounds; and who shall make report to the church, from time to time, so that its members shall be kept informed of the condition and wants of its whole field." "We believe that each church should adopt the principle of church responsibility for communities; should define and distribute its work, so as to develop a sense of individual responsibility among its members; should have such an organization for this purpose as shall associate its members as a working society; and should thus render the changes in the pastorates—inevitable as things now are—no longer occasions for the cessation of church work and for relief from individual responsibility." "We would urge upon ministers and churches the adoption of some plan—either one of those recommended by the State Committee, or some other—by which the parish idea may be put into systematic operation."

BERKSHIRE SOUTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 17; pastors, 7; stated preachers, 9; pulpit vacant, 1; churches aided, 3. Towns without regular services, 2. The communicants in Congregational, Baptist, Methodist and Episcopal churches are 14.97 percent of the population.

The Committee of this Conference, Rev. Mason Noble, Chairman, has presented an elaborate report covering the whole of Berkshire county, and showing the population of each town, the number of churches of the four denominations above mentioned, the number of communicants in each church and each town, and the percentage of communicants to the whole population. The tables will be found in the Appendix.

It should be observed that in these tables it is assumed that the number of absentees is balanced by that of resident communicants who are connected elsewhere.

From the body of the Report, we extract the following view of the condition of the several towns and churches. It appears to be worthy of being put upon record.

Becket. Three churches, Congregational, North, 107 members; Congregational, Centre, 56; Baptist, 73. The communicants are $17\frac{1}{3}$ percent of the population. The old Centre Church alone is connected with this Conference. Thirty of its 56 members are absentees. The loss in its membership during the year was 3. Average attendance at Sunday school, 22. Contributions, \$40.41.

The minister is a stated preacher.

Egremont. Three churches. Congregational, South, 122 members; Baptist, North, 49; Methodist, 65. The communicants form about 25 percent of the population. Gain in Congregational membership, 4. The average attendance at the Sunday school, 75. Contributions, $200.

The minister, a stated preacher.

Great Barrington. Six churches. At the centre, Congregational, 207 members; Episcopal, 121; Methodist 78; at Housatonic, Congregational, 90; Methodist, 72; at Vandeuenville, Episcopal, 42. The communicants form 14 percent of the population.

The church at the Centre has gained 10 during the year. Average attendance at its Sunday school, 130. Contributions, $530.92. The families in this parish number 250.

The minister, a pastor.

The church at Housatonic has gained 3. Average attendance at Sunday school, 65. Contributions, $49.

The minister, a stated preacher.

Lee. Four churches. Also two regular congregations, at East Lee, and South Lee; the latter having a resident minister, and the former being under the care of the pastor of the First church. The Congregational church has 410 members; the Baptist, 81; the Episcopal, 72; the Methodist, 102. The communicants are 17.68 percent of the population. The Congregational church has lost within the year, 10 by death, and 8 by dismissal; and receiving 11 on profession and 4 by letter, finds a net loss of 3. This church has for years aided very largely the enterprise at East Lee, its pastor bestowing much labor on it—and with most gratifying success.

Lenox. Three churches. Congregational, 179 members; Episcopal, 43; Methodist, 50; total, 272; or nearly 15 percent of the inhabitants. Net loss of the Congregational church, 4. Average attendance at its Sunday school, 60. Contributions, $125.18.

The minister, a pastor.

Monterey. One church. Congregational, with 103 members, or 15 $\frac{3}{4}$ percent of the population; which is the largest percentage of any one church within the geographical limits of the Conference. Rev. George W. Kinne, stated preacher, has sent a full and instructive report, from which the following facts are gathered. The number of families under the care of the church is 120. Several families are now regular in attendance who two years ago were neglecters. In several, family worship has been established. One meeting has been maintained in an out-district. Twelve persons have been added to the church, on profession of faith; and its net gain for the year is 8. The ratio of giving has been largely increased.

A Church Circle. Early in 1872, a meeting of young Christian people was called, and, contrary to the first expectation it was continued weekly through the year. It was designed for the cultivation of a habit of Christian intercourse. All formality was dispensed with, and every person was made to feel at liberty to take part. The attendance was not large; and a leader was scarcely needed—except for a prompt and appropriate opening and closing. Generally, direction was given to the conversation by the suggestion of some theme of practical interest in reference to the Christian life; or sometimes, a passage of Scripture was the centre of thought. The influence of this "Circle" has been unexpectedly gratifying. There is a better acquaintance, and more freedom; and individuals have noticeably progressed in Christian experience.

The contributions of this church amounted to $80.90.

New Marlborough. Five churches. A Congregational church, at the Centre, of 70 families and 108 members; another at Southville, 39 members; and a third, at Mill River, 67 members. Total membership, 211. Also a Baptist church of 64, and a Methodist church of 20 members; all together constituting $14\frac{1}{2}$ percent of the population of the town. There was a quiet improvement of the state of religion in the parish of the First church, through the year, the regular meetings being full of interest, preparing the way for the blessing since bestowed. Average attendance at the three Sunday schools, 185. Contributions of the First church, \$401.

All three churches have pastors.

Otis. Population, 960. Two churches. Congregational, 60 members; Baptist, 11 members—but with no regular services. Communicants, $7\frac{1}{2}$ percent of the population. No addition to the Congregational church. Loss, 6. Average attendance at its Sunday school, 75. Contributions, \$10.

The minister, a stated preacher.

Sandisfield. Two churches. Congregational, 153 members; Baptist, 77; together embracing about $15\frac{1}{2}$ percent of the population. Loss of the Congregational church, 2. Its congregation is now temporarily divided, part having removed to a village called New Boston, and a part still worshipping in the old centre. Previous to the removal, the Sunday school averaged, 110. Contributions, \$22.

Sheffield. Four churches. Two Methodist, numbering together 227 members; Congregational, 137; and Episcopal, 27: making up in all, $16\frac{3}{4}$ percent of the population. The Congregational parish numbers 123 families. The sittings are free. Gain in church membership, 1. Average attendance at Sunday school, 82. Contributions, \$437.50.

The minister is pastor.

Stockbridge. Four churches. Two Congregational, of 232 and 53 members; in both, 285; Episcopal, 66; Methodist, 55; in all, 403; or $19\frac{1}{2}$ percent of the population. Fourteen persons joined the church at the Centre on confession of faith; its net gain was 5. It has under its care 136 families. Its members sustain a branch Sunday school at Glendale; three weekly prayer meetings in out-neighborhoods; extra prayer meetings and preaching services were also held; and there were 15 or 20 hopeful conversions. The general condition of the out-districts has improved. They have preaching once a month, by the pastor. Neglecters are more and more accepting invitations to attend the district meetings. There has been a marked improvement during the year. The kingdom of Christ has gained. Average attendance at Sunday school, 150. Contributions, \$1,395.47.

The church at Curtisville has lost 2; its Sunday school has averaged 60; its contributions have amounted to $70.50. Rev. Albert Nash, a Methodist, has supplied its pulpit.

Tyringham, from which Monterey was set off in 1847, has a Methodist and a Baptist church, with an aggregate membership of 101, or 18 percent of the population. Average attendance at Sunday school, about 70.

West Stockbridge. Three churches. Two Congregational: the old church at the Centre, of 41 members; the church at the village, of 102; and a Methodist church, of 30; containing in all, 10½ percent of the population. The village church has lost 3 members, with no addition. Its Sunday school averages 100. Contribution, $65.92. It furnishes the Superintendent and several teachers for a branch Sunday school at State Line.

The "old Church" has neither minister or deacons. Its former pastor preaches occasionally in the meeting house, and at other times in his own house. There has been considerable interest, with some conversions in connection with neighborhood prayer meetings. Six additions. No losses.

Mount Washington contained in 1870 a population of 256, mostly living in a hollow on the top of the mountain known as "the Dome," in the southwestern corner of the county. A chapel has been built, by the help of the Congregational churches of southern Berkshire, and religious services are maintained a part of the time.

Alford. The population of this town in 1870 was 430—a loss of 31 in five years. It has a pretty good house of worship, a few church members, but no regular services—a condition of things utterly discreditable to the Congregational churches of this state.

SUMMARY. "The territory of this Conference has a population of 24,083. If we omit 25 percent as under age, there remain 18,062 souls who should be in the churches. The six Baptist churches have a membership of 355; the eight Episcopal churches, 371; the eleven Methodist churches, 760; and our 17 Congregational churches, 2156: in all, 3642; leaving 14,420 who are not communicants in evangelical churches. These figures are not exact, and yet after all allowances have been made, it remains true that not more than one in four or five of our adult population give hopeful evidence of a saving knowledge of Christ. What are we doing for the remainder?"

"Let the facts of the last five years answer. Our churches report 138 fewer numbers than five years ago. This is in great part owing to a revision of catalogues. But in 1868, the additions as compared with removals showed a gain of 3; in 1869, a loss of 39; in 1870, a gain of 4; in 1871, a loss of 6; in 1872, a gain of 12; and in the five years, a loss of 26."

Must we not suppose that there is some connection between this failure of churches in their proper work, and the prevalent instability of the pastorate? Probably the connection is to be found in a common cause of the two—the lack of earnestness.

THE BROOKFIELD CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 21; pastors, 14; pastor elect, 1; stated preachers,

2; stated preacher, furnished half the time "from the Methodist Conference,"*; pulpits vacant, 3; church aided, 1.

THE PASTORATE. "During the year one pastor has been dismissed by council, one has died, and three have been installed. The pastor of the church in Brimfield, in the autumn became unable to perform his pastoral duties, and by eminent medical authority was ordered to rest for months. The people were unwilling to give him up; and therefore offered him a vacation of four months, with salary continued; and secured another faithful man to labor with them while they waited for their pastor's return. And now the delegation from Brimfield report 'thanksgiving and praise for the prospect of the returning health of our pastor, Rev. M. B. Boardman, in whom we, as a people, are so well united.'"

"One of the smaller churches became disheartened by what seemed to be a comparative failure in the ordinary ministrations of the gospel; and pastor and people united in seeking relief from their embarrassment through the dismissal of the pastor, by council. A council was convened which unanimously advised against making any change in the pastorate. These facts would indicate that the churches of the Brookfield Conference are not, at the present time, moving in the direction of short pastorates."

SPIRITUAL GROWTH. "An encouraging fact is brought out, that even where there is a strong opposition minority in a church, there may yet be spiritual blessings, resulting in the conversion of sinners."

"Although there has been no general revival within the bounds of the Conference during the past year, there is much that calls for devout thanksgiving. One of our largest churches reports, as fruit of a revival the year previous, a larger ingathering than has been reaped in any previous year for a quarter of a century. In another church, there has been a renewed religious interest dating from the week of prayer, resulting in several hopeful conversions and more religious life than has existed there for years. In still another, there has been more than usual religious interest in connection with the adoption of a plan for division of labor in church work, that has begun well and promises to be productive of increasing good in the future. In one church, interest was awakened in connection with meetings held by Mr. Burnell, and has resulted in several conversions."

"THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS are active and efficient in spiritual labors. Bible readings have been instituted which have awakened lively interest and elicited much thought and inquiry."

SERVICES. "The afternoon preaching service has been given up in one instance, and the plan is reported as operating favorably, in securing a larger attendance at the morning service and also at the evening conference meeting."

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION. "How best to reach those in outlying districts who do not attend religious meetings at the established places of

* It is to be feared that no instance can be found in which this liberality has been exemplified by the Home Missionary Society. The Committee of the Conference remark that 'this church is reported as yet thoroughly in sympathy with the doctrines and practice of the churches of the Brookfield Conference.'

worship, is a question that returns to the churches for answer. In one town, three years ago, an agent of the American Sunday School Union established six Sabbath schools in six of the thirteen school-houses of the town, and gathered into them from 150 to 200 persons who were not accustomed to attend religious meetings. Five of the six schools have been given up, and some who formerly went to the meetings at the centre of the town, and were drawn to these schools, now go nowhere."

REVIEW. "In several of the churches, there have been additions by profession and by letter; and we believe there has been life and interest in them all. But while we would rejoice in the conversion of a single soul within the bounds of a conference, and while we are receiving many priceless blessings through the cross of Christ, can we believe that our churches are exerting all the power that is inherent in them? Can it be that the power of the Infinite One, pledged to his people, is thus limited in its effectiveness, except by the criminal neglect of the members of the churches? As God has done so much for us, can he not do vastly more for us? And while the great majority of the inhabitants of our towns are not Christians, while large numbers do not attend any religious service, while sabbath desecration, intemperance, and other forms of iniquity abound, while some of our churches report that there has been no general revival and but few conversions for 40 years or more, and while houses for Roman Catholic worship are fast rising up among us and are filled to overflowing, shall we be content with the present exercise of our faith and merit the reproach of Christ, that he cannot do many mighty works because of our unbelief? Rather let us pray the Lord to take away this unbelief and show us his almighty power; that all hindrances to the advance of his kingdom may be removed; that his churches may wrestle in faith with spiritual wickedness in high places and be victorious; that Christ may be exalted among us as a Savior; that the multitudes may be partakers in the joy of the Holy Ghost."

ESSEX NORTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, (including two Presbyterian,) 25; pastors, 18; stated preachers, 3; pulpits vacant, 4; churches aided, 0.

This Conference has published a Report of the Work of the Churches and State of Religion, embracing a complete statement of benevolent contributions. See Appendix.

THE CHURCHES. This Report indicates a condition so good as to make us feel that it will soon be better. From West Amesbury comes a narrative of "steady growth and healthy activity," which we copy entire.

"Special indications of the Divine presence came with the week of prayer. The pastoral letter which was noticed in this report last year had called the attention of each member to the need of a personal interest in the work of Christ. The church became more awake and active. Many came out on the Lord's side. Many of the youth became interested, and a good number have confessed Christ. There were additions to the church at each season of communion. The church is rejoicing in the spirit of harmony in all labor, and is laying wise plans for still greater service for the Master in the future. Neighborhood meetings have been attended, and meetings for the promotion of fellowship have been held with happy results. The town has always been known as a home of Temperance. The people pledge themselves to break up the rum traffic, and they fulfil their pledges. Liquor has never been sold openly. It was understood that it could be had privately at two places; but a healthy sentiment backed up by a little law has closed these places, and the proprietors have left town. Alas for some other town which has, ere this, received these missionaries of evil!"

The church in Amesbury Mills gives a cheerful report of progress, with a noticeable gain in activity and in spiritual tone. A good beginning has been made in church work. The parish has been divided into districts, and committees have been appointed. A Missionary Society has been organized in the Sunday school, and has raised $130. The children have been given a part in the Missionary Concert, adding a new interest to that service.

The church in Bradford, likewise, is evidently in a state of vigorous and organized activity. In the words of its report, it "has passed another year of united Christian work. The standing committee appoint members to the care of the poor and the sick, and the duties of visiting the new families and of all Christian hospitality; and in these duties the church has been active and faithful." The branch Sunday school prospers. There have been many cases of personal awakening; and "it is believed that the year has been one of maturing Christian character."

The two churches in the densely peopled portion of Haverhill, report general vigor and prosperity in very gratifying measure, with some tokens of religious interest. The churches of Newburyport have held on evenly. The Whitefield church has made progress in neighborly fellowship; its social meetings have been "very well attended by those we need most to reach; the reduction of the evil of dissociability has been very considerable." The population of this city remains almost stationary. Its Protestant inhabitants are probably fewer "by about one tenth than they were twenty-five years ago." Hence, if for a quarter of a century the churches have stood still, they have relatively gone ahead. It is believed that they make a "slow progress, from year to year."

The small and rural church in East Haverhill sends in a pleasant narrative—the Sunday school in fine condition; additions made to the library; prayer meetings well attended, and very interesting, many taking part, and even the youngest having their share. There have been several cases of personal interest. The people are bringing "weekly contributions" to a parsonage fund, which is growing steadily and surely. "It is hard work, but we have done it easily," they say. "Is not this," they add, "the solution of the problem, how to do such work easily? Is it not by continued and methodical giving?" The church in Byfield reports much help and encouragement from members of city churches who spent the summer there. Its Sabbath school has more than doubled; indications of the Spirit's presence have appeared; and there is better hope for the future.

A religious interest has also been manifest at Groveland, Rowley, and West Newbury, Second church.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL seems everywhere vigorous. In West Haverhill, it embraces a large part of the congregation. Little seems to be done in the cause of Temperance in any of the centres of the liquor traffic.

The attention of the churches has been called to the PLAN OF WEEKLY OFFERINGS for both expenses and charities. West Amesbury, Amesbury Mills and the Centre church, Haverhill, have adopted this system—the first two for benevolence, the last for parish expenditures also.

On the whole, the churches in the country districts and the smaller villages of this Conference appear to be generally in a healthful and encouraging condition. The same may also be said of those in the populous centres. But in these larger towns, as in similar places in other parts of the State, there is a very distinct call for greater vigor—for more of enterprise, of organized and of individual activity.

FRANKLIN CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 26; pastors, 13; stated preachers, 8; pulpits vacant, 5; churches aided, 9.

CHURCHES AND PASTORS. All the churches of Franklin County, except those of Leverett, New Salem, North Orange and Whately, are connected with this Conference. Pastors have been settled over five churches, Charlemont, Ashfield, Conway, South Deerfield, and Orange; and have been dismissed from two, Montague and Warwick. The churches generally have enjoyed their usual prosperity; but some have not quite held their own, having suffered from emigration. If this depletion continues, it must necessarily result in extinction.

REVIVALS have been enjoyed by the churches in Charlemont and South Deerfield and the First church in Greenfield. The church in Orange also reports a good degree of religious interest and a large number of additions.

OUTPOSTS. Union Sabbath schools are maintained by the church in Coleraine at Christian Hill and Shattuckville; and the same church joins with Baptists and Methodists in keeping up stated preaching at two other points. The people of this town are abundantly supplied with religious privileges; and yet many neglect them. At Riverside in Gill, a Sunday school has been sustained, with preaching, once a Sabbath. The people of Montague City, who had Congregational preaching for several years, have engaged a Methodist preacher to supply them for a year. It is to be regretted that a minister was not obtained for Turner's Falls early in the spring, for a good man there could have taken charge both of Montague City and Riverside. This point, at the present moment, is in more pressing need of immediate attention than any other in the county. Population and business are rapidly increasing. Five or six denominations are already actively at work; "and we, who ought to have been the first, are not yet there." The proprietors have been ready to give a lot of ground for a church, but it was not secured until the 30th of April of the present year.

The new church at Miller's Falls has been weakened by the withdrawal of Methodist brethren, who have set up a second enterprise while the community needs but one. The old church in Heath is in a more hopeful state than last year. It has made a gain of two members, and its house of worship has been repaired. During the summer, prayer meetings were held at two outposts, and a Bible class has been instituted in one of the districts. Its pastor succeeded in maintaining an interesting Sunday school in Monroe, conducted chiefly by laymen from adjoining towns, some of whom had to travel a long distance. The church in Wendell has likewise made a good fight. Under the most discouraging circumstances, it has, to say the least, held its own; and has but to keep on steadfastly in the way in which it has begun, to secure larger results.

HAMPDEN CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 35; pastors, 26; stated preachers, 7; pulpits vacant, 2; churches aided, 5.

The following report is given as furnished by Rev. John W. Harding, a member of the Committee of the Conference.

THE CONFERENCE PLANS. "Among the prominent features of the Christian work of the churches of this Conference we notice:"

1. The care and thoroughness with which the work is reported from year to year, for the mutual benefit of the churches. At the Annual meeting in October, the first session is occupied with written reports from each church presenting a *carefully prepared history of its work and progress during the year. This is done cheerfully and voluntarily and not according to any set and statistical form, but as each church chooses to delineate the marked features of its annual history. Thus the reports are less perfunctory, and are more interesting from year to year by their variety and individuality. After being read they are handed in to the Scribe, who edits them for publication in the Annual Report of the Conference which is distributed among the churches. In this way their benefit is given to the mass of church members who cannot attend the Conference, the history of

* SYSTEM OF REPORTS. This is the system which the State Committee has been so assiduously recommending to all the churches—"written reports," giving "a carefully prepared history," and then embodied with due deliberation into one comprehensive statement—to be the subject of earnest study and discussion.

The Hampden Conference has been at the pains of copying, this last year, the LIST OF TOPICS contained in the Committee's blanks, as a help to the pastors in preparing their yearly statements.

The Financial reports of this conference are very complete. The mode of collecting and embodying the facts involves somewhat more of labor and of machinery than that proposed by the State Committee and now coming into general use, and the order of arrangement may be somewhat less suggestive; but the churches have become accustomed to this set form, and it is probably not worth while to make any change at present.

The universal adoption of the method suggested by the Committee on the Work of the Churches would do away wholly with the dry and "perfunctory" character which till recently was the yearly affliction of most of the Conference reports on the state of religion. Any improvement in completeness adds to the variety and individuality as much as to the value and interest. D. P. N.

the churches is preserved for reference, and an intelligent basis laid for their better acquaintance and fellowship, and their mutual consultation with regard to the common interests and work of Christ's kingdom within their sphere.

2. Thoroughness of system in Benevolent Contributions. The second session of the Conference is occupied by its Benevolent Association, which for many years antedated it and is now united with it. Regular times are recommended for the annual collections in each church in behalf of stated charities, and these collections are transmitted by the several church treasurers to the treasurer of the Benevolent Association, and by him transmitted with a promptness and accuracy befitting such business to the treasuries of the parent societies, and at the annual meeting his report is presented to the Conference in a printed form, containing all the contributions from each church with the several dates of reception, for distribution among the members of the Conference, to receive any corrections that may be indicated, and having been audited, this report is published with the other reports from the churches. Appended to it is a tabular summary of the totals from the several churches for each cause, and the total footings. In addition to the regular report of the treasurer, which is a model of business accuracy worthy of the imitation of all who conduct the Lord's financial work, there is published a supplementary report, prepared by the scribe of the Conference, gathering up all additional contributions and legacies contributed during the year by members of the churches, which have not been transmitted to the benevolent societies through the hands of the treasurer. By such painstaking the thoroughness of systematic benevolence is being gradually established and increased, and the comparative history of benevolent operations in the churches of the Conference is accurately ascertained and preserved.

3. Careful preparations are made by printed programmes and notices sent beforehand to the churches, in order to secure a good representation at the Annual and the Semiannual Conferences, held respectively in October and in April, and also, to have the time employed for the best practical results. The concluding session of the Annual meeting, occupying the forenoon of the second day antecedent to the sermon and communion, is mainly devoted to Home Evangelization, or the special HOME WORK of the churches. A special fund is raised by annual contributions from the churches to aid the feebler churches of the Conference. The semiannual meeting is more informal and devotional, the programme and particular arrangements for it being made by the church inviting it, and occupying but one day.

4. Christian Fellowship. Our theory is excellent, the necessity is acknowledged to be vital, the machinery is well devised, some progress has been made, but in the actual practice and results we still lag far behind our privilege and our duty. In this weakest point and great defect of our own congregational polity, as the whole body suffers, we also suffer with it.

At the Conferences, Christian fellowship is specially provided for and delightfully promoted by having the meals in common and by other social arrangements for personal acquaintance. A Committee on Church Fellowship is appointed, who provide for mutual church visitations and minor local Conferences and Sabbath school visitations; but while such visits have been from time to time interchanged and more or less good has resulted, the cares of the world and spiritual inertia, combined with the independence of the churches, have clogged the wheels of fellowship and neutralized many good intentions. There is a great lack yet in the strong as supporting the weak; and in the bearing of one another's burdens. Pulpit exchanges do not play into this fellowship of the churches as they might. The following, quoted from one of the church reports of this year, states the case: "Our clerical brethren will pardon us, if we suggest that this church—as we suspect is the case with other small churches—would be encouraged in its work, should the pastors of our larger churches manifest in certain positive ways, by occasional exchanges or otherwise (though their pulpits might not be so well filled for a Sabbath in return,) their regard and Christian fellowship."

5. Permanence in the Ministry is enjoyed in an increasing ratio among the churches of this Conference. Almost all are supplied with settled pastors and there have been of late few changes. This contributes to greater stability, efficiency, unity and progressiveness in our work.

6. Church Building and Parsonages. During the past year the Park Street church, West Springfield, the youngest in the Conference, have worshipped in their beautiful edifice completed in May 1872 at a cost of about $40,000. The church and society in Monson have just finished their spacious and elegant house of worship, at about the same cost. The South church and society in Springfield have begun the foundations of their new edifice, and the First church in Springfield are proceeding to build a large and costly chapel. Faith chapel, a mission enterprise on Long Hill in Springfield, has sprung up, a model of beauty, convenience and economy, to be in all probability the nucleus of a church organization at no distant time.

Many of the churches are provided with substantial and commodious parsonages and the tendency is to make better provision in this respect.

7. Revivals have not been generally enjoyed, with the exception of refreshing and converting influences of the Spirit that have blessed with peculiar favor the churches at Ludlow and Chester Depot. But in the absence of revivals there has been more confidence than formerly in the abiding presence of the Spirit in connection with the usual means of grace and perseverance in Christian work.

8. Christian Enterprise. There is manifest an increasing spirit of Christian inquiry and enterprise as to new and more efficient methods of work. Praise meetings are multiplying, are better planned and are growing in the spirit of worship. Neighborhood and household prayer meetings, and to some extent out-door meetings, are going abroad more naturally and freely to seek and to save souls. The better development of the Christian life in the young professors, and their more thorough instruction in doctrine and duty, and the fuller identification of Sabbath schools with the life and methods of the church, are among our pressing problems. The Sabbath schools are leaving sensational devices, and settling down to their legiti-mate work, the thorough and systematic study of the Bible, which is greatly promoted by the general consent in adopting the Union Series of Scripture lessons.

9. Woman's Work awakens new interest and is claiming from year to year larger development. The report from the First church in Springfield states: "The parish is divided into thirty districts. We have a committee of thirty women chosen from among those who are willing to 'labor in the gospel'—to take charge of these districts. They aim to visit the families connected with the parish, and those not connected with any parish, every three months. Their duties are, to visit all who worship with us, and report names and residences to the pastor; to pay special attention to the strangers, the sick, and the aged, and to inform the pastor of cases requiring special attention; to inquire whether all the children are in the Sabbath School; to invite the women to join the Woman's Board of Missions and the Ladies' Benevolent Society; to distribute copies of 'Life and Light' to subscribers; and to converse so far as possible on personal religion. This work has been of the greatest service in promoting church unity, and of incalculable assistance to the pastor."

10. Temperance as a Christian virtue and the Temperance reform as a part of our Christian work, are thoughtfully considered by our churches and faithfully enforced by our pulpits, and while they are not alert and enthusiastic in harnessing themselves into the yokes of special orders of Knights, Rechabites, Societies and Alliances, called by one name and another, they stand as firmly as ever by the radical and Christian principles, of keeping the body under in all subjection and pure from every hurtful and defiling lust as the temple of the Holy Ghost, and of using our Christian liberty under the golden rule of that Apostolic magnanimity which will deny one's self even in lawful things for a brother's sake.

In concluding this report of the Hampden Conference we mention as a happy omen, the perfect harmony of action, so long uninterrupted, among the ministers and laymen of this body. The pleasantness of brethren dwelling together in unity has been signally verified. And at the same time there prevails in this region a singular catholicity of feeling among the ministers and churches of the several evangelical denominations, which is an encouraging presage of future Christian unity and the successful prosecution of our common work.

HAMPSHIRE EAST CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 19; pastors, 15; stated preachers, 2; pulpit vacant, 1; with no religious service, 1; churches aided, 2. Number of church members, 3280, a gain of 163.

CHURCH GAINS. The following churches have gained in membership:—Anherst, Second, 10; do., College, 2; do., North, 52; do., South, 4; Granby, 1; Hadley, First, 35; do., Second, 56; do., Russell, 38; Leverett, 1; Packardville, 4; South Hadley Falls, 2.

The statistics from this Conference are nearly complete—sixteen out of nineteen churches reporting.

SERVICES. A good attendance is reported from all the churches; an increased attendance from most; and a diminished number from only one. Neighborhood meetings are held in quite a number of places. The regular routine of the prayer meetings has been varied by "Bible readings."

THE CHILDREN OF THE CHURCH. Pastors report but imperfectly on this topic. In one church, infant baptism is tending towards disuse; while in another, most of the children are baptized; and from this church we have the report, that the training in the Christian homes has been generally successful; the young people are not much tainted by evil examples in larger places, but have, in a good degree, followed in the way of their fathers. One pastor reports a monthly sermon to children.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS are generally in a good condition; and three or four have been greatly blessed. Not only are the young people of the congregations generally connected with these schools, but a goodly number also of the adults. Several young children have given encouraging evidence of a change of heart. The "concert" is universally observed, with interest.

REVIVALS. Four churches have been wonderfully quickened, refreshed and strengthened—those in North Amherst and North Hadley, and the First and the Russell church in Hadley. In the First church in Hadley, the interest began during a church fast, the meeting being largely attended and marked by very strong, solemn and tender feeling. For more than a month, prayer meetings were held twice a day, with occasional preaching. Among the fruits were seven husbands with their wives. Measures substantially the same appear to have been pursued in the Russell church, which embraces now about four fifths of its entire congregation. In Greenwich there was much thoughtfulness, and some hopeful conversions, in certain cases displaying peculiarly the wonders of Divine grace.

OUT-DISTRICTS are few within the bounds of this Conference, and none are large. District prayer meetings are held, wherever they seem to be needed. The Out-Classes are not discussed in the reports received from the churches.

TEMPERANCE. From one place we hear that intemperance is common and the liquor shops numerous. A flourishing Temperance organization has been started here, on a Christian Union basis; and many names of children and of good Temperance people have been secured to the pledge. Attempts to enforce the law met with partial success. In many towns there seems to be little use of intoxicating drinks.

POPULATION. The native farmers are moving away from the outlying farming lands; and foreigners are entering not only into this, but also into various other pursuits. Some of the towns have gained in population; others have diminished.

THE GENERAL STATE OF RELIGION AND MORALS seems to have been improving during the year. From towns that have experienced no revival, we yet receive an encouraging report. The moral tone is sound and firm; and spiritual religion has gained in power. The "envelope system" has been adopted by one church in making its collections, and with excellent results. The number of givers was increased from 113 to 135, and the contributions from $1,389.71 to $1,573; and besides, a sum of $764 was raised for repairs, and an addition made to the pastor's salary, of $225; an advance of $1,172.29 or of over 84 percent.

Upon the whole, the condition of the Conference may be described as healthful; but there is room for a large increase of enthusiasm, inventiveness and efficiency.

MENDON CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 12; pastors, 6; stated preachers, 5; pulpit vacant, 1; churches aided, 2.

MINISTERIAL CHANGES. In Medway Village, Rev. David Sanford, ceased from active service; Rev. Rufus K. Harlow, ordained as colleague. West Medway, Rev. Stephen Knowlton, dismissed to New Haven, Vt.; Rev. S. Willard Segur, installed May 7, 1873. Walpole, Rev. Heman R. Timlow, dismissed, to take charge of "The Intelligencer," New York. Milford, Rev. S. C. Kendall, dismissed; and Rev. Merritt Richardson, engaged as stated preacher. He has since the year expired been installed pastor.

CHURCH BUILDINGS. The church in Wrentham has been thoroughly remodeled and beautified, at a large expense. The church in Mansfield was rededicated after a like renovation, March 28th, 1872. In Foxborough the sanctuary has been made comfortable, during the winter, by the introduction of new furnaces at a cost of 600 or $700. The parish at East Medway has built an excellent parsonage, at an outlay of $5,300. In West Medway, they have made clean and white the outside of their house of worship. A new and commodious edifice, including church and chapel, was dedicated in Franklin, January 4, 1872. Cost, $36,000. The parsonage recently erected by the same parish, together with the land, horse sheds, &c., has required an additional outlay, making in all about $50,000. Of this only about $6,000 remain unpaid.

SABBATH SERVICES. The Village church in Medway, during the summer months, held the second service at a later hour than usual, — 5 and 5 30 P. M., — with good results. The same change was made at East Medway, with like advantage. In Franklin the second service is at 7 30. The church in Milford reports that during the year the second service has been held in the evening, the pastor delivering lectures adapted to the special needs of the masses. The movement has been attended with encouraging results. As the seats are free at this service, congregations numbering from 600 to 900 have been gathered.

ACQUAINTANCE AND FELLOWSHIP. Several churches report efforts to promote neighborly and Christian intercourse. In Foxborough, Medway Village, and Franklin, "fellowship meetings" have been held; and in the last named place, brief delays for conversation at the close of the prayer meetings have proved agreeable and useful.

CHURCH WORK. The Pastor of the Mansfield church has commenced the practice of making a monthly report of the doings and condition of the church, and has invited the members to report at such times, in regard to their efforts for the promotion of Christ's cause. The result, thus far, has been an awakening of some of the dormant energies of the church, and an increased social interest, if not a spiritual progress. At Foxborough circulars were sent out inviting volunteers in the different departments of Christian service. Over 100 were returned; and the result has been, to increase the attendance on devotional services, and also on the Sabbath school. Once a month, the weekly prayer meeting is devoted to the subject of church work, when reports from the different departments are given. A similar circular has been used in Franklin and with like results. In most of our churches the sacramental host seems to lack organization.

REVIVALS. With a single exception, the churches of this Conference have remained another year unblessed with revivals.

OUT-DISTRICTS. The Foxborough report mentions a branch Sunday school at South Foxborough, sustained by members from different adjacent churches. A prayer meeting is held in this neighborhood every week, except when a preaching service by neighboring ministers takes its place. This community has raised about $1,000 for the erection of a chapel which is now building. Preaching services have been held monthly at Rockville in the East Medway parish, and have been well attended. A union prayer meeting has been established recently in Franklin in the "West District," sustained by members of the Franklin Village church, Medway, and of the Methodist church. Also a weekly prayer meeting is held in Unionville, a small manufacturing village a mile and a half from Franklin Centre, in an Engine Hall. From 30 to 60 attend. Several conversions have occurred here. One of the manufacturers, a member of the church of the Centre, has provided at his own expense an omnibus to take employes to church on Sundays. From 15 to 20 are thus provided for.

TEMPERANCE. There has been quite a temperance revival at Milford. The pastor of the church has been very efficient. A society of Temperance Reformers has been organized; and between 400 and 500 have signed the pledge. Quite a number of these are reformed inebriates. Meetings are held once a week, and 500 or 600 are sometimes present. "Free beer" has been supposed to have increased intemperance very much. There has been a great improvement within the last six months, and the leading men seem to be taking a new stand in behalf of the right. Mansfield reports: The Temperance cause has many able advocates here, and weekly meetings in its behalf are held by two societies. Sermons are preached on the subject by the pastors of the different churches, and considerable money is contributed to this object. From Medway Village, we hear: "Liquor is sold slyly, and does its legitimate work. Something has been done among our foreign population in behalf of Temperance, and the evil greatly checked. We are sorry to report, that among our native population there are many who seem to be confirmed drunkards.

Upon the Whole, the aspect of the Conference is encouraging. A general hopefulness is apparent in the reports from the churches; an unusual measure of enterprise has been shown in improvements; and there is a growing interest in the development of organized Christian activity. We may look for better things, soon to come.

MIDDLESEX SOUTH.

Number of churches, 19; pastors, 10; stated preachers, 5; pulpits vacant, 4; churches aided, 3.

The Committee of this Conference, REV. DANIEL WIGHT, chairman, have been enabled, by the cordial cooperation of the pastors and their very general response to the blanks, to render a report more complete, and, we are glad to add, more encouraging, than any previously received. A full summary is here given.

EXPENSES AND CHARITIES. Ten pastors report 1270 families, an average of 127. Thirteen report salaries varying from $500 to $2,500, and amounting to $19,300, an average of $1,484. Twelve report additional parish expenses, varying from $75 to $6,038, and amounting to $21,664.04, with an average of $1,805. Eleven report contributions for Home Missions, varying from $19.25 to $888.75, amounting to $3,972.69, with an average of $361.15. Seven churches report contributions to Church Building, varying from $6.30 to $206.44, in all, $643.44, and averaging $91.63. Twelve churches report contributions to Foreign Missions, varying from $9 to $679.34, amounting to $2,562.86, and averaging $213.57. Five churches gave to the Seaman's Friend Society, $168.46. Six gave to the cause of Christian Education, $557.54. Ten, to Christian Publications, $949.32. Eleven, to other, miscellaneous objects, $2,060.26,—one reports aggregate contributions $800,—making in all a grand total of $52,678.61;—of which amount, $40,964.04 are included in salaries and parish expenses; and $11,714.57 in charities. But this report includes only 15 of the 18 churches of the Conference; and several of them are deficient, omitting parish expenses, or the salary of the pastor.

THE GAINS of the churches have been small. Thirteen churches report a gain of 21, in additions by confession of faith, over losses by death and excommunication; and a gain of 12 in additions by letter over removals by letter—the new church at South Framingham receiving 40 persons from two neighboring churches.

SABBATH SERVICES. A disposition is evident, in a number of the churches, to experiment upon the form of the afternoon service; one church omitting it altogether in the warm weather; another, in the same season, joining with two churches of different denominations in union meetings, which were a part of the time given up to a “worship service,” with responsive readings, the congregation joining in the Lord's prayer, the sermon being only twenty minutes long, and the whole service only an hour. Others have given up this part of the day to the Sunday school. In all cases, however, these measures have been experimental, without, as yet, any satisfactory result. The facts may be taken as indicating that the times may be demanding some kind of a modification in the afternoon service of the summer season.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS. These are generally in a flourishing condition. One at least is larger than ever before, others are very full. Some complaint is made that young men and people in middle life do not attend. The church at Lincoln has adopted the experiment of holding, once in two weeks, an examination of the school, in its studies in the Bible. The church at Wellesley has established a Sunday School prayer meeting—held on the evening of the 3d Sabbath of each month—which is found to be especially adapted to quicken the interest of teachers and scholars in their work, and includes more of devotion and of exhortation than the ordinary Sunday school concert. In Natick, “several mixed classes” have been formed with advantage. And occasionally, after the session, a fifteen minutes prayer meeting has been held. From one town comes an echo of the lamentation for children—because they are not.

ACQUAINTANCE AND FELLOWSHIP. But little earnestness and little inventiveness in the promotion of Christian fellowship and intercourse would seem, from the reports, to characterize the churches, at the present time. The church at Saxonville, however, holds a “sociable” once in two months, for the benefit of the congregation; and on every Monday evening there is a “social, familiar, conversational” meeting, for church members, converts, inquirers, and any who may be disposed to come—a “church circle,” as it has elsewhere been sometimes called. This meeting is one “of great power, growth, and blessing.” In Wellesley, also, assemblies have been held once in five or six weeks, designed to promote “more intimate Christian acquaintance among all classes in the congregation. The promise is good.” In South Natick, the Fellowship Meeting and Home Prayer Meeting appear to be kept up.

RELIGIOUS STATE. Several churches make mention of a gratifying spiritual condition. From Saxonville, the pastor writes: “We were blessed spiritually and really by the labors of Rev. O. Parker, continued for about three weeks.” In Natick, there was a general interest, and some 25 hopeful conversions. In Marlborough, there was a marked religious interest early in 1872, resulting in many conversions, especially among the young.

CHURCH WORK. “It is encouraging to notice the progress of Christian work in out-districts and among neglecters, and the corresponding fruits of such effort; but at the same time it must be acknowledged that not one half is done which ought to be done—whether we look to the salvation of the negligent and the perishing, or the indirect benefit of the workers themselves and the consequent strength of the church. It may be a question, whether more systematic and effective measures should not be attempted in every church.”

In Holliston, the Young Men’s Association, consisting largely of the members of the Congregational church, has maintained a prayer meeting and preaching service in an out-district, and two weekly prayer meetings at their rooms. This church, apparently, like many others, stands back, to make room for the young men. The church in Lincoln maintains a branch Sunday school. From Sudbury, we hear that the out-districts “contain many neglecters who are much neglected—some occasional personal effort only, being put forth in their behalf." "About one fourth of the church are helpers" in Christian work. In Natick, an effort has been made to reach neglecters, with good result. The parish has been divided into districts—two members of the church, a man and a woman, being put in charge of each; looking after the condition of the people, and reporting, when necessary, on cards which specify points of inquiry, to the "Superintendent of Church Work" or the pastor. The Young Men's Association has done much, having furnished two parlors, maintained a half hour daily prayer meeting, established a society which aims at intellectual and moral improvement, and placed newspapers and tracts in the railroad station, which are much read. "A Watchers' Club has been formed. The moral and religious statistics of the town has been taken, with some accuracy, and there is a desire and a real effort to reach all. Meetings have been held in two out-districts on the evenings of Sunday and Monday, and have resulted in some hopeful conversions." From Ashland, we learn that the number of neglecters has decreased a little since last year. One of the out-districts which is most isolated was visited in the fall by Mr. Record,* a missionary of the American Sunday School Union; and a good Sabbath school has been kept up there through the winter, to which the church sent a superintendent and teachers. The pastor of the church in Southborough has maintained a Sabbath afternoon service at Cordaville, with growing interest. A Sunday school has also been sustained there, with a good degree of interest.

TEMPERANCE AND MORALS. A Temperance society has been formed in Dover, meetings have been held at different places, both on Sunday evenings and during the week, and a goodly number have signed the pledge. At Holliston, a course of popular scientific lectures on Temperance has been well attended, and much good has been done in the way of instructing the young. At Saxonville, a "Reform Club" has been organized. At Wellesley, the fifth Sunday evening in the month—occurring four times a year—is set apart to the Temperance cause. This has been found to do good,—keeping this important matter closely linked with religion and the church. In Natick, "during the latter part of 1872, a wonderful movement was set on foot, by means of a 'Reform Club.'" This Club has kept up weekly meetings with much interest. At almost every one, new members join from the ranks of intemperance; some of whom have since become hopefully Christians. On the 17th of April last, 460 persons had signed the pledge, of whom 200 had been hard drinkers. The majority of the latter have remained faithful to the purpose to reform. In Sherborn, the church is seeking, by the manifestation of a Christian spirit and of neighborly attentions, to interest any who may had been led astray or alienated.

Upon the whole, the prospect in regard to Temperance and good morals is encouraging. There appears to be less of crime and poverty than once; yet much remains to be done.

* It may be a question whether our own Sunday school agency (The Congregational Publishing Society) ought not to pay Mr. R.'s expenses. Does Massachusetts need to send abroad for help in founding or sustaining Sunday schools? Sec. Com. Chh. Work.

GENERAL STATE OF RELIGION. In regard to this, little needs to be added. The greatest hindrances, as reported by one pastor, are found (1) in "the want of active, praying, sympathetic labor on the part of church members, both women and men"; and (2) in the extreme worldliness of the common mind, the leavening of so many souls with those notions of sin, of God, of Christ and of man, (and the resulting indifferences and hardness of heart,) which are at once the fruit and the strength of those various isms that oppose the gospel. Ordinarily, however, the outlook is cheerful; religion is gaining, on the whole.

MIDDLESEX UNION CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 17; pastors, 12; stated preachers, 3; pulpits vacant, 2; churches aided, 2.

Reports have been received from sixteen churches. Thanks are due to the pastors to their ready and fraternal response to the circulars. We make the following extracts from the report of the Committee, REV. HORACE PARKER, Chairman.

"The year 1872 was not marked by any unusual progress, but by steady work, yielding good results both of a material and spiritual kind."

IMPROVEMENTS. Ayer has secured a bell; and has become self supporting. Dunstable has attached a barn to its parsonage. The Rollstone church, Fitchburg, has reduced its debt by $15,000. Leominster has finished a new house of worship, for which upwards of $25,000 have been paid. Shirley has repaired its meeting-house, at a cost of over $2,000. Lunenburg has repaired and refurnished its house, at an expense of over $2,000, and secured a parsonage costing about $2,500; Westford has completed a parsonage; and Pepperell has purchased one.

Acton has settled a pastor.

RELIGIOUS CONDITION. "In spiritual things there has been a steady growth, showing a net gain of 94 in resident communicants, while at times, there has been more than usual interest in several of the churches, and special evangelistic efforts in connection with four or five; only one, at Littleton, has gathered much visible fruit."

CHURCH ACTIVITY. "Meetings in out-districts, Praise meetings, Fellowship meetings, Conventions, Open-air meetings, have been held with varying success, within the limits of the Conference. In this respect there has been a great advance within ten years. Very much greater efforts are now made, both to improve the membership of the churches and to reach those who keep themselves outside of all regular Sabbath services. Our people are beginning to feel that they must be outdone by none, in labors to reach the neglecting, and heretofore neglected, classes."

CONTRIBUTIONS. "Last year showed an advance of $3,000 in our benevolent contributions over the year previous. This year shows an increase of $2,300 upon last year."

TEMPERANCE. "There has been quite an improvement in Temperance. Not only has the law been well enforced, through the vigilance of the State Constables, but lectures, conventions and other local efforts have toned up public sentiment. It has also become very unpopular for a minister to use tobacco. And evidently, not many years will pass before we shall be able to say in reference to this habit, 'Like priest, like people.'"

FEEBLE CHURCHES AND THE PASTORATE. "The difficulty of retaining pastors, especially in the smaller churches, suggests the need of some change. Cannot two churches, in some cases, unite upon one minister? Or cannot a pastor already settled contrive to occupy some vacant church near by, for one part of the Sabbath? Or, at any rate, can not such an appropriation be secured from the Missionary Society or the Local Conference, as shall enable the pastor to live, even if his family does increase?"

NORFOLK CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 31; pastors, 14; stated preachers, 8; pulpits vacant, 6; churches aided, 2. One church without services.

THE CHURCHES. No revival is reported from this Conference for the year 1872; and its narrative as a whole has less of an encouraging nature than has been usual. Since the beginning of the present year, however, the First church in Abington has enjoyed a season of heavenly blessing. The pastor's wife had been holding a young people's prayer meeting for most of the previous year, which seems to have had an excellent influence. Early in March, 1873, the pastor secured the assistance of Mr. Burnell, and two or three associates. The meetings held under his guidance were very interesting. Many members of the church were led to a renewed consecration; twenty or thirty persons soon expressed a determination to enter upon a Christian life; and from that hour the good work went on; and now, a large number of persons, of all ages, have given hopeful evidence of renewal.

The church in South Braintree reports an increased attendance, a prosperous Sunday school, some activity in the cause of Temperance, and a general improvement. The church in Cohasset has sustained a meeting in an out-district; and has held monthly Praise meetings—"taking a topic, and singing it out." At the Beechwoods, there has been an unhappy division, now apparently healing; but from June till January, there was scarcely any preaching. Sharon. The Superintendent of the Sunday school, with the assistance of other brethren, has sustained a branch school in North Sharon, with a preaching service and prayer meeting alternately. A "Temperance Union" has held monthly meetings that have been well sustained. They have generally been preceded by a service of praise. The town is becoming a place of summer resort, and its once quiet Sabbaths are beginning to be disturbed by pleasure seekers. Stoughton. The Bible service has been continued in the afternoon with growing interest and satisfaction—the attendance having steadily increased. A Pastoral Letter with an "enlistment card" met with a prompt and cordial response from some, while others wholly ignored it. The Temperance cause has not been forgotten. The town by a majority of nine votes had licensed the sale of beer. As a consequence, many young persons have acquired the habit of drinking,—in some cases, to intoxication. A weekly Temperance meeting, accordingly, was established, for lectures and discussions, and has done much to correct public sentiment. North Weymouth, Pilgrim church. Twelve persons have been admitted on confession of faith; and there has been a sustained and growing religious interest throughout the year, with some conversions. Efforts to increase the interest of the prayer meeting have been successful.

A new church was organized at Lovell's Corner, October 29, 1872, with 20 members. Its meetings are well attended, and its prospects are encouraging. The church at North Abington has made exclusive repairs on its house of worship, at a cost of $7,625. The Second church, Cohasset, is building a parsonage, at a cost of over $5,000. A circle of ladies connected with the Beechwoods church, have been improving its parsonage—of which they are the owners. The Porter church, North Bridgewater, have also renovated the parsonage, at a cost of $6,500. At Stoughton, the ladies have spent $1,125 in refurnishing and repainting the interior of the church; and the Second church, South Weymouth, has erected a chapel—the first that it has had in the one hundred and fifty years of its existence.

Two of the pastors of this Conference make the following statements. One of them says: "Church members are in the ruts; have never been accustomed to do anything, but only to listen to preaching." The other testifies: "Nothing is done for out-districts, though there is a wide field which ought to be cultivated. A lack of faith in the power of the gospel keeps us from engaging in any aggressive work; and this want of faith, in the church, keeps the morals of the community at a low ebb." The writer adds—what we trust is true of very few places in the county: "The Temperance cause is dead. Drunkenness reigns; and night is made hideous with brawls."

PILGRIM CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 15; pastors, 5; stated preachers, 8; pulpits vacant, 2; churches aided, 3.

No very marked change has taken place in this Conference during the year.

CHURCH BUILDING. In North Carver a commodious vestry is nearly completed; and in Duxbury, an improvement has been made in the house of worship, at considerable cost.

REVIVALS. At Halifax, there have been signs of the Divine presence, and some hopeful conversions. The pastor of the Fourth church, Plymouth, (Chiltonville,) reports: "We are in the midst of a quiet, steady and precious work of the Holy Spirit. It came without observation, doubtless the fruit of a long period of believing prayer. One faithful Sunday school teacher has seen the greater part of her class brought into the fold of Christ. Within about three weeks there were eleven hopeful conversions. The souls of many believers have been quickened; and the spirit of earnest consecration seems to be spreading through the church. No "special meetings" have been held; and the only modification of ordinary ways is the slight one mentioned below"—the conversation after the meeting.

CHURCH USAGES. "Within a short time, the custom has grown up in this church, (Fourth, Chiltonville,) of stopping after the prayer meeting for social Christian intercourse. The time is occupied in talk, with occasional spontaneous singing, and especially in religious conversation with any of the unconverted who choose to remain—and very few go away. Nearly every case of conversion has had some connection with this occasion."

"Four evenings of the week are taken up with meetings conducted by the pastor. In these, singing is a prominent exercise; but the hymns are very rarely read, nor is any book used. New hymns are sung over, from time to time, until learned; and it is not uncommon—nor unimpressive—for some brother or sister to sing through a hymn alone. Ordinarily, however, only one or two verses are sung.

"There is the utmost liberty in these meetings, for men, women, and children—for believers and for those who are looking towards Christ. No one is ever called upon."

CHURCH WORK. In addition to the encouraging and suggestive statements from Chiltonville, we have cheering reports from other places. The church of the Pilgrimage, Plymouth, entered, early in 1872, upon a regular system of work. The pastor now reports this "a success"; and that it is to be continued. Briefly, the plan is this: Five "departments" are established—"General visitation," "The sick, aged and afflicted," "The poor," "The Sabbath School," "The neglecters of Divine worship." For the prosecution of the work, the town of Plymouth is divided into nine "districts." A very large proportion of the members of the church are enrolled in one or another of these departments. The old church in Marshfield has likewise been exhibiting much energy and wisdom in its work. Neighborhood meetings are held weekly. New life has been infused into the services generally. The people have shown their interest and good feeling, by liberal gifts to their pastor and his wife, upon the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. The church in Dxbury, also, under the lead of a pastor who, unhappily, has been compelled to break away from this people, has been renewing its strength—improving its house, pushing vigorously the cause of Temperance, appointing committees for various forms of work, and sustaining a neighborhood meeting which has been blessed of the Lord.

The other churches of the Conference appear to remain about the same as last year.

The Committee, in their review of the year, recognize "signs of advance,"—"on the whole, a gradual reclaiming of the old wastes." They specify the following OBSTACLES. First: "A lack of business prosperity and of growth. From 1865 to 1870, the population of the county increased 2261. But the three towns not included in the Conference, though within the county—

Abington,* Middleborough, and North Bridgewater—gained 2566, or 805 more than the county. In these three towns, there is one Congregational church member to about ten inhabitants; while in the towns embraced within the Pilgrim Conference, there is but one to twenty-one inhabitants.” The fact suggests a certain spiritual value in temporal prosperity.

Secondly: It is noticeable that, usually, evangelical Congregational churches do not flourish as well in the towns where the original church has departed from the Puritan faith, as in others. In those towns of Plymouth County containing Unitarian churches, the Congregational church members average only one to thirty-one of the entire population; while in other towns containing Congregational churches, the average is one to fifteen. Three towns—South Scituate, Pembroke, and West Bridgewater—where the First church became Unitarian—contain no evangelical church of the Congregational order, though some of the families attend in neighboring towns. These old churches generally retain the ancient funds; and all families who may not have connected themselves elsewhere, are nominally included in their parishes.

The committee also specify two respects in which the churches are wanting: First, in earnest, concentrated action for the promotion of the great cause. Too many members feel no responsibility for prayer and work. Second, the consequent lack of systematic labor in out-districts. Most of the ministers, as well as of the members of the churches, appear to feel that they have no time for such efforts. They are looking with hope to the promised help of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, in its “new departure.”

SUFFOLK NORTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 21; pastors, 18; stated preacher, 1; pulpits vacant, 2; church aided, 1.

The Committee in opening their report observe: “It is a notable event of the past year that the Old South church has ceased to be a Congregational meeting-house—a matter of national importance.” “We may well be thoughtful in reflecting that we shall probably hold no future session in this venerable building.”

On the 10th of October, “the Chapel church of Cambridgeport” was organized. This enterprise has thriven, from the start. Its Sunday school which opened, a year ago, with 90 scholars, now numbers 250; its Sabbath evening prayer meetings began with 5 souls, and now gather between 150 and 200; and in connection with these meetings, there have been several conversions.

DEBTS PAID. The Winthrop church, Charlestown, has paid a debt of $5,000; and the Franklin Street church, of East Somerville has “lifted a load of $20,000, with $1,500 to spare.”

* Most of the strong churches of Plymouth county are not connected with its Conference. It would seem that the churches of Abington, at the least, lying as they do, upon the Plymouth railroad, might lend what help they can, by identifying themselves with the body of sister churches in their own county.

CONTRIBUTIONS. Reports from half of the churches appear to indicate a moderate gain in charities.

REVIVALS. The increase in churches which have gained is mainly due to additions on confession of faith—two of these churches having received 90 persons in this way.

CHURCH WORK. The parishes vary much in size—the smallest numbering only 49, and the largest reported, 400 families. “It is entirely safe to estimate that any parish embracing 200 families must contain—with the additional members, young and old, not included in these households—fully 1000 souls, who are to be cared for by the church.” “No pastor, unaided, can discharge such a responsibility.” “And when we have added to this one thousand, the great body of neglecters for whom the church is responsible, it becomes doubly clear that many laborers are needed to do the work for which the church must give account. The laborers to whom we look are the members of our churches.” “No sooner is an earnest beginning made, than need is felt of organization. All our churches are organized; having their boards of deacons, standing committees, Sunday schools, sewing circles, maternal associations, etc. But there are two branches of church work, equally important. The one—in which are included the provisions just enumerated—has respect to church goers, as assembled within the sanctuary. But we have also to distribute the gospel abroad, among the houses and the shops of the people—both attendants and neglecters. This is acknowledged a very important part of parish work. In common with the other department, this requires organization.”

“We all attempt this work. Much is done. But it is singular, we do not make a point of organization here. Men are found who even object to it, for this department of church work. They value it elsewhere. Here they do not see the need of it. But let such brethren consider that their churches are already in a highly organized condition, and that what is now urged is only the completion of that which already is in great part done—an extension of what we find absolutely essential for the efficiency of the gospel in the Sanctuary, to its ministry outside of the sanctuary.”

“To your Committee, the proposition seems self-evident, that thorough work means organized work.”

The churches have not generally made very full reports in regard to this important matter. The Winthrop church, Charlestown, has a Committee of ten ladies, who visit under the pastor's direction, and report to him. The Winnisimmet church, Chelsea, has divided its parish into eight districts, each under the care of a leader. In these districts neighborhood meetings are to be held, simultaneously, once a month. The monthly concerts are carried on by a Committee. The Pilgrim church, Cambridgeport, which has been worked upon a detailed plan for several years, has effected, during the past year, a more complete organization than ever before. Briefly, the plan is this: There is a “Committee of Work,” numbering thirty persons—half men, half women. This Committee has a Chairman and Secretary; and is subdivided into committees on “Hospitality,” “the Sick,” “Temperance," "Monthly Concerts," "Relief," and "Prayer Meetings." Further particulars may be found in the appendix.

"We are realizing results from this plan," observes the pastor, "of a most satisfactory nature." To the question, whether this system is not very burdensome to the minister, he answers unhesitatingly, No! It is wholesome, of course, and needful, for the pastor to have oversight of the work; but the plan in all its parts — including its best feature, the "General Committee" — is the invention of laymen, and is mainly carried on by them. It has developed with us an enthusiasm for work.

Modifications and Expedients. The Winnisimmet church issued at New Year's an Annual Report of the church, giving a history with statistics. The themes for the Week of Prayer were sent, as a sort of pastoral letter, to every church member. A Sunday evening inquiry meeting, which children have been encouraged to attend, has met with great success.

The Mt. Vernon church has substituted a half hour prayer meeting, immediately following the afternoon sermon, for the usual evening conference meeting. A pastor's Bible class, on Sunday evening, has had an attendance of 150 or 200.

The church in Waltham reports a praise meeting, held once a month on Sunday evening, as very useful.

The Pilgrim church, Cambridgeport, has had a weekly catechetical exercise of the children, which has been largely attended.

IN CONCLUSION, the Committee submitted the following recommendations to the Conference:

1. The publication and distribution among the churches of Annual Reports of the proceedings of the Conference and the work of the churches.

2. A more just allotment of benevolent contributions. "Very little," they say, "is given to the Education Society or the Bible Society," and not as much to Home Missions as the cause demands.

3. They raise the question, whether it would not be well to have a church extension society in the Conference, to look after new organizations and feeble churches — with a committee of appropriation receiving annual contributions from the churches.

SUFFOLK SOUTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 32; pastors, 27; stated preachers, 2; pulpits vacant, 2; churches aided, 0.

As this Conference was omitted last year, we allow it larger space now. Twenty-seven churches send quite full reports, many of great interest, and forming, together a most encouraging narrative.

One new church has been organized, at Newton Highlands, and now reports a membership of 40, a parish of 65 families, contributions for one quarter amounting to $560, and "ten different denominations in the congregation and working in perfect harmony."

Boston. The Second church in the Dorchester district reports general vigor and growth, a parish of 230 families, and a net gain of 8 members. The Union church has added 27 members. There is an increasing interest in the "uniform study of the Word"; and the method of giving, upon each

Lord's day, as an act of devotion and a regular part of the worship, is found to work well. "Receipts increase, and individual givers have found a special blessing in so doing." Park Street church lost its records for the last three years, in the great fire. It has received additions at every communion. The attendance averages 1500 on Sunday mornings, and 900 in the afternoon. The Berkley Street church has sustained an outpost on Harrison avenue, where weekly meetings are held. The young men have worked efficiently, and conversions have been frequent. An industrial school has been held, every week, in the lecture room; and a course of low priced lectures has been delivered—no less than 1700 tickets having been given away. The Central church has maintained regular preaching services, with a Sunday school, and prayer meetings, teacher's meetings, and temperance meetings, at the "Old Colony" chapel, under the care of Rev. C. L. Mills,—the congregation numbering 100 and the school 175. Some conversions are reported. It is suggested that the territory covered by this and similar efforts in the neighborhood needs a Free church, centrally placed, and drawing its membership and support from four or five churches in the vicinity. The Shawmut church reports a net gain of 5. Rev. Daniel W. Waldron, Secretary of the City Missionary Society, preaches regularly and holds temperance meetings in the Branch chapel. The fellowship meeting is still observed, also a weekly Bible class, ladies' prayer meeting and Maternal meeting; and on Monday afternoons, at 5 o'clock, public "conversations" upon the church creed and covenant, attended by young and old.

The E Street church, (South Boston,) reports a net gain of 11. Promise meetings have been held. The value of song has not been forgotten. The "monthly church conference" (before the communion) "is given up to the recital of experiences," agreeing thus with the Baptist "covenant meetings," and is found to beget sympathy and fellowship. The pastor regrets that the Sunday school children are so often absent from the services of the sanctuary. The Phillips church, (South Boston,) has a Sabbath school of 507; in which 8000 copies of religious publications have been distributed. Eight weekly prayer meetings are regularly held. In one district, every house was visited and two thirds of the residents were found to be neglecters. Two Christian women, city missionaries, give their whole time to religious visitation. The people of this church have shown their good sense, and their good feeling toward their pastor, by sending him to Europe for a five months vacation, continuing his salary, supplying his pulpit, and adding $1,225 for expenses.

The Eliot church, (Boston Highlands,) reports a net gain of 22—with an increasing congregation. Early in the year, an "Enlistment Card"—designating departments of labor—was issued, and every church member was urged to do something. About 90 responses were received. The third Friday evening in every month is devoted to the Home Concert. The church was refreshed by a revival, commencing with the Week of Prayer, and some 30 persons gave evidence of conversion—among them a man of sixty years and a child of ten. The Vine Street church, (Boston Highlands,) has received 41 on confession and 18 by letter. Praise meetings are held for half an hour preceding the evening meeting of the last Sunday of every month; and fellowship meetings at irregular intervals. The church has enjoyed a blessed and refreshing work of Divine grace, distinguished by quietness, and carried on chiefly through the chapel and neighborhood prayer meetings, and by private labors. It was largely among adults—no less than 24 heads of families being included. The Highland church, (Boston Highlands,) has had a net gain of 9. The home concert is held on the fourth Friday evening of each month, when new methods of church work are canvassed and reports are made. The plan of weekly contributions has succeeded beyond expectation, the average weekly contributions for six months being $55, $60, $67, $80, $80, $87. Two neighborhood prayer meetings are held weekly, and have been instrumental in bringing neglecters to church. The Walnut Avenue church, (Boston Highlands,) has spent $23,000 upon a new house of worship; the total of its expenditures and charities is $30,824.

The church in Brighton reports a net gain of 10. Sunday evening preaching has been tried and given up for the old way. The young people now conduct the prayer meeting of that evening. A revival resulted in 12 or more hopeful conversions. Harvard church, Brookline, though without pastor or stated supply, returns a gain of 24—of whom 15 are upon confession. Neighborhood prayer meetings have been held regularly, and well attended by young people. The congregation has increased, and, in spite of the expenses of building a new church, and the losses by the great fire, the charities show an increase of several hundred dollars. The church in Dedham, has gained 22—the largest number for 40 years. A new feature in its prayer meetings has been the recital, by many, of passages of scripture—with excellent effect. The fellowship meeting has been tried for the first time, with happy success. The Branch Sunday school has had a remarkably regular attendance. Committees, of men and women, have been appointed for various kinds of general work, as visiting the aged, the sick, the needy, and strangers, and also for the more vigorous support of devotional meetings. The church in Norwood has held stated meetings in three different towns. Its two outposts have received less cultivation, on account of the prevalence of a contagious disease. Intemperance has been greatly checked by the refusal of the town to allow the selling of ale or beer. The church in Hyde Park has 205 families under its care, and returns a gain of 14 members. A pastoral letter inviting Christians to enlist in specified forms of work received many responses. The custom of giving, as an act of devotion and a part of the regular Sabbath worship, proves a success. Interesting conversions have occurred.

The First church, Newton, has sent out 17 of its members to aid in forming the new church at the Highlands. It still numbers 100 families. The year has been marked with a most gratifying increase of religious interest. There have been several conversions. Contributions are larger than ever before. The Second church, (West) Newton, reports a gain of 62—having received 71. Its parish numbers 142 families. A revival enjoyed in the spring, was carried on through prayer meetings held every night for nearly three months. For the first time, the church held a public anniversary, at which reports were read by the clerk and pastor — with gratifying success. The year has also been marked by an increased interest and enjoyment in the service of praise and by an unusual attention to the study of the Word, through the influence of the Uniform Lessons and the weekly Bible Class. The Eliot church, Newton, has a parish of 200 families, and returns a gain of 21 members—children baptized, 16. Children's meetings have been held, with pleasing results. There have been about 30 hopeful conversions. The people generously gave their pastor a vacation of several months for foreign travel, supplying his pulpit and defraying his expenses, at a cost of $2,600. The Auburndale church, Newton, has gained 11 members. The Young People's meeting is held in different neighborhoods. The Mothers' meeting is very useful and greatly valued. The Central church, (Newtonville,) reports a gain of 20—mostly the result of a pleasing revival. The North church has 52 families in its parish; and has been busy in rebuilding its house of worship. It has gained 4 members. Much interest prevails.

The Phillips church, Watertown, has 75 families; and has gained 12 members. Neighborhood meetings in out-districts are held every week. The "South" church, West Roxbury, is making trial of a Bible service in the afternoon — thus far with success. The Central church, Jamaica Plain, has about 150 families in its parish; and has gained 10 members. Its new house of worship has been dedicated. The congregation has increased. The Sunday school has nearly doubled. Congregational singing has sensibly elevated the services of the Lord's day. The ladies are supporting a missionary teacher in India. The "Boylston chapel," under the care of Rev. R. F. Gordon, is in a most hopeful condition; and the prospect of a new church in that place was never more promising.

Of twenty churches making mention of additions, nineteen report gains — amounting, in the aggregate, to 306; one, a loss, of 17, by emigration; and a new church of 40 members has been organized;—total net gain, 329.

The expenditures of 27 churches amounted to $186,432.30—which sum includes the payment, in two instances, of over $20,000 toward a new house of worship. The Public charities of the same (27) churches were $106,198.94;—making a grand total of $292,431.24.

These contributions were divided as follows:

Home Missions, (Am. H. M. Soc., Am. Miss. Association, and Local Missions within city or town,)	$31,501.79	or about 30 percent.
Church Building, (Am. Cong. Union,)	17,452.96	“ 17 “

TAUNTON CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 21; pastors, 8; stated preachers, 8; pulpit vacant, 5; churches aided, 5.

Brief notes of the condition of the churches of this Conference have been received. We give what seems most important.

The following churches report the number of families in their respective parishes, viz: Attleborough, First, 106; Berkley, First, 70; Freetown, (Assonet,) 38; Middleborough, North, 109; Seekonk, (omitting neglecters,) 73; Taunton, Trinitarian Congregational, 224; do., Winslow, 175; — total families under the care of seven churches, 795. Average, 113.

Attleborough. The population around the old First church has somewhat diminished, and there is a steady drain by emigration. A few of its congregation have become connected with a new church at "the Falls." The people are much scattered; and "get their mails at no less than five different post-offices." There has been a gain of one in the number of communicants. The charities "have touched bottom" and begun to increase. There is a faithful company of Sunday school teachers. Second church. Rev. Samuel Bell was installed in June. The congregation is large; the parish united and sympathetic.

Bridgewater. Scotland church. This church suffers from emigration; and from a tendency to half-day attendance. Sunday school, good.

Dighton. Several hopeful conversions have taken place among young people. The congregation is good; the Sunday school flourishing.

Fall River. First church. Mission work is carried on with steady vigor and increasing promise. The Church Sabbath school has declined in numbers and efficiency, for lack of teachers. Young people are taking somewhat more interest in spiritual things and in the church. There has been some improvement also in the type of piety, a better sense of individual responsibility, more confidence in an ever-present Lord, and more practical efficiency in a varied Christian service. Central church. During the winter of 1871-2 there was a deep interest, resulting in an increase of the numbers, spiritual energy and power of the church; and though there was an apparent decline in the summer, the autumn witnessed a return of interest and activity. The Sabbath school work has been reorganized. A Society has been formed, of which the pastor is president, and the superintendents vice-presidents, and through this, the church will carry on all its Sabbath school and missionary work. Rev. E. A. Buck is employed as missionary; and has under his charge a school of over 500 members; also a Bible reader, supported and supplied with Bibles by the Fall River Bible Society.

Freetown. The church has just installed a pastor, Rev. W. H. Cutler, and its prospects are more hopeful.

Middleborough. North. The congregation and Sabbath school are uniform in attendance; and the service of song has been much improved, and is very interesting.

Norton. An attempt has been made to look up non-resident members. The majority of the Sabbath school are adults — the parish being singularly destitute of children; as young people go to other towns for employment.

Raynham. No pastor. Good congregation and school. Some religious interest and some conversions. Rehoboth. The church has had no settled pastor for five years, and is now without a stated preacher. There is need of energetic and constant work throughout the town. Seekonk reports a good congregation and Sunday school, increasing interest in prayer meetings, and $2,100 raised for repairs and for the school. It has made a net gain of 9. There have been several hopeful conversions. The town is receiving an immigration of Romanists. The population is scattered; the neglecters are numerous. Somerset. The parish, which is not large or rich, has done nobly in raising funds for improving the house of worship. There has been an increase of religious interest. Taunton. First church. (West Taunton.) During July, August and September, 1872, the Sabbath school was substituted for the morning service; but the arrangement proved unsatisfactory and was given up. The community is irreligious, and the church small. There have been some hopeful conversions. The Trinitarian Congregational church. This church has a parish of 224 families, and a resident membership of 268. An examination of its list revealed the fact that 82 persons whose names it contained had either died or been dismissed, and 96 were living elsewhere. The charities of the congregation have doubled. The Winslow church has been adding 200 sittings to its house of worship. Neighborhood prayer meetings have been sustained, with good results. The pastor has frequently taken members of the church with him, in his visiting. Sabbath school teachers have also engaged in this form of service — “the most hopeful of al. agencies.” For a season, the regular afternoon service was omitted; and instead, on alternate Sabbaths, lectures were given to the young people; which were crowded. Topics for the weekly prayer meetings are assigned on Sunday. “Outside meetings” are sustained in connection with the Trinitarian church. The net gain in church members was 5. The Sunday school numbers 343. Union church, (Whittenton.) A new house of worship has been completed, with 400 sittings. There has been a large increase in the congregation; the pews are all rented, with a demand for more. The new vestry witnesses an improvement in the social spirit. Rev. Isaac Dunham, since 1868 the acting pastor of this church, has been compelled by ill health to resign this position. Rev. H. Morton Dexter has been ordained and installed in his place. The pastor of the Second church, in Berkley, Rev. J. A. Roberts, has died; and the church “has gone over to the Methodists.”

WORCESTER NORTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 14; pastors, 4; stated preachers, 6; pulpits vacant, 4; churches aided, 3.

Eleven out of the fourteen churches in this Conference make report.

CONTRIBUTIONS. Five churches show a gain, and six a loss. On the whole, there is a gain, of $120.71; and counting legacies, of $1,020.71. In most cases where there has been a diminution, it is attributable to the removal or the absence of the pastor, or to loss of property, and not to any falling off in the spirit of benevolence.

GAINS AND LOSSES. Only one church reports a gain, by admission on confession over removals by death. No church shows a gain on admission by letter over removals by letter. Every church shows a loss, on the whole — averaging 4 to each. Several, however, have had accessions since the beginning of the present year.

FAMILIES. Seven churches report an aggregate of 618 families — an average of only 88. In one case, however, “the number reported,” says the Committee, “cannot be more than half of the number of families that should be cared for by that church; and others also report too few.”

BAPTISMS. Of ten infant baptisms returned, nine are reported by the church at Hubbardston.

REVIVAL. The week of prayer was observed by all the churches, and with encouraging results. In three churches a spiritual refreshing was experienced, characterized by marked answers to prayer. In two cases, a child of the pastor was hopefully converted. In one instance, the pastor's only son, absent at school, was made the subject of prayer at home, and in a few days word came that he was rejoicing in hope. Only the ordinary means were employed by these churches.

OUT-DISTRICTS. Five churches report 9 out-districts as occupied. Some of these are quite populous. The meetings are well attended. In one there have been signs of unusual interest.

OUT CLASSES. From one church, the statement comes: “It seems as though the existence of the church depends upon reaching the masses of neglecters. Still, the question is, how?”

In two or three churches, Praise meetings are held, with great enjoyment and profit; and others report Social gatherings of much interest.

FINANCIAL SYSTEM. The churches of Athol and Hubbardston have adopted the voluntary system in raising money, for all purposes. No one is asked for a dollar; but the result exceeds former experience.

There is a call for a new church on a broad basis, within this Conference — in a destitute community larger than are many of our good parishes.

WORCESTER SOUTH CONFERENCE.

Number of churches, 14; pastors, 11; stated preachers, 3; pulpits vacant, 0; church aided, 1.

REVIVALS. A quiet work of grace is reported by the First church, Millbury, with from 25 to 30 hopeful conversions, mostly among the young; a “quickenings,” also, and some conversions, from Webster; and from Saundersville, about 20 conversions, including a number of heads of families..

OUT-DISTRICTS. In Grafton four meetings at out-posts, are sustained by the Young Men's Christian Association. Under the care of the church in Sutton, there are likewise four districts, in which the pastor preaches on Sabbath evenings. The Uxbridge church sustains two branch Sunday schools. Whitinsville sustains a prayer meeting, on Sunday evenings, at the distance of two miles from the church— save the fourth of each month, when the pastor preaches, and usually to a large audience, in the school house. The pastor of the church at Northbridge Centre holds a similar meeting. Webster church reports Neighborhood meetings in the outskirts. There appear to be few, if any, neglected out-districts within the Conference.

The greater part of the population is in villages, and much of it is of a floating character. These transient families and individuals are, very largely, neglecters of the Sanctuary. Forming few acquaintances, and receiving scant attention from the permanent residents, even those of their number who have been church-goers, often lose the habit. One of the most pressing and difficult questions is, how the village churches are to obtain any hold of this stream continually passing their doors.

REVIEW.

Upon a review of the reports, the following points attract our notice.

1. The apparent small size of many parishes. One Conference returns, for example, only an average of 88 families to a church. The others show a larger average, but yet much too small. It would seem, that families properly under the care of the churches are often overlooked.

2. The manifestly great irregularity in respect to the observance of Infant Baptism. In some parishes, observance is the rule, in others, neglect. Here is evidently one of the points upon which the people need instruction. It would not be in accordance with a proper self-respect, to allow this matter to remain as it is; and great interests suffer, from a widespread omission of duty, on the part of churches, towards parents and children. It is sadly true that churches are not proving themselves such schools and such homes as they ought to be.

3. There is a tendency to change the established order of the Sabbath services, in a way of experiment. We seem called upon to remember here, that unsuccessful experiments of this kind, unsettle habits. They smooth the way for the neglect of the Sanctuary and the breaking of the Sabbath. It is of vast importance that our main instituted observances be not continually subject to change. If they are, what will be stable? A further inquiry seems also pertinent, here: whether it is wise to reduce the functions of our educated ministry, and to substitute an untrained and less competent body of instructors. The times appear to call for the ripest wisdom and the largest knowledge, on the part of those who are to have the training of the people in the Scriptures.

4. About thirty revivals are referred to—if our numeration is correct—in the reports received. Many other churches have enjoyed a heightened interest, and have shown a more than ordinarily healthful condition. Why might not the narratives of revivals be made more complete?

5. A new usage appears to be gaining ground in respect to Contributions. Three of the Conferences make special mention of the "Envelope System." It is reported as very successful. Some churches raise all their money in this way, and find it far superior to the old method.

6. Three new usages in Sunday school administration are mentioned: (1) A fortnightly examination of the school in the Scripture studied; (2) "Mixed classes"—composed, if we understand the term, of both sexes; (3) A short prayer meeting, of about fifteen minutes, at the conclusion of the session. The plan of holding children's meetings, and also of giving to young people regular instruction in the Catechism, has met with gratifying success. The First church in Amherst offers a kind of Child's covenant to it's young people, and appears to be successfully enlisting its children in the service of Christ;—an example worthy, it would seem, of imitation.

At least one church has maintained an Industrial School; and has secured a Course of low priced Lectures.

7. In regard to Temperance, the old story is repeated, with little improvement. In very many rural districts there is no intemperance; in all cities and large towns, or nearly all, there seems to be "free rum." The old "beer clause" receives universal condemnation; and the long failure of the prohibitory system to accomplish all that was hoped from it, is turning attention once more to the virtues of persuasion. In a few places, "Reform Clubs" have wrought wonders—at least, for a time.

8. CHURCH WORK continues to show a steady advance. The out-districts are very generally cared for. It does not appear that any distinct neighborhoods are neglected. From nearly all parts of the State, we hear of District meetings, Branch Sunday schools, Praise meetings, and Text meetings. Mention is also made of the Fellowship meeting, the Home Concert, of Pastoral letters, and the Enlistment card. A church in the Norfolk Conference gives a pleasant account of its "Church circle." The custom of holding an anniversary, with reports of the work of the church and of all changes within the year, appears to be growing in favor. The effort made to secure a definition of the parish and a registry of families recognized as under church care, appears to have been not wholly fruitless. The plan of appointing a "Superintendent of Church Work" has been successfully tried. Such an officer seems to be required in all churches having a large field of labor; and in cities especially, seems indispensable to the relief of the pastor from overwhelming labors.

From some of the Conferences come in statements of a discouraging nature. We read, in one case, of "no revivals"; in another, that only one church reports more additions upon confession than removals by death, while every church shows a loss upon the whole; and, again, one entire county reckons up a loss, as the result of five years' work. From a different quarter, we are told that the large floating population of the factory towns is unreachd. A church that has been making a canvass of a district in South Boston finds that two thirds of its people neglecters.

These facts indicate a chronic imperfection of church methods. But on the other hand, there are many encouragements—in the revivals, the general prosperity of the churches, the manifest growth of church activity, and increase of steady, organized effort. Now, also, for the first time, we have provision made for looking after the organization of new churches, and for sustaining all the varied forms of either ministerial or lay activity, in any and every part of the State, which can at any time be needed.

Suggestions from the Conferences. A few of the Committees conclude their reports with brief inferences or recommendations. One of them expresses strongly the opinion, that every Conference should see that every part of its territory is included within the recognized responsibility of some Church. We see not how this opinion can be questioned. Another, surveying the whole field, declares the grand difficulty to be (1) a lack of earnestness, on the part of the churches; and (2) a lack of organization,—the latter consequent, doubtless, upon the former. As an illustration: A Conference which was reminded, several years ago, by one of its oldest pastors, that within twenty-five years it had not only failed to keep up with the increase of the population, but had actually diminished in numbers, while neglect was still multiplying, has not yet received the zeal and courage necessary for grappling with this practical problem—for searching out the causes, and organizing the forces requisite, with the Divine blessing, to counterwork them. Still another Committee points to the fact that less than one sixth of the adult population of the County are communicants.

From a different quarter we get some specific recommendations: (1) The publication of Annual Reports of the work and statistics of the Conference, for distribution among its members. This is already done, in whole or in part, by some Conferences, and meets with evident approval. (2) A more just allotment of benevolent contributions. Some societies do not get their proper share. (3) A local organization for “church extension,” i. e., for the building of chapels and founding of new churches. This suggestion is important. The population of our State has long been undergoing a new mixing up, a recrystallization about new centres. As ties of denomination and opinion are now-a-days weak, these changes enable those denominations which are comparatively feeble here, to increase their strength very largely, by a judicious activity, at the cost of others, more inert. There can be no doubt that the Congregational body has suffered, and is now suffering serious loss in this way. The two words, “earnestness” and “organization,” show with clearness, to those who believe in the Holy Ghost, the way out of this difficulty and of many others.

In conclusion: We find in the experience of the past year, and alike in its successes and failures, one grand lesson—that we MAKE MORE OF OUR CHURCHES.

To the body of Christ, the work of Christ belongs. The work which is given to it, it can do.

By vote of the State Committee on Home Evangelization.

EXPENSES AND CHARITIES.

The following returns are published, simply as examples illustrative of the value of the statistics requested of the churches, and of the practicability of furnishing them. The tables are not all in the form proposed by the Committee. But in every instance in which this form has been departed from, there is a loss of significance, with no gain. Compare the returns from the Hampshire East, Mendon and Middlesex Union Conferences, with the rest.

A thoughtful study of these tables, a comparison of the gifts to various objects, and of the amounts with the known ability of many congregations—known to their pastors, members and neighbors—will be found to be instructive. When will the pastors furnish themselves with a complete statement, covering the Commonwealth?

From these returns, imperfect as they are, we gather indications respecting

Two churches in North Conference.

The most perfectly evangelized town in the county.

There are, besides, two stations where regular preaching (Congregational) is had.

CHURCH WORK.

The following is offered as a general form of an ENLISTMENT CARD, designed to assist members of churches in fixing upon forms of Christian usefulness. Two of these cards are given to each church member. He affixes a mark against those forms of service which he elects, returns one of the cards, thus marked, to his pastor, and keeps one as a memorandum. This general form can easily be varied, to suit circumstances. Appropriate passages of scripture are often printed upon the reverse, or borders of these cards, or are used as mottoes at the heads of the several "departments."

METHODS IN USE.

In the Minutes for 1872 (pp. 64-70) may be found an account of the plans adopted by the following churches :

Church of the Pilgrimage, Plymouth, Rev. George A. Tewksbury.

Church in Monterey, Rev. George W. Kinne.

Church in Townsend, Rev. George H. Morss.

Church in Bradford, Rev. John D. Kingsbury.

First church, Natick, Rev. Francis N. Peloubet.

Church in Wakefield, Rev. Charles R. Bliss.

North church, Lynn, Rev. James M. Whiton.

Eliot church, Boston Highlands, Rev. B. Franklin Hamilton.

To these we now add the following :

THE PILGRIM CHURCH, CAMBRIDGEPORT.

Rev. George R. Leavitt, pastor.

OUR FREE PLAN.

What is a free church ?

It is a church without pew rents ; in which every man has a right to every seat.

How is it supported ?

By free offerings, collected in boxes, morning and afternoon.

How much does it cost to run it ?

Enough to pay for pastor, sexton, coal, lights, music, and repairs. The estimate, this year, is $4,400, or about $84 a Sabbath.

How can you be sure that you will come out straight ?

We give pledges, to pay so much a week, for the year.

How does one know how much to give ?

By asking God, and deciding the value to him of having such a church in the city.

What if the offerings fall short ?

We tell the people. They don't fall short.

What are the advantages of a free church ?

It kills out aristocracy. It makes giving for the support of worship a religious act.

It interests young and old in the enterprise.

Leaving each man free to pay what he feels able to pay, it is a people's church.

Can families sit together, and in the same pew each week ?

Yes. Come and see for yourself.

OUR PLAN OF WORK.

Our church has a Committee of Work. It numbers thirty persons, half of them men, half women. This committee has a Chairman and Secretary. It is subdivided into the following smaller Committees :

On Hospitality.

On The Sick.

On Temperance.

On Monthly Concerts.

On Relief.

On Prayer-meetings.

Each of the sub-committees has its chairman and secretary.

The Hospitality Committee has the care of strangers, and of the social life of the church. Under its direction the parish has been divided into thirty-six districts. Canvassers have been appointed to oversee these districts. These persons are expected to report all cases requiring notice to the appropriate committees, through a box in the church vestibule. All the committees report in writing to the General Committee, once in two months. The General Committee reports to the church at the Home Concert. This plan does not, perhaps, work perfectly, but it keeps more than fifty persons actively and constantly busy.

METHODS OF RAISING MONEY.

The churches are gradually learning better ways of doing everything. The following statement will explain itself. We have thought best to give it exactly as it was issued. Every detail is likely to be interesting and of use to somebody.

HIGHLAND CONGREGATIONAL SOCIETY.

At a meeting of the Highland Congregational Society, on Monday evening, January 13, it was voted that the following statement be printed and distributed in the congregation.

The receipts of the Society from contributions during the year 1872, were $3,590.50, which is $758.80 more than the receipts of 1871, and is a very gratifying increase. Received from lectures, &c., $381.78, making our total receipts $3,861.92. All our bills on account of current expenses, are paid, and we have a balance of $4.64 in the treasury. We are in debt about $700, which is nearly all pledged.

Our principal expenses have been, pastor's salary, $2,374.98; gas, $109.19; sundries, (including curtains, &c.,) $202; sexton, $387; insurance, 267.50, (all of which but $45 was rendered valueless by the great fire); coal, $223; organist, $100.

Our individual subscriptions have ranged in amount from five cents to five dollars a Sabbath, and have been paid with most remarkable regularity and punctuality. A careful revision of our list the past week, excluding those who have moved away, and a few young people who it is not reasonable to expect could pay, shows less than $15 on the year's subscription uncollected. We do not believe there is another congregation in the city which in this respect can excel, if there is one that can equal our own, and it seems to us to demonstrate the excellence of our plan of raising the means for the support of the gospel.

Our cash contributions have ranged from $1 to $7 a Sabbath, averaging about $4.50. Before the boxes were passed we received for the year, from this source, only $24.48.

Our number of subscribers is one hundred and twenty-eight, a slight increase over last year.

While our plan has worked so well, we feel the need of extending it more thoroughly through the congregation in order to raise means sufficient to meet our expenses. We wish every one attending church here to realize that upon him or her rests, according to his or her individual ability, the duty of sustaining the means of grace here. If we fail,

(and we do not believe we shall,) it will be because the people who can give only small sums do not give them, and not because those who can give large sums withhold them. We want only a slight increase on our individual subscriptions to give us all the money we need. Cannot those who give twenty cents, give twenty-five; those who give thirty or forty cents, give fifty? Let each ask him or herself how much, in acknowledgment of God's goodness, I ought to give, and act accordingly.

Again, there are a great many, especially among the young people, who attend church here, who do not give anything. We are glad to see them here. We want them to be identified personally with this religious enterprise -- to feel that it is their religious home. Therefore we want them to give something. If each one can give ten cents a week, give that; if twenty, give that; if fifty, give that; if but one, don't be ashamed to give that. Let your name appear as one of the supporters of the gospel here, and that fact will do you good and help the society.

Will you in accordance with these suggestions, fill up the following blank, cut it off, and return it next Sabbath as the boxes are passed. Envelopes will be prepared and ready for you on the following Sabbath. Please state name and residence in full. We hope to receive an increase of many of our present subscriptions, and many new ones.

Recognizing the goodness and mercy of God towards me, I hereby pledge the following sum towards the support of his church in this place.

WINNISIMMET CHURCH, CHELSEA.

PLAN OF SYSTEMATIC BENEVOLENCE.

This plan is based in the main on these principles:

1. That giving is an act of worship. "Honor the Lord with thy substance." Prov. iii, 9. "Bring an offering and come into his courts." Ps. xcv, 8.
2. That giving should be from principle rather than from impulse, out of love to the Lord Jesus and a sense of God's ownership in us and ours. "See that ye abound in this grace also." II Cor. viii, 7. "Ye have done it unto me." Matt. xxv, 40. "Give an account of thy stewardship." Luke, xvi, 2.
3. That giving should be systematic. "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him." I Cor. xvi, 2.

Believing that these principles are in the best, if not the only way, subserved by incorporating an act of offering among the regular services of the Lord's house, the Church has adopted the following plan of benevolence for the year:

1. A weekly offering will be taken up every Sabbath afternoon.
2. The offerings will be divided once a quarter on the following scale:

Foreign Missions, (including work in papal lands)	30 percent.
Home Missions.....	20 "
American Missionary Association	15 "
Church Building, (Congregational Union)	10 "
Contingent Fund	10 "
City Poor.....	5 "
Seamen's Friend Society.....	5 "
Education Society	5 "

3. Any individual may give to any specific object by indicating his wish on a memorandum attached to his gift.
4. The collections for the church fund are to be taken up specifically on the six communion Sabbaths.
5. Specific objects, not exceeding four in the year, may be presented to the congregation for direct contribution, if the emergency demands.

It is warmly recommended to all in the congregation to systematize their giving and make it as fairly proportionate to the week's income as may be; also, if possible, that all should, each Sabbath, give something, even though it be necessarily but the widow's mite, in token of their grateful remembrance of the Lord's mercies through the week.

PASTORAL LETTER.

Much that is contained in the following extracts from a pastoral letter might be addressed with nearly equal appropriateness to many of our churches.

This is a fit time to review our progress and to gird ourselves for a fresh advance. More and better work has been accomplished by our church the past year than in any year before. About eighty-three percent of the members of the church engaged in the plan of work which was proposed last year. And of the whole number of persons who engaged, about thirty-nine percent were not members of the church. The engaging of so many noncommunicants in Christian work I am glad to view as an acknowledgment that Christian duties rest on all alike, whatever profession be made or omitted.

Accompanying this you will find a condensed exhibit of our work during the year, which, I trust, will encourage us to endeavor for a still better report a year hence.

Christ meant the church to be a cooperative society. It is qualified for this, because every one is fitted to do at least some one thing well, and all are enjoined "by love to serve one another." The church was planned to be the most many-sided society in the world. The condition of this is, simply, that all the weakest shall each put his one talent to interest. Do not then say, as many did last year, "I will do all I can, but excuse me from definite specifications." Rather choose out the one thing which you are surest that you can ordinarily do well, and put that down as your quota toward the general work. This definite response will not only be highly appreciated by your pastor as a sign of your cordial good will, but will also result in better things for our work. Definite aim is always needed to hit any mark at all.

May I not hope, therefore, for a favorable response from all to the proposals for this year's work which I inclose? Especially, I trust that the young people and children will not be backward in evincing their interest, by contributing each their mite, or more, of cooperation. Where more than one of the work-programmes is inclosed to one address, it is in the hope that more than one in the family will respond.

I have placed in special prominence this year these two new objects: 1. A Reading-Room in our Church Parlor, to be open every evening, and on the Sabbath except during hours of worship. This has been enough talked about, and it is time to vote upon it. 2. The City Mission. This latter, which is doing a vast deal of good in a most unobtrusive and judicious way, wants $100 from our church this year. To carry on the former would require about $250 a year. A few days hence I expect to know very accurately, by the returns made, just what you think of these two things in particular.

Our church has already gained an honorable name in the Christian community by its diligence. Let us remember the Master's word, "Hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown."

But let us not be so ambitious for our church, as zealous for the good of those around us, and for the glory of our Master. "Whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as unto the Lord." Only when we begin, like the ancient churches of Macedonia, first by giving our own selves to Christ, will our faith work by love, and make our offering, whether of work or of worship, a sweet savor to him we serve.

Let us, then, all together "press toward the mark." "The night cometh."

I am your fellow servant in the Gospel.

THE PASTOR AND THE YOUNG PEOPLE.

An extract from a private letter of Rev. NAHUM GALE, D. D., Lee, Mass :

I am impressed with the importance of direct efforts by the Pastor to instruct children and youth in relation to personal religion, and to bring them to an early decision for Christ. This cannot ordinarily be left to Sabbath school teachers, certainly not in the country parishes. Last year, impressed with this thought, I had special meetings for girls and boys, separately, and went through with lessons (with printed questions) on personal piety, its nature, evidences, &c., making our meetings as spiritual as possible. The result was good.

Quite a number began the Christian life. From these and other efforts by the teachers and parents, we had the pleasure of receiving to our church a number of quite young persons, some not more than twelve years old. The average age of eight was fourteen years. During the same time, we buried eight aged believers, whose average age was eighty years. "Instead of thy fathers shall be thy children."

The Church greatly rejoices in this Christian culture. A number of about the same age will soon make a profession of religion. It is my purpose to continue these pastoral efforts, believing that they are the proper means of winning souls to Christ. We have had during all the year past none of the usual signs of revival.

The "printed questions" of which Dr. Gale here speaks, were embraced in a series of five papers, each containing from twenty-five to thirty "questions for self-examination." The subjects were as follows: I. LIFE WITHOUT CHRIST. II. THE NEW HEART. III. THE CHRISTIAN LIFE. IV. SCRIPTURE TRUTHS. V. THE CHURCH OF CHRIST.

LAY HELPERS.

It is expected that the labors of pastors will hereafter be supplemented in some cases by that of "lay helpers"—men and women. These labors may be of various kinds, ranging from those of the "missionary visitor" among the poor, to those of the regularly approbated "lay preacher and helper." We have put on record, as a matter of general interest, a vote of approbation adopted last November, by the Suffolk West Association. It is as follows :

Whereas, our beloved brother, Harrison Prescott, has been approved of God, in various Christian labors to the conversion of souls, and also in encouraging and aiding numerous feeble churches in obtaining ministers;

And whereas, this Association heartily rejoices in the past success of our brother, and desires to do all that it can to assist him in the future: therefore,

Be it known to all to whom this paper may come, that the Suffolk West Association has, on this 12th day of November, 1872, unanimously approved of Mr. HARRISON PRESCOTT, as a LAY PREACHER AND HELPER; and commends him in this capacity and as a Christian brother, beloved, to the confidence of the churches.

TIMES OF MEETING.—Second Tuesday in January, April, July, and October.

Rev. Heman P. De Forest, Westborough, Scribe.

During the year, there has been no change in the number or names of the Associations.

The Associations do not comprise all the ministers in the State. A few pastors and acting pastors are not members, but their names are given with their churches. Ministers not in pastoral service and not members of Associations, are, necessarily, officially unknown to the General Association.

LICENTIATES.—Given under the respective Associations. Total now under care, 53. Number approbated during the year, 13.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

EXPLANATIONS.

1. The following tables contain the names of every Congregational church in Massachusetts, each in its own county. The counties are arranged in alphabetical order. Towns in each county are arranged alphabetically; churches in each town, according to age; and of each church, (1) its town, (2) its name (if it have a peculiar one,) which is always followed by "ch.," (3) its locality in the town, when that locality has a name distinct from the town; when the name of a church follows the name of a locality subordinate to the town, it shows that the church has a distinct number in that subdivision of the town.

2. Churches organized since the close of the statistical year (Dec. 31, 1872,) are inserted, for information, but in brackets, and are not included in the totals.

3. The contracted headings to the columns of figures are more fully given with the Summary.

4. The column specifying Ministers is corrected up to the time of publication. Church members are reported as numbered on the morning of Jan. 1, 1873. Admissions, removals, and baptisms, cover the year 1872. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females," and total," but included in them. "Sabbath School" includes total membership of teachers and scholars Jan. 1, 1873, or when the school is in successful operation (if not at that date,) covering "branch schools" and "mission schools," so far as maintained by the reporting church; and the "average" attendance for the year 1872.

5. Dates earlier than 1752 are given in "old style." To reduce these to "new style,"—if it be a date in the 17th century, add ten days; if it be a date in the 18th century (prior to 1752,) add eleven days.

6. "Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry "by the laying on of hands." "Installed" denotes the date of his present pastorate. "A. p." denotes "Acting pastor."

7. All Post-office addresses are to be found in the "Index of Ministers," and not in the tables. For churches, see "Index of Towns."

8. In no instance is the report of any church in these Statistics copied from the returns of previous years. But there is included in the totals of each county, a careful estimate of the numbers in any unreporting church, if there be such; and also the occasionally missing items of "absent," and "average attendance" in Sabbath Schools,—which are assumed to be, in each case, equivalent to the average percentage of their county.

NOTES. — 1. Of the 73 churches counted "vacant" above, 3 are supplied by licentiates or ministers of other denominations.
 2. The column of "other ministers" includes only such (not in pastoral service) as are members of our Associations and reside in Massachusetts. Many of those whose occupation is in Boston, reside, and are counted in other counties, especially in Middlesex.
 3. Comparisons. — New churches, 6; dropped, 2. Gain in church-membership, 11. Loss in Sabbath-schools, 687. The average attendance in Sabbath-schools is .6454 of their total membership; in years next preceding, respectively, .6752, .6764, .6679, .6718, .6760. Decrease in Benevolent Contributions (453 churches reporting, 446 last year), $2,119.87; in the preceding year the increase was $98,649.51. Pastors a year ago, 304; of these, during the year, 6 died in office, and 36 were dismissed; the unusual number of 21 persons were ordained pastors, and 33 other ministers were installed; making 310 the present total. Ministers not pastors deceased, 13. Ordained without installation, 6. One minister is pastor of two churches; one pastor of one church, is acting pastor of another; nine churches have each two pastors; and one reckoned in the number of pastors, is pastor of a church formed since January 1. Licentiates under care, 53, — 13 of whom were approbated during the year. For the above items of changes by counties, see table on next page; lists of new churches, ordinations, etc., follow; and comparison of "totals" with those of preceding years, will be found in table farther on.

NOTE.—The “year” means what changes were comprised in the twelve months preceding January 1st of the year mentioned; except that the columns under “Ministers” comprise the twelve months ending with the time of printing the Minutes. The table by counties was begun in 1866; all preceding years now given being compiled from past Minutes,—the number of churches in some years varying from the Minutes as they were, to what they should be.

The changes in list of churches, ordinations, installations, etc., for the past year, condensed in the above table by counties, are given in detail on the next and succeeding pages.

It will be seen that the gain in membership this year is merely nominal. The decided loss in Suffolk county is nearly accounted for, — by the dropping of 300 unknown “absentees” from the list of Salem and Mariners’ church; of 25 (or near that) by Village church; and 56 (not previously reported as dead or dismissed in former years) by Union church. Churches in other counties have also dropped more or less absentees; so that the resident church-membership shows a gain of 580. The additions by profession are larger than for either of the three years next previous.

In Sabbath-school totals, each county but four shows a loss.

In Benevolent Contributions, the great advance of the preceding year ($98,649.51) is nearly maintained; falling off only $2,119.87. Berkshire county, however, falls off nearly 50 per cent, and Essex 16 per cent, although one more church reports in Berkshire, and four in Essex. Bristol county (reporting one church less than last year) advances 40 per cent; and Suffolk adds nearly $10,000 to its former large aggregate. The few items, in the tables, as to buildings, debts paid, etc., were not in the schedule, and are merely scattering items.

Thanks are due to nearly all the Scribes of the several Associations, for their patient and faithful industry. There is but one Scribe who throws the bulk of his work upon the Secretary. The Secretary hoped to have had returns from every church; but one church, viz., Chambers street chapel, Boston, has ruined this hope. The Secretary’s conscience, however, is clear in this case.

Thanks are due to Mr. B. F. H. Reed, of New Bedford, the proof-reader, who has, for several years, added his hearty personal interest, and the help of his accurate oversight as well as of his watchful familiarity with names and places from year to year.

The above list comprises six pastors and thirteen without pastoral charge (including one Professor in College.) The average age of the nineteen was sixty-six years seven months and two days. The average ministerial age was thirty-five years five months and eighteen days.

Rev. Charles Du Marisque Pigeon, acting pastor at West Gloucester, who died there October 16, 1872, aged 73, was a Presbyterian, all his ministerial life a member of a Presbytery, and not a member of any Congregational Association. His name, therefore, could not properly be included in the above list.

The Minutes for 1864 and 1865 did not contain a list of deaths, and those of several years next previous were imperfect. These deficiencies should have been supplied as follows :

- April 5, 1861, at Pittsfield, Heman Humphrey, D. D., aged 82.
- April 20, 1861, at Pittsfield, Joab Brace, D. D., aged 80.

- May 8, 1865, at Norton, Samuel Beane, aged 53.
- May 21, 1865, at Bridgewater, Stetson Raymond, aged 78.

These deficiencies being supplied, the following table gives the number of deaths, with ages, etc., annually for the last twenty years. The year means that ending with July. The age, before 1872, was recorded only in years, and is probably a few months too small. The ministerial age is exact. The ages are given in years, months, and days.

YEAR.	NUMBER.	AVERAGE AGE.	AVERAGE MINISTERIAL AGE.
1873,	19	66 7 2	35 5 18

The ten years : . .	101	61 8	30 10 25
The twenty years :	243	63 7	35 1 5

Of these 243,— there were, under 30 years of age, 6; 30 and under 40, 21; 40 and under 50, 26; 50 and under 60, 30; 60 and under 70, 59; 70 and under 80, 56; 80 and under 90, 39; 90 and upwards, 6.

The average age at date of ordination, was 28 years and 6 months.

It will be noticed that the average age of the 142 dying in the last ten years was 3 years and 3 months greater than that of the 101 dying in the next previous ten years; that the average ministerial age also increased by 7 years, one month and 9 days; and the average age at ordination decreased by 3 years and 10 months. Whether these changes are permanent or not, it would take a wider range of years and persons to decide.

LIST OF CHURCHES ADDED OR DROPPED SINCE JANUARY 1, 1855.

[FROM THE SECRETARY'S ANNUAL REPORT.]

The present Secretary* received the care of the statistics at the session of 1855, and perfected the issue of that year as far as possible in the few weeks allowable. He has prepared the issue of each year since, except three war years, and for the last of the three was partially responsible. Prior to 1855, the want of continuous responsibility left the statistics extremely imperfect. The Secretary shortly found that, in the lists of the churches, there were three classes of omissions; first, of a few churches (necessarily omitted) which did not acknowledge a full fellowship; second, of a few who had ceased to have regular public worship, although maintaining existence; and, third, of a few omitted by ignorance. All these were soon brought into the roll.

In 1865, a table for these years was given, corrected by inserting all such as had been omitted. It seems better to perfect a table which shall (1) include in each year all improperly omitted, (2) take up the invisible churches in the year of their revival, and (3) insert the non-fellowshipping churches in the year in which they fully came into fellowship. And also

*The officers of the General Association have been as follows:

Rev. George Mooar, D. D., Andover, 1860-1861.

Rev. John L. Taylor, D. D., Andover, 1861-1864.

Rev. Alonzo H. Quint, D. D., New Bedford, 1864-1868.

TREASURER.

Dea. William Hyde, Ware, 1860-1861.

Dea. Stephen T. Farwell, Boston, 1861-1868.

The Conference never published statistics. The Association issued tables first in 1826. No officer had charge of the work. Each year, the delegates were expected, under the rule, to bring the statistics, for collecting which a blank form was printed in the annual Minutes. A committee on printing, appointed at each session, took these loose returns, and put them in the best shape possible. In 1855, the present Secretary chanced to be placed on the committee for printing. The next year, the office of Statistical Secretary was established, with Statistical Scribes in the several Associations, who were to collect the statistics on forms furnished, and report directly to the Statistical Secretary.

The system working well,—the then Secretary of the American Congregational Union, and the now Secretary of our General Association, were a committee of the Union to lay the plan, and reasons, before all our State bodies. It is perhaps needless to say that the agency of the Union was used as that of the only body naturally suitable.

Dropped, — Plymouth ch., Chelsea; Trin. ch., Fitchburg (withdrew from fellowship); and Neponset. Total, January 1, 1860, 488.

In the year 1860, new, — three in Boston, viz., Springfield st., Oak place, and E street; Saundersville, in Grafton; Chestnut st. ch., Lynn; and one at South Hadley Falls (by divisions.) Dropped, — South ch., Amherst; Payson ch., and Church of the Unity, South Boston (to make E st. ch.); and Winter st. ch., Haverhill. Total, January 1, 1861, 490.

In the year 1861, new, — Groton Junction; Florence, in Northampton; and Somerset. Dropped, — one in South Malden (by union of two); and Whately, 2d. Total, January 1, 1862, 491.

In the year 1862, new, — Plymouth, 5th ch. Dropped, — Pawtucket, and Seekonk, both by change of State line, transferred to Rhode Island. (In the Minutes of 1862, Beverly 4th, West Boxford, and Sharon, were unaccountably omitted; and equally unaccountably, Tower Hill mission, in Lynn, was called a church, and the Union Evangelical church of Salisbury and Amesbury, which is at Salisbury Point, was inserted twice, by its name and by its location.) Total, January 1, 1863, 490.

In the year 1863, new, — none. Dropped, — Puritan ch., Sandwich. (Beverly 4th still wrongly omitted.) Total, January 1, 1864, 489.

In the year 1864, new, — Chambers st. ch., Boston; Beech Woods, in Cohasset; Memorial ch., Georgetown; North Somerville; Sanford st. ch., Springfield; and Roslindale, in West Roxbury. Trinitarian ch., Fitchburg, and Seekonk, were replaced. Dropped. — Cotuit, in Barnstable; Bowdoin st. ch., Boston; Oak place ch., Boston; Trinitarian church, East Bridgewater; Mt. Washington; Monument, in Sandwich; Stow; and Holmes Hole, in Tisbury. Total, January 1, 1865, 489.

In the year 1865, new, — Seminary ch., Andover (absorbing the discoverable remains of the old one); Belmont; Stearns chapel, Cambridgeport; Fairmount (now Hyde Park); Eliot ch., Lawrence; Southville; Memorial ch., Springfield; and Mission Chapel ch., Worcester. North Orange was restored. Dropped, — Seminary ch., Andover; Cambridgeport, 2d; one in Deerfield, by union of two; Eastham; and Howard st. ch., Salem. Total, January 1, 1866, 493.

In the year 1866, new, — North Dennis; College st. ch., Dorchester; North ch., Newton; Russell; and West Warren. Dropped, — Memorial ch., Springfield (independent); and Roslindale. Total, January 1, 1867, 496.

In the year 1867, new, — Ludlow Mills. Replaced, — Mt. Washington; and Monument, in Sandwich. Dropped, — one in Gardner, by union of two; one in Boston, by union of Salem and Mariners'; and Russell, independent. Total, January 1, 1868, 496.

In the year 1868, new, — Rollstone ch., in Fitchburg; South, and Free churches, Lawrence; Hancock ch., Lexington; Newtonville; Whittenton, in Taunton; and Tyngsborough. Dropped, — Alford, as extinct; one in Ashfield, by union of two; and Rockport, 2d, members returning to the 1st church. Total, January 1, 1869, 500.

In the year 1869, new, — Highland church, Boston; Gilbertville, in Hard wick; North church, Lynn; Packardville, in Pelham; White Oaks, in Williamstown; and Plymouth church, Worcester. Dropped, — Springfield street church, Boston; Cummington, First church; one in Manchester, by re-union of two; and Mount Washington. Total, January 1, 1870, 502.

In the year 1870, new, — Wesleyan church, Duxbury, from another denomination; and Walnut avenue church, Boston Highlands. Dropped, — Trinitarian church, Fitchburg; Mendon, extinct; White Oaks, in Williamstown, independent. Total, January 1, 1871, 501.

In the year 1871, new, — Mill River, in New Marlborough; and Park street church, West Springfield. Dropped, — None. Total, January 1, 1872, 503.

In the year 1872, new, — Chapel church, Cambridgeport; Miller's Falls, in Montague; West Medford; Newton Highlands; Lovell's Corner, in Weymouth; and Piedmont church, Worcester. Dropped, — Free church, Lawrence; and Monument, in Sandwich. Total, January 1, 1873, 507.

Two churches organized in the current year are not included, viz., Hollanders' church, Boston, and South Framingham.

According to the above, 49 names of churches have been dropped in this period (January 1, 1855, to January 1, 1873.) But, of these, two were and are restored; three were twice (and finally) dropped (having been once restored); and one (out of three) transferred to another State, was replaced. Of the 43 remaining as permanently dropped, 2 were transferred to other States, and are still flourishing. Three were and are Independent, and ought not to have been enrolled. Thirteen were formally united to other churches, or their membership advantageously re-organized. Eight were absorbed by others, also to advantage. And seventeen became actually extinct. Of these seventeen, some were needless efforts, by the side of other churches, — such as Plymouth ch. in Chelsea, Oak place in Boston, Roslindale in West Roxbury; while others died, such as Mount Washington, Mendon, Alford, Eastham, Holmes Hole, and Cummington.

According also to the above list, 89 churches have been entered on the list. But, of these, four (three once dropped, and one returned from R. I.) were duplicated. Three were Independent, and although still existing, were subsequently dropped. One came from the list of another State. Of the 81 remaining, three came into fellowship; four were old churches re-suscitated; seven were re-organizations, or took place of old feeble ones, and are still existing. Of the 67 remaining, actually and entirely new, twelve eventually fell out by retraction or merging.

A concise view of the above is this: Of the 467 churches on the list January 1, 1855, 444 remain unchanged to this time. Of the 23 disappearing, — 2 were transferred to the lists of other States, and are still flourishing; and 2 really exist under re-organizations. Four were united with others, to mutual advantage. Of the remaining 15 dropped, — 5 were disbanded, and members dismissed to convenient churches, or members absorbed without formal disbanding; and 10 have died, in almost every instance from changes of population.

To the 444 thus continuing unchanged — 63 new names are permanently added, now on the list. Of these, one came from the list of another State, and 2 were only re-organizations of churches feebly existing in 1855. Sixty were actually new. (In this period, 26 others have appeared and disappeared, 4 of which were duplicates, leaving 22; from which 3 Independent churches should be taken. The 19 remaining as both enrolled and dropped within this period include 11 which were united to other churches, or absorbed into them. Eight became extinct.)

The table next following gives the "total" of the statistics of each year for which there is anything reliable. It has been carefully revised, and is believed to be substantially correct.

Prior to 1830, number of churches at given dates: In 1820, —1; 1830, —2; 1835, —13; 1840, —26; 1850, —39; 1860, —83; 1870, —239; 1880, —324; 1890, —343; 1810, —281 (having dropped all that became Unitarian); 1820, —291; 1825, —310.

In the above table, — the columns of "Additions," "Removals," "Baptisms," "Sabbath School Average," and "Benevolent Contributions," cover the twelve months next preceding January 1 of the year mentioned in a given line. The pastoral supply (only) was regularly corrected to a date a few months later than January 1, but this does not change the general accuracy in any case.

* Absentees prior to 1855, doubtless stated too low.

AND OF SUCH PARTS OF TOWNS (HAVING CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES) AS HAVE DISTINCT NAMES.

The statistics of churches in any town will be found in its County (pages 117-181); the number affixed to any town, in this list, is the number of the Conference (pages 91-98) with which its churches are connected. If no such number is given, the church is not connected with a Conference. "No church" means only "no Congregational church." The population of such towns, by census of 1870, is given in parenthesis.

NAMES OF MINISTERS,

AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE PAGE IN WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS
IN THE STATISTICS OF ASSOCIATIONS OR CHURCHES.

This list includes only pastors or acting pastors and members of Associations. Its post-office addresses often differ from the foregoing pages, by reason of removals.

The first column of figures, (including pp. 99 115,) refers to membership in Associations; the second column (including pp. 117-131,) refers to pastoral position. A blank, in either case, signifies, — in the former, that one is not a member of any Association; in the latter, that he is not reported as in pastoral service. Post office addresses outside of Massachusetts are printed in italics.

In the following list a star (*) denotes that the person, although an "acting pastor," is not a member of any Association in this State.

The Committee on the Lists of Ministers presented a report, which, with an added resolution, was adopted.*

The Committee on the Collecting of Statistics and Printing made a report, which was adopted, recommending what portion of the report on the Work of the Churches should be printed.

Rev. Daniel Phillips offered the following resolutions upon Temperance, which, after discussion, were adopted as follows :—

Resolved, That we recognize the leading position of the Christian Church in the moral reforms of the age, and its imperative obligation to press to the van by all rightful means the great issues of the day, to elevate and perfect the race.

Resolved, That we recognize the hand of God in the present movement of the temperance cause, and the efficiency of woman in its promotion.

Resolved, That we shall give these women as well as these men who strive to remove the curse of intemperance and other evils, our most hearty sympathy, prayer, and co-operation.

Resolved, That the traffic in intoxicating liquors is a mighty barrier to the progress of the Gospel in the State and land, and therefore the suppression of the traffic becomes a Christian duty.

The Association then took up the discussion of the question, "What shall we do to promote revivals?" which was opened by Rev. Henry M. Parsons, of Boston, who was followed by Rev. Alfred F. Marsh, Rev. Stephen R. Dennen, Rev. Leonard S. Parker, Bro. Amos Tappan, Rev. George F. Stanton, Rev. Francis H. Boynton, and Rev. Perley B. Davis.

The Treasurer's Report was then taken up and accepted ; † and it was Voted, That the scribes of the local Conferences be requested to ask the churches for a sum equivalent to two cents for each resident church member, and to forward it to the Treasurer of this body.

The Association then took a recess until 2 o'clock, P. M.

The Association re-assembled at 2 o'clock, P. M. After the singing of a hymn, Rev. George N. Anthony, of Peabody, led in prayer.

Professor Julius H. Seelye addressed the Association on "India, as a Mission Field."

On motion of Rev. H. M. Parsons, a vote of thanks was tendered to Prof. Seelye for his able, eloquent, and instructive address.

On motion of Rev. James P. Kimball, it was Resolved, That the thanks of the Association be tendered to the First Church in Lynn, and its pastor, for their cordial welcome, and to the churches and people of Lynn, for their abundant Christian hospitality.

Thanks are also tendered to the choirs of the churches for leading us so acceptably in the service of song, and to the several railroads which have given return tickets to persons attending the meeting. These railroads are the Eastern, Boston & Albany, Fitchburg, Old Colony, Boston & Lowell, Boston, Clinton, and Fitchburg, and Connecticut River.

Appropriate remarks were made by Rev. Alexander McGregor and the Moderator, and in response by Rev. Stephen R. Dennen, pastor of the Church.

It was also

Voted, That the Association appreciates the courtesy and Christian kindness with which the Moderator has presided over it and facilitated its deliberations.

After remarks by the Moderator, singing, and prayer by Rev. A. H. Quint, the Association adjourned.

REPORT ON THE WORK OF THE CHURCHES AND STATE OF RELIGION.*

THE time has returned for the yearly review of the work of the churches. Could we bring before ourselves the work actually wrought by these churches in souls and communities, what unspeakable interest would gather round it. But instead of the blessed harvests themselves, we are able to present only a package of dry leaves, — a mere reminiscence.

The General Association has been careful to press upon the attention of the Christian public the importance of a more systematic and more energetic church work; urging the churches to "a more exact and thorough mapping out of the Christian work before them, in marking the boundaries of their parishes, in making out full lists of the families and individuals for whom they are responsible, in adopting all feasible measures for strengthening Christian ties, and for promoting" all the varied forms of a constant and watchful activity. And now, after another year of labor, what record have we to lay before our Lord?

We give the reports of the Conferences in their order. No narratives have been received from the Worcester North, the Essex South, or the Old Colony, Conference.

ANDOVER CONFERENCE.

Reports have been received from all the churches. The statistical returns are complete, and have been printed for distribution throughout the Conference.

CHURCH GAINS. The additions upon confession exceed the removals by death, by 142; there were no excommunications; the accessions by letter exceed the dismissals, by 53 — making the gain for the year 195.

The North Chelmsford church greatly rejoices over the payment of the debt on its parsonage. The South church, Lawrence, increases its charities, this year, 500 per cent, and the explanation is found in its adoption of the "Plan of Systematic Giving." The Central church, Lawrence, has improved its methods as follows: "At the Annual Meeting in January, a list of objects is carefully prepared and submitted to the church; each case is discussed and voted upon separately, and the times of collection assigned.

SABBATH SERVICES. In the Central church, Lawrence, the second sermon is regularly devoted to the Sunday School lesson; which tends to interest the whole congregation in the studies of the school. The First church, Lowell, has changed the hour of the second service to 6 o'clock — with good results. The service is followed by a prayer-meeting. The increase of attendance on all the meetings is marked, and the house is more than full. The Kirk Street church also reports "continual increase." Its four deacons have been appointed ushers, and are "faithfully serving in that capacity." They "do not intend to have a stranger wait one second for a seat."

PRAYER-MEETINGS. Very gratifying accounts are received from a number of the churches, of the energy and interest of the meetings. It is such as to indicate a highly encouraging spiritual state. The Kirk Street church reports its Monthly Concert the most interesting of its prayer-meetings; and it is the testimony of its pastor, that "the brethren to whom fields have been assigned have worked up their departments in a manner that would do credit to the professors in our theological seminaries."

THE "SOCIAL MEETING" seems to possess a growing importance as an agency of the church. So reports the Pawtucket church. The Central church, Lawrence, holds such a meeting every three weeks; it is largely attended, and regarded by the pastor as "extremely important." In four of the Lowell churches, "Young People's Societies" have been organized, for social and literary purposes, occasionally holding public meetings.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS. The average attendance at the Sunday Schools is 70 per cent of their whole membership. The largest — First Church, Lowell — numbers 553. Eleven schools report an increase; but the total shows a falling off since last year, of 149. The general tone of the reports, however, is good.

OUTSIDE WORK. Students of the Theological Seminary, in Andover, have engaged in Christian labors, with good results. The West church, Andover, has sustained two meetings; the Pawtucket church, a meeting in two out-districts, with occasional preaching; and the Central church, Dracut, another of similar character. In Lawrence, a City Missionary has been working efficiently; the Central church has appointed a Visiting Committee, whose duties, however, appear to be limited to the sick and strangers found among its own people. The Tewksbury church has maintained a Sunday School in an out-district which has brought under religious influences quite a number reached in no other way. The Belvidere Mission, in Lowell, is doing a good work.

TEMPERANCE. The Reform Club organized in Lawrence, last year, did well for a season. Recently, its zeal has been revived, and it holds public meetings in the City Hall, at which the ministers give addresses by turns. The secret orders of "Good Templars" and "The Temple of Honor" are also reported as useful. The Prohibitory Law is not administered with sufficient regularity to awaken a wholesome respect. In Lowell, the pastors of the Appleton Street, High Street, and John Street churches have given prominence to this subject in their pulpits. In this city, also, the officers have shown more than ordinary zeal in the enforcement of the law, and in consequence some dealers have left the business. No "women's movement" is reported by any of the churches. In North Andover, the law is "useful."

REVIVALS. In the earlier part of the year, the South church, Lawrence, was visited by the presence of the Spirit in special power; in the Central church there has been a well sustained and uniform interest throughout the entire year; and in the city, generally, the cause of Christ has made progress, morals have improved, and there is much cause for gratitude and hope. In Lowell, the First church has enjoyed a precious season of revival, and reports 64 additions on confession of faith. No unusual meetings have been held, but a constant interest sustained, "every one working over against his own house." The Spirit has been moving powerfully upon the Kirk Street church and congregation. — The reports from this Conference, taken as a whole, may be said to indicate energy, alertness, and encouragement. Yet there has been a manifest lack of promptitude in securing the seasonable formation of new churches.

BARNSTABLE CONFERENCE.

The number of churches in this Conference is reduced by one; the church at North Dennis, with a membership, last year, of 44 souls, having been supplied for several years by Methodists, has now become connected with their Conference. Such an event gives rise to the question, Wherein have we, Congregationalists, been wanting?

PAYMENT OF DEBT. REPAIRS. The church in Chatham has been bending its energies for two years to the payment of debts, and is making rapid progress, having raised over $2,000, or nearly one half of the whole amount. The church in Provincetown has thoroughly remodelled its edifice, at a cost of $7,000; to do which, they have been obliged to task themselves to the utmost. In Wellfleet, the sum of $10,500 has been expended in improvements upon the interior of the meeting-house, and in the lecture-room.

REVIVALS. Few revivals were enjoyed until after the "Week of Prayer" of 1874; but upon the whole, the condition of the churches has much improved. The church at West Barnstable had suffered from a long period of barrenness, and had become so far discouraged that it did not venture to appoint meetings during the Week of Prayer. But a sermon upon "the necessity of calling upon God to pour out his Spirit," was blessed, in the awakening of the church, a growing solemnity, and the hopeful conversion of 4 persons within one week. Neighboring pastors were called in; preaching was continued, with conversation and prayer; and in spite of previous coldness, worldliness, division, and lack of courage and faith, and the various inconveniences of a sparsely settled community, no less than 25 persons, of various ages, from 18 to 70 years, have given evidence of conversion ; and others are looked upon with expectation. It is worthy of notice, however, that none have been reached who did not "belong to the regular congregation." At Centreville, 9 conversions among young people have occurred, the result of personal effort. At Sandwich, a precious revival has been enjoyed, its beginnings traceable to special prayer, last summer. Additional meetings were held during January and February, and special effort made for the Sunday School. The pastor was aided by a neighboring minister and a lay-evangelist. About 40 hopeful conversions have been recognized, 10 of which are of persons between 11 and 16 years of age. Nearly all have been regular attendants at church. In several cases, husbands and wives have been brought to Christ. In Truro, a town which suffers greatly from emigration, the admissions balance the losses, most of the young people are in the Sunday School, and neglecters are visited and conversed with by the pastor. At South Wellfleet 10 persons have been added to the church, on profession of faith. In Yarmouth, a quiet work of grace has been enjoyed, resulting in the quickening of the church to a greater activity than has been witnessed for the past six years, and in hopeful conversions to the number of 20 or more. At West Yarmouth, also, the church has been quickened to new life. The people raise $400 for their minister, instead of $250 as formerly, though their numbers have diminished. Families once little interested are now among the most self-denying. For sixteen years no additions had been made to this church ; but since the first of January 2 persons have been received. The meetings are very interesting. These encouraging tokens may be viewed as the fruit of regular preaching, now for the first time enjoyed for several years.

METHODS. In Centreville, the young people interested in personal religion have been gathered into a "Believer's Class," which meets every Sabbath afternoon, after the service. They are here instructed in the duties of the Christian life and prepared for admission to the church. In connection with this, there is another "class for little children who really love Jesus."

Another pastor has been in the habit of gathering half a dozen boys at a time in his study, reading to them, talking with them, praying with them ; and sometimes having a good deal of singing. His wife has held similar meetings of girls. At present, he brings thirty or forty young people together, encouraging any who are willing, to take part.

Still another pastor finds that, during a season of religious interest, "the most useful means of grace has been a Young People's meeting held for three quarters of an hour before the Sabbath evening service." "Both young ladies and young men have taken part in it." "The presence of the Spirit has been manifest in all the meetings." Also, "A class of girls has been formed which meets on Saturday afternoons, for instruction in practical religious duties. In Falmouth a "Town Conference," comprising its four churches, has been organized, and meets at intervals during the winter at each of the churches. These meetings are "well attended, very delightful and profitable." In Wellfleet "the labors of a faithful lay-worker (connected with a Boston church) among the neglecters in the outskirts of the town, have resulted in the hopeful conversion of about 20 souls."

FAILURE? In only a single instance does an unfavorable report come to us, this year, and that most unexpectedly from Hyannis. Last year the indications were very favorable. Under the labors of Rev. J. W. Turner, who was sustained by the Home Missionary Society, the Sabbath School was largely increased, and the congregation numbered something like 200. Mr. Turner has since been called away, and there is no stated preaching in the Congregational Church. It is evident that a persistent work is called for by a resident laborer. Unless outside help is afforded, the church will be lost. The report of the Committee seems to imply a doubt whether this help is obtainable.

REVIEWS. "There are some special encouragements for Christian effort among the neglecters of the sanctuary within this Conference. The population is almost purely American; there is little intemperance; morals — even among those who reside outside of the villages and have no Sabbath privileges — are comparatively high; the court-docket calls forth remark, for its brevity; the Sabbath is outwardly respected by almost all. But there are also discouragements. There is a general stagnation, — a few favored villages excepted, — which reaches the churches themselves. The quietness that steals in from the sea makes effort more irksome than in manufacturing towns. There is an amount of unorganized error which has gradually but steadily enlarged, in part from lack of vigorous efforts to disseminate the truth among the young people. In some of the towns, the churches are compassed about by this unbelief, and are being slowly crowded into smaller limits."

"Two or three suggestions seem important: 1. The churches that hire pastors from year to year, and which, consequently, have not the advice of a council, need to exercise great care to secure men of positive, evangelical sentiments. The tide of error sets strongly around some of our pulpits."

2. "Neighborhood prayer-meetings and Sabbath Schools, maintained by laymen, are called for in connection with almost all of our churches. At those seasons when the brethren of the church are absent at sea, experience shows that these efforts can be sustained with equal efficiency by the sisters."

3. Frequent conferences among neighboring churches stimulate to Christian activity and nourish a spirit of fellowship. Several of the churches have arranged such meetings.

BERKSHIRE NORTH.

[The reports from the churches of this Conference — with a single exception — have arrived too late for publication.]

From the church in North Adams comes a gratifying story of revival. No less than 49 persons united with this church on profession of faith, in the year 1873; and since the first of last January 123 more have confessed Christ, while “still the work goes on”; and a goodly number of additions were, at last accounts, expected at the next communion. “We have found,” says the pastor, “the good results of organization, in many ways, during this time of interest, and have been able to carry forward the work without any outside help.”

“Our parish is divided into nine neighborhoods, each under the charge of a member of the church committee, whose duty it is to report newcomers, visit the sick, invite strangers and neglecters, attend prayer-meetings appointed in the neighborhood, and in general, watch for the spiritual good of his neighborhood.”

“The church committee meets once a month, and hears reports from the various neighborhoods. Points of special interest in these reports are repeated at the next church prayer-meeting by the pastor.”

“Branch Sunday Schools are held in three of these neighborhoods. In the more distant, prayer-meetings are held in rotation, which are attended by the pastor, the committee man in charge, and two or three young people selected from the Young People’s Association, in addition to residents.”

“The good effects of this parish work are manifest in the increased attendance upon church services, the growth of the Sunday School, the drawing in of families hitherto classed as neglecters, and the steadily increasing influence of the church upon the whole community. We are preparing for a more vigorous working out of the parish idea; believing fully that our responsibility is not limited to a care of ourselves but extends to all within our territory not cared for by other churches. We have found that ‘there is that scattereth and yet increaseth.’”

“The Sunday School has gained in numbers and efficiency. Thirty-nine of its members were among those who joined the church in 1873. Church fellowship and activity have been promoted by methods reported before. A marked degree of interest among the young continued through the year. There was no communion without additions to the church.”

BERKSHIRE SOUTH.

The Committee of this Conference are enabled to present reports from all the churches; making, in the aggregate, a statement deeply significant and interesting.

MOVEMENTS. Last year two towns (Otis and Alford) were reported as without regular services. This lack has now been supplied. The church at Alford had been dropped from our list. Various efforts had been made, in years past, by the Secretary of the State Committee and by the Committee of the Berkshire South Conference, but, for lack of funds, had failed. Of late, however, the people of the town had been feeling "the need of some means of intellectual and moral improvement, for two or three winters a Reading Circle was successfully carried on," and, at the beginning of last year, steps were taken to raise money for repairs to the meeting-house, and for the re-establishment of religious services. By the first of June a minister had been secured; and ever since, there have been regular services, with a fair audience and a good Sunday School. The church at Otis—also long without preaching—has ordained a pastor. More has likewise been done at Mt. Washington this year than the year before. The Home Missionary Society sent a theological student to labor there, who received a hearty welcome. The church in Sandisfield still maintains services at the Centre, although their former pastor, aided by a portion of its congregation, has established a movement in the Town Hall, at New Boston, with good prospects of success.

THE OUT-DISTRICTS appear to be looked after with commendable watchfulness and enterprise. The only new movement reported in this line of effort is the establishment, by the Southfield church, of a four-o'clock service in North Norfolk, during the months of the summer and the early fall, with the organization of a Sunday School.

CHILDREN AND YOUNG PEOPLE. A most interesting statement is furnished by the church in Lee respecting efforts there made in behalf of the young. The pastor holds two Bible classes for girls, alternately, at his study, on Friday afternoons, at four o'clock. The junior class embraces those from 12 to 16 years of age; and the senior, those over 16, "fifty belonging to both classes." "Bible lessons are prepared, and also lessons on practical piety and Christian experience." The classes have "proved eminently successful. Most of the 13 additions to the church, last year, were members of them."

"For boys and young men—from 12 to 20 years of age—there is a prayer-meeting every Sabbath afternoon, one hour before the evening service, the pastor being occasionally present. Almost all who attend this meeting become members of the church." "Religious tracts and books are freely circulated." Pains are taken to make "the church the centre of all religious interest and the source of all Christian activity. Young men who are members of it go out to evening meetings in the out-districts."

"Fellowship meetings are also occasionally held; and meetings for young men at the parsonage. A very large proportion of the young people of this congregation are members of the church."

The church in Monterey, although its acting pastor "is with them but little during week-days, still maintains its District System, reported last year." The church, at its Annual Meeting, appoints District Committees, who visit and have religious conversation with all persons in their several districts, and make written reports of their work to the church. In this way, neglecters — who constitute, perhaps, two thirds of the population of the town — are all reached.

FREE SEATS. The Free Seat System inaugurated by the Congregational church in Sheffield, four years ago, has now been adopted by all the other churches in the town, as well as by churches in some other towns.

REVIVAL. The church in New Marlborough was visited with a revival early in 1873. "It began, in the pastor's own experience, upon his return from the meeting of the American Board; and, in the church, with the Week of Prayer." There was manifest "a desire for it, on the part of praying people." A second week of prayer was held; then a third; and the meetings were continued for three months. Young people were early interested; and upon invitation, remained for conversation. A weekly young people's meeting was established. The interest increased until few, if any, of the youth of the parish or the students of the Institute remained unaffected. The hopeful conversions numbered 35. The means were prayer and conversation.

REVIEW. The year, however, has had its shadows. Three pastors, young men of great promise, Tolman, Burpee, and Hooker, have been called from their sorrowing parishes. "But the way in which these brethren were treated by their people, not as hirelings, but as dearly beloved pastors, as the messengers of God, through whom those who loved the Master might honor him and minister to him, shows, indeed, a bright and blessed side to this scene of mourning."

A careful study of the returns reveals shadows of another kind. The removals by death and excommunication exceed the additions upon confession of faith, by 1; the removals by letter exceed the admissions by 29. An apparent reduction in membership of 70 more, results from a revision of lists. In only 4 churches have the gains exceeded the losses; in 11, the record is the other way.

The neglect of Infant Baptism is very marked. "Only 13 such baptisms are reported, and 5 of these from the church in Lee, — a fact which, considered in connection with the report from that church and the number of young people in its membership, seems to be instructive. Only 6 churches prove by works their faith that our children are included in God's covenant with us."

In seeming connection with this, stands the fact that the decrease in the Sabbath Schools is greater than that of the churches. Egremont reports a gain of 51, and 3 others, smaller gains; but the falling off, on the whole, is 152, and the average attendance has diminished 91.

The benevolent contributions of the churches, however, show a gain of not less than $3,400. If gifts to the Sunday Schools were reckoned in, the gain would be over $3,800.

BROOKFIELD CONFERENCE.

“A careful search into the reports of the churches in the Brookfield Conference, for the past year, shows a fair average of prosperity. Three pastors have been dismissed by council, and four have been installed. One church edifice has been burned, but will be promptly replaced by another and better one. One society is repairing their house of worship at a proposed expense of $10,000; and the munificence of wealthy and interested men, in one manufacturing village, has erected a superb stone church, at a cost of about $75,000, to be unconditionally given to the parish. Contributions for missionary purposes have reached about the usual sum, many churches giving regularly and upon principle. And here we urge that the gifts of the church are a conspicuous and influential expression of their love for God’s cause before the world, as the latter well know that “avarice is the most universal and insatiable passion” among men. Therefore, when the Gospel rules the purse of the church, it does something great and significant. Donations of money may not always gauge the piety of the people of God, but they often do. If people give well, they are likely to get honestly; and so, their getting and giving will illustrate and enforce the excellencies of Christ’s truth.”

“No revival has been enjoyed by any church during the year, but a considerable number of persons have been hopefully converted to God, some of whom have made a profession of their faith, and some are expected soon to do so. In one society, a young man of Romanist antecedents became interested in personal religion and was converted. No ridicule or opposition from his associates have been successful in turning him from a firm and helpful performance of duty.”

“In some of the religious societies the people have been prompt to furnish sufficient pecuniary means to meet all the expense of supporting the Gospel, in some instances removing old and encumbering debts.”

“The matter of free sittings has been agitated in several parishes, and the plan adopted in one. The sentiment of a majority of the churches is, however, in the direction of a certain and exacted payment for the preaching of the truth.”

“The cause of Temperance has received attention, and the pledge has been circulated, securing a considerable number of names, especially among the youth; in whom is our main hope of extirpating the giant evil of strong drink.”

“To some of the Sabbath School libraries quite large additions have been made, and the interest in investigating divine truth has steadily increased. We are, perhaps, justified in believing that there is a growing wish among all classes to ascertain the exact import and meaning of Scripture truths; that a love of the Word, and not artificial machinery, is drawing some, at least, into the Sabbath School.”

ESSEX NORTH CONFERENCE.

The returns from this Conference are complete. A decided increase is manifest in contributions to most of the regular objects of benevolence. The general condition of the churches would seem to have also improved.

REPAIRS AND IMPROVEMENTS. The church at Amesbury Mills has made very extensive repairs on their house of worship. For the same object, the Union church of Salisbury and Amesbury have expended $3,000. The Byfield church has finished a commodious vestry. The First church, Georgetown, has expended $15,000 in repairs; and the North church, Haverhill, $18,885 on its new house of worship.

CHURCH WORK. REVIVALS. The reports indicate a most encouraging measure of steadfastness in good enterprises, in the forms of Christian activity newly started, as well as in the older ways; and these have been attended with excellent results, many of which cannot be exhibited in a report. In West Amesbury, a Branch Sunday School has been successful in reaching twenty-five scholars and a number of families who before had not so much as a nominal relation with any denomination. Three neighborhood meetings have been a very marked help to an increased spirituality. There have been many hopeful conversions. Some who are not communicants join in Christian labors. The use of "the weekly offering" has increased the contributions twenty-five per cent. The pastor speaks hopefully of new efforts now in progress. In Amesbury Mills, likewise, the year has been one to be gratefully remembered, as a season of spiritual quickening and growth. Several communion seasons have been made joyful by additions on confession, numbering in all 19, and others are looked for. There has been a good success in all departments of church work; and in the society and church both, a healthy growth. The church unite in saying, Truly the hand of our God has been upon us for good! In the Union church, there has been a quiet interest, with some conversions. The First church, Bradford, has been blessed with a special interest in its neighborhood meetings, one of which has been very encouraging; while in other parts of the town there are tokens not a few of the blessed presence of the Spirit. The Branch Sunday School finds its work very hopeful. The Sabbath congregations, also, have been large, and characterized with a devout attention. Many are indulging a Christian hope who have not yet united with the church. Considerable religious interest has likewise shown itself at Groveland, giving rise to hope; and new efforts have there been made in the Temperance cause. The North church, Haverhill, has enjoyed tokens of the Divine presence; many have confessed Christ, and the hopes of years have been fulfilled. In Byfield, also, a quiet work of grace commenced near the beginning of the year; five were added to the church, and quite recently the interest has deepened and extended. All the churches in Ipswich village have been blessed with a remarkable outpouring of Divine influence, resulting in very large accessions, and a great reinvigoration.

The Sunday Schools appear to be, generally, in excellent condition. The churches which are weak in numbers, are, most of them, doing well. Hardly any mention of Temperance is made in the reports; and we may probably infer that but little activity has been manifest in this cause. Nor do we hear of any particular endeavors to check the tendency, prevalent in the large towns, to a disregard of the Lord's Day. Of the churches, it may be said that most have held on the even tenor of their way with more than ordinary vigor; that quite a number have been peculiarly blessed; and that some are working with inventiveness and system and the very best kind of success.

FRANKLIN CONFERENCE.

COMMUNITIES. — A very great diversity is found in both the temporal and spiritual condition of different parts of this Conference. Some of its communities are growing in population and energy, but many are suffering a steady depletion. Some of the churches have been blessed with the gracious influences of the Holy Spirit; others are like "the heath in the desert," and do "not see when good cometh." In many localities the population is stationary in numbers, but not in character, since the newcomers by no means make good the places of such as have gone away. The Coleraine church has sent out a hundred members of its parish within the past eight years; and the town of Wendell has lost the same number within five years, — or one sixth of its population.

THE CHURCHES. — And yet from a goodly proportion of the churches come encouraging reports; and in all, we have reason to believe, the past year has been a year of faithful labor. At Bernardston, we find a growing interest in Christian work, the Sunday School vigorous, and no little thoughtfulness on matters of religion. Charlemont has added 10 persons on confession of faith, and has made a net gain of 7 in its membership, and is able to say, — "Neglecters are visited." South Deerfield reports a net gain of 16 and Ashfield of 5; of Wendell it is recorded, that while the numbers are diminishing in church, society, and town, the few who care for religious things were never more united or steadfast. The Sabbath services are well attended. A week-day service is kept up in out-districts, and religious literature is regularly and liberally distributed. From Heath, also, another mountain town, whose old church, once among the largest and best in the State, was for years sadly divided, and then for years the object of persistent attack and misrepresentation, we get tokens of encouragement. The church has ceased to dwindle. It now holds its own, has made liberal expenditures upon its house of worship, is reaching a larger number of families, and its minister has succeeded in setting laymen at work in sustaining a Sunday School in Monroe, a little town some ten miles away, too small to maintain a church. The church in South Deerfield has kept up meetings in out-districts ; that in Coleraine has aided in Sunday Schools, and preaching in two remote neighborhoods. In Shelburne, nearly half of the congregation attend the Sunday School.

EXPEDIENTS. In East Charlemont, responsive readings have been adopted in the morning service, and the weekly meetings are varied ; so that besides prayer-meetings, they have had Praise meetings, Promise meetings, and Purpose meetings. We also hear of Experience meetings from another church. In Orange, the parish has been divided into neighborhoods, a certain person being appointed to the oversight of each, and having it among his duties to see that appropriate visiting is done by the proper persons. In Warwick, a song service on Sunday evenings brings out nearly as many as the earlier services.

REVIVAL. There has been some religious interest in several places. In South Deerfield, a revival has been enjoyed, commencing in a visit of the delegation from the Young Men's Christian Association which has been "canvassing" the State. In Orange, a "powerful revival" was in progress in April of the present year.

TEMPERANCE.— Little is said in the church reports on this subject, and that little is not of a particularly encouraging nature. The churches are not doing much for the removal of intemperance.

SLOW AND UNSURE. At Turner's Falls a lot has been selected (but not secured), long after other denominations had made their choice ; and it is possible that by the time their churches are self-supporting, Congregationalists may be making a beginning.

HAMPDEN CONFERENCE.

The report from this Conference has been delayed, and is not received in season for publication. The Conference, however, is in the habit of publishing, every fall, a pamphlet of some twenty-four pages, giving in detail the narratives of the churches, with an admirably complete table of contributions. We are unable to give, at this late hour, even an abstract of this publication ; but can only call attention to a few important points. In the first place, the energy with which this Conference takes hold of business, is very noteworthy. Its meetings are something more than occasions of social interest. Secondly, the Conference has taken steps to provide "church visitations, local conferences, and other measures" for a really effective co-operation and fellowship. Thirdly, it has organized a highly successful system of reports as a part of the proper fellowship of the churches, and secures from every church a narrative, and an account of contributions. It has substantially adopted the "Memorandum of Topics" issued by the State Committee.

The Conference is pressing vigorously forward in all its plans, and the general record of the year is encouraging.

HAMPSHIRE CONFERENCE.

“The past year has been one of blessing to the Hampshire Association. At the present time nearly all the churches are supplied with ministers. Pastors have lately been settled over the churches in Southampton and in Westhampton. There have been revivals of religion more or less extensive in several of the churches. The church in Chesterfield, which for several years has been growing weaker, has been much quickened, and there have been, perhaps, 30 conversions; among them, several heads of families. Quite a number of the young people in Williamsburg and Northampton have given their hearts to the Saviour; in Westhampton and in Southampton, the Spirit of God has been poured out, the preaching of the Word has been blessed, and many have forsaken their sins. Probably 30 or 40 in each of these towns give evidence of conversion.”

“In externals, most of the churches have been prosperous and have been making good progress. A very sad calamity has come upon the town of Williamsburg and one of the villages in Northampton in the bursting of a large reservoir which flooded the valley of Mill River, destroyed property to the value of more than a million of dollars, and took nearly 140 precious lives. The First church lost thirteen members and at least thirty of the congregation, — in some instances whole families being swept away, — and will be somewhat weakened by its loss of property. The Haydenville church lost two members and several others from the congregation; and in property connected with the parish was damaged to the amount of at least half a million dollars. The chapel at Leeds, where the members of the Haydenville church sustained a Sunday School and worshipped on Sunday afternoons, was utterly swept away, so that it is almost impossible to mark the spot where it stood. The church at Haydenville had just completed a new chapel and had beautified the house of worship, — in all, at an expense of $12,000, all of which had been freely subscribed. Should the manufactories which have been swept away be rebuilt, this church may again be prosperous, but for the present its lot is a hard one.”

“All of our towns are more or less under the curse of intemperance, and there is a feeling in some quarters that our churches must bestir themselves or the ruin will be great.”

HAMPSHIRE EAST CONFERENCE.

PUBLIC SERVICES. — Few modifications have occurred. Some “pleasant choral services” have been held on Sabbath afternoons, and “responsive readings” have been introduced at the communion, with measurable success,” by a single church. Several have successfully adopted “Bible-readings” in connection with prayer-meetings. One church has added to the interest of its prayer-meetings by “giving out questions or topics to particular persons a few days before the meeting, after the manner recommended by Dr. Todd in the Congregationalist." Brethren whose lips had been sealed have thus been led to take an active part in the conversations and discussions. Praise meetings have also met with favor.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOLS, on the whole, make a very gratifying report. They are largely attended, with an appearance of great and growing interest. One church gives half of the evening on which the prayer-meeting is held to the study of the lesson. From another, we learn of very faithful visitation of the scholars at their homes, with blessed results. A third sets apart one Sabbath in each month as "the children's day." A sermon in the morning treats of religious training; in the afternoon comes a Sunday-school concert, with an address by the pastor; and the evening prayer-meeting also is devoted to the children and youth, with some special reference to baptized children.

CHURCH FELLOWSHIP AND ACTIVITY. — Not much progress has been made in these respects. A fair amount of enterprise has been shown in holding meetings in various neighborhoods and out-districts, but with no very marked zeal or success.

No revivals are reported.

TEMPERANCE AND MORALS. — The East church, Amherst, reports a "Temperance revival" — meetings held nearly every week, many pledges taken, drinkers apparently reclaimed, public sentiment roused to demand a more vigorous enforcement of the law, and, as a consequence, a visible improvement in morals. In other places, fresh efforts have been made with some success.

FAMILIES. — The number of families reported as under the care of the churches is larger by 40 than last year, — equivalent to an increase of about 200 souls.

MENDON CONFERENCE.

The church at East Medway has been trying the experiment of the enlistment card. It has also kept up a service at Rockville, furnishing preaching once in two weeks. At West Medway a new pastor, Rev. S. W. Segur, has entered upon his labors. Extensive repairs have been made in the meeting-house, the congregation worshipping with the Baptists. At Medway Village, also, the house of worship has been undergoing repairs, and services have been held in a hall, with some increase of the congregation. Parish sociables — for children and adults together — have been largely attended. The church at Medfield reports the Sunday School larger and more interesting than formerly; an increase of religious interest; a new chapel built, and the meeting-house repaired and refurnished, and supplied with a new organ. At Norfolk, the pastor, Rev. Jesse K. Bragg, has been laid aside from active duties, and the church has been without a Sabbath service. The Sabbath School, however, continues to meet, and the church has, at some cost, helped sustain a Branch school at City Mills. A good deal of interest is taken in the cause of Temperance.

A large foreign immigration is rapidly changing the character of the community. The church at Foxborough has been developing a goodly measure of activity by means of an enlistment circular. Over one hundred of them were returned to the pastor with the signatures of persons willing to bear their part in the work of the church. The result has been favorable every way. There has been a larger and more regular attendance at prayer-meetings; "leaders" have made regular monthly reports in their several departments; hospitality has been more watchfully and promptly attended to; considerable attention has been given to the sick. A Branch Sunday School has been sustained at South Foxborough. Assistance has also been rendered to a similar effort at East Foxborough, where, also, a neat chapel has been built, and paid for by subscription, the people manifesting zeal in the enterprise. A growing interest, in the fall of 1873, has, since the beginning of this year, culminated in a precious revival.

MIDDLESEX SOUTH CONFERENCE.

Reports have been received from all the churches.

FAMILIES. Twelve churches have 1655 families, registered as under their care, an average of 138. The smallest parish embraces 30, the smallest but one, 40 families; and there are three numbering severally 310, 300, and 275. No other reports over 140.

GAINS. Only eight churches make definite returns of gains and losses; and these cannot be taken with any certainty as representative of the Conference. They show a total net gain of only 37 members.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOLS appear to be in a very encouraging condition. The largest reported is in Natick, numbering 525, a gain of 75, with an average of 333, which is a gain of 40. The school in Hopkinton has over 450 members; and that in South Framingham is manifesting a most praiseworthy spirit and energy.

RELIGIOUS INTEREST. Seven churches make mention of an increased interest in personal religion. From one we hear, "Quite a number are inquiring"; from another, "Quite a number of conversions, and some who were in the twilight have come out into the marvellous light of the Gospel." A pastor who appoints one evening in a week for conversation has almost always found some "who wished to talk with him about Christ." Still again, we hear of "expressed interest," a "desire for prayers," and of a "growing in the divine life." In Framingham, there was a hopeful state of feeling throughout the Autumn, which increased and became quite general; and about 30 persons have found hope in Christ.

CHURCH WORK. The church in Framingham has started a Branch Sunday School, numbering from 30 to 40 members. In Natick, meetings held in two out-districts under the direction of the Young Men's Association have been crowded, and have proved the "most interesting prayer-meetings in town, resulting in some conversions." A daily half-hour prayer-meeting has also been sustained in the village. In Hopkinton, likewise, similar meetings are held by the Young Men's Association ; and "a sharp lookout is kept up for new-comers, to get them into the Sunday School and the church." A steady gain in the number of church-goers is apparent. Neglecters are not on the increase. In Sherborn, one meeting a week is held in different neighborhoods, and reaches, with marked benefit, some who do not habitually attend church.

In Natick, the "Young People's Meeting" has been reorganized. Committees on Welcome, Fellowship, Music, and Conducting meetings, have been formed. Young men and young women take part in the conversation, in prayer, and in leading the meetings, which are free from formality, no one rising to speak. The pastor and his wife are almost always present. The meetings "seem to be a growing power for good." The church has lost its house by fire. In Hopkinton, a Young People's Bible-reading service has proved very successful, the average attendance being over thirty, — nearly all young people who were not in the habit of attending the prayer-meeting.

The church in Southville reports a parish of over 60 families, numbering 250 souls. Of these not more than 120 can be reckoned attendants. Of the 60 fathers of families only 24 are attendants. Most of the people are young. But matters are improving. The little church undertook, a year ago, to support a pastor ; and though the burden is heavy, yet the good cause has gained, and the church is looking forward with hope. In Concord, there has been an increase of 25 per cent in the congregation, and a general advance. In Sudbury, although Irish families often take the places of those which emigrate, yet on the whole the cause of Christ advances, and the future wears a hopeful look. In Sherborn, there are many neglecters, mostly belonging to families having only a nominal connection with the Unitarian society, but having no interest in any. In these families, as a matter of course, there is discernible an increase in Sabbath-breaking and profanity. The town is in a transition state ; farms are changing hands, and the new population does not at once harmonize with the old. The church feels, however, that its outlook was never more hopeful. It has spent $100 on repairs and is free of debt. In Sudbury, of 137 families, 23 neglect public worship ; and there are many individuals besides who must be reckoned with them. In South Framingham the new church has built a chapel, costing, with land, about $8,100, of which $5,500 has been paid. It is moving vigorously forward.

TEMPERANCE. — In Natick the "Reform Club," though burnt out, has met nearly every week, almost always securing some additions to its membership ; and has furnished a reading-room and social parlor, as a counter attraction to the drinking shops. A children's Temperance Society, "Band of Hope," has been organized, numbering nearly 400 members. In South Natick, where there are many Irish and much drunkenness, a Reform Club has entered on its work with hopeful success. Sudbury has a Band of Hope. In Hopkinton, the Prohibitory Law works well. In Saxonville, there are many families of foreign birth who suffer greatly from intoxicating drink. But the town has an "open" Temperance Society, whose "monthly meetings are a blessing." Southborough has had a "Temperance revival." A Reform Club has been formed, and all the members but one have been faithful. On the whole, a good deal of energy appears to be manifested in promoting the good cause of Temperance in the towns of this Conference.

There has been a wonderful improvement in the reports of this Conference; and there certainly appears to be a most hopeful increase of energy.

MIDDLESEX UNION CONFERENCE.

Complete reports have been received from this Conference.

CHARITIES, PAYMENTS. There would seem to be some falling off in contributions, but some that were made last year were of an exceptional nature, and, on the whole, we may consider the charities of the churches as about the same.

The church in Ashby has expended $2,000 for a parsonage; the church in Leominster has rebuilt its house of worship and chapel; the Rollstone church, Fitchburg, has paid $15,000 on its debt, and the church in Lancaster has paid the whole of its debt.

MINUTES AND STATISTICS. This Conference printed last year 1,200 copies of its Minutes, for general distribution. These contain an account of its two semi-annual meetings, with the report on the state of religion, a historical sketch of one of its churches, and a table of contributions.

NEIGHBORHOOD CONFERENCES. One of the expedients reported in these Minutes has been adopted, in a less methodical way, in other parts of the State. The churches are grouped into neighborhoods or classes, three or four in each. Meetings of each group are held at its churches in succession; the object being "to pray for the descent of the Holy Spirit, to stir up each other to faith and activity, to suggest plans of usefulness, and to report the results of labor for Christ in the Sabbath School and in neighborhoods, with a view to encourage and strengthen all who toil for the cause of God." The execution of the plan was committed to the several pastors, aided by a member of each church, appointed by the Conference.

A SABBATH SCHOOL CONVENTION, called by the Executive Committee of the Conference, was held in March, 1873, and awakened so much interest that a similar meeting was appointed for June, and this resulted in the formation of a Sabbath School Teachers' Institute, for the purpose of holding such conventions regularly.

RELIGIOUS INTEREST. At Acton, there has been some special manifestations of the Divine presence, and 14 persons have united with the church on profession of faith. At Boxboro', also, some 12 or 14 hopeful conversions are numbered, and the spiritual condition of the community is more hopeful than for a very long time. In Lunenburg, the Week of Prayer was a precious season, and its influence remains. In Shirley Village, the prayer-meetings have increased in interest through the year, and there have been hopeful conversions. The churches generally appear to be in a good condition.

A new church has been organized at North Leominster, drawing 46 of its members from the church in the Centre.

THE NORFOLK CONFERENCE.

The narratives received from the churches are meagre, and contain less variety of information than has ordinarily been received from this Conference; and yet the record has chapters of deepest interest.

REVIVALS. The First church in Abington has enjoyed a year of quiet, but marked, prosperity. A "precious revival" has been enjoyed; more than 40 persons have come into the church, and others are cherishing a hope. The church in Canton, also, has been blessed with a "delightful revival," about 40 persons coming to cherish a hope in Christ. From Stoughton a similar account reaches us. At the Monthly Concert following the Week of Prayer, several young people indicated their purpose to live for Christ. A day of fasting and prayer was held, and the help of an evangelist was secured for three days. There were about 20 hopeful conversions, most of them young men. In the First church, Weymouth, the Week of Prayer was followed by a revival, greatly quickening its members, — with over 40 hopeful conversions. The Pilgrim church in Weymouth likewise reports a renewal of religious interest, at the same season, which has continued until the date of its report; and has, thus far, resulted in the hopeful conversion of 75 souls; among whom were 30 husbands and wives, 9 husbands of believing wives, and 6 wives of believing husbands; 57 of the whole number were heads of families. The church at East Weymouth has likewise had occasion to rejoice. Since the new year came in, there has been a heightened interest in the things of the Spirit, with some 25 hopeful conversions. "We have not sought out new ways," observes the pastor, "but rather to make the most of the old, — prayer, study of the Bible, and the assembling of ourselves together."

TEMPERANCE. The reports make frequent mention of this subject. In East Bridgewater, "intemperance is a curse, not only among the foreign, but also among the native population. Monthly Union Meetings, in which the pastors of different denominations unite, with the efforts of the Sons of Temperance and of individuals, are doing some good." — "The Prohibitory Law is a necessity here." In Cohasset, this cause is kept before the public, and 20 or more of the boys in the Sunday School have signed the pledge against spirits, tobacco, and profanity. In Beechwood, a Temperance Society has been organized and meets frequently. The last Sunday evening of each month is devoted to this cause. In Stoughton, through the efficiency of a state constable, the open sale of intoxicating liquors has been stopped; and there has been less of manifest intemperance than for several years past.

IN GENERAL, it may be said, that not only has there been great diversity in the experience of the churches during the year, but a great diversity exists among the communities and among the churches themselves; and while in some localities religious influences abound, in others unbelief and contempt are vigorous. Some of the churches are weak, and need a reinforcement from the sympathy and help of their neighbors, as well as from above. It is pleasant to record the union, at last consummated, between the two churches and societies at Holbrook; and the improved prospects at Beechwood. The Railway church, in Milton, makes no report. No church has yet been formed at Wollaston. Other denominations appear to be moving prosperously forward in this growing village.

PILGRIM CONFERENCE.

From the well-considered report of the Committee of this Conference, we condense the following statement:—

“It is a cause of thankfulness that the benefits of a permanent ministry are becoming better appreciated among us. One of the minor advantages of such a ministry is, that the statistics and narratives of the churches—the value of which must be obvious to every thoughtful person— are both more likely to be furnished and to be of real value.”

CONTRIBUTIONS. “The past year has been a hard one for every good cause.” “The Boston fire and the Wall Street panic were severely felt in our remotest hamlets.” “We are happily surprised, therefore, to find that the charities of the churches have decidedly advanced.”

“The most prominent place has justly been given to the Home Missionary Society. The Conference passed a resolution, a year and a half ago, “That the humiliating fact, that this Conference receives from the Home Missionary Society more than it gives to it, should constantly be kept in view until it ceases to be a fact”; and earnest endeavors were also made, a year ago, to secure a collection from every church. But this plain duty has been neglected by five of the churches. For the society year ending with June, 1873, not less than $700 were expended within our bounds, and only $210 contributed. We have no part, then, in the glorious work at the West. Still, let us be thankful that within the year ending January 1, 1874, the society received from 9 of our churches $386.19.

SALARIES. A noticeable feature in our “parish expenditures is the meagre salaries of most of our ministers. In the report of the State Committee, last year, embracing 90 churches, the lowest average was $1.275 in Hampshire East. But ours, this year, is only $832.” (In two cases, however, parsonages are furnished in addition—making the average, perhaps, equal to $845. But if we leave out of the account the Church of the Pilgrimage, paying $1,800, Duxbury, paying $1,200, and Plymouth, Fourth, — at Chiltonville, — paying $1,000, the average salary paid by the remaining twelve churches, reckoning the parsonages at $100 each, is only $723.) “When our churches reach more of the neglecting families, and their own members do their duty, we shall treat our ministers better, and enable them to work with greater efficiency. The little church in Duxbury sets a good example, raising $1,200 for the salary, $575 for other expenses, and contributing to five benevolent objects.”

THE CHURCHES. The general tone of the reports from the churches is more encouraging than before. There is a very manifest increase of hope and determination. Greater activity is shown in holding neighborhood prayer-meetings, and in efforts to reach the entire population. We hear of new meetings established, and of new expedients to make them interesting. “Marshfield First” appoints meetings in various parts of the parish in rotation. “Plymouth Fourth” has three meetings a week, with monthly preaching services at the two extremes of the parish, and has established a meeting in a new neighborhood. The congregation at North Carver is increased by one third. The Sunday Schools seem to be almost everywhere well sustained, and in a number of instances show a most encouraging improvement. The Church of the Pilgrimage continues its monthly Fellowship meeting, together with the system of church work reported last year, with good results. But it is the opinion of an experienced pastor that “a higher spiritual tone and a more practical style of piety” must be reached by the churches before anything like a general organization for church work can be had; which proves that the effort to achieve it is certainly an effort in the right direction. “We need,” adds this pastor, “a deeper sense of obligation, a more thorough consecration, and more practical co-operation.”

No revival is reported for 1873, but the church in Carver began to enjoy a blessing from God in April of the present year, and has been greatly strengthened.

SUFFOLK SOUTH CONFERENCE.

The size of this Conference is reduced, by the setting off of nearly one half of its churches to be organized into the Suffolk West Conference, — a measure of manifest expediency.

Gains and Losses. Three of the churches have suffered a net loss in membership, and eleven have gained. The net gain amounts to 162 members, an average of not quite 10 to each church.

All the churches send reports; but these are very unequal in length and minuteness, and are less full this year than usual. They cannot be taken as fairly representing the work of the year. They do not “tell the whole truth.” Only five of the seventeen churches seem to have ascertained and registered the families under their care. Moreover, with a single exception, the reports of the city churches make no mention what soever of the Districts which have been accepted by them, or of the labors therein performed. These statements are necessary to prevent a misconception of the actual condition and work of the churches; for there has been vastly more of energy, enthusiasm, devotion, and invention among them than could be guessed from their own narratives.

REVIVALS. A gratifying increase of spiritual interest has been experienced by the Phillips church, the Second church in Dorchester, and the church in Jamaica Plain. The church in Hyde Park has been blessed with a powerful revival. The preaching had, for several months, been directed to awakening a sense of individual responsibility for the conversion of sinners, and previous to the Week of Prayer several church members had an increase of spiritual fervor. In response to an invitation to all Christians to reconsecrate themselves wholly, a number knelt together in prayer, to this end. From that time the blessing was descending. The church and the community were roused. For eight weeks, meetings were held nearly every evening, and daily inquiry meetings, in the study. For one or two weeks the stores were closed in the evening. The brethren were moved to talk of the things of Christ in the streets, the cars, and the shops. From 60 to 70 hopeful conversions are counted up by the Congregational Church alone. The work was exceedingly quiet. The stand of the converts is very decided. "It has been most strikingly illustrated among us," says the pastor, "that prayer is a power with God."

CHURCH WORK. MEASURES. EXPERIMENTS. Nearly all of the churches, as already stated, have been engaged in labors, of which their narratives make no mention. We are only informed that the Eliot church has supported a lady as a missionary visitor, and that she has been able to enlist a number of assistants; and the church in Dedham has maintained a Branch Sunday School among the Germans, together with religious services in other growing neighborhoods. Mention is made of "Fellowship meetings," "Cottage meetings," and of "The Home Prayer meetings," as useful measures. In Dedham, the young children have formed a society for social and benevolent purposes. In Jamaica Plain, both the congregation and the Sunday School have doubled their numbers, since the dedication of the new house of worship; a "Complete Directory" has been printed, for the promotion of acquaintance; "Boylston Chapel" has been taken in charge, and is in a highly prosperous condition, the members of the church rejoicing in the opportunity which it opens to them for Christian labor. The Sunday School teachers of the church have been seeking a better acquaintance with their scholars, by inviting them to their own houses.

The Phillips church has adopted a modification in its services, having a sermon every Sunday afternoon based on the Sunday School lesson, accompanied with responsive readings of Scripture. The church in Jamaica Plain now holds a pastor's Bible service and the Sunday School in the afternoon, giving up two evenings in the month to "the concerts" and two to preaching. Responsive readings have also been adopted in some of the prayer-meetings in Dedham. The Vine Street church has a weekly "class of catechumens." In South Boston a Sunday School Union has been formed, embracing nearly all the schools of Evangelical churches, with meetings, reports, and discussions once a quarter, and an "annual institute."

TEMPERANCE. Little is said in the reports on this subject. The churches do not come into immediate contact with much intemperance, and there is no indication that they are doing much in a direct and specific way to remove it. In South Boston, however, a "Reform Club" has been organized, with the full sympathy of the churches, and holds weekly meetings. The present law is said to be useful there, though poorly enforced. A successful movement has also been made in the Highland church, addresses have been delivered on Sunday evenings, the pledge has been circulated, and taken by the teachers and scholars of the Sunday School, and by many outside. In Dedham, the principal drinking-place is reported closed. Such is the sum of what the churches have thought to say upon this matter.

The Holland church, Boston Highlands, was organized February 20, 1873, with 35 members, most, of the nationality which the name indicates. Its membership is now 52, and it has a Sunday School of 80. The church has felt the presence of the Holy Spirit; its meetings have been large; a new interest has been roused in the study of the Bible; the household covenant has been specially honored, in the baptism of 15 children; prayer-meetings have been held with and for the children; and four Committees have been appointed for church-work, and have entered successfully on their labors, — a good beginning.

SUFFOLK WEST CONFERENCE.

This Conference was organized of churches belonging to the Suffolk South Conference.

Notwithstanding an unusually large number of churches without pastors, reports have been received from all but three.

GAINS. Eleven churches report gains and losses in church membership, showing in every case a net gain of a little over 13 on an average; amounting in all to 159.

USAGES AND EXPEDIENTS. One of the pastors reports the holding of weekly meetings, for a part of the year, for the purpose of conversation upon the doctrines and upon personal experience — with happy effect. Fellowship meetings have been found pleasant and profitable. A "Monthly Service of Praise" has now been sustained for three years. And again, a "Service of Song," once a quarter, has been maintained for the same period. Reference is made to the Home Prayer-meeting, as useful, even in times when there are no encouraging reports to bring in, and the church can only pray for a blessing on its work. In two of the churches, Auxil- aries of the Woman's Board of Missions have been formed. One church reports the custom of holding a Public Anniversary in connection with its Annual Meeting. And, indeed, it would seem that the work of a faithful church for twelve months must afford material of interest for such a yearly review.

CHURCH WORK. Two churches (Park St. and Shawmut) make mention of Mission Chapels. Both speak of prosperity and encouragement. But the Shawmut Chapel feels the want of capable teachers for its Sunday School.

REVIVAL. The North church, Newton, reports a season of religious interest which had continued from the beginning of the year, meetings being held nearly every night. The whole village was systematically canvassed, with frequent prayer and reading of the Bible in the families visited. The result appears in a greatly increased spirituality, and 40 hopeful conversions. Since the new house of worship has been completed, the attendance has nearly doubled.

CHILDREN AND THE CHURCH. The church at Newton reports about 40 children, between the ages of 9 and 15, communicants. The young people hold a weekly prayer-meeting. It is well known that the late pastor of this church took especial pains to lead children to Christ, and, it appears, by no means without success.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOLS seem to be everywhere vigorously conducted. In Auburndale, the afternoon is given up to the study of the Bible, resulting in an increased attendance, not only in the school but also at the morning services. The pastor is a teacher.

TAUNTON CONFERENCE.

The reports from this Conference are, in some respects, more complete this year than ever before, and manifest in the stronger churches an admirably sustained activity. There is a class of weaker churches which must be considered as having done well if they have merely held their ground. "They also serve who only stand and wait." Eight of these weaker churches report an aggregate of only 461 resident members, an average of not quite 58, which implies an average male membership of not over 20.

FAMILIES. Ten churches report the number of families under their care as 940, an average of 94, implying an average parish of not over 450 souls.

This Conference is accustomed to publish a four-page pamphlet, giving brief abstracts of the reports of the churches, with a statistical table.

THE CHURCHES AND THE COMMUNITY. The narratives again remind us very impressively of the wide contrasts found among the parishes, and of the formidable difficulties with which both the larger and the smaller have to contend. Of the former, the most striking example is found in Fall River. Into this city foreign operatives have been imported in large numbers. Multitudes of this class are Romanists, and, of course, ignorant. Their arrival has loaded the churches with sudden and formidable burdens. But the churches are taking hold of the work thus thrown on them with praiseworthy energy. Each of them sustains an additional minister, who devotes himself wholly to labors among the strangers. Each has established a chapel. Since the beginning of the present year, the First church has organized a church in connection with its "Mission," and the Central church has started a new Branch School.

The public sale of intoxicating drinks is not allowed in Fall River. The state police have been efficient, and yet intemperance is reported as both "prevalent and increasing." There are probably no churches in the State bearing a heavier responsibility than these. Their task must be described as enormous.

Very encouraging accounts come from the churches of Taunton. Meetings in out-districts are frequent and well attended. The Trinitarian church reports 20 hopeful conversions in its Sunday School; and the Union church, 30 persons expecting to unite with the church on confession; also, occasional praise meetings, conversational prayer-meetings, social parish gatherings, regular sermons to the young, and prayer-meetings in out-districts. All the churches appear to be watchful and vigorous. The Winslow church has succeeded in making congregational singing "a success and a most impressive improvement in public worship." The First church in Attleborough has a "Young People's Society," and a Branch Sunday School, both prosperous. Berkeley, First, has purchased a parsonage. In Norton, the out-districts are cared for — but by Baptists and Methodists." Much interest is felt in the cause of Temperance, and in general there has been a decided improvement. In East Taunton, there has been improvement in the Sunday School; neighborhood prayer-meetings have been held; and "both grog-shops and Good Templars are flourishing." In Somerset, there have been gains in church membership and in the general religious condition of the people. In Dighton, an increasing interest in the Sunday School. In short, from almost every place, there is something good to report.

WOBURN CONFERENCE.

The following is the report of the work of the churches and state of religion furnished by this Conference: —

"The Woburn Conference reports revivals in two churches, that at Winchester and that at Melrose, and unusual interest in several others. There have been changes in pastorates, and from that cause some of the churches are in an unsettled condition. The brethren of the Conference have not obtained the services of evangelists, deeming the regular preaching of the pastors of more permanent, salutary influence.

"The Woburn Conference Home Missionary Society continues in successful operation. It expended last year, among five churches, $1,600, in sums varying from $200 to $500 each, assuming the entire care of them all. Two of the churches that have been largely aided by the Society have resolved to unite under one pastor, in accordance with a rule already recommended by the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society; and it is expected that a larger sum than ever will be paid over, to advance the cause at the West. Hitherto, this Conference Missionary Society has been proved to be a very useful organization. It produces a feeling of brotherhood among all the churches, furnishes additional support to the feeble churches, releases the Massachusetts Society from all responsibilities for home work within the bounds of the Conference, and secures as large contributions for the general work of Home Missions beyond our bounds as that work formerly received from our churches. The Sabbath School work has in the same towns received a new impetus.

"Comparatively little has been done in the Temperance Reform."

WORCESTER CENTRAL CONFERENCE.

"The Worcester Central Conference of churches was quickened by the Home Evangelization movement in caring for the neglected classes; and though the pastors have too generally allowed the circulars to pass unanswered, the main work which these are designed to promote has been carried forward. There is no district of large extent unreached by preaching or missionary labor. In the larger towns the Young Men's Christian Associations have been helpers of the churches. The County Association has held its quarterly meetings in different sections, animating all Christian labors. It is stimulating to all the churches to look upon so much talent and energy consecrated to Christ. Veterans of the cross feel a good assurance in leaving the cause in such hands."

"The present year opened upon many of our churches with refreshings from on high. These seasons were generally characterized by quietness and tenderness. The Week of Prayer was generally observed, and in some cases conversions occurred in the very opening of it. The reports at the May Conference were remarkably alike as to the characteristics of the revival, the impressive stillness of the prayer-meetings, and the voluntary expression of feeling on part of those newly interested. The work has been hardly more joyous in present results than hopeful for a better life in the churches. The church in Holden, under one of the longest pastorates in the State, reported that no winter of that 40 years had been more promising."

* "Leicester has enjoyed the same quickening influence, and the ingathering of some to the church. Paxton, afflicted in the loss of their pastor, Rev. Thomas L. Ellis, has been visited from on high. The work in Oxford was intense for several weeks. The church still walks in a quickened life. The church in Berlin has been much revived in spirit, and encouraged by the hopeful conversion of a goodly number, including several heads of families."

"Worcester, amid considerable excitement, unfavorable to religious vitality, has nevertheless been blessed with additions to most of the churches. The Tabernacle church, the eighth Congregational Church in this city, was organized in April last, with 92 members; 18 have since been added on profession of faith. The Plymouth and Piedmont church edifices are well under way. The Old South in Worcester, the churches in Paxton and Rutland, are without acting pastors. The church in Princeton has called a pastor to its long vacant pulpit.

Sabbath School work in the Conference is reported as prosperous. The new Temperance movement is generally hailed with hope.

WORCESTER SOUTH CONFERENCE.

The statistical returns from this Conference are far the best ever received — thirteen churches making full reports.

The narrative of the secretary states that the year "has been singularly destitute of manifest results — so far, at least, as may be inferred from the reports in the Conference. There was a pleasing interest among the young in Bramansville (Millbury First), resulting in several additions to the church; also in Saundersville, some 8 or 10 hopeful conversions. In Sutton, likewise, 12 or 15 persons joined the church. In April of the present year, several revivals were reported — more than 125 conversions." "As to the cause of Temperance, there has been the usual interest, but no special gain can be noted." No new missionary efforts are reported.

At Grafton, there is a Young Men's Christian Association, its most active members being also among the most active in the churches to which they belong. It sustains district prayer-meetings and Sunday Schools. In Westborough, a similar association maintains a reading-room, and has conducted prayer-meetings, to some extent, in some of the school-houses outside of the village.

The churches of this Conference are not, as a whole, keeping up with the growth of the native population of the towns that they occupy. Several years ago a pastor long settled over one of its largest churches stated before the Conference, that within twenty-five years the membership of its churches had by no means kept pace with the growth of population. The following statement shows the ratio of church members to the population at certain periods within the last fourteen years: —

REVIEW.

In commencing a review of the religious condition of the Commonwealth, it is well to recall the particular steps recently taken by the General Association for the promotion of its Home Evangelization movement, — steps most wisely adapted to give effectiveness to its plans. These made provision, in the first place, for the seasonable formation of new churches, fixing the responsibility of looking after this most important matter upon the Home Missionary Society. They provided, secondly, for any form of ministerial service which may at any time be needed, temporarily or permanently, in any part of the State; and finally, they have secured a regular mode in which lay-helpers of any variety, preachers, teachers, Bible-readers, or visitors, and either men or women, may be set at work in any village or any district in the State, that needs them. At the same time that the Association was thus doing all that votes could do, to give effectiveness to these plans for missionary work, it did not forget church work. Furthermore, it recommended a form of preliminary organization ("The Christian Neighbors"*) suited to communities of every possible size, and adapted to educate in Scriptural views of the church and Scriptural methods of work.

DELAY IN ORGANIZING NEW CHURCHES. The arrangements for securing the prompt organization of new churches could not be expected to be immediately adequate to the whole demand. We observe that no Congregational Church had been formed, according to the latest accounts, at Turner's Falls or at Wollaston, although in both places other denominations have churches and houses of worship. Similar reports reach us from other parts of the State, in particular from the Essex South and the Andover Conferences. It is but too evident that Congregationalists are still failing to improve their opportunities for securing new churches, and are still allowing their own people to be taken away from them.

PAYMENTS AND CHARITIES. The returns of payments and charities are the best that have been received. Fifteen Conferences — Andover, Berkshire South, Brookfield, Essex North, Franklin, Hampden, Hampshire East, Middlesex South, Middlesex Union, Norfolk, Pilgrim, Suffolk South, Suffolk West, Taunton, Worcester South — furnish tables of charities that are nearly complete. Eleven Conferences — the same as above, with the omission of Brookfield, Essex North, Hampden, and Middlesex Union — supply returns of salaries and other expenses, nearly complete. Two more Conferences, Barnstable and Mendon, have sent in returns, the former from 11 churches, and the latter from 7 churches. In all, 17 Conferences make statistical reports.

The total of the salaries, as reported by 206 churches, is $301,193, and the average salary is $1,462. Some of the returns also make mention of parsonages, numbering, so far as reported, 29.

The total of the charities, reported by 292 churches, is $264,636.45.

We would urgently ask attention to the fact, that these returns are not made up on the same schedule, and therefore cannot be printed in the Minutes in proper shape ; and cannot be collated and summed up without very great labor.

This Committee claims to have demonstrated that the churches can furnish without difficulty the returns which it has endeavored to gather. These returns, if complete, would be the best supplied by any large body of churches, and of very great value. But the existing confusion brings into prominence the importance of having

ONE UNIFORM SYSTEM OF CHURCH REPORTS.

And there is no difficulty in making these returns all upon the same schedule. The most serious obstacle, perhaps, in securing agreement upon any new tabulation arises from the number of applications made to the pastors ; this is unreasonably great and is justly accounted a vexation. In one of the Conferences no less than five such applications have been regularly made, for several years. We have not thought it just to complain of the brethren of this Conference, that, hitherto, they have taken no notice whatsoever of the blank issued by your Committee. But such a chaotic state of things ought not to continue. It is right that one statistical report and one narrative in a year should be expected from churches that are working together, as are the Congregational Churches of this State ; and we are persuaded that if no more than this were asked of the pastors, most of them would respond. Moreover, we believe that if all will unite with hearty good will in the effort, the present confusion can be reduced to order and comfort.

TEMPERANCE. Nothing new appears in the reports from the Conferences upon this topic. The so-called "Crusade" does not seem, from these accounts, to have made a deep impression in this State. It has certainly reminded us, however, of one very familiar truth, — that we are to look to religious conviction and to religious people for the deepest enthusiasm and power. We seem to be taught, alike by the successes and by the failures and faults of this endeavor, that we need to make our Temperance movement strongly religious ; and that if it is ever to succeed, the churches must give themselves to prayer, and also to organized work. If every church had an active Temperance Committee, we might soon be witnessing new conquests, and the ground gained would be permanently held.

OUT-DISTRICTS. There is less of detailed information, this year, respecting the condition of these localities than has been furnished in some previous years. In general, however, there is reason to believe that they are still nearly all looked after, with a good degree of fidelity. Some, however, are neglected, and in many the work is not steady or strong. We shall never really be grappling vigorously with these districts, until we have a body of Lay-helpers, some of them preachers, laboring under the counsels of pastors and Conferences, upon wisely conceived plans, and with a greater confidence in the Lord than is ordinarily shown. We have been anxiously looking, throughout the year, for signs that this lack is to be supplied; but we hear as yet of only a single lay-helper. This one labors in Southeastern Berkshire.

Nor, again, has your committee learned that any special effort has been made in any part of the State to obtain the services of CHRISTIAN WOMEN, devoting themselves wholly to such work of the Lord as they can best do. There are many places that need them.

IMMIGRATION FROM NEIGHBORING STATES. The most careless examination of our out-districts, as well as of those sparsely settled borders where neglect so much abounds, reveals many families that have come in from other States, these sometimes constituting a large proportion of the total population. The last census shows 125,600 natives of the three Northern States of New England living in Massachusetts. These three States have large numbers of feeble churches, and large numbers of neglecters. Their Missionary Societies find it impossible to meet the demand resting on them. "Scores of the churches in Maine," says the Home Missionary Secretary of that State, "cannot support preaching one third of the time." As a consequence, a greater demand is made upon the churches and the Missionary Society of this State.

In a word, our interests are one. We cannot thoroughly care for our own towns, unless the towns of the neighboring States are also cared for. The problem presented by this condition of affairs is of exceeding great difficulty. It calls for the united prayers and efforts of the churches of all these States; and it were well if some method could be devised for calling public attention to this matter, and for securing a hearty union on some broad and energetic policy.

REGISTRATION AND CARE OF FAMILIES. The proportion of churches reporting the number of "families registered as under their care" is hardly more than one eighth of the whole. Do not the churches know what families they are distinctly, purposely, and stately looking after? Knowing, are they unwilling to communicate the information? These questions we are unable to answer.

In this endeavor, to look after all persons properly within our reach, to do this constantly, watchfully, patiently, prayerfully, and in faith, is found one of the main departments in our present movement for a better church work; and there is no other more significant, nor any more essential.

There is no questioning the fact, that we are now overlooking thousands of souls, whom we ought to be individually remembering in our prayers and following with patient and loving attentions. The churches, doubtless, intend to do all this. Why not, then, engage at once in an earnest effort to reach all? And why be discouraged if the habits of a generation do not at once yield to our solicitations? The families that have been long alienated are not to be regained in one month or in one year: but they can be regained.

A plea for greater zeal in looking after all families within our reach is suggested in the experience of the Board of State Charities.* It is the duty of one official connected with this Board to attend upon courts when juvenile offenders are brought up; and in cases which appear to justify such a course, the law allows the young offender to be received as a ward of the State, and put out on probation in some good family. But nothing can be clearer than that if all families were under the stated influence of vigilant churches, many of these children would never make their appearance at the bar of justice; and that orphans and young outcasts would be provided with homes without any help of the State. We might almost say, that the existence of such a department under this Board, so greatly to the honor of the State, is an indictment of its churches. "If our philanthropic people," says the State "Visiting Agent" in his last Report, would get acquainted with the children and youth in our communities, and make them feel that they are not beneath their thought and care, they would give them the greatest incentive to do well. A word of friendly advice will often prevent a crime. It will reform the criminal." It ought not to be necessary for a government official to address this admonition to the churches. That church action, however, can accomplish sensible results in such matters, is distinctly witnessed to in another part of the report of the Board, which accounts for the diminished numbers of a certain class of offenders by the increased activity of the Romish Church and of certain benevolent Protestant Associations. But no "Associations" can reach all households in the State as the churches can. The work of prevention, if ever done well, will be done by them.

REVIVALS. It would be possible to give a very instructive and interesting account of these seasons of harvesting, if the church reports were careful to state in all cases, as requested, the "commencement, instrumentalities, and results." Between forty and fifty revivals are mentioned in the returns, many of them coming, however, within the year 1874. Very frequently they appear to have commenced with the Week of Prayer; ordinarily the various exercises were superintended by the pastor, without help from an evangelist; in general, they appear to have been characterized by a quiet tenderness; and we can think of all of them as seasons of sacred solemnity and joy.

CHILDREN AND YOUTH. — One of the most encouraging signs of the times, very briefly touched upon in the narratives sent us, is the success of recent movements of a somewhat new kind in behalf of children and young people. These endeavors are widely removed from those revivalist excitements of which all have heard, and much more nearly resemble the old catechetical way of our fathers. We should describe them with sufficient accuracy, perhaps, if we were to say, that it is the fathers' way with the stiffness taken out, and modern variety and vivacity put in. But like that, it is an education, it is systematic, it is rounded out, it is not hurried, and it is characterized by a pointed spiritual purpose, pursued in faith. Unlike that, however, it is not confined to the catechism; but other questions, among them questions prepared by the pastor himself, are freely used; and all, even little children, are taught that they can immediately enter not only upon a Christian life, but upon active Christian usefulness; and from the very beginning they are trained to follow in their Lord's steps, doing good. One of the pastors who has been zealous in this blessed work reports equal success with boys as with girls. It would really seem that in this department of the church's work lies the hiding of her power.

And now, what must be said in conclusion? We answer, on every hand there are signs of hope. Never before have the churches manifested greater energy, and never was that energy so sustained and so trustworthy as in these late years. Never before have the churches shown more of forethought and of comprehensiveness in their plans; never more of steadfast faith in their prosecution. Never before have churches so enveloped pastors with an individual and organized support; and never, on the part of pastor and people, has there been such a deliberate settling down to regular every-day work, in cheerful confidence. It is true, that we see some of these good things, as yet, in their beginnings; but the beginnings are sure; and if the churches do but press zealously forward in the new ways upon which they have begun to walk, it will be clear, by and by, that we have entered on a new day.

While therefore, we still find ourselves encompassed with neglects and mistakes that are only too manifest, we discover great and abundant reason to rejoice in the Lord and take courage.

By vote of the State Committee on the Work of the Churches,

DANIEL P. NOYES,
Secretary.

CONVERSION AND RELIGIOUS TRAINING OF THE YOUNG.*

BY REV. GORDON HALL, D. D.

ON the question whether there is more of real effort to secure the piety of children than in former years, there may be a difference of opinion. That there is more pains taken, apparently, and more of visible apparatus for this end, is not to be doubted. Witness how much is made of Sabbath Schools, and Sabbath School concerts, and Conferences, and Sabbath School libraries and literature, and Sabbath School song-books, and infant classes. In reply to all this it is argued (by the laudator temporis acti) that these forms of labor have displaced the old parental instruction and catechizing, causing fathers and mothers to neglect their divinely-appointed and inalienable responsibilities. So far as this is true, it is of course to be deplored. But I take a cheerful view of the case, being persuaded that when we make account of the number cared for in our Sabbath Schools who would not be religiously taught at home; how many are under the instruction of earnest spiritual and successful teachers; what helps are provided in the uniform system of lessons and the able explanations of them in so many religious newspapers; and how many parents are constantly reminded of their duty from the very fact that the Christian education of the young is at this day made so prominent,—from all this I conclude that more is being done than ever before for the salvation of the young.

It seems to me also that there is more faith than formerly in early conversions, more expectation of them, and consequently more effort with a view to them. If I am not mistaken, it used to be a rather general idea that the young person was to be reckoned, until well along in youth, a rebel against God; and by that time he was supposed capable of being convicted of sin, and of experiencing the marked change called conversion.

If a hope came sooner, or otherwise than according to this programme, it was to be distrusted. Children were to be held back rather than encouraged to avow their love to Christ, and to profess his discipleship. Now there is an impression more common and growing, that by the proper use of means,—trust in God's covenant with believing parents, Christian instruction and faithful prayer,—the grace of God may be expected to take possession early of the child's heart, and we need not calculate upon an early youth of impenitence antecedent to conversion. This is progress in the right direction. We want more faith in child-piety, and more intelligent effort for it.

I believe it is the observation of pastors generally that there is less of what used to be called law-work in the experience of converts than in former times. Cases are not unfrequent of distressing and protracted conviction for sin, — the law working wrath in the conscience ; but such is not the common type of experience in these later years. Repentance has not in it so much of the horror of great darkness. And there being no severe rending and laceration of spirit for sin, we are tempted sometimes to distrust the genuineness of the change. Especially is this the case with children. The sense of guilt in them, if they have been religiously educated and well behaved, is not pungent. Confidence in Christ, and love to him, rather than keen sorrow for sin, is the marked feature in their feelings. So that when the child comes to the pastor and says, I love Jesus ; I want to confess and follow him, — the question arises whether that child has sufficient sense of his lost condition to realize what it means to receive Christ as Saviour. It seems as if the young convert was coming into the kingdom too easily. The little boy or girl appears to be sincere. There seems to be a genuine interest in becoming a Christian, a belief that Christ is the only Saviour, a disposition to give the heart to him ; but we are troubled at not discovering more of what we call contrition, deep and thorough experience. And have we not, brethren, with such a case before us, been perplexed, and asked ourselves, Now what is my duty towards this child of tender age ? Must I labor to subject him to a law-process, and make him feel condemned, terrified, stricken, before I can give any encouragement that Christ receives him ? Nay, I believe that in this way we should often break the bruised reed and quench the smoking flax. There are several considerations going to show why there is less of the awful in conversion than formerly, — both with adults and children. Not that the divine law is relaxed or that sin is any less dreadful. But (1) the grace of God in Christ is held up in greater proportion than formerly as compared with the preaching of law, penalty, and terror. So that when the sense of sin comes, there is not such a protracted season of darkness, because the truth of a free, ready salvation is so familiar. Then (2), on the part of preachers and religious teachers, this long season of painful heart-brokenness is not so much insisted upon as being the only normal and safe method of entering the kingdom. The direction given in precept is that “ Now is the accepted time,” and in song, it is “ Come to Jesus just now ; ” “ He will save you just now ; ” “ Just as I am without one plea,” etc. Such constant and positive invitations to accept a free present salvation tend to cut short the long struggle which used to be thought essential to a genuine religious change.

Whether we are in danger of not pressing sufficiently the condemning and alarming side of divine truth is not a point now under consideration. Again, is it strange if the children come to Christ with a less pungent conviction of sin than the mature transgressor ? Have they not in fact less sin, and of a less marked character to cause them distress? They have not been hardening themselves against the well-understood requirements of God year after year. They do not comprehend, as older people do, the nature of deliberate rebellion against God. That they have been conscious of wrong is true; and they will be found to confess it, and to feel it as a child might be expected to feel it. But the nature of sin in its relation to the government of God is a subject too high for those of early years. Perhaps they have been on the whole good, dutiful children, with a general sense of imperfection, a desire to do right, a confiding spirit towards Christ. And now if the Divine Comforter is leading them, through their ingenuous and pliant sensibilities, why not be satisfied? Why insist upon birth-pangs as when a man is born after he is old?

The evidences of child-conversion are as satisfactory, generally, I think it may be said, as in the case of older persons. I believe it will be the testimony of pastors that of the children who were thought to give evidence of piety, as large a proportion justified that opinion by their subsequent life as of those converted in later years. Mr. Spurgeon has published a very strong testimony to this as the conclusion reached in the history of his own ministry. Of course much depends upon the faithful nurture given to these children and youth in the family and the church, after they arrive at their hope in Christ. This being supplied (and means of grace are requisite to growth in grace for any one), there is all reasonable encouragement that the child will prove a true disciple. Given such sincere interest for the soul as might be expected of a child, — such a sense of wrong and desire of forgiveness, such trust in the Saviour presented and such a surrender of heart to him as the young can be made to understand, — such a leading of the Holy Ghost along with experience and penitence and faith and prayer, according to the young and tender material with which the Spirit is dealing, — and the evidence of consecration to Christ may be satisfactory, — delightfully confirmed by subsequent living.

The increased attention given to the subject of early conversions indicates a growing sense of its importance. Am I mistaken in the impression that in these fast days the young take on character more rapidly than in former times? In these days of lectures, and newspaper reports, and discussions, the youth are very sure to come into contact with infidelity, scepticism, materialistic philosophy, or with that self-styled progress which looks down upon the Gospel and the simple faith of our fathers as old-fashioned, — something which the world has outgrown.

The boys have their wits sharpened too very early to discern what spirit reigns in society and on what principles business is conducted. If frivolity and sham and ostentation are the genius of the home and of society, they must become inoculated with it. If greed of gain, haste to be rich, unscrupulousness, violation of trusts in every department, trickishness, cunning in every manner of trade, — if all this is spread out in the newspapers, and in many quarters is complimented as smart compared with what is called plodding industry, and slow but honest gain, a boy need not be specially precocious to comprehend the situation and feel the effect of living in such an atmosphere.

It has seemed to me that the young, while more advanced in schooling (as the term is commonly used), are earlier schooled in bad habits than in former years. I mean that if they contract these habits, they are likely to do so at an earlier period of life. It is not uncommon for children, and of respectable families, to show that they have made attainments in the art of profanity. Such, too, in these days of multiplied saloons, early acquire a love for dangerous drinks. They become fascinated with those amusements which naturally lead on to gambling and dissipation and the trifling away of life. As to proficiency in these respects, it would not be extravagant I presume to say that the boy of fourteen stands where the youth of eighteen or twenty stood fifty years ago. But I am sensible that comparisons are hazardous. And I am not careful to insist upon the forwardness of the young in this generation, as compared with generations gone by. All I want is to note that the young take on character in their early days, and hence to urge the importance of efforts for their conversion.

We want to see them devoted to Christ before their views of truth are corrupted, and their opposition to the Gospel fixed, and unchristian, ruinous habits fastened upon them. We want Christ and the Church to have the dew of their youth, and the freshness of their affections, and the energies of their prime, and the guarantee which only piety gives of a virtuous and useful manhood. We want the world to have the benefits which may come from a growth and culture and development begun in early years. If God would but give our land one generation of children and youth converted to Christ, and laboring in the spirit of Christ for the measure of a life-time, I should think the world's evangelization and the latter day glory not very distant.

In regard to the religious training of the young, I am not aware that there is much new to be said. In fact, my apprehension is rather lest too much of the new element be introduced, and the ancient Scriptures be thrown into the background by the religious story and newspaper. No disparagement is intended by this remark to the religious press. They honestly aim to promote Bible-study, and they are accomplishing much in this direction. The very fact of our papers being so able and interesting must be, I suppose, the reason of the danger that they will crowd the Scriptures aside, into a small place. To refer this matter to your own observation and judgment, brethren, how much of the time on week-days or on Sabbath will children see their parents occupied with the Bible, compared with the time given to the Sabbath-School book or the religious newspaper? Well, the reply is, people are very busy. They have but little time for religious reading except on Sundays. They must know what is going on in the world, and among the churches. They read Scripture at family prayers daily. The young of the household hear preaching and attend the Sabbath School. Is not that a pretty extensive training of our children in the Bible? And besides, biblical training does not depend upon the amount of time spent over the sacred page. It depends rather upon letting our children see that we make the Bible our standard of opinion, that we form our judgments of good men and bad, of right and wrong conduct from the principles of God's Word; that we test our spirit by the character of Christ; that we are trying to educate the young so as to bring their every thought into captivity to the Gospel. Each one must determine for himself what is scriptural training for his children. But the foundation of a strong and beautiful Christian life must be laid in a reverent, familiar, and loving acquaintance with Holy Scripture. Its history, poetry, precepts, invitations, promises, its parables, and especially its personal Christ, must be wrought, so far as possible and as delightfully as possible, into the minds and hearts of the young. So nourish them with the sincere milk of the Word that they may grow thereby.

First then, scriptural; and second, let our training of the young be to practical righteousness. Let them see that our Scripture is not held as a powerless creed, but as a law of living. If we only behave as well in the church as we talk and as we profess, it would be a vast accession to our power. If the church, throughout its membership, holding its present faith, were right with a practical righteousness, I should have no concern for the opposition which infidelity or ungodliness, or any outside power, could make.

But let our young people see that their elders are scrupulous to occupy their pews in the sanctuary, are partakers at the communion table, possibly attend the prayer-meeting, hold office in the church and Sabbath School, occasionally exhort their brethren to a higher and more spiritual wide-awake life,—then are false to the trusts reposed in them; will misrepresent and cheat a customer; will take advantage of a neighbor's simplicity to palm off upon him a defective article or imperfect work; will break their word and promise, and evade their honest debts,—and all this is a practical training too mighty for precept to counteract. Let us take pains, then, to train the young to practical righteousness, charging the members of our churches to show to the children that piety makes people upright in business, lovely in their homes, comfortable neighbors, blameless and exemplary in all the intercourse of life, adorning the doctrine. Let it be urged as no less important that one be a good Christian boy than that he sing, "I want to be an angel"; that he be obedient and truthful and honest, than that he sing, "Beautiful Zion built above."

Trained (1) scripturally (2) to practical righteousness, and (3) to an enlightened, sound Christian conscience. Unless cautious, we may pronounce certain things to be sin which the young person does not see to be sinful, and cannot be made to see in that light. So the young lose respect for our judgment, and we lose our influence over them. Or if they rest upon our assertions we burden their consciences unjustifiably, and when they find the ground upon which they stood swept away by some bold disputer they are liable to be carried to the extreme of infidelity or indulgence. This is the harm done by extremists and extravagant reformers. To illustrate, I am in favor of what is called total abstinence. I should be glad to have every Christian committed to that principle, rationally interpreted. But I would not take the responsibility of teaching a boy that it is a sin to drink a glass of wine, or that one could not be a Christian if he ever thus indulged. I could not find any scriptural warrant for this. I should not feel confident of carrying his reason and conscience. But I would tell whither this occasional drinking would be so likely to lead him—whither it leads multitudes—and that he, as a prudent and conscientious person, should not put himself in the way of temptation. I would also impress him with the consideration that he is bound to set a safe and helpful example before all who see him; that the example of a moderate drinker is sure to ruin a large per cent of those who undertake to follow it; and therefore that he, as a disciple of the loving, self-sacrificing Saviour, should avoid what is likely to destroy the brother for whom Christ died. These arguments commend themselves to any thinking mind. Place the duty of abstinence on this foundation, and the child can never have it ridiculed out of him until the law of prudence and kindness and Christian sensibility is killed out of him.

So in regard to amusements. Do not pronounce them sins necessarily, unless they are seen to be so intuitively, or reason can demonstrate them to be such, or unless you have scriptural authority for what you affirm. We declare, I think to little purpose, that a game of cards or of billiards, or a parlor dance, is a sin inevitably, in all conceivable circumstances. The objection to saying so is that we cannot be sure it is true, and we cannot make it appear. I speak of these points because the day has come when we are forced to meet them, and the young whom we instruct have to meet them, and they are going to be educated by others if not by us, and the question is not to be evaded how we can best educate the children and youth upon these subjects, so that they shall be fortified with a strong, sound Christian conscience. Tell them just what is true and just where the danger lies, not in a single act and in a small, safe circle, but in the appetite which is thus and there generated, in the abuses which lie so close around it, in the company to which it will introduce, in the waste of time which it will involve, and above all in the fact that it belongs to the "course of the world" rather than to the "sober, righteous, and godly life," which constitutes discipleship to Christ, and commends His religion as a spiritual, earnest reality. Something like this is what I mean by training children to a sound conscience,—teaching them what things are objectionable, but objecting to them for reasons which are undeniable, which must be recognized and carry conviction, and which can never be overthrown.

And once more, train the young to Christian service. Explain to them what it is to abide in Christ, and that this steadfastness of faith will produce much fruit in holy affections and activity. We want a generation of well-balanced disciples, not abiding in Christ just for their own sakes, — a sort of monastics, absorbed in meditation and self-culture, — nor on the other hand just showy and fussy, talking all the while about the practical and wide-awake, but with no depth and steadiness, with no roots reaching down into truth and taking strong hold on Christ.

Teach the young truth, but truth in order to godliness. Let them see that faith in us works by love; that a piety which is good is good for something. Religion, they must learn, is to be the sovereign of the soul and the life, controlling all the powers and possessions — at all times and in all places. It must make the children Christ's children, in their homes towards parents, brothers, and sisters, and in their schools towards teachers and companions, and in their plays. As Christ's children they must reverence the Scriptures and the Sabbath and the sanctuary. (Reverence, I sometimes think, is dropping out from youthful experience.) As Christ's children they must confess their Saviour and come into his church to testify and to act, so far as they are capable. At the very outset let them have before them the idea of service, according to their ability; and growing service with growth and capacity. Teach them that what concerns Christ concerns them; hence to love Christ's people, and the prayer-meeting, and the Sabbath School. Teach them sympathy with missions and every judicious reform, with all real progress. Teach them prayerfulness, and self-denial, and liberality for the promotion of these great causes. Give them the true ideal of a hearty, unselfish, noble, consecrated life. Teach them to be, in the first place, thorough believers, and then workers according to their faith, — followers of Him who came not to be ministered unto but to minister. Oh! could we train such a generation we should raise up a power which would soon be charged with turning the world upside down.

Now, in conclusion, what can we pastors do for the conversion and religious training of the young? Much by thorough instruction and encouragement given to parents and Sabbath-School teachers. Much by preaching to the young, either sermons professedly addressed to them, or with special reference and applications to them. But what I have found most effectual has been to secure the interest and confidence of the children so that they would meet to be talked with by the pastor in his study or chapel, be formed into a sort of inquiry class, in which with affectionate fidelity many will be impressed and guided, and brought to Christ. Out of such a class, maintained by new accessions, the additions to the church may, by the grace of God, be pretty numerous and constant, and the pastor will do well to continue it as a training class for young converts.

What can the parents do? (1.) Exemplify religion in the home — in all the manifestations of Christian temper and conduct which fall under the eye of the child. (2.) Make it appear that we regard the children as consecrated, and press upon them the significance of the offering which we made of them in baptism. Treat them as lambs of the fold. (3.) Instruct them, as before enjoined in this essay, so that, like Timothy, from a child they shall have learned the Scriptures, and become anchored in them. (4.) Pray, as those who expect God's covenant to be fulfilled.

What can Sabbath-School teachers do? (1.) Win the child's confidence and affection, and so obtain influence over him. (2.) Teach not for mere particulars of explanation or instruction, but to bring out and apply, and spend your strength upon that truth which is the real intent of the lesson given to win souls to Christ. (3.) Pray and watch so as to secure the Spirit's blessing; and improve it, discerning the child's state, and catching the tender hopeful hour, to lead the young soul across the threshold, actually into the kingdom. Many, I fear, who are interested, almost persuaded, never advance farther because we do not find out their spiritual condition and persuade them on to a decision.

And what can the church do? It can be the incarnation of the truth, its living witness and illustration. It can afford a warm and spiritual nurture to the young who come within its enclosure, and, for the antidote to the infidelity and ungodliness of the day, depend mainly upon the Scriptures themselves, wisely taught and practically exemplified, and blessed by the spirit of truth. Thus in behalf of the young. Begin with them early, work hopefully and perseveringly, and we may train up a generation of larger Christian pattern and stronger growth, such as the world is waiting for.

REPORT UPON SYSTEMATIC GIVING.*

THE committee appointed at the last annual meeting "to inquire what action, if any, this Association may wisely take in the endeavor to lead the members of our churches to the more general practice of proportionate and systematic giving of property to Christ's work," respectfully submit the following report:—

The committee greatly regret that the absence of their chairman, Joseph S. Ropes, Esq., in Europe, during the entire year, has wholly deprived them of his counsel and assistance.

In response to their circular calling for information respecting the method of making charitable collections, in actual use, the committee received replies from nearly half the churches of the State.

In common with all thoughtful Christians, the committee look with great distrust upon attempts to develop the benevolence of our churches, which depends chiefly upon methods and machinery. The channels of liberality can never be kept full by pumping, however perfect the apparatus. The streams of Christian charity must ever be fed by a supply from the river of the water of life. If there be available any means of bringing Christians nearer to the heart of Christ as they give to his cause, if there be any educating process by which they may come to feel the pressure of the pierced hand upon their purses, it is worth the seeking.

Therefore it is with profound satisfaction that the committee have studied the correspondence of the year. They find coming into somewhat general use in our churches a method of benevolence which touches the hidden springs of spiritual life, and in many hearts establishes a vital connection between the contribution-box and the cross.

Nearly or quite forty of the churches represented in the Association have adopted the weekly thank-offering, in one form or another, as their method of practical beneficence, or of meeting home expenses, or both. Their testimony is almost uniform that its operation is highly satisfactory. Where the plan has been tried as an experiment in the face of apathy and opposition, it has most frequently been continued with general, and often with enthusiastic approval.

While, therefore, the committee do not suppose that any one system will be best for all congregations, while they are aware that any judicious system vigorously administered will yield valuable results, they are unanimous in the conviction that the time has come when the claims of this method of systematic beneficence should be urged upon our churches.

* Accepted, and recommendations adopted, as on page 9.

The forms under which the weekly offering is practised differ greatly from each other, and doubtless experience will suggest important modifications in the details. The essential thing is that every worshipper have convenient opportunity to present an offering of money to the Lord every Sabbath, in direct connection with public worship. The differences which appear relate chiefly to the methods of receiving the offering, and of distributing the sum-total among the different objects of Christian charity.

A form of the weekly offering believed to combine the most desirable features may be described in brief detail.

1. In the concluding sentences of one of the prayers of the morning service, the pastor asks God's blessing upon the offering about to be made. Immediately upon the close of the prayer, he announces that "the congregation will now worship God with an offering," and the boxes are passed as usual. While the boxes are circulating, selections of Scripture encouraging this mode of worship are read from the pulpit.

2. For the accommodation of persons not present at the morning service, locked "Treasurer's Boxes" are placed near the door, to receive offerings not presented at the usual time.

3: The money thus received is divided between certain designated objects of charity, according to a schedule of percentage previously determined by vote of the church, and announced to the worshippers by a printed statement posted in the pews, or in some other sufficiently public manner.

4. To enable givers to consult their individual preferences as to the objects to which they contribute, the entire offering of one Sabbath of each month is devoted to some particular object or society, which is named from the pulpit at the time.

5. At any time givers who specially desire to do so may designate their offering for any particular object by enclosing it in paper or an envelope, and marking it accordingly.

Some congregations rely wholly upon Treasurer's Boxes as a means of collecting the offering, but it is a serious objection to this method that it separates the act of giving too far from the other acts of public worship. Still other congregations have adopted the plan of a box in each pew, and find it convenient and satisfactory.

The weekly offering as a form of continually recurring religious service is pressed upon our attention by important considerations.

1. Regarded merely as a method of collecting money, it has elements of great efficiency.

1. It makes giving easy to all classes. It encourages giving, if necessary, in small sums, such as persons in moderate circumstances, the poor, and children, will be able to spare.

2. It reaches all persons who attend upon public worship, however irregularly. So contributions will not fail by reason of a rainy day or a thin congregation.

3. It leads to habits of benevolence. Coming frequently and regularly, it is more likely to be remembered and provided for than a merely occasional collection.

4. It secures, on the whole, much larger aggregates. Reaching all worshippers, and gathering regularly a constant influx of littles, the amounts, almost of necessity, are large. As Chalmers puts it, "Mites are mighty."

II. The weekly offering has proved a very successful method of systematic beneficence.

It is enough here to cite facts reported to the committee from our own churches. A considerable number of these, dissatisfied with the ordinary administration of our charities, inquired of the Lord and of their own Christian common-sense, for a more excellent way. They were led, with great uniformity, to adopt the weekly offering, and they offer testimony like the following:—

"Since the adoption of this plan," writes a pastor, "our contributions have more than doubled."

From a thriving village church we hear, "Notwithstanding the hard times, we have raised $250.00 more for benevolence than ever before,—$1,350.00 in all. The number of givers has doubled, and individual amounts range from one cent to two dollars weekly."

The Treasurer of a metropolitan church remarks, "As to the working of the plan, at our annual church meeting a motion looking towards some other plan was defeated by a vote of seven to one."

A large city church which is on the second year of the experiment, reports: "Many who were doubtful of its expediency, or decidedly opposed to it last year, were this year heartily in its favor. We have given at least a third more than in previous years, with greater ease, and without any other urgency than the presentation of the pure motives of love for the Lord Jesus, and a desire to worship him with our substance."

From one of our chief manufacturing cities, we have almost the same words: "Many who distrusted the plan and predicted its failure are compelled by facts to concede its efficiency. I believe it is now satisfactory to all. Our contributions have amounted to several hundred dollars more than by the old method."

Two churches, representing the conservatism of a wholly rural population, join in the one voice of commendation. The pastor of one writes: "We have practised this plan two years and raised more money each year than under the old plan. Our people like it very much."

The other reports: "All seemed pleased with the plan, and thus far more has been raised for benevolence than for some years before."

From a large country church, with village surroundings, we hear: "The result upon our charities has been most gratifying. The increase was about thirty per cent."

Others write more concisely, but in the same tone. "The plan works well, is an admirable training." "We increased our collections very much." "Our success thus far leads us to think that we have chosen wisely." "The Sabbath morning weekly offering worked well, and it was unanimously voted to continue it during 1874." "Our plan satisfies us and secures larger aggregates than any presentation of 'causes' has ever done."

Thus, with only slight exceptions, the voice of experience accords in spirit, and often in form, with the words of a city pastor: "The system, adopted with opposition on the part of some and misgivings on the part of many more, has so commended itself in its practical workings as simple, effective, and scriptural, that it has come into general favor, and was adopted for the current year without a dissenting vote."

But it is not its efficiency as a method of collecting money which gives the weekly offering its strongest claim upon Christian hearts. We find this rather in the fact that, —

III. It tends to make giving an exercise of spiritual worship.

Worship is communion with God for the purpose of honoring and exalting him. Where properly conducted, the weekly offering takes its place among the services of God's house as an act of worship, as truly such as the prayer or the song of praise. So its influence is to educate the Christian heart to perform it as a spiritual service.

The act of giving becomes to the thoughtful believer an exercise of communion with God. The transfer of his gift from his own possession to God's treasury becomes a real and direct transaction between him and his Lord.

The scriptural method of giving is something more than a mere method. It carries with it the presence and power of the Holy Spirit. The worship of God brings God near; and worship by offering is the original form. Abel did not give chief expression to his loyalty to Jehovah by prayer or song. He brought a gift. God had respect to his offering. God and the worshipper met in communion at the altar. Whenever to-day a believer carries a gift to God in his house, God meets him. He is there to grant an interview, and to accept the offering. The intercourse between the two is not in words, but it is a real interchange of thought and feeling, notwithstanding. There are modes of communion between hearts that transcend all the power of words. When Mary of Bethany poured the ointment on her Master's feet, there was communion between the two that words could never have been the vehicle of. When Sabbath after Sabbath, a Christian laborer, a common Christian whose words are few, and whose thoughts are of oxen, worships God with the pennies or the dimes he can honestly spare from the necessities of his household, he draws near to the King on his throne. He brings his offering gladly, and Omniscient love accepts the gift. He feels the spirit of adoption. His spiritual life is intensified and quickened. His giving is worship. When a Christian banker, a man of wide intelligence and commanding influence and large resources, meets God week by week with an offering out of his abundance, in those hours of worship he is richer in his gifts than in all that he retains. He gives to honor God, to please God. God in return grants him glimpses of his transcendent glory, his boundless resources, his unutterable love. These visions of God come to him through his giving. They would never be granted him through the other acts of public worship. Neither prayer, nor song, nor sermon would so open heaven before him. Why should they? This is God's way of admitting men to his presence chamber. "Bring an offering and come into his courts." Giving is worship of its own kind, and is designed to be the medium of a communion between God and man which nothing else can secure.

To this exercise of communion with God the weekly offering presents peculiar incentives. Occasional contributions do not so much invite to it. They emphasize the collecting more than the worship. But a regularly recurring offering, introduced as a part of the ordinary service of God's house, is constantly encouraging thoughtful attendants thus to draw near unto God. It is not to be supposed that all who participate in the weekly offering will make their giving an exercise of heartfelt worship, any more than that all who listen to public prayer or praise make the worship of those acts their own. But opportunity is offered, and in due time many will learn the joy.

Thus the weekly offering is commended less in the interest of the charities than of the churches. Something is to be hoped from it as inducing new habits of benevolence, but far more as developing a new mode of Christian experience. If any believer will make his Christian beneficence Christian worship, his acts of giving will soon disclose themselves in his own consciousness far more impressively as an experience of receiving from His fulness who filleth all in all. Giving is worship. Those who make it such gladly confess that it is God's own method of lifting these selfish hearts of ours into fellowship with Infinite love.

The committee, therefore, recommend the passage of the following resolutions:—

Resolved, That this Association gratefully recognizes the abundant evidence that the churches of the Lord Jesus apprehend with increasing clearness the fact that Christian life is Christian giving, and that the people of God are seeking so diligently for new and better methods of benevolence.

Resolved, That the plain duty of the ministers and officers of the churches is to press home upon the people of Christ, by all argument and all persuasion, the constant duty of giving for Christ's sake.

Resolved, That while new methods always have peculiar advantages, we recognize in the extensive and increasing adoption of the "Weekly Offering" by our churches throughout the State an indication of progress in systematic benevolence which we believe to be the work of the Holy Spirit ; and that we accept the success of the offering in its various forms and applications as our Lord's own testimony to its efficiency and value.

Resolved, That this Association recommends the "Weekly Offering" to the favorable consideration of all our churches, as a method of systematic benevolence eminently scriptural, practical, and successful, — adapted both to develop the love of Christ in the heart of the giver, and to make the free gifts of the Lord's people both more abundant and more adequate for his service.

Resolved, That a committee of three ministers and four laymen be appointed, who shall have under their consideration the whole subject of Christian benevolence, and more particularly that of systematic and proportionate giving, shall make such investigations as they deem expedient, and report to the next annual meeting.

Resolved, That this Association recommends to the local Conferences to appoint committees on systematic beneficence, and to bring the subject before the Conferences and the Churches in such ways as they judge best.

All of which is respectfully submitted, in behalf of the Committee,

JOS. BOARDMAN, Secretary.

REPORT UPON FOREIGN MISSIONS.*

THE present exigency of the American Board is of so unusual and serious a nature as to demand from this Association careful consideration and prompt action.

The deficit in the treasury increasing instead of diminishing, and that in the face of the urgent appeals of the Secretaries, is a fact that may well alarm us.

The work of the American Board is the work of our churches, and must not be crippled by occasional financial disturbances, as there is money enough in our churches to meet such exigencies. There should be such a sense of personal responsibility on the part of all our membership as to preclude future calls for SPECIAL efforts. The idea of curtailing our benevolent operations for the conversion of the world for the want of money must not be entertained.

Two points were given to the consideration of your Committee : —

I. As to the annual financial estimate upon which the Board should base its expenditures.

On this point the Committee are agreed that any less estimate than that of the current year would be insufficient both as regards economy and efficiency. Enterprises are inaugurated and under way the abandonment of which would be a virtual waste of whatever has been already expended ; men are in the field who must be brought home, perhaps at the very time when their preliminary training is completed. Schools must be discontinued just when they have struggled through the difficulties incident to their establishment, and have come into successful operation. Churches beginning to live must be left to die. The whole machinery of operation will be gravely disarranged by a retrograde movement towards a lesser scale of expenditures. In the judgment of the Committee there is no such exigency as to demand this disastrous extravagance in the name of economy.

II. As to the second point, — the existing deficit in the treasury and of methods of meeting it, the Committee would suggest that the pastors of the State be urged to make an immediate and earnest presentation of the facts to their several congregations, and that, as speedily as may be, our churches take up a special collection to relieve the Board of its difficulties ; and that while large gifts from the wealthy are welcomed, those who can give but little be urged not to withhold that little, that all our membership may have a part in the work.

It is further recommended that if, in the judgment of the Executive Committee of the Board, it shall seem expedient, the Secretaries be requested to send this action of the Association in circular to the several pastors and churches in the State, to endorse and give impetus to the call for this special collection.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON NON-RESIDENT CHURCH MEMBERSHIP.*

AT the last meeting of the General Association the following resolution was presented : —

Resolved, In view of the fact that our statistics show that one sixth of the enrolled members of our churches are living away from the churches to which they belong, the Association calls attention to what it can but regard as a great evil, resulting in detriment to the piety and efficiency of these absentees and to the general success of the Kingdom of Christ. And we recommend to pastors and churches a more vigorous effort to enforce a rule requiring that, in all ordinary cases, members absent for more than one year shall apply for letters of dismissal and recommendation to the church where they reside.

This resolution was, by vote, referred to a Special Committee, with instructions to consider the matter and report at the next meeting of the Association. Your Committee has attended to its duty, and respectfully submit the following report :—

The magnitude of the evil complained of seems to increase, rather than diminish, the more we consider it. Your Committee find it much easier to enlarge upon the deleterious effects of absenteeism on the part of church members than to suggest an adequate remedy. The rule referred to in the resolution, already on so many of our church manuals, that “in all ordinary cases members absent for more than one year shall apply for letters of dismissal and recommendation to the church where they reside,” is doubtless a good rule and should be better enforced.

But it has seemed to us that a resolution commending this rule, though passed by the Association and entered upon our records, would reach or affect few outside of this assembly. Only a fraction of our church members, not to say pastors, would know anything of it. Some more effective method must be employed if an evil so wide-spread is to be reached. Many churches are now doing all they can to reduce their list of absentees. What is wanted is a united and vigorous effort on the part of all our churches to do the same. Your Committee feel that, perhaps, the most effective way in which the General Association could use its influence to secure this end, would be to address a letter to the churches on the subject. They have prepared a draft of such a circular letter (submitted herewith), and they recommend that it be printed, and sent by the Scribe to each church of our order in the Commonwealth, in the hope that it will be read from each pulpit, and so reach the ear of a very large proportion of the members of our churches. If the method suggested is

THE GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES

To the ——— Church in ———, Greeting:—

REVEREND AND BELOVED, — It is the desire of the General Association to call the attention of the churches of our order in the Commonwealth, to the growing evil among us, arising from the large number of members absent from the churches to which they belong. One sixth of our enrolled members are reported as living away from their churches. Some churches report from one fourth to nearly one half of their members as absentees, and in other churches the number is not reported at all. It is evident that a united and persistent effort is needed to correct this evil.

It is therefore earnestly recommended: —

First. That the names of absentees whose residence is unknown shall be annually read to the church, with a view to obtaining information concerning them.

Second. That every pastor with whose church members of other churches are worshipping, shall annually state to his congregation the number of such persons, with a cordial invitation to this class to unite with the church whose means of grace they enjoy.

Third. That a circular letter shall be annually sent by each church to all its absent members who can be reached, affectionately urging them either to take letters of dismission and commendation to the church with which they worship, or to report annually to the church where they are enrolled.

Fourth. That every church withdraw fellowship on account of long absence and silence from all absent members who fail for three years to make report, and who cannot be reached for purposes of Christian labor and discipline, such persons being no longer counted as members, nor entitled to letters of commendation except after having been reinstated, on due explanation, by vote of the church.

A draft of such a circular letter as is recommended, and such in substance as has been used by some of our churches with happy results, is here appended: —

THE ——— CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF ———,

To its absent members sends Christian greeting:

DEARLY BELOVED, — This Church earnestly desires to maintain fraternal Christian correspondence with its absent members, and has instructed its pastor and committee to attend to that pleasant duty.

Will you accept then, beloved, the assurance of our continued interest in your spiritual prosperity, and our hearty sympathy with you in your Christian experiences, whether of light and joy or of darkness and perplexity.

We greatly desire to hear from you in respect to your spiritual welfare and your relations to the Church of Christ.

It would be pleasant for us to retain the special church fellowship of all all who have ever been associated with us, and we are glad to feel that absent members cling fondly to their membership and sever it with reluctance.

But we are convinced that ordinarily, Christians should be members of the local church with which they worship.

A letter of recommendation often serves as an introduction to the pastor and a circle of Christian friends and helpers in the walk of faith.

Resident members will be likely to have a deeper sense of personal responsibility for Christian influence and activity than non-residents.

They will be more under the watch of the church, and if tempted to wander from the right way, will be surrounded by those under covenant obligations to render all possible Christian aid.

If in affliction, Christians of the same household of faith will know of their affairs, and will be more likely to visit, comfort, and assist them.

Allow us, therefore, to inquire, —

First. With what church you are accustomed to worship on the Sabbath, to partake stately of the Lord's Supper, to engage in efforts for the extension of the Redeemer's Kingdom, and to contribute as the Lord has given you ability for the support of the Gospel?

Second. Is it not desirable that you connect yourself now with the church with which Providence has associated you?

Third. If there are special reasons why you should not remove your church relation, will you please to state such reasons to us, and give us occasion to rejoice that you are still in fellowship with us, and walking in the order of God's house?

Beloved, pray for us that we may be faithful to all the obligations the Master lays upon us.

Hoping soon to hear from you, and wishing you joy and strength in Jesus our Lord,

We remain, in behalf of the Church,
Yours, in Christian love,

_____, Pastor.

_____, For the Committee.

The General Association indulges the confident belief that concerted action by our churches of the kind here recommended, would lead to most happy results, in the increased purity and activity of our churches, and which would speedily declare themselves in the diminished percentage of absentees in the statistics of our order in the State. It is further respectfully suggested that this communication be read to the church receiving it in the hearing of the congregation.

REPORT UPON THE ROLL OF MINISTERS.*

THE Committee appointed to take into consideration that part of the Secretary's Report which relates to the lists of ministers reported by the scribes of the several local Associations, and published under the authority of this General Association, respectfully report that, —

In the changes which the years have brought, it appears that for various reasons these lists need to be subjected now to a more careful scrutiny. It is in keeping with the spirit and methods of the present times, which require minute care in all the details of successful business, that the utmost possible accuracy and completeness should characterize all the authorized statistical reports of the membership and ministry of our churches. Though this Association expressly disclaims all ecclesiastical authority over churches or individuals, the appearance of a minister's name in our published lists is generally regarded as an evidence of reputable ministerial standing. But it is not creditable to our Christian character for truthfulness and fairness, that so many names of ministers without charge should be enrolled among the Congregational ministers of Massachusetts, while their post-office address is unknown, or while they are reported as ministering permanently to the churches of other denominations.

Concurring heartily in the desire of the Secretary to secure a trustworthy and complete register of the Congregational ministers of Massachusetts, in view of the statements made in regard to the classes and causes of existing inaccuracies, the Committee beg leave to recommend to this Association the adoption of the following resolutions: —

Resolved, That in cases where ministers, not pastors, but reported by the Association, are officially members of two denominations, the Secretary be directed to address to each the question whether he wishes to be enrolled as a Congregational minister, and to insert in our alphabetical list the names of such as answer in the affirmative.

Resolved, That we hereby recommend to the several local Associations which have not already adopted such regulations, that they make it a rule that in case of the removal of any member from their territorial limits, membership shall cease within six months in virtue of such removal, unless upon application to that effect the Association shall vote to prolong the connection for a further specified time.

If a member belonging to one Association has connected himself with another without terminating his former membership, we recommend that the Association with which he was formerly connected shall erase his name from their list, when notified of the fact that he has joined another.

Resolved, That the Secretary be requested to publish separately a list of non-resident members of our local Associations.

* Accepted, and resolves adopted, as on page 14.

RULES OF THE GENERAL ASSOCIATION.

I. NAME.— This body shall be called THE GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES OF MASSACHUSETTS.

II. OBJECT.— Its object is to secure Christian union, fellowship, and intercourse among the ministers and churches; promote spirituality; and to co-operate with one another and with other ecclesiastical bodies in advancing the Redeemer's kingdom.

III. DOCTRINAL BASIS.— This Association agrees to the Declaration of Faith adopted by the National Council of Congregational Churches in the year 1865; the doctrines therein set forth being understood by us to be distinctly those which, from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the Gospel.

IV. DENOMINATIONAL BASIS.— Being based exclusively upon Congregational principles, this Association shall, under no circumstances, exercise ecclesiastical authority over churches or individuals, or interfere with the government or discipline of the churches, or consent to hear appeals, or give advice in ecclesiastical causes of any kind.

V. MEMBERS.— Each District Association of ministers consenting to the principles above stated, may appoint, annually, two delegates; and each District Conference of churches, also so consenting, may appoint, annually, three delegates, who shall be laymen; which delegates, with the Secretary, Registrar, Treasurer, and the pastor of the church with which the annual session is held, shall compose the General Association. Delegates from corresponding bodies, ministers appointed to preach sermons, and chairmen of committees attending to present reports, shall be honorary members, together with such other persons as the Association may vote to admit.

VI. OFFICERS.— I. A Secretary, a Registrar, and a Treasurer, shall be chosen by ballot, each to serve three years from the close of the session at which the choice was made; to these offices any member of any Congregational Church connected with this body shall be eligible.

2. A Moderator and an Assistant Registrar shall be chosen by ballot from the members at each session, to serve during that session.

3. The Secretary shall conduct the correspondence of the Association, collect the statistics of the ministers and churches, and have charge of the printing thereof, distribute the publications of the Association, and preserve, for the permanent use of the Association, copies of all its publications.

4. The Registrar shall make the records of each meeting, and preserve them as the permanent property of the Association; to whom the Assistant Registrar shall render his aid. He shall seasonably notify the time and place of each annual session.

5. The Treasurer shall receive all money raised for the use of the Association, disburse the same as directed, and present an annual report, to be audited as the Association may direct.

6. The Secretary, Registrar, and Treasurer shall be ex-officio members of the Association, and be the Committee of Publication unless another be chosen. Their travelling expenses in attending the several sessions shall be paid by the Association.

VII. QUORUM. — Twenty-five delegates shall constitute a quorum.

VIII. ANNUAL MEETING. — The annual meeting shall be held on the third Tuesday of June, at four o'clock, P. M. (or at some other more convenient hour), at such place as shall have been duly designated.

IX. HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY. — The Massachusetts Home Missionary Society may annually elect two delegates, to be members of this body, while it consents that this body may nominate two persons for membership in the Executive Committee of that Society.

X. CORRESPONDENCE. — Official fraternal intercourse with the several State Congregational organizations, and with other denominations, is sufficiently had by the representation of this body in the National Council of the Congregational Churches of the United States.

XI. ORGANIZATION. — The pastor of the church of the place of meeting, or the Secretary, may call the Association to order, and preside in the meeting until it be properly organized. The certificates of the delegates present shall be presented — only the names of members being read by the Registrar. The Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator and an Assistant Registrar, and the Moderator shall open the session with prayer. A Committee on Credentials shall then be appointed, to whom all certificates shall be referred.

XII. COMMITTEES. — 1. The Committees for the session are these :

(1.) A Committee on Credentials, who shall be appointed by the Moderator immediately after the opening of the session.

(2.) A Committee on Nominations, to nominate the following, and any other committees referred to them.

(3.) A Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the pastor, or some member of the church, shall be one, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the committee. But if said committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

(4.) A Committee to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the churches of the several Conferences connected with this body.

2. To act after the adjournment :

(1.) A Provisional Committee of five, to arrange the schedule for the next annual meeting ; to select a preacher for a sermon on Wednesday, and persons to prepare such written papers as they shall deem desirable.

(2.) A State Committee on the Work of the Churches, who shall make an annual report to this body, upon the Work of the Churches and State of Religion, unless otherwise ordered at any session.

XIII. EXERCISES. — The time of the annual session shall be occupied by devotional services, the consideration of the state of religion, the wants and methods of Home Evangelization, addresses and discussions of practical religious interest, and attention to the objects of benevolent enterprise sustained by the churches.

XIV. SPECIAL ORDERS. — I. At the opening of the session, on the morning of Wednesday and Thursday, the Moderator shall take the chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned ; shall immediately call the members to order ; shall direct the roll to be called ; shall open the meeting with prayer ; and cause the Minutes of the preceding day to be read ; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

2. The associational sermon and Lord's supper shall be assigned to Thursday P. M., but may be changed to Tuesday evening, at the option of the Provisional Committee. Wednesday evening shall be devoted to exercises having special reference to the people of the place of meeting, or a sermon may be preached, the preacher to be selected by the Provisional Committee. One session of the Association shall be devoted to the cause of Home Missions.

3. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer.

XV. PLACE OF MEETING. — Previously to the close of each meeting, the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and designate the Association (in alphabetical order) to appoint a preacher for the sermon before the Lord's supper. And the church of the place of meeting selected is requested to make preparation to celebrate the Lord's supper in the course of the service. The Lord's supper shall be administered, generally, without remarks.

XVI. RULES OF ORDER. — I. Every motion, on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing ; and no motion shall be opened to discussion until it be seconded.

2. The Moderator may speak to points of order in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose ; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

3. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question, without leave of the Association.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received except for adjournment, laying on the table, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question. The previous question is this : Shall the main question be now put ? And the effect of adopting it shall be to put an end to debate, and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon the amendments, if any are pending, and then upon the main question proper.

5. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair ; and shall be subject to no needless interruption ; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members, to call him to order.

XVII. AMENDMENTS. — 1. Any of the above Rules, except the first five, may be amended at any annual session by a two-thirds vote, the proposed amendment having been submitted in writing on the day previous to that of action.

2. Amendments to either of the first five articles shall not be made except upon their proposal at the annual meeting next prior to that of action ; and after notice has been sent to the several Associations and Conferences ; and by a two-thirds vote.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

EXPLANATIONS.

1. The following tables contain the name of all the Congregational Churches in Massachusetts, each in its own county. The counties are arranged in alphabetical order. Towns in each county are arranged alphabetically; churches in each town, according to age; and of each church, (1) its town, (2) its name (if it have a peculiar one), which is always followed by "ch.," (3) its locality in the town when that locality has a name distinct from the town; when the name of a church follows the name of a locality subordinate to the town, it shows that the church has a distinct number in that subdivision of the town, or it is evidently needed for clearness.

2. Churches organized since the close of the statistical year (Dec. 31, 1873), are not inserted in the county tables or included in the summaries; but are given with the list of new churches.

3. The contracted headings to the columns of figures are more fully given with the Summary.

4. The column specifying Ministers is corrected up to the time of publication. Church members are reported as numbered on the morning of Jan. 1, 1874. Admissions, removals, and baptisms cover the year 1873. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females," and "total," but included in them. "Sabbath School" includes total membership of teachers and scholars Jan. 1, 1874, or when the school is in successful operation (if not at that date), covering "branch schools" and "mission schools," so far as maintained by the reporting church; and the "average" attendance for the year 1873.

5. The months and days, in the dates of the organization of churches, are this year omitted. They will be found in last year's publication,—those of churches organized since being given in the list of new churches.

6. "Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry "by the laying on of hands." "Installed" denotes the date of his present pastorate. "A. P." denotes "Acting pastor."

7. All Post-office addresses are to be found in the "List of Ministers," and not in the tables. For churches, see "Index of Towns."

8. In no instance is the report of any church in these Statistics copied from the returns of previous years. But there is included in the totals of each county a careful estimate of the numbers in any unreporting church, if there be such; and also the occasionally missing items of "absent," and "average attendance" in Sabbath Schools,—which are assumed to be, in each case, equivalent to the average percentage of their county.

NOTES. — 1. Of the 85 churches counted "vacant" above, 14 are supplied by licentiates or ministers of other denominations.

2. The column of "other ministers" includes only such (not in pastoral service) as are members of our Associations and reside in Massachusetts. Many of those whose occupation is in Boston reside, and are counted, in other counties, especially in Middlesex.

3. Comparisons. — New churches, 3; dropped, 2. Gain in church-membership, 1,015. Gain in Sabbath Schools, 2,150.

The average attendance in Sabbath Schools is 6,480 of their total membership; in years next preceding, respectively, 6,454, 6,752, 6,764, 6,679, 6,718, 6,760. Decrease in Benevolent Contributions (473 churches reporting, 483 last year), $42,248.88.

Pastors a year ago, 316; of these, during the year, 11 died in office, and 34 were dismissed; 10 persons were ordained pastors, and 33 other ministers were installed, making 314 the present total. Ministers not pastors deceased, 11. Ordained without installation, 4.

Seven churches have each two pastors.

Licentiates under care, 46, — 21 of whom were approbated during the year.

For the above items of changes by counties, see table on next page; lists of new churches, ordinations, etc., follow; and comparison of "totals" with those of preceding years will be found in table farther on.

* But for transfers of churches Middlesex would have shown a gain of 714 members, Norfolk a gain of 54, and Suffolk a gain of 362.

NOTE.—The “year” means what changes were comprised in the twelve months preceding January 1st of the year mentioned; except that the columns under “Ministers” comprise the twelve months ending with the time of printing the Minutes. The table by counties was begun in 1866; all preceding years now given being compiled from past Minutes,—the number of churches in some years varying from the Minutes as they were to what they should have been.

The changes in list of churches, ordinations, installations, etc., for the past year, condensed in the above table by counties, are given in detail on the next and succeeding pages.

CHANGES IN THE LIST OF CHURCHES.

NEW CHURCHES, with date of organization :

Berkshire Co., — Alford, resuscitated. This church was organized August 13, 1846. It appeared last upon our list in 1868.

Middlesex Co., — South Framingham, January 2, 1873.

Suffolk Co., — Holland church, Boston Highlands, February 20, 1873.

Also, since the end of the statistical year, and therefore not included in our tables or summary :

Bristol Co., — Third church, Fall River, June 3, 1874.

Essex Co., — Rockville, in Peabody, April 14, 1874.

Middlesex Co., — Maplewood, in Malden, June 10, 1874.

“ “ West Somerville, April 14, 1874.

Worcester Co., — North Leominster, May 6, 1874.

“ “ Baldwinville, in Templeton, June 4, 1874.

CHURCHES DROPPED FROM THE LIST :

Bristol Co., — Trinitarian church, Berkley, which last year reported thirty members. The church was a useless secession from the First church, in 1848. Most of the members have become the nucleus of a Methodist Society.

Norfolk Co., — The Second church in Holbrook. It had been without a pastor since 1856, when the Winthrop church was formed out of it. A reunion has been happily effected, 39 members joining the Winthrop church. Although the formal act was not consummated until January 29, 1874, we regard it as practically done in 1873, and therefore we do not count it January 1.

The total number of churches at the date of printing, is 515; but 7 of these cannot be included in our summary, because organized since the end of the statistical year.

CHANGES IN COUNTY OR NAME :

The church of “Amesbury and Salisbury,” Essex County, is now placed as “Salisbury and Amesbury.”

Brighton and Charlestown (both in Middlesex County) and West Roxbury (Norfolk County), having been united with the city of Boston, the churches in those places are transferred to Suffolk County, and are inserted in Boston, in place according to their respective dates of organization.

Appleton Street church, Lowell, Middlesex County, has taken the name of “Eliot church.”

East Abington, Plymouth County, is now incorporated as ROCKLAND; and North Bridgewater, in the same county, has taken the name of BROCKTON.

The church in Duxbury, Plymouth County, has changed its name to “Pilgrim church.”

Of these, there were under thirty years of age, 6; thirty and under forty, 22; forty and under fifty, 34; fifty and under sixty, 31; sixty and under seventy, 63; seventy and under eighty, 61; eighty and under ninety, 42; ninety and upwards, 6.

NOTES.

THE columns of pastoral supply, in the tables by counties, are this year corrected to June 30.

The facilities of printers allowing them to have all the pages of this issue in type at once, the several lists of Associations, tables by counties, and alphabetical list of ministers have been carefully compared, so as to secure uniformity. The tables of the churches by counties were placed, in proofs, in the hands of the delegates at the session, and corrections solicited and obtained.

Thanks are due to the several Scribes of Associations for their zeal in securing returns in season to allow them to be put in type before the session.

Reports were obtained from all the churches save one. The only failure is the South Church in Ipswich. The Secretary had hoped to have secured returns from all, but this one church necessitated a disappointment. The conscience of the Scribe of Essex South and that of the Secretary are untroubled by lack of effort.

The report shows a cheerful gain in church membership, net gain 1,015, against a gain of 11 the year previous. Nor does this include the results of the many revivals of the past winter. The number of absentees has diminished, so that the net gain of residents is 1,814. The diminishing of absentees is greatly due to the resolute dropping of names of unknown persons charitably supposed to be dead.

In Sabbath Schools there is a gain of 2,150, — against a loss, in the previous year, of 687.

The Benevolent Contributions have diminished by $42,248.88. This can hardly be surprising, considering (1) that the year commenced with the January following the great fire in Boston, which affected a circle far beyond that city; and (2) the severe financial depression of the year.

The pastorate is nearly as last year. The number of acting pastors is 11 less this year, and of vacant churches, 12 more. But this is hardly more than nominal, inasmuch as this year 14 of the vacant churches are supplied by licentiates or ministers of other denominations, while last year we counted but 3 such; the change is mainly due to a more rigid and careful returning of various persons to their own denominations on our lists.

The number of ministers deceased, 22, has been exceeded but once in the twenty years next previous, and then by but one. The number of pastors deceased, 11, has never been equalled. The average annual number of deaths in the twenty-one years has been a fraction less than thirteen.

The continued table of summaries of past years will be found on a page following.

Last year there were in our List of Ministers the names of twenty-four persons who were also members of Presbyteries. Of this number, six names have disappeared by removals, and one by death; and one has been added. Five of the eighteen remaining are necessarily Congregationalists by position as installed pastors of Congregational Churches. To each of the remainder a request was sent, in accordance with directions from the General Association, for information whether the person wished to be enrolled on our alphabetical list as a Congregational minister. Two reply that they are Presbyterians, and do not wish to be enrolled as Congregationalists. Two had previously been dismissed from Presbyteries, and one writes that he is not a member of Presbytery. Six request to be enrolled as Congregational ministers. Of the two remaining, one has removed from the State, makes no reply, and his name is dropped; and one is retained from doubt whether the request was received. Except therefore the one name (Rev. Joseph F. Jennison), no member of another denomination is this year enrolled in our alphabetical list of ministers, except installed pastors and such as have desired to be so enrolled as being Congregational ministers.

The Secretary may be permitted to express his thanks for the kind vote adopted by the General Association in reference to his continuous official services for the past eighteen years, and of the unanimous ballot by which he was re-chosen for a new term of three years. So far as the historical and statistical work is concerned, the same vote should be understood to include the Scribes of the Conferences and Associations, without whose cheerful and faithful labor this work would have been impossible.

The Secretary can but notice that he has chronicled by name the decease of 254 fathers and brethren in the ministry, and the number of 25,171 brethren and sisters in the churches, gone to their rest; and on the other hand, of 54,011 admissions on profession of faith, and of the baptisms of 22,821 children; and that the membership in our Sabbath Schools has increased by 26,499.

Prior to 1830, number of churches at given dates: In 1620,—1; 1630,—2; 1635,—13; 1640,—26; 1650,—39; 1700,—83; 1750,—239; 1790,—324; 1800,—343; 1810,—281, having dropped all that became Unitarian; 1820,—291; 1825,—310.

In the above table,—the columns of "Additions," "Removals," "Baptisms," "Sabbath School Average," and "Benevolent Contributions," cover the twelve months next preceding January 1 of the year mentioned in a given line. The pastoral supply (only) was regularly corrected to a date some months later than January 1 (usually July), but this does not change the general accuracy in any case.

* Absentees prior to 1855 doubtless stated too low.

IN MASSACHUSETTS,*

AND OF SUCH PARTS OF TOWNS (HAVING CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES) AS HAVE DISTINCT NAMES.

The county is here given, in italics. The statistics of churches in any town will be found in the County tables (pages 101-115). The number affixed to any town, in this list, is the number of the Conference (pages 71-80) with which its churches are connected. If no such number is given, the church is not connected with a Conference. "No church" means only "no Congregational church." The population of such towns, by census of 1870, is given in parenthesis.

* The Secretary of the Commonwealth kindly furnished, this year, the official list of all the towns and cities, including the several changes made by the Legislature of 1874. This list is therefore complete and reliable. A comparison showed that our last year's list was strictly correct. The sub divisions of towns and cities (in each case followed by "in") were inserted by the compiler of the statistics.

NAMES OF CONGREGATIONAL MINISTERS

RESIDENT IN MASSACHUSETTS, IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER, WITH THE POST-OFFICE ADDRESS OF EACH, AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE ASSOCIATION OR COUNTY IN WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS.

This list includes only pastors or acting pastors and members of Associations; and of such only as reside or are in service in this State. Its post-office addresses may differ from the foregoing pages.

A list of members of our Associations residing in other States, follows this list; and an alphabetical list of licentiates follows that.

Some members of Associations, not settled pastors, being officially connected with other denominations, — the name of no such person is here inserted except upon his own request (in answer to letters sent to all such) to be enrolled as a Congregational minister, — in accordance with vote upon page 62; save in one instance where time did not allow of certainty.

A star (*) prefixed to any name in this list denotes that the person, although an "acting pastor," is not a member of any Association in this State.

In this list the first column of figures gives the number of the Association of Ministers with which a person is connected. The Association lists are numbered consecutively in pages 81-99, and the number will be found in the running titles at the top of those pages.

The second column of figures in this list gives the number of the County in which a person will be found to be in pastoral service, and these numbers will be found in the running titles of the County tables of churches, pages 101-115. A blank in either case signifies, — in the former, that one is not a member of any Association in this State; in the latter, that he is not reported to be in pastoral service in this State.

THIRD DAY.

Thursday, June 17. The Association re-assembled at 8½ A. M., and spent half an hour in devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. George M. Adams.

The roll of the members was called by the registrar.

The minutes of the previous day were read and approved.

The report of the treasurer was read and accepted.

The report of the auditing committee was made, showing a balance in the treasury of $432.73, and recommending that the scribes of the local conferences be requested to ask for a sum equivalent to two cents for each resident church-member. The report was accepted and adopted.

Bro. George E. Clarke was elected treasurer for the ensuing three years.

The committee appointed to consider the report of the State Committee on Temperance presented their report as follows:—

Resolved, That, in the opinion of this Association, each local church is in its very nature a Temperance Society, and should practically recognize the promotion of temperance as an important part of its regular Christian work, from which it cannot be relieved by any other organization.

Resolved, That the present exigencies of the temperance cause demand that a definite place be assigned it in the systematic work, and in the public services of every church.

This report was accepted and adopted.

The committee on Sabbath Schools reported as follows:—

The State Committee on the Work of the Churches has submitted to this Association a paper on the relation of the Church Conference to the Sunday Schools. The committee to whom this paper was referred would respectfully report:—

1. That the State Committee very properly emphasizes the fact that Sunday-school labor is one department of church work; that the Sunday School is not to be regarded as simply an organization outside of the church, but the church itself, engaged in the blessed work of teaching the Word to all whom it can reach.

2. That the State Committee has ascertained by careful examination that nearly one half of the Conferences of the State give systematic attention to the work of the Sunday School, while the remainder of the Conferences have no system for promoting this work. The committee to whom this paper has been referred would recommend that this Association call the attention of the Conferences to the importance of adopting some plan by which they shall, with regularity, endeavor to increase the interest and wisdom with which Sunday-school work is conducted by the churches.

This report was accepted and adopted.

On motion of Rev. Daniel P. Noyes, it was Resolved, That the State Committee communicate these resolutions to the Conferences and churches, inviting them to make particular mention, in their next reports of church work, of any steps that they may have taken in the cause of temperance.

On motion of Rev. James P. Kimball, it was Voted, That the report on the Work of the Churches be accepted, and printed in the Minutes, with the Tables of Payments and Charities.

The committee on the form of credentials made the following Report:—

To save the time of the General Association and simplify the work of the committee on credentials, we recommend that the secretary or registrar print in the Minutes, in connection with the "Notices," a notice to the following effect:—

"Scribes of the local bodies are requested to furnish delegates with credentials in this form, viz. —

" 'To Rev. [Dea. or Bro.] ——— of ——— : You are entitled to represent, as delegates [primary or secondary] the ——— Association [or Conference] at the meeting of the General Association of Congregational Churches of Massachusetts, to be held in ——— [place] ——— [date], 187—. You are requested to present this letter as your credentials at the above meeting. ——— Scribe.' "

[Date.]

The report was referred to the committee on nomination.

The Association then took a recess until 2 o'clock, P. M.

The Association was called to order at 2 o'clock, P. M.

It was Voted, That the Association tender their thanks to Rev. Charles S. Brooks for his thoughtful, earnest, and practical sermon at the opening of the Association.

It was also

Voted, That the registrar be instructed to express to Rev. Alonzo H. Quint, secretary of the Association, their appreciation of his faithful labors in behalf of the Association for many years, their sympathy with him in his serious illness, and their hope that he may soon be able to resume the work to which he is devoted.

The committee to draft resolutions appropriate to the day made the following report, which was unanimously adopted:—

“The influence of the Congregational polity in creating the spirit of independence which found expression at Bunker Hill, and the steady support given the cause of freedom by our churches and people in all our history, makes it proper to give formal expression of our sympathy with the celebration in progress to-day.

We do, therefore, hereby gratefully recognize the good providence of God in all He accomplished through the sufferings of our fathers for the good of men and His glory.

We do, also, hereby confess that in the remembrance of His great goodness and bounty are motives of largest power to draw us to increased activity in all labors promising good to the bodies and souls of men.

And we do purpose to give our utmost and earnest effort to make our land salvation to the earth and a glory and praise to His great name.

The Association then rose, and sang together two stanzas of the hymn commencing

“Our country, 't is of thee.”

The committee to which was referred the report on Systematic Beneficence presented a report, which was adopted as follows:—

The committee recommend that the Association order the printing of the report with the Minutes, earnestly commending to the churches the importance of systematic beneficence, but leaving the more specific views of the report to the individual judgment and decision.

The committee also advise the adoption by the Association of the first and third recommendations appended to the report, it being understood that the books to be circulated be left to the discretion of the brother designated to look after the matter.

The Association then listened to addresses by Bro. Langdon S. Ward, of Boston, Rev. Daniel Bliss, of Beirut, and Rev. Luther H. Gulick, of Spain.

After the hymn was sung, commencing

“Shall we whose souls are lighted,”

Rev. Washington Gladden read an essay on How to kill a Prayer-Meeting, and how to make it alive.

The hymn was then sung, beginning

Remarks on the subject of the paper just presented were made by Rev. Henry M. Parsons, Rev. Francis H. Boynton, Rev. James P. Kimball, Rev. Edward P. Tenney, Rev. S. M. Freeland, Dea. William F. Richardson, Dea. George N. Dutton, Rev. Elisha G. Cobb, Rev. Jonathan L. Jenkins, Bro. Langdon S. Ward.

On motion of Rev. James P. Kimball, it was Voted, That the thanks of the Association be presented to Rev. Washington Gladden for his paper, and that the paper be printed in the Minutes.

On motion of Rev. Addison P. Foster, it was Resolved, That we deeply regret the embarrassment of the work of the American Board in papal lands the current year, in consequence of the small sum given by our churches in this direction, and earnestly commend to their increased benevolence this work, which the Board has assumed at their request.

On motion of Rev. George M. Adams, it was Resolved, That the thanks of the Association are presented to this church and society, with their beloved pastor and faithful committee, and to the other good people of the town, whose very generous and ample hospitality has made our stay in Amherst, in these beautiful June days, doubly delightful. May the grace of God rest abundantly upon them.

Resolved, The Association acknowledge the courtesy of the Fitchburg Railroad and of the New London Northern Railroad in granting reduction of fare to those attending these meetings.

On motion of Rev. Bradford M. Fullerton, it was Voted, That the thanks of the Association be presented to the moderator for the courtesy and kindness with which he has administered the business of this Association.

Appropriate remarks were then made by Rev. Jonathan L. Jenkins, pastor of the church, and the moderator.

After singing, and prayer offered by Rev. Nahum Gale, the Association adjourned.

ADDISON P. FOSTER, Assistant Registrar.

REPORT ON THE WORK OF THE CHURCHES AND STATE OF RELIGION.

IN coming before the Association with another Report, your committee are thankful to find themselves able to present one covering nearly all the State, and, in general, so encouraging in its facts. Those who will take the pains to read these records with due consideration will detect, we believe, signs of an improvement which may be permanent, a promise of systematic work, of earnest study of the Bible, and of the presence of the Spirit.

We desire, at the outset, to recognize the cordiality with which so large a proportion of the pastors have united in the present system of reports to the Conferences and to this Association. From an embarrassment from which they and we have suffered together, we look for speedy relief. A plan, we are informed, will be laid before this body, which, we trust, will be so worked out as to unite all the churches upon a single schedule of statistics, so that no pastor shall be applied to for facts of this kind more than once a year, while the returns made shall be such as can be collated. With this amendment our present system would seem to be all that can be desired.

And now a word in regard to

THE REPORTS OF PAYMENTS AND CHARITIES. The churches all take account of their expenditures and contributions; they all send the aggregates of their contributions to the secretary of this association. Of course, it is easy, therefore, to furnish the particulars. The importance of these particulars is clearly shown in the remarks of the Committee of the Suffolk North Conference upon their own table. It is true that these observations apply in their full force only to the larger table, laid before the Conferences, and which contains all the items included in the blank that is issued to the churches. In the Minutes we are only able to publish a condensed form of this table, giving the aggregate of the general causes but not the amounts contributed to the several societies. Perhaps a better plan may be devised for next year. The Report of the Suffolk North Conference submits the following Observations upon the Larger Table:—

“ 1. It shows how some of the best causes are neglected in this Conference. Only four churches gave anything to the Education Society; only three to our Publication Society; only four to the Work in Papal Lands; only two to the Bible cause.

“ 2. The gifts to Home Societies, taken together, are but a trifle larger than to the several branches of Foreign Missions.

“3. There is an inequality in the returns, growing out of the omission of some churches to return the value of missionary boxes, often quite large.

“4. The contributions to Local Missions appear to be larger than to Home Missions.

“5. The sums reported under the head of General Expenses, nearly $50,000, suggest one reason why the charities are not larger. A considerable part of this amount represents payments upon debts on buildings and repairs.

“6. The churches which employ the method of Systematic Giving and the Weekly Offerings give the largest sums, and with the most equitable distribution.

“7. The advance made by nearly every church is not the least encouraging feature of these returns. Only two churches fall below the amounts of last year, and this on account of extraordinary expenses in building and repairs.”

Such, for substance, are the views of the committee of that Conference. We submit that a similar analysis, once a year, in all our Conferences would do good. Nearly all the Conferences have manifested a readiness to come into this plan. May we not hope that, next year, we may be able to print complete returns?

The Essex South Conference is the only one from which nothing in the shape of a General Narrative has been received. From this, a few churches, however, make reports of payments and charities. So large a number of Conferences have never before reported in one year.

ANDOVER CONFERENCE.

CONTRIBUTIONS. The reports are unanimous in praise of “Systematic Giving,” — where it has been tried, — and the result is uniformly a large increase.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOLS show a gain of 209, divided among nine schools. One school reports that special pains have been taken to induce each teacher to labor directly for the immediate conversion of the scholars. The First Church, Lowell, reports : No concerts, but a sermon by the pastor instead ; and nearly all the conversions in the Sunday School. In the Kirk Street School, on the other hand, much attention has been given to concerts ; and “ many of their exercises, if common report may be trusted, would be worthy of a place in any pulpit.” The Methuen School has gained 131. Several others speak of interesting concerts, of growth and of endeavors after greater spiritual power.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE in several of the churches have been sustaining excellent prayer-meetings. From one church we learn that the experience of the year “ proves to satisfaction : (1). That the responsibility of sustaining a prayer-meeting can at once be thrown upon young converts. (2). That such meetings do not require much formal leading, an inexperienced leader often succeeding best. (3). That the old standard hymns are the best."

CHURCH WORK. The West Andover Church sustains meetings in two out-districts. An attempt is making at Ballardvale, to bring in the neglecting families. The Seminary Students have assisted churches in maintaining several Sunday Schools and prayer-meetings. The ladies of the Central Church, Lawrence, have accomplished a work of systematic visitation. The Kirk Street Church, Lowell, has kept up religious services at Middlesex Village, through the year, "with frequent preaching by the pastor, the school-house being filled every Sabbath. Never before has this church taken hold of such work so earnestly. Much time and money are spent monthly in seeking out the poor and relieving their wants, many of whom have been brought into the Sabbath School and to church. Since the commencement of the present year a lady has been engaged to assist the pastor in this work, in effect renewing the ancient office of deaconess. Enlistment cards have also been issued to the church, drawing forth responses from nearly all the members, who, under the lead of appropriate committees, have gone forth to labor, with cheering signs of cordial co-operation. Thus the whole work has been greatly simplified.

The Methuen Church, also, has just organized an efficient work in an out-district, and reports other districts that ought to be occupied.

At North Andover, likewise, special efforts have been put forth in behalf of the neglecting classes, which are quite numerous.

In Lawrence, the question is pressing itself upon the minds of good people, whether the evangelical churches are quite keeping pace with the growth of the population. In Lowell, the churches were never more prosperous; the audiences are full, the Sunday Schools never larger and never doing more to promote a knowledge of the Bible; the branch Sunday Schools are carried on with vigor and earnestness. The Christian Association, also, has developed new effectiveness. Through its instrumentality fields of labor have been reached that otherwise would have been neglected; the services of a City Missionary have added to its usefulness. Through his ministrations Sabbath evening meetings have been held on the Common and in the Railroad Station, and persons have been secured from the various churches to conduct meetings in neighboring towns. A religious canvass of the city, in connection with a distribution of the Scriptures, is now in progress, which for "minuteness of discovery" has never been equalled.

TEMPERANCE. At Ballardvale, special pains are taken to instruct and to enlist the young in good habits and principles. At Chelmsford, stirring sermons have been preached, and the feeling prevails that this great cause must permanently take a front rank. At the South Church, Lawrence, the pastor has preached, special meetings have been held, the children have been instructed, and the church has adopted the use of the "unfermented fruit of the vine" for the communion. In Kirk Street, Lowell, pledges have been circulated in the Sunday School, and particular pains have been taken to give to the young correct ruling ideas concerning what is manly and womanly, the true ideal of life. In Methuen, mass meetings were held every month through the winter; a monthly praise-meeting is believed to have been greatly blessed, and considerable activity prevails. At North Andover, sermons have been preached upon temperance, eminent lecturers have been employed, and the subject is kept before the people. In Tewksbury, work for temperance is viewed as a part of the regular work of the church, not a separate interest.

REVIVALS. A powerful work of grace was experienced, a year ago, in Phillips Academy, resulting in about fifty conversions. It began in the prayer-meeting. The theological students rendered valuable aid. In Lawrence, a religious interest commenced in the fall of 1874, which developed into a precious work of grace, carried on by the evangelical churches in union. In the South Church, the week of prayer was a beginning of good things; meetings were held for several weeks, the influence of which was most marked upon the young men and those of middle age. The conversions were of an interesting character and the converts have become active workers. In the Kirk Street Church, Lowell, a quiet but genuine work has been enjoyed. For five weeks, the pastor preached five nights a week. Thirty-three persons have been added to the church. At Tyngsborough and North Chelmsford, the churches have been blessed with a season of precious interest. At the former place, the Week of Prayer grew into a month of prayer, and the conversions have greatly strengthened the church. At both places the Christian Association of Lowell rendered valuable help. Upon the whole, this Conference may well thank God and take courage.

BARNSTABLE CONFERENCE.

The churches of this Conference appear to have enjoyed no unusual prosperity during the past year. One of them, at Harwich, has been passing through severe trials, which have resulted in the withdrawal of the church (we hope only for a time) from its ecclesiastical society. Other churches are suffering from pecuniary weakness. At Hyannis, where, a year or two ago, the signs of promise were so encouraging, there was no regular preaching during 1874. Since the present year began, however, services have been resumed. One of these feeble churches has set an example worthy of imitation. At Truro, on the 29th of December last, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the settlement of Rev. Edward W. Noble over that church was celebrated with much interest. A large audience, representing nearly all the churches of the Conference, was in attendance, and a "testimonial of $300, from old parishioners and other friends," was presented to the pastor. Barnstable County suffers much from frequent changes in the pastorate. Unless the evil can be remedied, we cannot expect a really successful prosecution of Christian work.

REVIVALS. The church at Centerville is in the habit of holding a young people's meeting after the regular service of Sunday afternoon. This has been greatly blessed, having been the starting-point of a revival, in which "some very precious fruit was gathered." Here, also, the Home Prayer Meeting proved, "in an especial manner," a most valuable instrumentality. "The religious tendencies of the community are very plainly towards that unsectarian spirit which recognizes Christ alone as the one test of true religion, the only bond of real brotherhood." A revival of considerable power was also enjoyed at South Dennis, in connection with a visit of the State Committee of the Christian Association. The whole congregation was much moved; about fifteen persons were led to the Saviour; and a much larger ingathering, it is thought, might have been received but for the lack of a pastor. At Wellfleet, also, considerable interest prevailed during the winter, and there were several conversions; the state of religion is encouraging. The same may be said of the little church at West Yarmouth, which, last year, reported only fourteen numbers, but has received five additions.

ENCOURAGING SIGNS. The Sunday Schools appear to be vigorous. The church at Yarmouth has paid its debt. Orleans reports four hopeful conversions among the pupils of its Sabbath School. Provincetown is enjoying its remodelled meeting-house and a largely increased attendance. The church at Chatham has been paying debts and making repairs. Other churches are prosecuting their work with hopefulness.

Upon the whole, there seems to be a call and an encouragement for such earnest and united prayer as shall secure to these churches that power of the Holy Ghost which alone gives the enthusiasm, unity, and permanency necessary to a satisfying success.

BERKSHIRE NORTH CONFERENCE.

The following Report has been received from the committee of this Conference:—

GENERAL CONVENTION. "Many of the churches are without pastors, and some are almost extinct. The time has fully come for efficient home missionary work; and for the plan, which is being adopted elsewhere, of combining two or more churches under one minister. Thus far this plan has not been accepted by any of these churches; but the Committee on the Work of the Churches can see no other practicable method of meeting the necessities of the case. In these smaller churches the committee can report much faithful work on the part of the membership; but as a whole, there has been little calling for special mention."

PROGRESS. A few of the churches report decided progress. The First Church, Williamstown, that "the weekly worship of God by offerings, as a special feature of the Sabbath morning service, has resulted in more than doubling our benevolent contributions, and gives promise of better things in the future." "The ladies of this church and congregation deserve special mention for their untiring faithfulness in cultivating the social elements of the congregation and enlivening our worship with floral decorations." "Fourteen have united with the church from the Sabbath School during the year."

Hinsdale reports, "While there has not been a profound, yet there has been what might be termed a constant, religious interest. Quite a number of persons have been hopefully renewed within the year under the ordinary ministrations of the gospel. Conversions have occurred, not only among the young, but from those in middle life also. A new effort has been made, in the appointment of persons in the several districts to have special charge of the religious interests of those districts, to visit new-comers and invite them to church, and to do all in their power for bringing the gospel to all within their respective fields. Some good, we believe, has been done through this instrumentality. A Young People's Association, formed for religious, mental, and social improvement, has kindled an unlooked-for interest, and proved a marked success in every respect. We expect from it the best results. The church has lost an unusual number by removals from town, but the heart of those remaining is still hopeful. Slowly, but we trust, surely, the sense of personal responsibility is deepening, and there seems to be a growing desire to bring the gospel to all within the normal limits of the parish. The charities of the church are creditable to it."

The First Church, Pittsfield, records "steady increase in church membership, but no general awakening. The parish is divided into fifteen districts, each under the care of a leader,—a system which works well."

"The South Church, Pittsfield, also has had a steady increase in church membership, and a prosperous year. This church, at the time of preparing the present Report, is mourning over the removal to another field of labor of their much-loved pastor, Rev. Thomas Crowther, whose pastorate of three years has been signally blessed."

The largest increase during the year 1874 has been in the church at North Adams. One hundred and sixty-two were added to this church; of whom one hundred and thirty-six were received on profession of their faith for the first time. Of this number, seventy-two were heads of families, and one hundred and twenty-six were adults. Besides this number received to full membership, twenty-five infants were received by baptism, making the whole number taken within the fold of the church, in the year, one hundred and eighty-seven.

The membership of the church now stands on the roll five hundred and twenty; of which number thirty-five were reckoned as absentees at the beginning of 1875. The church prayer-meeting has increased, within the past two years, more than four-fold; so that now two hundred and more is not an unusual attendance.

The *Neighborhood Organization has been maintained, and has proved an efficient means of promoting church growth. The contributions to benevolent purposes have been taken up in weekly offerings at the Sunday morning service, and have steadily increased.

During the religious interest of the past year, the church has been encouraged to steady and persistent activity, instead of spasmodic excitement. In the arrangement of meetings, regard has been had to plans that could be continuously maintained year after year. The work has been individualized. Responsibility has not been laid upon "the church" or upon "the meetings," but upon the individuals in the church. The work has been done hopefully. The thought has been, "It is the Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom."

Signs of good still appear on every side, and not a communion has occurred for three years without several additions to the membership.

BERKSHIRE SOUTH CONFERENCE.

The statistics from this Conference, which last year were complete, are very imperfect. "The action of the General Association (in declining to print), observes the committee, has made it impossible to get returns. Only eight out of our twenty churches have sent them in." But what is lacking this year in figures, is made up in the narrative of revivals and church work, which is of exceeding interest.

REVIVALS AND CHURCH WORK. Otis. — Just about a year ago a remarkable work of grace began in Otis. In a community wholly composed of farmers, meetings were held daily, all through the busy season of the year. The attendance was large and the interest very deep. The special interest began in connection with the labors, from house to house, of "Uncle John Vassar," a lay missionary of the American Tract Society, N. Y. The results may be briefly summed up as including a most marked and permanent change in the whole spirit, appearance, and conduct of the people, which, says the pastor, cannot be overestimated. The active membership of the church has been nearly doubled in numbers and more than quadrupled in working power.

Sandisfield, to which place the work spread from Otis, has also been revived. The new church at New Boston is placed upon a permanent and self-supporting basis, and the old church at the Centre is strengthened.

Mill River reports about thirty hopeful conversions. Twenty-four persons have already united with the church. The afternoon service has been discontinued, giving more time to the Sabbath School, which is largely increased. In the evening, preaching services are held in out-districts.

Southfield has experienced a quickening. There have been several conversions, and the church is stronger and full of hope. The same may be said of New Marlborough and Alford.

Stockbridge is taking special care of its out-districts, sustaining Sunday Schools, and giving up its pastor to them on Sabbath evenings.

Sheffield reports much interest during the past winter. There have been some remarkable conversions. Permanent results are hoped for. The Sabbath services and the Sunday School are better attended.

At Housatonic the same is true. The pastor reports, "Everything seems very hopeful." This church has adopted the plan of weekly offerings for benevolent purposes, with very gratifying results.

Mount Washington.—In this town, containing a scattered population of but two hundred and fifty persons, a Sabbath School has been constantly sustained for two years past. During the summer they have been supplied with preaching, and a small church was organized there last fall.

Lee reports prayer-meetings in two out-districts, but not so fully sustained as is desirable. Distance from church deadens religious interest, and people get into a state of apathy. The Sunday School is well sustained. Its concerts are full, and taken up with recitals of Scripture and addresses by the teachers. Forty conversions the past year. There was a revival during the winter and spring,—a gradual, still work. It began with the Week of Prayer. There were no laborers in it from without the church. Sixty-five persons have joined the church, on confession, twenty of them young men.

The pastor has two classes under his special instruction. The first a Catechetical Class, composed of boys and girls from ten to fifteen years old, and meeting once a fortnight at the parsonage. It has over forty members,—more boys than girls; and a number of them seem to have really entered on the Christian life. Then there is a Bible Class of young ladies, which engages in the study of doctrines and duties, from printed lesson-papers prepared by the pastor. Most of this class are communicants.

The Young Men have a prayer-meeting, held on Sunday evening, just before the service. This is attended by about forty. The pastor is sometimes present.

On the whole, this has been a very happy year for this church, and one of the most fruitful. About twenty persons are expected soon to join it.

Monterey has also shared in the heavenly blessing. For a number of years this church has kept up a systematic visitation of every family in the parish. It has also maintained a Friday afternoon prayer-meeting; and business is never so pressing as to interrupt it.

An evangelist began laboring in October. Helpers came in from neighboring towns that had enjoyed revivals. The people were greatly moved. Wednesday, the 21st of October, was observed as a day of fasting and prayer; and long will it be remembered, for the melting of hearts and the coming forward for prayers. "It seemed as if none of us could leave the room until we had taken each other by the hand." Of members of the Sunday School, over thirty were hopefully converted, and nearly or quite as many more were very thoughtful. The whole number of those who seemed to turn to the Lord is estimated at not less than one hundred, of all ages, from the man of seventy, to the child of tender years.

A Class Meeting has been formed, where "topics of Christian faith," previously given out, are familiarly considered, Bible in hand, with prayer and singing. "If any have peculiar temptations, or come into darkness, it is in order to let it be known at these meetings." The class meets every week.

The Sunday School is attended by persons of all ages. "Prayer and faithful effort on the part of teachers have been blessed." Some "whole classes are hoping in Christ."

BROOKFIELD CONFERENCE.

The committee of the Conference make the following statement:—

THE CHURCHES. "Twenty-one churches nominally constitute the Brookfield Conference, but of these Dana has not had regular Sabbath services during the past year."

"The Union Church of North Brookfield has worshipped, most of the year, with the First Church, and their Sabbath Schools have been merged into one, though there has been no formal union of the two churches."

"All the other churches but one are supplied with pastors or acting pastors; and that one—West Brookfield—does not seem in the way of being supplied at once,—which is the more to be regretted as it is one of the largest in the Conference and abundantly able to support a pastor. Some of the churches in the hill towns are mourning the depletion of their numbers, and the decrease of their pecuniary resources by removals. With these exceptions the churches of the Conference have, during the year, enjoyed a fair degree of prosperity."

CHURCH BUILDING. "The First Church in North Brookfield has remodelled its house of worship and procured an organ at a cost of $15,000, not only without incurring any debt but with a surplus of $2,000 in its treasury. Its pews are all let; and, better still, a good degree of religious prosperity has been enjoyed, though without any general revival."

"The church in Warren, whose house was destroyed by fire, have a fine edifice nearly completed, which will also be paid for when it is finished. The beautiful stone church at Gilbertville has been dedicated since the last meeting of Conference and given to the Society through the munificence of the late Hon. George H. Gilbert and his successors in business. The churches in Dana, Hardwick, Southbridge, Warren, and the First Church in Ware, report more than usual religious interest, with some conversions in each."

THE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION. "The Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association have visited several of the churches during the year with acceptance to the pastors and the people in all cases, so far as we are aware; and in some, with good apparent results."

GIVING. "The various causes of Christian benevolence have been well sustained, especially if we take into account the depression of business; some of the churches where this depression has been greatest keeping up to, or going beyond, the standard of former years. If the church which has given more than any other one in the Conference had only contributed a proportion of the net income of its members for the year, its gifts would probably have been a minus quantity; and yet its contributions have amounted to more than $4,000, — a fact which suggests the inquiry whether the rule of 'proportionate giving,' by which is meant giving a certain part of one's income, is compatible with the prosperity or even the existence of our benevolent societies."

"It would seem that the Jewish law of tithes, or any law based upon a like principle, cannot be adopted by us in these days. The New Testament rule, of laying by as God has prospered us, is quite another thing, and may well be followed; for it is prosperity, in times of financial embarrassment, for a man not to lose his property; and he may give according to his present ability even though his ledger shows a loss instead of a gain."

TEMPERANCE. "It is not easy to say whether the cause of temperance is, on the whole, gaining or losing ground. Some places are making increased effort for the suppression of intemperance, while others are not. Few temperance men are expecting any good results from the new license law; and perhaps most are coming to feel that, though wholesome laws are desirable, yet it would be wise to rely less upon legislative, and more upon moral and religious, influences than we have in past years."

"The churches in this Conference are trying to cultivate the neglected portions of the vineyard by sustaining religious services in out-districts. The West Church of Ware has one such station; the church in Spencer, one; and the church in Barre, four."

"ROMANISM is making rapid strides among us; not by converts, but by the influx of foreigners. If its adherents were all citizens, in some of our largest villages they would be able to outvote the American population. It would seem as though God in His providence was bringing the two great antagonistic forms of belief that prevail in Christendom into such contact that the issues between them cannot be avoided."

"Shall we shrink from meeting these issues, or have any doubt as to the result when they are fairly met? If there is encouragement to send men to Spain, to Austria, and Mexico, to recover papists from their errors, how much more here, where we have an open Bible, schools, institutions of every kind, imbued with the spirit of Protestantism."

"There are, doubtless, serious difficulties in our way; but in this, as in all the service to which we are called by the Master, we shall find the truth of the Divine promise, — 'According to your faith be it unto you.'"

ESSEX NORTH CONFERENCE.

The statistical returns of this Conference are ordinarily complete; but owing to some unexplained cause they have not been gathered this year, though we have reason to expect them hereafter as usual.

GENERAL CONDITION. The churches have enjoyed a good measure of general prosperity. The contributions in several instances were increased, in spite of the hard times; the Sunday Schools are full and interested, and in various quarters are signs of progress.

Two exceptions only occur. For a part of the year two houses of worship were closed, — the one in Rowley, and the one in the first parish of West Newbury, — facts difficult to explain.

A PLEASANT RECORD has been made by the church at Amesbury Mills. The meeting-house has been repaired and adorned, and the Spirit of the Lord has bestowed his blessing. Conversions have occurred; and twenty persons have been added to the membership. In West Amesbury, the contributions have been increased, and the system of church work has been kept up. The parish of this church has been divided into twelve districts. Work is prosecuted with method and energy. In the Union Church of Amesbury and Salisbury, there has been a considerable increase of religious interest. In West

Boxford, a parsonage is nearly completed; and contributions are larger. In Bradford, the system of work has been steadily maintained; the branch work has been successfully prosecuted; and a children's "Bee Hive" has raised several hundred dollars for the West. Georgetown (First Church) has completed a commodious and handsome church, and secured a subscription for its whole debt. West Haverhill again reports a renovation of its meeting-house and a new chapel, with general encouragements. The Fourth Church, Haverhill, reports "organized Christian work" and a helpful visit from members of a Christian Association. The Center Church, of the same city, having made experiment of a new order of services, has returned to the old. It shared in the general interest which pervaded the community at the beginning of the year. At the same time the North Church was greatly blessed. The power of the Holy Ghost was manifested, especially among the young people of the Sunday School. Several heads of families, with nearly every member of some of the classes, were brought into the kingdom of God. As a result, forty-one united with the church, and others are expected to join. There is an increased attendance at the prayer-meeting and a desire to render the Sunday School more effective.

The First Church, Ipswich, has also enjoyed an outpouring of the Spirit. The annual church fast, on the first Monday of the year, was a season of peculiar tenderness. The interest deepened; some persons spent whole nights in prayer. There was earnest repentance, agonizing prayer, active labor. A visit from the Young Men's Christian Association, of Salem, was received. Neighboring pastors assisted. Mr. Henry F. Durant labored for one week. "The revival penetrated the whole town, shaking it to the very centre. Never was there so much open opposition: infidel tracts were distributed, but all in vain. Large numbers were deeply impressed, and there were about forty hopeful conversions. Thirty-five persons have already united with the church; many of the converts were heads of families, and some, old men of threescore and ten. Whole families, parents and children, came together. In the First Church and in the Byfield Church, Newbury, early in the year, much interest prevailed, with some conversions. The churches of Newburyport have encouraging things to speak of. The North Church, with its new pastor, is taking on fresh hope. The Whitefield Church, upon the first day and upon the first Sabbath of the present year, celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. The church was constituted on January 1, 1850, with twenty members. The whole number admitted is 367; by letter, 172; on profession, 195,—an annual average of between 14 and 15. The largest number received in any year was 59, in 1858.

Early in 1874 there was apparent a growing earnestness and spirituality in the church; the interest spread among the congregation, and a number of persons became active and decided as Christians, nine of whom have joined the church. During the past year a Young Men's Christian Association has been organized in this city, and has performed a large amount of active labor. The Second Church, West Newbury, reports an increasing attendance, and a new activity of Christian women, who are taking part in meetings, and have made the Monthly Concert "one of the largest and the most interesting of all the social meetings."

Upon the whole, the year must be pronounced to have been, for this Conference, one of pleasant and healthful growth.

FRANKLIN CONFERENCE.

Twenty-two churches have reported this year. Seventeen report the number of their families, as follows: Bernardston, 40; Charlemont, 55; Charlemont, East, 50; Coleraine, 60; Conway, 140; South Deerfield, 163; Erving, 40; Greenfield, 1st, 50; Hawley, East, 35; Hawley, West, 55; Montague, 126; Miller's Falls, 53; Shelburne, 73; Shelburne Falls, 150; Sunderland, 109; Warwick, 42; Wendell, 40, — a statement which clearly illustrates the condition of the "hill country."

One new church has been organized at Turner's Falls, and was recognized by a Council, May 4th, of the present year.

REGULAR SERVICES. Six churches hold but one full service on the Sabbath, to wit: those in Bernardston, Deerfield, East Hawley, Montague, Miller's Falls, and Warwick. The Second Church in Greenfield and the church in Shelburne Falls have their second service in the evening. All the others follow the old custom.

OTHER MEETINGS. A number of the churches, if not all, have come into the habit of introducing considerable variety into the mode of conducting evening meetings. For example, we hear from Ashfield of praise-meetings, and of "alternate readings" of passages from the Bible and choice selections of religious poetry; in Charlemont, an evening is given up, sometimes to prayer and conference, and sometimes to Bible-reading, to a promise-meeting or praise-meeting; in East Charlemont, the Sabbath evening is set apart to the Monthly Concert, to a Bible-reading, a praise-meeting, or prayer-meeting; and it is very much the same in Coleraine, where, also, once in two months the Sunday-School concert takes the place of the afternoon service. In Conway, the value of the Sabbath evening meeting has been largely increased, for the time, by encouraging the young people to bring their Bibles and to join in reading the passages chosen for consideration. From Montague, again, we hear of the same variety, with the addition of experience meetings. Warwick makes mention of the praise-meeting; and West Hawley, of a Fellowship meeting, well attended.

CHURCH WORK, OUT-DISTRICTS. The reports from the churches give less indication of energy in Christian work than could be desired. The Bernardston church notes the fact that its women are beginning to assist in the prayer-meetings, both speaking and praying. The church in Charlemont holds a branch Sunday School during the summer months in Bozrah. At Zoar, in the same town, there is a Union Sunday School; as also, in Coleraine, at Christian Hill, and at Shattuckville, with occasional preaching. The Conway church has nine outposts, in each of which a weekly meeting is held by the Young Men's Christian Association. Similar meetings are held in four places by delegations of young men connected with the Montague church; and a little work is bestowed on Brush Valley by the pastor of the church in Warwick. The church in Heath has been left for months without a pastor, but is still hopeful, and expecting soon to welcome a devoted and earnest worker, who, since this Report was commenced, has entered upon his labors. There is no report of anything done for Rowe or Monroe, towns containing no Congregational church, but for which the pastor of Heath has hitherto secured Sunday Schools and prayer-meetings for a part of the year. Upon the whole, the work in out-districts appears to the committee of the Conference to be lacking in confidence and in definiteness of plan.

The SUNDAY SCHOOLS seem to be in good condition. That in Ashfield has been blessed with seven conversions.

The TEMPERANCE cause receives some attention. In Charlemont a Good Templar's Lodge is endeavoring to educate the young in right principles, and in Erving a similar organization "is doing effective service." In Warwick most of the Sunday-School scholars have taken the pledge.

REVIVALS. Considerable religious interest prevailed in Conway in the spring of 1874, and seven persons, all under twenty, were received into the church. At Miller's Falls a season of refreshing grew out of the week of prayer, and about a score of young people found Christ, sixteen of whom have been received to the church, and blessed effects still continue. In Sunderland a renewal of spiritual interest began to show itself in December, and before the month ended six persons were hoping in Christ. Since the 1st of January, 1875, seasons of refreshing have been enjoyed in Ashfield, Coleraine, West Hawley, Heath, and Sunderland.

HAMPDEN CONFERENCE.

REVIVALS. The churches of this Conference have, in general, been encouraged by evident tokens of the Spirit's abiding presence. Tolland and East Granville have received refreshing showers of Divine grace; East Longmeadow, the First and Olivet Churches in Springfield, have been greatly quickened, and in South Hadley Falls there has been a signal and powerful revival. "We are happy to say," adds the report from which we copy, "that the emotional and spasmodic type of piety which formerly depended almost solely on revivals, with unhappy intervals of spiritual dearth, has been gradually giving way to a more constant sense of responsibility and a heartier faith."

PARSONAGES AND CHURCH BUILDINGS. The Conference is, in general, well furnished in these respects, but Blandford reports a new parsonage; Chester Centre, Feeding Hills, and Indian Orchard, important church repairs. The South Church, in Springfield, have built, in a new and central location, a very elegant and costly house of worship; and the First Church in Longmeadow have reconstructed their ancient meeting-house in a thorough and beautiful manner, making other important improvements. The First Church in Springfield have completed a beautiful and commodious chapel, specially adapted to the stated Sabbath afternoon service, at a cost of about $35,000.

SYSTEMATIC BENEVOLENCE. The system of Reports of Charities in this conference is far more complete and laborious than any in use in any other part of the State. The last returns show a gratifying increase, from $31,545.21, for 1873, to $49,682.66, for 1874.

"The plan of Weekly Offerings is quite successful in some of the churches. The First Church in Westfield, however, finds the system working badly for its charities, though well for its expenses. The First Church in Longmeadow has proved, by an unvarying success for more than forty years, the efficiency of a 'Parish Benevolent Association,' which appoints annually male and female collectors, who go their regular monthly rounds for appointed objects."

During the past year "The Hampden County Branch of the Woman's Board of Missions" has been organized, embracing twenty auxiliary societies, and on the twenty-fourth of November had received $1,679.76. For other purposes the women of the First Church, Springfield, in addition to their arduous work of visitation, have raised over $2,500. The "little girls" in the Second Church, Holyoke, have been formed into a band of "Merry Workers," for the cultivation of a missionary interest, and have agreed to give two cents a week. From the Second Church in Westfield, also, we hear that the girls of the congregation have organized themselves into an industrial guild for missionary and benevolent purposes.

SABBATH SCHOOLS. The spiritual efficiency of Sunday Schools is on the increase, mainly through the more thorough study of the Bible, occasioned by the uniform lessons and the helps and incentives therewith connected. The schools are also becoming more thoroughly identified with the churches as corporate and recognized parts of the church organization and life. In the majority of cases the schools are under the control of and responsible to the church.

Several Branch schools have been formed during the year, specially interesting in rural parishes, like Monson and Wilbraham. In the latter place a public conveyance, free to all who wish to attend the morning services and Sabbath School, runs regularly, at the expense of members of the church. In the First and Olivet churches, Springfield, the Bible Service has proved, on long and thorough trial, greatly successful. "These are decidedly conspicuous amongst our most active and earnest churches." In the latter church this service occupies the morning, and is followed by a prayer-meeting of twenty minutes, which has been greatly enjoyed. Five sixths of the recent admissions to the church have been from the regular attendants upon the Bible Service.

"OTHER METHODS. Our churches present to the annual meeting of Hampden Conference written Reports, carefully prepared and condensed, as the preliminary business of the session, which occupied two days. These Reports give the annual history of each church, its methods, failures or successes, statistics, and whatever has been peculiar to its experience for the year, with a view to publication and preservation in the forthcoming pamphlet of ANNUAL REPORTS OF THE CONFERENCE AND THE BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION. We thus make up a history from year to year, of present and permanent value."

A Committee on Church Fellowship, "to suggest or receive suggestions, and arrange for church visitations, local Conferences, and other measures for more efficient co-operation and fellowship in our common work," has proved greatly useful. To illustrate: The church in Chester Centre say in their annual report: "We were encouraged and helped by the visit of the Committee of Conference." And the church in Tolland say: "In the month of August several brethren visited us and meetings were held afternoon and evening. Their words of sympathy and encouragement seemed to awaken new life, and stimulated Christians to greater earnestness and more importunate and prevailing prayer." Among the good results of this quickening, as it increased, were "the reclaiming of backsliders and restoring them to their first love; and the hopeful conversion of thirty or more."

"Lay Workers and Neighborhood or Household Prayer-Meetings. To illustrate this lay work. A member of the Olivet Church, Springfield, who had himself been instrumental in establishing a Sabbath School in a neglected hill district, while summering at Blandford, and had become personally aware of the religious wants of that region, employed Bro. John Vassar, the veteran colporteur of the American Tract Society, at his private expense, by arrangement with the Society, to be a lay visitor, going from house to house and holding prayer-meetings wherever opportunity offered. The results were of great spiritual value.* Though at first appearances were extremely discouraging, a revival spirit was kindled which went far abroad among those hill towns. One church reports, 'Especially would we express our gratitude for the faithful and earnest labors of Bro. John Vassar,' also mentioning other helpers."

* See Report of Berkshire South Conference.

"This simple method, of Household prayer-meetings, this going out as the original disciples did, two by two, entering into this or that house with the Gospel greeting, 'Peace be to this house,' inviting ourselves in the Master's name, carrying His love in winning and homely friendliness to those who will not come to seek it, is one of the most genuine and powerful, as well as simple and natural, methods of Christian work. A man of average good sense, a good earnest spirit, and accompanied, if possible, by two or three persons who know how to sing as well as pray, can be useful almost anywhere, but especially in indifferent or neglecting households."

"Woman's Work in the Church. The Second Church in Westfield say: "We have appointed as a permanent committee of the church a "Woman's Committee of Relief and Counsel." They are chosen for three years at the annual church meeting, and are expected to supplement the work of the deacons by the special care of the sick and needy among the women and children of the congregation.'"

"The First Church in Springfield divides the parish into thirty districts, which are apportioned to thirty women, chosen from among those willing to 'labor in the Gospel.' They aim to visit all the families in their several districts, to whom they may find reasonable and friendly access, once in three months, paying special attention to the stranger, the poor, the aged, and the children, and informing the pastor of all cases requiring his personal attention."

"Social Culture. Our mission chapels, vigorously enlisting the young blood and warm hearts, not yet stiffened by habit and caste and conventionalities, and not partitioned off by pews, have indirectly become the happiest centres of social as well as religious culture. As to methods, our churches are learning to adapt themselves to human nature in its varied wants and circumstances. For instance, the First Church in West Springfield, representing an old rural parish, say: 'During the past winter a reading club, comprising most of the young people, many of those in middle life, and a few of the old, met once in two weeks. This meeting was so well sustained, and such improvement was made, not only intellectually but socially, and it is hoped religiously, that the formation of such societies generally, especially in the rural districts, that are, as a rule, debarred from the privilege of attending public readings and lectures, is warmly advocated. . . . An interesting feature of some of our Sunday evening prayer-meetings has been their being held at private residences, and the reading of brief religious articles and extracts; for instance, from Dr. Spencer's 'Pastor's Sketches,' or 'Pilgrim's Progress,' or the 'Holy War.'"

“In another rural parish, Monson,—where the villagers and the farmers had been socially too much apart,—since the new church was finished, with its sensible, social conveniences, ‘the ladies have had a series of ‘sociables’ in its parlors, which have been very attractive and secured good results, already apparent.’”

HAMPSHIRE CONFERENCE.

The committee of this Conference furnishes the following Report:—

“Externally the churches of Hampshire Conference are in good condition. All the towns are supplied with sanctuaries which the people can attend without special inconvenience, and there are no neighborhoods of any extent that are made up of neglecters.”

“Ten churches have pastors, six have acting pastors, and only two are vacant. The houses of worship are in good condition, and in general the ministers are provided with commodious and pleasant parsonages.”

THE CHURCHES. “The churches of Williamsburg and Haydenville, which suffered so severely in the Mill River flood last year, have rallied nobly, and are beginning to rejoice in returning prosperity. At Leeds, where the chapel was swept away, the Sunday School has been maintained in the railroad station. Several hundred dollars have already been raised, and the people are confidently looking forward to the time when they shall have a new sanctuary. The neighborhood of West Farms, in Northampton, has been for several years supplied by a faithful lay preacher, Mr. W. D. Clapp, of Northampton, and at the chapel at Hospital Hill, services are held every Sabbath, conducted frequently by laymen.”

“Within the Conference, there has been a good degree of religious interest. During the year nearly two hundred have been added to the churches by profession. In Southampton, there is much religious activity and many of the youth have been reached. Nearly forty additions to the church are reported. In Westhampton, the church has been enlarged and strengthened by the accession of about forty new members; and self-sustaining meetings are now held in the different neighborhoods. In Easthampton, the prayer-meetings are full of interest, in both the churches, and many conversions are reported. In Goshen, the people were greatly moved during the winter on the subject of temperance, and that awakening has been followed by a revival of religion which promises to add much to the strength of the church.” In Cummington, a very interesting revival has been in progress during the year, and already between thirty and forty have joined the church, many of them heads of families. Self-sustaining meetings have been held at Swift River village.

SERVICES. The churches generally adhere to the old custom, and have services morning and afternoon with Sunday School sandwiched between them and a prayer-meeting in the evening. Some of them omit the second service during the hot weather. The Edwards Church, Northampton, has services morning and evening, and the church in Florence has had no afternoon service for two or three years. They have preaching in the morning, followed by Sunday School, and a prayer-meeting in the evening, and they like it.

HAMPSHIRE EAST CONFERENCE SERVICES.

The committee have forwarded the following Report:—

“Nearly all the churches have the preaching services on the Sabbath except during the months of July and August, the second service, in some instances, being held in the evening. The conviction is growing, however, that one sermon, in each Sabbath, would be wiser and better. Singing is filling a larger and larger place in the social meetings; such meetings are becoming less formal, more conversational and familiar, the true idea of the prayer-meeting being better understood and appreciated.”

“More rather than less interest is taken in the Sunday School. Its ‘concert’ is made a religious meeting, and is very fully attended. Almost or quite universally, the schools use the ‘Uniform Lessons.’”

“Out-Districts are few. In some of the parishes there are none. Where they exist, something is done—for most or all in the way of both preaching and social meetings. Union District in Belchertown has, at times, had a Sunday School sustained by students from Amherst College. A district prayer-meeting is held occasionally. A few of the people attend public worship at the Centre, but more hear preaching but seldom. More effort is to be made for their good this summer. Greenwich Village has had preaching somewhat during the year by the pastor at Greenwich, and social meetings quite frequently.”

REVIVALS. “A few of the churches have enjoyed the special presence of the Spirit. The church in Belchertown was so blessed a year or more ago, fourteen persons having been added to it by profession. The churches in Granby, South Hadley, and South Hadley Falls have been greatly quickened since the opening of the present year. Those in Granby and South Hadley have already received about thirty each to their membership, and are expecting yet other additions. The work was powerful at South Hadley Falls, both the Congregational church and the Methodist sharing in it; probably from eighty to ninety have been hopefully converted. In connection with the old church, forty or more have expressed hope in Christ, many of whom are expected to join its communion on the first Sabbath in July. The interest began with the Week of Prayer, but was extended and deepened by the canvass of the State Committee of the Young Men’s Christian Association. The subjects of the work are mainly among the young, though not confined to this class."

"A few of the churches have taken up Christian working and Christian giving, systematically, and therefore more successfully in all respects."

"Considerable influence is felt, in some part of the Conference, in the cause of temperance. Some of the pastors have preached special sermons upon the subject. From present appearances, under the working of the new law, there will be a louder call yet before the summer is ended, for temperance work."

"The religious tendencies of our communities are mainly in the direction of evangelical Christianity, there being very few unevangelical pulpits or organizations."

"On the whole, the general state of religion and morals remains much as it has been heretofore. It will compare favorably, we suppose, with that of any other part of our Commonwealth."

MENDON CONFERENCE.

The statistical returns from the churches of this Conference are complete, but the reports of work are, in general, meager.

SERVICES. Few of the churches have departed from the established order of morning and afternoon service, with a devotional meeting in the evening. Only one reports preaching in the evening.

The SUNDAY SCHOOLS are all in a prosperous condition.

OUT-DISTRICTS. These, so far as reported, are cared for with very praiseworthy energy. Norfolk City Mills has been brought under the wing of the Home Missionary Society, the minister at Norfolk looking after this place and Feltonville. A good attendance is reported, both at the preaching services and at the Sunday School. At East Foxborough, the new chapel is paid for; the Sunday School is regularly kept up; and four pastors of the neighborhood unite in maintaining an afternoon preaching service. In South Foxborough, a Sunday School has been sustained, mainly by neighbors who are members of the church at the Centre. Much interest has been manifested here in the temperance cause; many meetings have been held, and the pledge has been freely circulated.

THE NEGLECTING CLASSES. Of Mansfield, we learn that very commendable efforts have there been made, to seek out those unable to attend church. The wants of the poor have been supplied. "The amount expended in private charities has largely exceeded the contributions for the benevolent societies." From Milford, the report is: "The neglecting classes, very large; nothing effective done." They are characterized by unbelief and ignorance, free love, and spiritist views. and no little wickedness.

REVIVALS. At Mansfield, the year was one of religious progress, with a quiet but well sustained interest. Few additional meetings were held, but there was a good deal of personal conversation. Most of the additions were from the young people. On the whole, much has been done for the church, the Sunday School, and for Christian charities, all because the people had a mind to work.

But in Foxborough, the blessed visitation was one of great power. Hopeful indications appeared in the preceding fall. Providence favored the beginning, in an absence of anything calculated to divert attention. The interest developed gradually from the Week of Prayer. For a time, union meetings were held with the Baptists, but soon each church was working by itself. Both young men and maidens were moved by the Spirit and testified. The prophecy of Joel seemed to be fulfilled. Two or three services were held during the week, in which neighboring ministers assisted; prayer and song and personal witnessing bore an important part. The Sunday School was a help, in some instances, to a very marked degree. As a result, the pastor has a list of seventy-five persons who give hopeful evidence of regeneration, of whom fifty-one had already (at the time the Report was made) united with the church. Some entire families came in. There has been no reaction.

CHURCH WORK. This same church (Foxborough) reports: "We are organized for work, on the departmental plan, with eight 'leaders' and eight 'assistant leaders,' who are ladies. We hold the Home Concert and occasionally a Fellowship Meeting."

TEMPERANCE. Again, the same Report adds: "We have formed an open Union Temperance Society, which has held monthly meetings, with lectures and other exercises. The Ladies' Society has also been very efficient here. I believe it is generally so throughout the Conference."

MIDDLESEX SOUTH CONFERENCE.

Full reports have been received from all the churches except the one in Dover, now without a pastor.

FAMILIES. Thirteen churches report 1,730 families, an average of 133, — by which it would appear that the parishes average about 600 souls.

MODES OF COLLECTION. The church in South Framingham reports, "Running expenses paid promptly on the envelope system each month. Seats free." From Framingham Centre, we hear that "the weekly offering system continues a success. A certain per cent is set apart to the parish debt. Numerous individuals, however, give considerable sums in private ways." Northborough finds the envelope system "entirely successful" for current expenses. In Marlborough, the collections are taken principally by envelopes, in which the children, to some extent, join. In Natick, "money for expenses is raised monthly on the envelope plan with excellent success. The church in Lincoln has "a weekly offering for religious purposes additional to methods hitherto used."

SERVICES. Little mention is made of new forms or times of service. The South Framingham church makes use of the Bible Service, the Praise Meeting, and a "Drill Service for bringing out all the gifts of the congregation." On Sabbath evenings there are responsive readings, which are also used in Southborough. In Lincoln, the Sunday School Concert occupies the afternoon of the third Sabbath of each month. In several cases mention is made of the improvement secured by more careful attention to singing.

CHURCH WORK, OUT-DISTRICTS. The church in Wellesley holds a monthly temperance prayer-meeting, and at Ridge Hill Farms a Sunday School. The prayer-meetings of Natick and South Natick have "exchanged visits with evident profit." In the summer there is preaching once a month at Morseville; and in the winter the Christian Association at Natick holds Sunday evening prayer-meetings. Marlborough reports systematic work in three prosperous organizations, two of adults and one of children and youth, each working on a distinct plan and with a different object. Southborough keeps up the Home Prayer-Meeting and weekly temperance lectures and discussions. In Holliston, a "Mission Circle" of forty or fifty children meets under the care of the pastor's wife, with happy results. At Braggville, a Sunday School and prayer-meeting are sustained by the residents, and neighboring pastors, of different denominations, hold monthly services. In Wayland, a member of the church, living four miles away, has maintained a prayer-meeting in his neighborhood for seven years, in connection with which a revival has been enjoyed the past year, resulting in fifteen hopeful conversions. In three out-districts, in Natick, Sabbath evening meetings, of much interest, are regularly held by the Christian Association, — all of them blessed with conversions. The pastor of this church has been preaching on Sunday afternoons at Cochituate. He reports "no organized plan for neglecters, yet a steady gain on the Bee Hive plan," — in which each worker toils by himself. From Hopkinton we learn that a weekly inquiry-meeting has been held for some months, beginning with the Week of Prayer. Almost every meeting showed signs of personal interest, and about twenty persons have joined the church, mostly led by this instrumentality. The Ashland church maintains a Sunday School in the Oregon district, and aids in meetings at Park's Corner.

REVIVALS. A quiet religious interest has been enjoyed in Holliston, bringing fifteen persons into the church, and others are looked for. Ten have been gathered into the church at Southville, and fifteen more are looked for, and nearly twenty also at Hopkinton, and fifteen at Wayland. Again at Bear Hill, in Hopkinton, the labors of the Christian Association (with some help from the pastors) have been blessed with nearly twenty hopeful renewals.

Frequent mention is made in the narratives of the Sunday Schools, which would seem to be in a very prosperous condition. The cause of temperance, also, is not forgotten; and in several places "Bands of Hope" and "Reform Clubs" appear to be doing good.

On the whole, while the year has been marked by no unusual success, the returns indicate a healthful growth and a solid progress.

MIDDLESEX UNION CONFERENCE.

This Conference is in the habit of publishing the Minutes of its spring and autumnal meetings. Last fall, for example, it voted to print 1,200 copies, and also to distribute among the churches 1,000 programmes as a notification of the meetings. An assessment of five cents for each resident member was made for these and other expenses. The Minutes, as published, contain in addition to the usual record of business, a brief summary of all important papers and discussions, and the report of the state of religion, together with a complete Table of Charities.

May it not be safe to say that, in any part of the State, this example is worthy of imitation?

The Report of the last year appears to fail, however, of doing real justice to the churches. It is lacking in facts, and appears to have been made up from brief, extemporaneous statements of pastors and delegates. There is really little indication in this statement, of the energy and fidelity which, we are persuaded, these churches have shown; but there are a few particulars of interest.

The churches in Acton, for example, have been more than ordinarily blessed; a goodly number of persons have made profession of their faith; meetings have been held in out-districts, and have been well attended, reaching many persons who are seldom seen in church.

The church in Ashby has received ten upon confession of faith; more than usual interest has prevailed; many of the church-members have been quickened, and have become more earnest and active. Sunday Schools have been held in these out-districts, and were attended by many who are not found at church. A large proportion of the congregation is connected with the Sunday School, and much interest is felt in the study of the lessons.

The church in Boxborough has enjoyed a season of unusual interest, requiring additional meetings, and resulting in eleven additions to the church, which has been greatly strengthened and encouraged.

In Dunstable, the Sunday School is more prosperous than it has been for years. "Three fourths of the audience are members"; contributions have been increased; many have been quickened by the Spirit.

We find brief reference to the holding of Bible services, and to meetings in out-districts in connection with other churches.

Upon the whole, this statement makes the impression of about the ordinary measure of activity and success.

NORFOLK CONFERENCE.

The Chairman of the committee of this Conference has been prevented by ill-health from preparing a Report, as he had wished to do, and the following statement is made up at some disadvantage.

The general tenor of the reports from the churches is more encouraging than for some years. A new energy seems to have been infused into the churches, and they rejoice in their work. Two circumstances seem to have contributed, in some measure, to this result,—a greater variety in meetings and methods, with more of constancy in plans, and the Uniform Lessons of the Sunday Schools. More important than any circumstances has been the direct blessing of Heaven. The Bible Service has recently been introduced at Sharon with good prospects. At Stoughton it continues “to give increasing satisfaction.”

NOTES OF THE CHURCHES. The church at Cohasset has sustained a meeting in an out-district, with a good attendance of women and children, but the men keep aloof; scepticism prevails, and is sustained by social influences. The First Church, Braintree, gives up every fifth Sunday to a praise-meeting, and the fourth to a union temperance meeting. In South Braintree, the cause of temperance has been greatly promoted by a Town Temperance Society, meeting once a month, on Sunday evenings, in the several churches. In Hingham a fortnightly sociable, of a somewhat literary character, has been a most gratifying success in promoting acquaintance and good feeling among people who had been comparatively and perhaps wholly strangers to one another. Members of the Stoughton Church have established a neighborhood meeting, in a locality remote from all religious privileges, with good results. A visit of a delegation of the Christian Association to this town appears to have had a happy effect. “Being laymen, they were able to reach some who could not be so readily influenced by clergymen. This church has recently adopted the plan of the Weekly Offering. Here, too, temperance meetings come in on the last Sunday evening of the month; but the increase of drunkenness since the last State election has been “very obvious.” Sharon also devotes one Sunday evening a month to temperance. The church in Easton has established a Branch school in the eastern part of the town, with an attendance of fifty, and evident usefulness. Here, again, the Weekly Offering has immediately increased the charitable collections. The Central Square Church (Bridgewater) has dispensed with Lesson-papers in its school, applying “general principles of investigation,” and reports, as a result “more interest and profit" in studying the Scriptures. In South Weymouth, Second Church, notwithstanding the severity of the times has been acutely felt, the contributions increased from $903 (in '73) to $1,205. From Campello, again, we hear of Bible-readings, praise-meetings, and the substitution of the Sunday School for the afternoon service. The attendance gained one hundred in six months.

It is delightful to read the report from Holbrook, where for so many years a most unhappy division existed. The restoration of good feeling seems complete. The people are, with gladness and thanksgiving, enlarging their meeting-house, and meanwhile appear to be pushing zealously forward in every good work, holding five prayer-meetings a week,—of the church, the young men, the young women, the old ladies, and another on Saturday evening. Despite the hard times they have increased their charities.

REVIVALS. The same church has also enjoyed a quiet work of grace, resulting in twenty or more hopeful conversions. The blessed revival in Easton, a year ago, brought into the church thirty-three persons, of whom "numbers" give promise of eminent usefulness. A revival of considerable power marked the opening of the year in Quincy. Thirty-eight persons have been added to the church on confession of faith. The pulse of the church beats stronger; all things look more hopeful. In Bridgewater (Central Square), the past year was one of unusual prosperity. Twenty-five new members were welcomed to the Lord's table. In the Second Church, South Weymouth, a quiet work of grace continued for some months, and seventeen souls were gathered in, all but one members of the Sunday School. In the First Church a revival began with the Week of Prayer, which added twenty-six to its membership, and quite a number of others were interested who may unite hereafter. In Randolph, likewise, the third day of the Week of Prayer had not passed before the "Spirit of the Lord seemed verily to descend upon us," writes the pastor, "surprising our unbelieving hearts. Christians were deeply moved, a spirit of believing prayer was developed such as the church had not seen probably for many a year, and a goodly number of youth and youthful heads of families gave evidence of a change of heart. The interest was greatly increased by the meetings held by the canvassers of the Christian Association. To these visitors the most cordial welcome was extended, both by the church and its pastor, and the feeling towards them is one of gratitude. From North Weymouth, again, we hear that "a continuous revival spirit has been manifested. Four weekly prayer-meetings were sustained throughout the year, and were large and profitable. Sixty-nine persons joined the church. A Young Mens' Association was formed and has done good service. The Sunday School has improved every way. A good measure of interest continues. The whole community has been perceptibly influenced. The church is thankful. In Campello a revival began in December. A Sunday School teacher was taken sick and began to pray and talk with his class; most of the class were led to a personal consecration of themselves; other teachers took courage and followed the example given them; the whole church united in special daily prayer; practical sermons were preached, and the church-members worked together. There have been about thirty hopeful conversions in the school. Surely these are pleasant histories, significant though brief.

OLD COLONY CONFERENCE.

One of the pastors of this Conference has furnished the following facts:—

The Rev. A. H. Quint, D. D., pastor of the North Church, New Bedford, having been laid aside by illness for five months, has found himself compelled to send in a letter of resignation.

The church in Wareham reports its pastor nearly blind, but preaching with more power than ever. This church is trying the afternoon Bible-service, and already finds it quickening and profitable. The First Church, Fairhaven, reports their Bible-service as thriving more and more. Mattapoisett has enjoyed a refreshing revival, which has done the church much good. The Central Church, Middleborough, has also been blessed with an extensive work of grace. A large number of the old and the young have been gathered into the church.

The other churches are progressing in about the usual manner.

PILGRIM CONFERENCE.

The churches of this Conference have made full returns, which have been embodied in a Report of much value.

FAMILIES. The whole number of families reported by these fifteen churches is 1,200, the largest parish embracing 240, the smallest 42, and the average number being 80, or about 360 souls. It should be observed, however, that ordinarily the returns appear to include few beside the church-going households. To these, manifestly, ought to be added such neglecting families as naturally fall to the care of these churches.

CHURCH SERVICES and RELIGIOUS MEETINGS. Few innovations of any consequence have crept in. In Duxbury the afternoon service having been transferred to the evening, a "half-hour prayer-meeting" precedes it and a praise-meeting, of fifteen minutes, follows it. These changes have had a good effect. In the closing exercises the hymns are very brief and are sung without loss of time in reading, voluntaries, or interludes; the singing is sustained by a good choir, and is found to be "very comforting and spiritually attractive."

The church in Halifax, we are pained to learn, has been "without preaching or any Sabbath service for upwards of a year." This is not merely sad, it is wrong. It ought to be a moral impossibility for a Congregational parish to suffer such a deprivation of the gospel. In Kingston, the Baptists and Congregationalists for nine months were united in their prayer-meetings. The services of an evangelist were also shared by the two churches, and for a time the meetings were very encouraging and brought out persons who are not in the habit of attending church. There were quite a number of inquirers. A few hopeful conversions followed. In the Church of the Pilgrimage, the evening service is preceded by a prayer-meeting, and in the service itself a large place is given to singing, with good outward results. Here, also, a church Fellowship Meeting is held once a month. From Scituate, again, we hear that "one young woman has done a great deal of good by interesting the young people in singing, which has greatly enlivened all the services."

On the whole, the Report conveys the impression of a conservative spirit in reference to religious meetings, and yet of an increase of enterprise.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL. There appears to be a wholesome growth of interest in the study of the Bible. Kingston holds its Sunday School concert in place of an afternoon service. From several schools we hear of conversions.

OUT-DISTRICTS. At South Ponds, in Plymouth, there is a chapel used by different denominations, but at present without regular services. At Wellingsly, in the same town, a similar chapel has been occupied by the pastors of Chiltonville and the Church of the Pilgrimage. At Sea-side, in the northern part of the town, where a Sunday School has long been sustained by the last named church, the chapel is now used by a Lutheran church recently organized and provided with a minister. The people of Rocky Nook, in Kingston, are within reach of the meetings held at this place. In South Carver there is a "union meeting-house," but little Congregational preaching. At Tur-Kiln, in Duxbury, stands "Temperance Hall," sometimes used for evangelical services, but more often occupied by Spiritists. The pastor of the Plympton church frequently holds meetings in North Plympton, where, also, a Sunday School is kept up a part of the year. Upon the borders of Kingston and Pembroke there is a chapel controlled by Methodists, but open to other denominations; and in Ashdod, in the western part of Duxbury, a union chapel; Magoun Chapel, near Hanover Corner, just over the line of Pembroke, has had occasional services. Within the parish of the First Church, Marshfield, there is a place of summer resort known as Green Harbor, for which the pastor does what he can. Religious services are also held at times during the summer at Brant Rock.

The population of these resorts at about the middle of August is estimated at 1,000. It is obvious that the churches are not able to work these out-districts with vigor.

NEGLECTERS. The number of people who should be counted as neglecters varies in different towns, from one fourth to one half of the population. In Plymouth, it is estimated at thirty or forty per cent, and many anti-Christian tendencies exist. From another quarter, we hear that a division among Christians is the occasion of growing neglect; from still another, that "a large portion of the people have no sympathy with the church, and do not attend upon its ordinances"; and again we read, "Neglecters are many." No vigorous movement in behalf of this class of the population is reported from any quarter.

REVIVALS. No general work of Divine grace is spoken of. Accounts of conversions, however, and of other encouraging signs, have been received from Duxbury, Hanson, Kingston, Marshfield Second, and Plymouth Second. In Marshfield First and in the Church of the Pilgrimage, appear tokens of good.

SYSTEMATIC WORK. The Church of the Pilgrimage keeps up the methods established three years ago, having four committees, of ten persons each, a Committee on General Visitation, on the Sunday School, on Relief, and on the Care of the Sick, Aged, and Afflicted.

TEMPERANCE. Most of the towns have organizations of the Sons of Temperance or the Good Templers. A strong interest is taken in the cause, and it is felt that the churches ought to engage in it more directly and vigorously, and that it is a mistake to leave it so much in the hands of other organizations.

In concluding their Report the committee raise important inquiries. The twelve towns embraced within the limits of the Conference contain the following churches: Congregational, 15; Methodist, 9; Baptist, 8; Episcopal, 2; Advent, 2; Unitarian, 7; Universalist, 3; "Union," 1; in all 47. There are also two or three Romanist churches and two or three Spiritist meetings. None of the Unitarian churches are of recent date.

Even this diversity fails to represent all the shades of belief found in these communities. Their general religious condition bespeaks a lack of tone, such as is apt to appear in places that have long suffered the drain of emigration, and which yet is much greater than it ought to be. The committee refer to the fact that these towns are the original seat of the Pilgrim Fathers, once the stronghold of their piety and zeal; and they ask, What can be done?

In reply, they first call attention to the fact that the Pilgrim Conference does not embrace the strength of Plymouth County; and express the opinion, that if the neighboring churches, which seem appropriately to belong with them, would really join them, it would be a very great help. At present, of the thirty-five Congregational Churches in the county, only fifteen are connected with this Conference, and of the 4,197 Congregational communicants, only 1,245, or less than three tenths, are found in its churches. "Has not the time come," the committee ask, "for such a redistricting of the Conferences as shall both give us more power for our home work, and better represent the religion of the Pilgrim Fathers before the country and the world, here in their old home?" Such a measure, if entered into heartily, would lend new courage to these enfeebled churches and increase the interest and the power of their Conference meetings.

"Extraordinary efforts" are sometimes called for, and the committee submit the inquiry, in the second place, whether the present condition of a considerable portion of this county does not demand the employment of special agencies. — This seems to us a call which the churches cannot refuse to hear.

SUFFOLK NORTH CONFERENCE.

We make the following extracts from the very interesting Report of the committee of this Conference: —

"Fifteen of our twenty churches have this year reported to the conference, while returns were made last year by only seven, and the year before by only two, showing an encouraging gain. Many of the reports are thorough, all are valuable."

OLD AND NEW. — "The old Salem-street meeting-house was given up last December, upon the removal of the Salem and Mariner's Church to the new Sailor's Home. The First Church, Cambridge, has finished its meeting-house by the erection of a massive and shapely spire, topped by the historic cockerel which rests again in the faith of the fathers. The church in East Cambridge still struggles for life. A council held two sessions, but the plan which it recommended has failed of trial. The Mission at Mount Auburn, under the care of the First Church of Cambridge, is very flourishing, preaching services are regularly held, and weekly meetings, at which college students render valuable assistance. A neighborhood meeting has been commenced in Chelsea, in a locality which is believed to require a new church. Accompanying this opening of new fields, there is a rapid growth in the churches, nearly all reporting an increase of families and congregations."

METHODS AND MEASURES. — "Three churches print Annual Reports. Five churches are supported by free-will offerings. The Franklin-street Church, East Somerville, furnishes a course of lectures in the early winter. The pastor preaches to the children once a month; church sociables are held every fortnight. The Winnisimmet Church, Chelsea, reports the participation of ladies in the monthly concerts; successful praise concerts; a lecture course; a monthly deacon's meeting, where the pastor and deacons, with their wives, take tea together, and confer over the interests of the church (an excellent idea), also fellowship meetings, and a meeting of all who have joined the church during the year, held at the house of one of the deacons."

"A Union Teachers' Meeting has been in operation in Chelsea for several months, conducted by the several pastors, and is reported a success. A similar meeting has been started in Cambridge."

"Three reports make mention of temperance work. At East Somerville meetings are held, occasionally, and in Chelsea, once a quarter. The Pilgrim Church, Cambridgeport, has a 'Total Abstinence Society,' with a pledge and monthly meetings."

"In the last named church, the Church Singing School has proved, for another year, a valuable aid to the congregational singing. The best teacher to be found is hired; the school is free and open for four months. The same church now holds its Sunday School concert in the afternoon, which proves a most satisfactory change. The pastor is thus sure of finding an excellent audience for a sermon to children; the school is visibly identified with the church; and, best of all, the evening is open for a meeting of prayer for the school."

"For several weeks during the fall a familiar lecture was given, on Friday evenings, upon the Church Creed. But one of the pleasantest occasions of the year was a Church Anniversary, with addresses, a poem, and a supper. It was a family meeting and the flame on the hearth burned high that stormy night."

REVIVALS. "Several of the churches have enjoyed revivals and received large additions. In Chelsea, the first agency blessed was union meetings. In other cases there were no special measures or efforts. Both of the churches in Chelsea, both of the Somerville churches, the North Avenue and the Chapel churches in Cambridge, have shared in this refreshing. The aggregate additions to them for the year are nearly two hundred and fifty. The Franklin-street Church is again quickened, and a gentle work among the young people is reported from the Winthrop Church, Charlestown."

"The hope of our churches is in revivals. It appears to be true that, whenever so many as ten are received into a church during one year, this is almost invariably the result, not of a gathering of one or two at a time throughout the year, but of some season of special awakening. Churches which do not receive this awakening, often lose more by death than they gain by conversions."

SUFFOLK SOUTH CONFERENCE.

The statistical returns from this Conference are among the best received. Some of the reports of work fail, we fear, to do justice to the facts; and yet, on the whole, the record is tolerably full.

FAMILIES. Returns from eleven churches give an average of about one hundred and eighty-five families, equivalent to an average of about eight hundred and fifty souls. This seems too small. It is probable that the number of families which ought to be "registered as under the care of these churches" is larger.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS. The church in Norwood reports seven hopeful conversions in its school; and the Eliot Church, Boston Highlands, the same number. From every quarter come notes of an increased attendance and interest. The improvement is unmistakable.

SERVICES AND MEETINGS. From Cottage Street, Dorchester, we learn that both men and women take part in its weekly prayer-meetings. The experiment of a Bible-service in the afternoon, at Jamaica Plain, has been given up, after a year's trial, a large minority not being satisfied with it; but the Sabbath School still occupies that part of the day, the second sermon coming in the evening. Four churches, Phillips, Jamaica Plain, Neponset, and Cottage Street, make use of responsive readings of Scripture. Several churches are accustomed to have praise-meetings. Upon the whole, while there is an endeavor after a wholesome variety in religious services and a willingness to adopt improvements, there appears no tendency to rash or radical changes.

CHURCH WORK. The church in Dedham maintains a Branch Sunday School of about seventy scholars, Germans. The young people of this church also have a "Mutual Aid Society" for the promotion of good morals. The Norwood church assists in sustaining meetings at "North Sharon" and "East Walpole," and other outlying neighborhoods, which are quite regularly supplied with preaching. In this way a considerable number of people are reached who do not regularly go to church. The "canvassers" of the Christian Association visited this place and did some good. The preaching service at "Boylston Chapel," under charge of the Jamaica Plain church, has been given up. A Sunday School, numbering two hundred, is still held there, and a Sunday evening prayer-meeting, sustained by a Band of Helpers. A German population is working into this vicinity. The site is also too near the parent church. Probably services could have been sustained if the chapel had been put in a suitable place on the other side of the railroad. The church in Neponset unites with other churches in sustaining services at North Quincy. (The Congregational outpost maintained for several years at West Quincy was appropriated, it will be remembered, two or three years ago, by a Methodist minister.) Another church reports the neglecting classes around it as large, and "never to be brought in, without that personal solicitation which so few Christians are ready to use." The Holland Church, Boston Highlands, finds means through its "prayer-meeting collections" to render aid to the poor working people, although able to pay its pastor only a very limited salary, its total expenses being reported at $599.47. Its Sunday School flourishes; a Teachers' Meeting has been started, and four "Working Committees" have continued their labors through the year. This church is only two years old. It is certainly making a good beginning.

TEMPERANCE. The "Norwood Temperance Alliance" (embracing Congregationalists and Universalists) meets every month, secures a good attendance, and exerts a wholesome influence. There is no dram-shop in the town. From the Phillips Church we hear that the temperance pledge is a permanent institution in the Sunday School. In addition, special efforts have been carried on by Christian women, and a large number of meetings have been held with good results.

The E Street Church, also in South Boston, uses unfermented wine at its communions, and in general takes a hearty interest in the temperance cause. A "woman's movement" has received earnest support, and has accomplished great good, visiting saloons, circulating pledges, and toning up public sentiment. The temperance vote of the ward has largely increased. A Sabbath School Temperance Union embraces eleven schools in this part of the city, and in June there is to be a children's "Temperance Day," with processions, banners, music, and speeches. The Highland Church, Boston, has secured from its congregation and school over two hundred names to the pledge, and "some almost hopeless cases have been reclaimed."

REVIVALS. Sixteen churches report an aggregate of two hundred and twenty-five additions, upon confession of faith. A revival is reported in progress, at the making up of the Report, in the Phillips and the E Street Churches. In Neponset, there has been an awakening by which "the resident membership was increased nearly fifty per cent."

In Hyde Park, the work of grace mentioned in last year's report continued three months, — quiet, promoted by no unusual measures, an illustration of the power of prayer. In May, thirty-nine were received, and twenty-three have been admitted since. Of these, more than twenty were business men, most of them heads of families. The youngest was twelve, the oldest seventy years of age; a large proportion have been members of the Sabbath School. The additions to this church for the year were one hundred and one. This church has dedicated a new chapel, and now is in need of additional sittings in its meeting-house. An interesting revival began in the Highland Church, during the Week of Prayer, the good effect of which still continues.

SUFFOLK WEST CONFERENCE.

The reports from the churches of this Conference, heretofore quite full, are so incomplete that it is impossible to do justice to their work for the past year.

FAMILIES. Eight churches report the number of families under their care, as follows: Newton, First (Centre), 120; Newton, Second (West), 150; Newton, Eliot, 200; Newton, Auburndale, 111; Newton, North, 69; Newton Highlands, 107; Waltham, 217; Watertown, 100, — an average of 134, or about 600 souls. Are these all?

SERVICES. A few variations have been made in the ancient order of Sabbath services. Newton Centre reports the substitution of the Sunday School for the afternoon service, as an experiment for six months, thus far with an increased attendance. Auburndale has the Sunday School in the afternoon, preaching morning and evening with the exception of two evenings, which are given up to the Monthly Concert and the Sabbath School Concert; and Waltham has entered upon a six months' experiment, as follows: In the afternoon the Sunday School assembles in the chapel; and in the church, at the same hour, the pastor goes over the lesson with such members of the congregation as choose to meet him there. Three quarters of an hour are thus spent; and then the Sunday School passes into the church, when the pastor, occupying the pulpit, leads the congregation in a service of ordinarily a little over half an hour. The exercises comprise prayer and singing, responsive readings, and a brief practical address. About an hour and twenty minutes are taken up with these two services.

Praise-meetings are held in West Newton on the evening of the last Sabbath of the month; and the weekly prayer-meeting has been varied by occasional Bible-reading, with increasing interest.

MONEY RAISING. Two churches make mention of new plans for raising money. At Auburndale, the expenses are met by monthly contributions. Those who choose make a subscription at the beginning of the year and pay quarterly. This plan has been followed for two years, and is liked better than the old way of renting the pews and making up the deficiency at the end of the year. The pews are free, and yet, for the most part, families occupy their old places. At Newton Highlands, also, the seats are free, and the expenses are met by contributions. The "envelope system" is used.

CHURCH WORK. From Brighton, we hear that "a real enthusiasm is manifested by the young people for their prayer-meeting. The parish is divided into five 'districts,' each under the oversight of one person, who reports to the pastor all new-comers and cases of sickness and of poverty; a committee of welcome greets strangers appearing at church, and a canvass of the parish is in progress which will leave no family without an invitation to church and Sunday School. A large number of both old and young are ready to engage in any work that may be laid before them."

A Christian lady has bequeathed a sum of money to the church in Watertown, for the purchase of a library for the use of the pastor and teachers.

It may be said of the churches, generally, that they seem to be full of love and good works. Young people's meetings, ladies' meetings, teachers' meetings, maternal meetings, mission circles, and church sociables, and whatsoever else gives obvious promise of usefulness, abound. There is a commendable readiness to adopt what is new and to hold fast what has been proved to be good.

RELIGIOUS INTEREST. From West Newton, we hear of some religious interest in the Sunday School and a few hopeful conversions, four of its members having recently united with the church. From the Sunday School at Auburndale, again, eleven have made public confession of their faith. During the first months of the present year God was pleased to bless the North Church, Newton, in the conversion of many souls. Twenty-four have already joined the church, and others will probably do so before long. The general interest continues.

TAUNTON CONFERENCE.

The reports from the churches of this Conference are not complete. Those received furnish, however, a very fair idea of its general religious condition.

FAMILIES. Fourteen churches report 1294 families registered as under their care,—an average of only 92. Some of them have but 50, 40, 36, 30; and the largest 209. Are any families overlooked? Are those connected with Branch Sunday Schools or outposts reckoned as "under the care of the churches"?

THE SUNDAY SCHOOLS appear to be in excellent condition. In Attleborough (1st Ch.) a branch school has been started, and is prosperous. In East Taunton the school has increased in numbers, and is attended (as all are not) by the young men, who also take part in public exercises with no little earnestness. The pastor of the Union Church, Taunton, has established a Normal Class as a remedy for a scarcity of teachers; the concerts are very successful; a sermon to the children is preached every month, and some twenty hopeful conversions have taken place in the school. In Raynham, also, the school is greatly increased in numbers and efficiency. In Taunton the schools are full and vigorous.

CHURCH WORK—REVIVALS. The Scotland Church (Bridgewater), which numbers only thirty families, reports the addition of twenty-one persons on confession; the attendance and interest of its Sunday School have improved, its library has been enlarged, congregational singing has been adopted, the meeting-house repaired, frescoed, and refurnished; considerable activity is shown in the cause of temperance, and the general condition of the church is very prosperous. In Fall River, the First and Central Churches have vigorously kept up their outside work. The former has organized, from the congregation of its chapel, the Third Church, now supplied with a pastor who meets with growing encouragement. A former pastor of the North Middleborough Church (Rev. Mr. Bliss), having returned to labor there, has met with immediate success. Not less than seventy-five persons have consecrated themselves, it is believed, to a Christian life; thirty have already united with the church, among whom are fourteen heads of families, and as many more are looked for. "Experience meetings" have been held with profit. The church in West Taunton (which counts but fifty families) holds meetings in out-districts, frequently very well attended. The Winslow Church (Taunton) reports some special interest; "household baptism honored;" a "Children's Sabbath," with a sermon for the young; adding that, on a Sabbath in the summer, about fifty children, who had been baptized by the present pastor, "ranged themselves in front of the pulpit to receive certificates of their baptism." In Attleborough, First Church, a new church edifice is nearly complete; the congregations have doubled, and the interest of the prayer-meetings has been much increased by a pre-announcement of the topics, with a distribution of questions written on slips of paper, to several persons who are expected to have something to say. In Rehoboth, twenty-four have joined the church on confession of faith, and both congregation and Sunday School are in a flourishing condition. The Winslow Church, Taunton, appears to be in a truly healthful state, every way. The Union Church reports that neglecters are "systematically sought out"; the distribution of enlistment cards for systematic church work has proved very successful; "weekly offerings" are taken for the payment of the debt; steady efforts are maintained for the promotion of temperance, and with some real success.

Upon the whole, the reports from this Conference are unusually cheering, and manifest a decided growth in energy and constancy of Christian labor.

WOBURN CONFERENCE.

The committee of this Conference furnish the following narrative.

REVIVALS. "While the religious prosperity of the churches generally has been steady and assured under the regular ministrations of the gospel, a few of them have been blessed in a marked degree. Especially is this true of the church in Winchester, where a gracious outpouring of the Spirit resulted in gathering fifty into the church. The effect of this quickening was felt throughout the year, in increased warmth and activity in all forms of moral and Christian work."

"In the adjoining town of Woburn, there was at the same time a gentle awakening, in which more than thirty were hopefully converted. These, in due time, were admitted to the church."

"The interest extended also to North Woburn, and as a result ten were added to the church. If the report were not to be reserved for another year, a cheering story could be told of the great and blessed work of renovation and ingathering recently experienced in the towns of Wakefield and Wilmington."

"In other communities, though there has been no special religious awakening, there has been a perceptible gain in evangelical sentiment and power. This is specially notable in the old church of Billerica; and the new church of Lexington, which, having recently become self-supporting, is steadily increasing in strength and efficiency."

CHURCHES. "The two churches of Burlington and North Woburn have been brought under the ministrations of one pastor. These churches are both beneficiaries of the Home Missionary Society. By contenting themselves with one sermon a Sabbath, they save a considerable sum to the missionary cause. Under the ministrations of an able and worthy pastor, recently secured, they are in a happy and prosperous condition. The church in West Medford has during the year also become fully manned by the installation of a pastor. This important and rapidly growing community is fortunate in the presence of a young and vigorous church."

NEW ENTERPRISES. "A new church was formed in June, in the village of Maplewood, which, it is believed, is greatly needed in that thriving community. Another enterprise of promise is the mission at Edgeworth, a suburb of Malden and chiefly under the care of the Malden Church. Considerable religious work has also been expended at Greenwood and at Melrose Highlands, particularly under the fostering care of Wakefield and Melrose."

HOME WORK. "While a growing attention is given to this matter by both pastors and people, it must be confessed that but little efficient and systematic work is done. Some of the pastors are doing what they can to awaken and encourage their churches to activity. The necessity for such labor is becoming more and more evident. Something of it has been done in Winchester. The church in Woburn are learning how to help the pastor and the cause. A neighborhood prayer-meeting is held by the brethren, and some, all about the parish, are on the look-out for new comers. Religious visitation has been practiced in Wakefield and Wilmington. Still, the number of the neglected in all the parishes is great."

WORCESTER CENTRAL CONFERENCE.

"This Conference does not keep any records of the work of the churches or their membership"; and the two days' sessions, of twenty-five years ago, "having given place to sessions of a single day," "it hardly seems worth while to attempt a report" upon the meagre statements thus afforded.

GENERAL CONDITION. The churches, however, have enjoyed a good measure of general prosperity, and a majority have received additions to their membership. No unusual means have been resorted to, but the regular instrumentalities have not been used in vain.

OUT-DISTRICTS. Outlying districts have been cared for by the churches or the Young Men's Christian Associations. An agent of the American Sunday School Union surveyed the region last year, without finding, it is believed, an occasion for any new organizations. In most of the localities where, otherwise, some local organization might be started, there are too many families already connected with worshipping congregations. If these families were really faithful, the number of neglecters would be vastly reduced.

SERVICES AND ATTENDANCE. In some portions, at least, of the region covered by the Conference the regular attendance is believed to be smaller than a year or two ago. Churches are introducing changes in the Sabbath service. The changes are, in some cases, experimental, and "all uncertainty works neglect." "About one third of the churches have only one preaching service." The sentiment in favor of this arrangement is believed to be gaining ground. "More and more attention is given to the Sabbath School. This surely ought to be, but not to the neglect of ministrations of the pulpit."

FREE SEATS. "The recent session of the Conference developed an increasing conviction, from the experience of several churches, in opposition to the 'Free Seat System.'"

CHURCH BUILDING. The new meeting-house of the Plymouth Church has been dedicated. That of the Piedmont Church is also well advanced. The old sanctuary in Holden has been tastefully remodelled.

The Rev. William P. Paine, D. D., after forty years of a laborious, happy, and successful ministry, has, at his own urgent request, been released from further responsibility, but, in compliance with the wishes of his people, retains his pastoral relation.

WORCESTER NORTH CONFERENCE.

RELIGIOUS INTEREST. Quiet seasons of religious interest have been enjoyed by several churches: at Westminster, resulting in some thirty hopeful conversions; at Ashburnham, First, in twenty or twenty-five; and at Baldwinville, in fifteen or twenty. Similar blessings were experienced, in a less marked degree, in Athol, Templeton, and Royalston.

OUT-STATIONS. The church in Ashburnham reports a preaching station at South Ashburnham. That in Hubbardston sustains three branch Sabbath Schools — at Williamsville, South Hubbardston, and at a post in the direction of Gardner. These all are hopeful enterprises; and frequent preaching services are added to those of the schools. Winchendon aids in two Union schools, at Waterville and Bullardville, both in good condition. Regular preaching is supplied at the former place, and occasional at the latter. Athol, likewise, has a branch school; and Phillipston and Royalston furnish occasional preaching to out-districts.

“The little manufacturing hamlets,” observe the committee, “lying at the distance of two or three miles from the churches, can be reached only by obeying the Master: ‘Go, preach the Gospel.’ The women and children cannot walk so far to church; and the men and boys will not, if the wives and the sisters stay at home.”

THE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION. Four or five meetings, of two days each, were held within the bounds of the Conference by the Young Men’s Christian Association; also three or four Sunday School Institutes, by the County Committee on Sabbath School work,—all with happy results.

From this conference we have received the following brief memorandum:—

“Most of the churches have simply held their own. In one (Westborough) cases of interest and hopeful conversion have been somewhat frequent. In Whitinsville, there was a slight development of religious feeling, and several hopeful conversions. Several churches report a growing interest in Bible study; and some have adopted the plan of one sermon on the Sabbath, with a seeming improvement. No report was made of organized church work.”

“The Young Men’s Christian Associations in the larger towns keep up reading rooms, and sustain district prayer-meetings and Sunday Schools.”

REVIEW.

Nineteen of the Conferences make mention of REVIVALS. Some of these were of great power; all appear to have been healthful, and apparently free from drawbacks and reaction. A number began with the Week of Prayer; others were closely connected with the Sunday School. Their general tone, the character of the methods, and the attendant circumstances, suggest an improved spiritual vitality on the part of the churches. Almost uniformly these seasons of increased interest have been the fruit of the church’s regular work.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS. From all quarters of the State, there is but one voice in regard to the Sunday Schools. The Uniform Lessons, with the new helps and incitements now afforded, have greatly stimulated study and zeal. There is evident, also, a correction of the tendency to separate the school from the church and the minister. We see no signs of jealousy, but on all hands of hearty love and union.

A sub-committee of this committee, consisting of Rev. Mason Noble and Rev. Lewis Gregory, have embodied in a report some interesting facts respecting the Relation of Conferences to Sunday Schools. They find, that of the twenty-three Conferences from which they have heard, fourteen report themselves as, in effect, having nothing to do with Sunday School work; by the rules of two Conferences, Sunday School Superintendents are ex-officio members of the Conference; six Conferences regularly give up one session to a discussion of Sunday School topics or to a children's meeting; one has a "Sunday School Society," meeting in connection with its services; one turns over such work to a "Sunday School Institute," which meets twice a year, but is not very well attended; two have "Standing Committees upon Sunday School Work," empowered to call conventions. One of the Conferences which makes superintendents members, has succeeded for two years in having a grand "Conference Picnic" in the fall, embracing all the schools, and gathering together full 5,000 children.

In view of the importance of this subject (the relation of Conferences to the Sunday School work), we recommend that the report of the sub-committee just mentioned be referred to a special committee, to report to the General Association during its present sessions.*

SERVICES. An important effect of the increased interest in the study of the Bible appears in a frequent modification of the regular Sabbath services. In many cases, the Sunday School takes the place of the afternoon sermon—or, the school, with a modified service appended, the whole being known as the Bible Service. Although churches have given up this arrangement, after making trial of it, the tendency is in its favor. May we be pardoned for suggesting, that this tendency reminds us of a danger as well as an opportunity. In the first place, it testifies to a certain weakness of the pulpit and its services, implying that they cannot hold the people on Sunday afternoons. Secondly, it is worthy of consideration, whether the call for this change has not some connection with a willingness on the part of many to give up the Sabbath afternoon to physical and social relaxation. Thirdly, it is to be remembered that changes in established religious habits are always more or less dangerous; they are apt to loosen religious bonds and to diminish the power of sacred things.

But now, on the other hand, if we do not mistake, the ministry have here a glorious opportunity to regain more than their former power for good with the people, greatly increasing their personal effectiveness, and associating with themselves a body of the most intelligent, interested, active co-workers that the Christian Church has known in any age, and these all working especially upon those classes in the community who are most open to good influences. So, on the whole, while we seem called upon to keep a watchful eye upon the dangers referred to, we may well greet with enthusiasm these new opportunities, and redouble our zeal and our hope.

* See Minutes, pp. 8, 11.

ORGANIZED WORK. Another indication of a most encouraging kind is seen in the steady advance of the churches in systems of organized work. An examination of the reports from the Kirk Street Church, Lowell, and from churches in Hinsdale, Pittsfield, Monterey, Foxborough, and Brighton, and from the Hampden Conference, will suffice to show what is here meant; but the movement is far more general and effective than the fragmentary narratives furnished us declare. It is interesting to observe the various ways in which a Christian inventiveness applies the general principle. The principle, we believe, has at last so far got possession of the mind of the churches that it is permanently established as a working power, and will hereafter continue to promote a healthful piety and a wise, energetic, organized, and constant activity.

OUT-DISTRICTS. And in one direction there is a special demand for such activity. We refer to the out-districts. In a good many cases, the efforts put forth in these localities belong to an unsatisfactory grade of Christian work, lacking in determination and point, and in that effective quality that is born of faith. Not seldom they are feeble. What can be done? We ask in reply,—

1. Cannot the churches, met in their Conferences, institute a particular inquiry once a year into the condition of every out-district within their bounds, and so help one another?

2. Are not these districts often “destitutions” in the Home Missionary sense; and may not the Home Missionary Society exert itself to interest churches in a more effective kind of labor?

3. Ought not Congregational Churches over all the land to be training a class of LAY-HELPERS, both men and women, fitted for this and for various other kinds of work?

Finally: Is there not need, in some of these places, of a preliminary organization of the sort recommended by the General Association under the title of Christian Neighbors? (See Minutes of 1873, pp. 10–12.)

We believe it to be possible, in these and other ways, to secure a much more effective average work in the communities referred to.

INTEMPERANCE. With the “out-districts,” the out-classes force themselves upon our attention. But among these, there are none more lamentably outside of all best influences than are the supporters of intemperance, whether drinkers or sellers.

It seems to your committee, that the time has come when the churches should take hold of this matter in a systematic way, and all together. From the very commencement of the temperance movement they have been active in it. The reports of the present year from the Andover, Brookfield, Franklin, Hampshire East, Mendon, Pilgrim, Suffolk North and Suffolk South Conferences, show that the cause is not forgotten. Ministers have been preaching upon it, lectures have been delivered, Sunday Schools are instructed, and their scholars in considerable numbers have taken the pledge, “mass-meetings” have been held and "praise-meetings," churches have united in "Temperance Unions," Ladies' Societies have been formed, and a "Temperance Day" has been kept, with interesting and instructive observances; but how many of the churches have engaged in these measures it is impossible to say. Does it not seem that the prevention of intemperance and the alleviation of its evils is a part of the proper work of the churches,—a work in which all the churches should at all times be engaged, and in which also they should be united? It certainly appears so to your committee. And we feel, moreover, that experience has amply proved, that there is no short cut to success; that no law can be framed, no band of "reformed" men be organized, nor any "woman's movement" be devised, that can put an end to this gigantic crime and misery. The churches must recognize the war as their own, and must organize themselves for it on a permanent basis; they must take it for granted that the struggle is to last for generations, and perhaps till the very coming of the Lord; they must make their arrangements for a permanent work of particular instruction, of persuasion, of repression, and of charity and mercy. Children need to be taught and impressed; our youth should be early pledged against the use of intoxicating drinks; the people should be kept informed and roused; the influence of personal and public opinion must be brought to bear directly upon rum-sellers; individuals who are beginning to give way to their appetites should be affectionately warned and helped; those who are trying to reform ought to be encouraged and upheld; the families that are suffering the dreadful consequences of intemperance should be ministered unto. So a great work will be done; and a moral foundation will be laid, in conscientious convictions of the public, for the support of any just and wise law.

We recommend, therefore, the appointment of a committee to draft a plan and lay it before this Association, at its present meeting, upon which the churches can unite in the permanent prosecution of this work.*

Other topics of grave importance are crowded upon our attention by the reports of the year, but the Association has not time now to give them the consideration which is their due. No one can thoughtfully survey the work of the churches, even through the medium of a narrative so imperfect as this which we are able to give, without being filled with a sense of sacredness and preciousness and dignity. It is the very work of the Lord. It is the most intimate, the most profound, the most enduring, it is the most benign and the most noble, of all operations known in time. Whosoever is permitted to bear any part in it, although, in outward seeming, small as that widow's who cast in "two mites," he may well, whatever troubles he have, find his days "full of sweet content."

By vote of the committee.

CONDENSED TABLES OF CHARITIES AND EXPENSES.

THE larger tables, from which the following have been condensed, give in detail all the items included in the circular issued to the churches. Under the head of Home Missions is here included gifts to the American Home Missionary Society, the American Missionary Association, the Freedmen (otherwise than through the A. M. A.), boxes sent to missionaries, local missions, and other gifts:

Under the head of Church Building, the American Congregational Union and other gifts:

Under Foreign Missions, the general work of the American Board, its Work in Papal Lands, its Woman's Board, boxes, and other gifts.

The Seamen, the American Seamen's Friend Society:

Christian Education, the American Education and College Society, and other gifts:

Christian Publication, the Congregational Publishing Society, the Bible Society, the Tract Society, and other gifts:

Finally, there is a column for miscellaneous charities.

The larger tables cannot conveniently be published in these Minutes, but they are laid before the Conferences, and furnish to them, it is believed, the most complete, clear, and instructive exhibit of charities and expenses, laid before any religious bodies in the country. The value of the tables here published is greatly diminished by their incompleteness; but we seem now to have grounds of hope that next year's returns will be much more full, as well as more accurate. At present there are but few of the Conferences that have acquired the habit of making really careful returns. No published tables have done justice to the charity of the churches.

It will be observed that the sum given by the churches reporting to the various Home Missionary departments ($119,812.93) is larger than the amount contributed to the American Board ($102,165.33). It should be remembered, also, that the larger share of the gifts to the Education and Publication causes are really home charities.

It is likewise worthy of note that the Parish Expenditures, distinct from salaries, come up well (in the case of these churches) towards the amount for Salaries, the former being $316,978.47, and the latter $371,040.50. The average salary paid by the 241 churches reporting is nearly $1,500.

Many of the churches that return their charities have failed to give their salaries and expenses. In some cases this is known to be accidental, in a few cases it is due to an unwillingness to make this return, but in most it is accounted for by the mere fact of usage.

A little reflection must convince any one, it would seem, that a knowledge of the salaries paid to ministers will help to intelligent decisions on this important matter, and make the force of a Christian public opinion effective for the correction of evils. D. P. N.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SYSTEMATIC BENEFICENCE.

THE subject given to us is gaining the attention of the churches, and from the alarming deficiencies in the receipts of our Benevolent Societies will demand more and more prayerful consideration. Your committee have not consulted together during the year, because at distances remote from each other, and because the work is chiefly, in the outset, one of survey and information. Attempts have been made through circulars to reach the churches, and in some instances the District Conferences, for the purpose of enlisting earnest Christians in practical and united efforts to arouse the people to their great duty in giving to the Lord.

A Tract on Proportionate Giving has been prepared by our efficient secretary, Rev. Joseph Boardman, and printed by the Congregational Publishing Society. This has been sent to the churches with a request for circulation, and the solicitation of opinions respecting it, together with an account of methods now in use by churches and individuals. Many responses have been received. Quite a number of churches practise the weekly offering, either by open collection or by the envelope system, gathered monthly. Most of the thirty-six laymen and ministers approve the principles laid down in the tract received. Quite a number dissent from them, as "mechanical, Levitical, and unchristian." They do not, however, propose any method beyond the impulses of an enlightened and sympathetic heart. These letters are from the best givers in the State, and three quarters of them have some definite system. Four or five keep as careful a bank account with the Lord as to their property and income, as they are regardful of His share of their time; others seem indifferent to this necessity. From this imperfect outlook we are painfully impressed with the great need of some definite action by ministers and churches to remedy the great neglect of stewardship now existing.

I. The members of our churches must be aroused to their personal obligations under covenant to God. The fact of consecration involved in every confession of Christ must be pressed home. The discussion of scriptural methods should occupy the churches in their meetings. The word "income" should be defined, so that no doubt or hesitation can exist in any mind. Many of our rich men defraud God and the Government by taking out an extravagant living and sundry other expenses, and calling the balance "income." The most of our members are not rich, or even with a competency, and of everything they receive a certain portion belongs to the Lord. "Trust in the Lord and do good" precedes the promise of a homestead and daily food.

II. The recognition of the Lord's treasury by the individual, apart from the calls made upon it, is very important. Defalcations in trust funds have arisen more frequently from carelessness in their management, of late, than from criminal intent. The mixture of accounts — the common treasury for the trust income and his own — have led to such confusion and waste as to bring a stain on the memory of men otherwise irreproachable. And so with the Lord's part in the believer's earnings or income; if it is not set aside to the Lord and carefully separated to Him, it will be more or less absorbed by the agent in his living or expenses. Separation of a definite part is the only way to secure the Lord and have His treasury in our trust, ready for those calls He sends to us. And for this, some system must be adopted by every individual.

III. The general principle may be stated without dictation. Any one can see that a distinct and separate treasury for the Lord will require that some stated portion of all that is received must be set aside for him. And when this habit is formed by every member of the church, — when every Christian is as scrupulous in regard to the Lord's portion as of his own, — then a great advance will be made in the support of the Lord's service. As things now are, there is a secular side in our religious support, which excludes God from the conscience and from the service. The method of support by taxation or purchase or voluntary bidding is ruinous and destructive of the spirit of benevolence. Men think they have a right to the ordinances of religion in their moral and spiritual protection because they pay for them; and when it comes to the relief of suffering, or the preaching of the Gospel to the destitute, or sending it by other means, then it is charity, and the one asking or needy is a beggar or a pauper. Hence, following the separate treasury of the Lord for the individual, and the systematic supply of that treasury, will lead naturally to the voluntary support of the Lord's kingdom at home and abroad.

IV. It is one kingdom, not two. The Christian spirit and the missionary spirit are identical. It will be a great gain to our churches — and a return to the genius of our polity as found in the charter we have in the Acts of the Apostles — when the trammels of the parish system are shaken off, the commercial methods abandoned, and the voluntary offerings of the people of God applied to support his ordinances and extend His kingdom of grace throughout the earth.

V. We cannot forbear calling the attention of the churches to the principle of the tithe as of Divine origin and equally applicable in every age, — a universal rule, as the seventh of time. It is often accounted as Jewish and Levitical; but Melchisedec was above Levi, and Abraham paid tithes, not as a Jew but as the father of the faithful. This principle, therefore, cannot be set aside as being part of the ceremonial law. And if there must be a definite share in our estate, as in our time, which, as a rule, God claims for Himself, this will not interfere with the entire consecration of property any more than the seventh of time hinders the real use of the whole week for God.

VI. In addition to the definite proportion which belongs to the Lord, we press upon the attention of all loyal Christians the use of free-will offerings and thank-offerings; the occasion for these is constantly recurring in every life. The use of the tithe cannot obstruct the personal love to a personal and present God. Those who are systematic in their giving to the Lord will have the inclination and the means to increase their beneficence in this scriptural way. Impulses are very deceptive when they alone sway us; but when firm principle and regular appropriation are fulfilled, the impulses help to break the power of selfishness and enlist the affections more largely in the personal attachment to God and the corresponding expression of it in beneficent gifts.

VII. These suggestions will be incomplete unless we lift this service of giving to its scriptural position,—a means of grace, an act of worship, a regular part of every Sabbath service. The feeling lurks in many a Christian mind that the act of giving to the Lord should be secret, and is inappropriate in the sanctuary. But the injunction to bring an offering to the temple or the synagogue, in the ancient service, so full of rigid awe and formality, certainly cannot be out of place in the Christian assembly; and so the weekly offering, as a part of Divine worship in many of our churches, has been found a means of gracious enlargement, as well as indicating the true place for the application of the scriptural principles pertaining to Christian beneficence.

In view of the care and labor necessary to bring this subject into appropriate prominence before our churches, we recommend, first, the circulation among the members of our churches "Gold and the Gospel," a volume containing five essays on the scriptural duty of giving in proportion to means and income, and the reprint and circulation of Dr. Parsons Cooke's essays on Systematic Beneficence. Second, the preparation of some scheme for systematic weekly offerings for church support and for benevolence. Third, the appointment of Rev. John O. Means, D.D., Secretary of the Congregational Publishing Society, as committee for the ensuing year, to carry forward the above recommendations and gather additional information from the churches, to report at the next meeting of this body.

THE PRIMITIVE DIACONATE: SHOULD IT BE REVIVED IN OUR CHURCHES?

BY REV. DAVID O. MEARS.

It is manifestly impossible to elaborate minutely every theory and fact connected with this broad theme. Many of the accepted and general doctrines in our own church polity must be stated with the authorities rather than proved by a rigid exegesis. Thus, e. g. we need spend no part of the hour in proving that there were deacons in the primitive church, inasmuch as every church represented here knows that such an appointment was a fact; and no more need we prove that the continuance of that office is regarded as a necessity to-day, since the existing facts assert our certain knowledge. The nature of the office, however, and who shall fulfil its functions, are questions calling for our notice. We therefore repeat the theme, The Primitive Diaconate: should it be Revived in Our Churches?

The ἐκκλησία, or church, like the individual, is a party responsible to Christ for the performance or non-performance of its duty. No church of Christ has passed beyond the inspection of Him whose weighty message to each of the seven churches of Asia Minor has been as the tolling of a bell upon a wreck, "I know thy works." The church, since it is the recognized body of Christ, and since to it have been given the keys of the kingdom, is to do, among men, what Christ did. We are not yet absolved from the injunction to pray for the sick. The church of the new dispensation, like that of the old, has a sacred trust in caring for the widows and the fatherless. It was not a temporary command of Christ to "distribute to the poor," for the poor were to be with his disciples always. The work of the church, like that of the Master, is to fulfil the promise that the poor have the gospel preached to them; to heal the broken-hearted; to preach deliverance to the captives; and to set at liberty them that are bound. In fine, the office work of the church is made known in what shall be the test at the last day: we are to feed the hungry, clothe the naked, show kindness to the stranger, visit the sick and those in prison.

Now, the primitive church did just such things as these, as we learn in the recorded history; and we assent to the same great necessity as being laid upon us; i. e. the work of the Christian church is, for substance, the same in every century; only premising that the conditions calling for the work may vary with the years. The primitive church instituted and supported missionaries, and we must do the same; they supplied the wants of the needy at home, and we must do the same.

Two offices only in the Christian church were then created, if we may trust our own polity.*

If we assent to this classification, as we are compelled, we may term the two for convenience the superior and the inferior; or, as is narrated in the sixth chapter of the Acts, offices embracing, firstly, those who gave themselves continually to prayer and to the ministry of the word; and secondly, those who made it their special business to serve tables, or to care for those who were dependent upon charity. Thus, in his Epistle to the Philippians, Paul salutes the saints in Christ Jesus with the bishops and deacons; evidently the two orders of officers in the church.

This latter class, concerning which we speak, was and is the diaconate,—the word like our term “deacon” being derived from the Greek Διάκονος, denoting a servant or helper.

We leave all reference to the “overseers” of the church, or bishops, or presbyters, which exigetically designate the same office work, and take up the question of the inferior service,—the diaconate. The primitive church, of all public bodies, first recognized the special care of the sick, the suffering, the poor, and strangers, as devolving upon itself. We should naturally expect that those of its membership who could do this work the most efficiently would be appointed; for such is the scriptural idea and custom. Paul could sew the hard canvas for tents, in order to gain a livelihood, but some Dorcas would naturally work upon garments for the poor. Any elder could pray over the sick, but women have always been the best nurses. And we must recall the fact that the women of Greece, of Corinth, and other places, occupied substantially the present position of the Mohammedan women,—they were excluded from society. Who should help them if not the Christians of their own sex? The necessity of caring for the deserving would thus naturally fall upon those the best adapted for the work. The strong presumption is that men and women would be appointed to carry out the work of the church.

Now, leaving out for the present the question whether these deacons were young or old, male or female, we must notice the necessity and the wisdom of their appointment.

It is a fact that the seven mentioned in Acts vi are nowhere called “deacons,” yet the office work of these men was of the same nature as that accomplished by those called deacons elsewhere. They were appointed to serve the tables of charity, διακονεῖν τραπέζαις, because some of the Grecian widows were neglected in the daily ministrations ἐν τῇ διακονίᾳ. The twelve declared to the disciples, “It is not reason that we should . . . serve tables." Others must do such work. Dean Alford says of this passage, "The universal consent of all Christian writers in regarding this as the institution of the office of deacons should not be overlooked."*

* See the admirable and exhaustive argument of Dr. Dexter, Congregationalism, pp. 68-136, inclusive.

This appointment demands our notice for two reasons: firstly, it was a necessity,—a supplement to the work of the twelve. The apostles declared their own inability to do this special work. When we remember that, besides all outside missionary expenditures, the church at Rome supported and cared for 1,500 of the poor and sick daily, we can observe the necessity. Lecky, in his History of European Morals, tells us that the church in Antioch, in the year 250, supported 3,000 of the needy every day. These were, perhaps, exceptional instances, but they exhibit the fact made known by the apostles that the establishment of the office was an outgrowth of pure necessity.

Secondly, the founding of this office in the Christian church was a work of the Holy Ghost. These persons must be "full of the Holy Ghost."

Now, brethren, this office, made sacred by the Holy Ghost in the beginning of the day of his manifest glorious power,—made sacred because the church could not possibly do its work without it,—holds to-day, unless you can prove that the necessity for such service is laid aside, or that the Holy Ghost has signified any modification of the office in the methods of its administration. Unless we can see undoubted reasons for giving up the method then laid down under a special divine appointment, we must make the diaconate now what it was then.

The necessity for continuing the office is practically asserted in the fact that every church to-day has the office, though doubtless without its original methods.

We now take another step in the argument in order to discover who were appointed to the office. We have already observed that, from the peculiar mission of the church and because of the peculiar condition of society, it is altogether probable that men and women would be elected to such a service.

Who were appointed? Why, men of course. In all the eighteen centuries no one has ever disputed man's ability and right thus to serve. So far so good. It remains for us, having assented to the strong probability, to say that woman was not only eligible but also chosen to such an office.

* Alford denies that this was the institution of the ecclesiastical order so named, but continues, "That the subsequent office of deacon was founded upon this appointment is very probable."

Prof. Hackett advances the same idea.

Bloomfield, in his "Critical Notes," claims that they were deacons. Alexander and Lange are also emphatically of this opinion. Authorities might be multiplied.

In Paul's Epistle to Timothy (third chapter) he defines the necessary qualifications for the two offices of the church,—the bishopric and the diaconate. The first seven verses declare what the bishop must be,—our translation "bishop" meaning literally "overseer." From the eighth through the thirteenth verses inclusive is the declaration concerning the qualifications for the office of deacon.

This is the common reading:—

8. Likewise must the deacons be grave, not double-tongued, not given to much wine, not greedy of filthy lucre;

9. Holding the mystery of the faith in a pure conscience.

10. And let these also first be proved; then let them use the office of a deacon, being found blameless.

11. Even so must their wives be grave, not slanderers, sober, faithful in all things.

12. Let the deacons be the husbands of one wife, ruling their children and their own houses well.

13. For they that have used the office of a deacon well purchase to themselves a good degree, and great boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jesus.

Dean Alford well asks these four questions concerning the word γυναῖκας, in the eleventh verse. (1) Are they women who were to serve as deacons? or (2) wives of the deacons? or (3) wives of the deacons and overseers? or (4) women in general? The last question he dismisses as unworthy our notice. The suggestion that they are the wives of the overseers and deacons he regards as extremely improbable, since no such suggestion could come in the connection. Against the second question, "Are they wives of deacons?" he places (a) the omission of all expressed reference to the deacons, such as our interpreters in the King James translation assumed, and which might be expressed by ἀντῶν or τάς; (b) the expression of ἑκάστης (8th v.), marking the reference to a new ecclesiastical class; (c) he continues the introduction of the injunction coming in the next verse, "Let the deacons be the husbands of one wife," would not have been given if their wives had been mentioned before; (d) the fact to which we must assent, connected with the mention of Phœbe as deacon of the church in Cenchrea. Alford thus resumes: "I decide, then, that these women are deaconesses" or deacons. There was not a dissenting voice against such an interpretation for centuries.*

Pliny mentions two servants, "who were called deaconesses." Chrysostom writes to "my lady the deaconess." Besides the implied existence of female deacons by the Councils of Nicea, Laodicea, and Carthage, we have an express statement in the 15th Canon of the

* I perhaps might be pardoned for stating here that the best exegesis of the whole subject found in an extended research, is an article in the Bib. Sacra., Jan. 1873, by Prof. G. Anderson, of Newton.

Council of Chalcedon: "The deaconess shall not be ordained before her fortieth year," etc.

Neander, in his History, declares the office to have been held by women beyond all doubt. Dr. Schaff says, "The existence of such deaconesses in the apostolic church is placed beyond a doubt by Rom. xvi : 1, where Paul commends to the kind interests of the Roman Christians . . . Phœbe, a deacon of the church which is at Cenchrea. In all probability Tryphena, Tryphosa, and Persis, who are praised for all their labor in the Lord, served the Roman church in the same capacity."*

Thus, from the exegesis of Scripture, the unanimous and concurrent testimonies of the early centuries, and the ripe scholarship of the present day, we must accept the fact that the diaconate was a divinely appointed office, and was filled by men and women.

We now advance another step in our line of thought, adducing other authorities, while, at the same time, we give the convictions of early Congregationalists, that in their judgment the office was required in their day.

Gov. Bradford testifies concerning a deaconess in the church at Amsterdam. Neal, in his History of the Puritans, thus speaks the conviction of a convocation of sixty Congregational clergymen assembled in London, "touching deacons of both sorts, viz. men and women, the church shall be admonished what is required by the apostle." Robert Browne, in 1582, speaks of the "deaconess as the widow." Letchford, in his Plain Dealing, or Neues from New England, thus speaks: "The deaconesses to shew mercy with cheerfulness, and to minister to the sick and poorer brethren." †

Davenport and Hooke (pastor and teacher of the church in New Haven), in their catechism, published in 1659, thus speak: "The deacon who is to administer the church's treasure with simplicity, unto whom is included the widow or deaconess, who is to attend the sick and impotent with compassion and cheerfulness." Cotton Mather asserts the same. Repeated references may be found in Bingham's Antiquities, as also in Coleman's Antiquities. The Cambridge Platform (ch. VII, § 7) recognizes this office of deaconess: "The Lord hath appointed ancient widows (where they may be had) to minister to the church in giving attendance to the sick, and to give succor unto them and others in like necessities."

* History of the Apostolic Church, page 535. See also notes in Dr. Dexter's Congregationalism, pp. 68, 69.

† In a Brief Narration of the Practices of the Churches in New England, reprinted in the Congregational Quarterly of April, 1875, is the following: "To the deacon's office we would add deaconesses where such may be had, according to which should be widows of the church, faithful, approved, and full of good works. who may give themselves to works of mercy cheerfully, and to be serviceable also to those that are sick, when the deacons so conveniently cannot, and sometime so modestly may not send their help as that sex may."

Such testimony proves that our Pilgrim and Puritan fathers believed in the necessity of the primitive diaconate.

Now, brethren, we who take the ground that men and women should be elected to fulfil the duties of an active diaconate, are no innovators. We stand on the Cambridge Platform, with Cotton Mather and Goy. Bradford and Davenport,—fair exponents of the New England Puritan polity; we stand upon the testimony of the early Christian fathers; nay, we stand upon the records of the apostles and the primitive churches. It remains for those who have departed from the primitive and inspired order to prove such a course as theirs to be right. The burden of proof rests with you. Unless you can prove that there are no conditions of society leading to a necessity for such an office as the Holy Ghost created in the church, then you are compelled to restore it. And if you say that the office was purely temporary, then you cast discredit upon the framers of the Cambridge Platform and upon the opinions of the New England fathers which would illy become this old association of churches.*

But, brethren, no one will assert that this office, inspired and established by the Holy Ghost, was merely temporary, else why do we profess to keep it in our churches to-day? The existing fact is our confession of its solemn appointment; but why are two thirds of our entire church membership silent as regards any official action of the church? Because the institution of sisterhoods robbed the churches of this branch of work. So shall we refrain from restoring it to its primitive simplicity and beauty?

The work of the church in all ages is the same,—care for the poor, the sick, the stranger, the prisoner. Are we released from more active service?

It may be said that this Christian commonwealth and nation assumes a large share of this work, but no one will assert that it does even a tithe of what is required. Of course the Commonwealth must bear its heavy taxation of $1,000,000 annually because of crime, and yet this does not release us from visiting those in prison. It is practically true that every time the iron door shuts the prisoner in, it shuts him out from the world's sympathy. Shall it be said that the State relieves us? Why, friends! there is a new volume printed by the Massachusetts Legislature every year, the saddest of all sad books to read,—the Report of the Board of State Charities. Listen to such statements as these from the last Report, just issued: "Our State hospitals are in a less satisfactory condition than they were ten years ago." Again: "It will be long, probably, before we shall see paupers constantly cared for even by second-rate nurses." Take the Report of 1867 (and the last year declares no improvement) of our State almshouse at Tewksbury. After a sad report concerning the 150 insane, the 200 sick, 200 children, and 200 of all others, these words are written: "It will hardly be desired by our people that the sick and helpless poor of the State should fare worse than the convicts in our prisons; but it will be seen by a reference to the Secretary's tables that such has been the case." Think of 153 children sent there and 130 of them dying before the close of the year, and of the fact that on the average, upon nearly every day in the year, a pauper's grave is dug for some one whom death has taken thence! No one here will say that the almshouses are doing our work. Save under most extraordinary conditions the poor should not be sent thither: it involves a complete breaking up of the family, which no Christian could recommend, as a general rule. The tenth Report of the Board speaks of the pride of families as revolting against the almshouse, and then states, "A few dollars for fuel, rent, or provisions would save them. They will starve rather than go to the poor-house."*

* The reasons for the discontinuance of the office of deaconess are obvious. Coleman, in his Christian Antiquities, page 65, says: "As early as the fifth and sixth centuries the office of deaconess ceased in the western church. After this, many offices of charity, which they were wont to perform to the poor and the sick, were discharged by the sisters of the church."

There is a wide distinction between pauperism and poverty.† There are a thousand poor people where there is one pauper. The State deals with the paupers; the churches or individuals must deal with the poor.‡ The churches of to-day with all our charitable institutions, are as surely required to care for the sick and the poor and the unfortunate as were the churches of Rome and of Antioch. The diaconate of to-day must mean something more than giving dignity to a church; more than distributing the elements from the Lord's table. Felt, in his admirable Ecclesiastical History of New England, has recorded that the Great and General Court of Connecticut exempted deacons from training, watching, and warding in civil affairs; but for some reason or other the laws of the present day are framed upon the principle that deacons can be drafted and spared like other men.

We need, as churches, to do what the church of Dr. Chalmers did in Glasgow. Dr. McFarlane, Chalmers' successor, wrote, "With an income from collections not much exceeding £300 we kept down the pauperism of a parish containing a population of 10,000; and I know from actual observation that the poor were in better condition and were more contented and happy than the poor in the other parishes of Glasgow." This church work reduced the expenses from $7,000 annually to $1,400. Real Christian charity is a saving of money. No! respected brethren, it is impossible to prove that the conditions of society release us from just such efforts as those of Dr. Chalmers and his church, which is a repetition of the primitive church efforts for good.

*These statements, which are samples of many more to be found in the several volumes of Reports, are sufficient to show the inefficiency of the work of the State, judged by its own servants. Far be it from us to depreciate the good accomplished; and yet its chief care is given to its criminals and paupers.

†See a work by Tuckerman, entitled Elevation of the Poor, issued by Roberts Bros., last year.

‡The fullest record of our home charitable institutions is found in the Appendix to Secretary's Report, Board of State Charities, 1873; but even this is imperfect.

The conditions in our churches are these: Our deacons are usually business men, hard-working men, who will confess, every man of them here, that they are unable to do all which they know should be done; and they will confess that there is a work in every church which ladies must do, e. g. care for the sick, visiting strangers. Take our manufacturing places: it is woman's true province to call upon the operatives, where men could not go. Two thirds of our church members are women, the large part of whom have leisure. Why shall not these sisters assist in doing this special work?

I shall call you to notice woman's efforts in four directions; and from her marked success in each shall lay claim to the necessity of appointing her to similar efforts at home.

First, her work in foreign lands. The fact that more ladies than men go forth as missionaries is proof conclusive of their ability, and our estimation of it. There is many a life, as pure and noble as that of the sainted Fidelity Fisk or of the Mrs. Judsons, unwritten. The work in Mexico is led by the unassuming and gifted Miss Rankin. The Rev. Mr. Trowbridge, of Marash, has dictated to me this statement: "Our female workers are doing more to overthrow the Mohammedan religion than any other class of laborers in Turkey." Secondly, woman's work in the late Sanitary Commission and in our army hospitals is a fair exhibition of what she can do at home for the sick and the suffering. Thirdly, woman's work among the poor. Nearly all the city missionaries of Boston are ladies, and they are not appointed because of economy, but because they can do the best general work. This from their superintendent. Their work is really that of the diaconate. Fourthly. Woman as a Christian teacher. Recall her position as a teacher in all our Sabbath Schools. One asked Mr. Spurgeon, "Who is the most efficient man in your church?" He replied characteristically, "Mrs. Bartlett," and referred to her class of one thousand adults every Sunday. Prof. Washburn, of Constantinople, in a pamphlet entitled Woman, Her Work in the Church, says of the celebrated Institution at Kaisersworth, under Pastor Fleidner, where Florence Nightingale was trained for her wonderful work, "I know of no work done by the church in Germany which is winning more souls to Christ than this."*

* We point the reader to an able article by the Rev. Joseph Anderson, published in the Congregational Quarterly, Jan. 1874; subject, The Office of Deaconess in Congregational Churches. The many references there given to works in which this broad question is discussed will be of great service to the student.

These facts prove how really we commission women to work in every field outside our immediate parishes; and their great success there declares not only what they can do at home, but also at the same time the necessity of our commissioning them to do this work. But, some will say, women are perfectly willing to do the work for which they are not officially responsible, and will do it as well. But let us look upon this objection. Our churches have commissioned the Woman's Board of Missions just as truly as they have the American Board. Why did they not rest content in giving their assistance to the American Board without another commission? Surely not because the American Board ever refused to send ladies to mission fields. There are already five hundred and forty-four thoroughly organized woman's auxiliaries. The same great principle underlies woman's work at home.

Again, it is objected that woman would not take the title. Every auxiliary of the Woman's Board, and every Sewing Society, has titled officers. They who think more of the title than of the privilege in rendering service for Christ's church, make such an objection. They who love to do Christ's work care nothing for the title which every authorized servant of Christ must bear. The fact obtains just as truly now as in the earlier centuries: they who can do the required work the most efficiently must naturally be chosen to do it. While men must be chosen, let us not forget those women who labored with Paul in the gospel. Let us not forget that "amid all the clamor of tongues that yelled through the streets of Jerusalem against the blessed Redeemer, no woman's voice was heard. In every instance where a woman appears in the gospel it is to shelter and give a home to the houseless Son of man. They were the last to leave the cross and the first to proclaim the resurrection." They are ready to do their Lord's work among the sick and suffering and outcasts, even in highways and byways to-day.

It may be yet further objected that such a course as the one proposed is impracticable. It was not impracticable during the first four Christian centuries; it was not impracticable when the Reformation began. Besides, such a record as that of the First Church in Chelsea, Mass., the past year, refutes the objection, and this church is but one among several acting upon the old custom. The framers of the Cambridge Platform were not visionary men; the Puritans were not mere dreamers when they laid out the great work for the church to do and then ordained men and women to do it.*

Whenever it shall be impracticable to do the work which our Lord requires of the church, then, and not till then, shall we condemn the appointment of deacons suitable to such an office work. We have not yet outgrown the common-sense, scriptural doctrine, that men and women can most efficiently labor in the parish as well as in outside work; besides, the church, being an organization, must do its work through those who are officially recognized and ordained by the church.

It will be objected that women may be appointed a committee to care for the sick and the poor, and such like work. This is the work of the diaconate. But it is said they need not be called "deacon" or "deaconess." And yet these churches have men in the diaconate to do their work. Now, if we choose persons to do the work of the office, but say we will withhold the title, we simply say that Paul should have been wiser than to call Phœbe a deacon; and no such church could ever consistently elect a man to the diaconate: and this would be un-Congregational.

Respected brethren and fathers, I have endeavored to present a clear and unprejudiced argument for your candid consideration. I have raised the very objections in other times which I have here endeavored briefly to refute. But logically I can arrive at no other conclusion than this: The diaconate being an office for all time in the Christian church, its office work is in substance the same to-day as in the first century, and requires, as then, the most efficient of its workers to be ordained to that office; remembering on our part that in Christ Jesus there is neither male nor female.

We are come upon a period which calls for great Christian activity. A word by way of remembrance is what we need.

You may pass from room to room in the Congregational House in Boston to learn what this Association of Churches has done and is doing for Christ's cause elsewhere. Our nation is large, these State Associations many; and yet of all the donations to the Missionary Association the churches of this old Commonwealth make up a fifth. From the Atlantic beach even to the far-off Golden Gate every church speaks of Home Missions; and yet of the $292,000 received last year from all the churches those of Massachusetts gave $126,000. Of the $141,000 expended in assisting young men, for the last six years, to enter the ministry, these same old churches gave more than $95,000. And, standing in the Association which, at Bradford in 1810, baptized as its child the American Board, we may remember that now as then our churches are true in their faith and hope. If to our Congregational churches the nations look with respect because of the $476,000 they last year cast into the treasury of Foreign Missions, they need not know what is the fact,—that of the whole $476,000, these Massachusetts churches gave $274,000. The life is here,—the spirit is here.

These things ought we to have done; but not to leave any home duties, to those who need our sympathy and aid, undone. The simple fact that in the latest official statistics, ending January 1, 1874, the gain in membership, above losses by death and excommunication, is only an average of about $1\frac{3}{8}$ to each of our churches in this State, will preclude the possibility of our falling back upon the assertion that things are well enough as they are.* The church, like the man who soweth bountifully, shall reap also bountifully. The work of the primitive church is, for substance, our work; and the offices which they instituted by divine appointment we must fill with those who are the most competent to do the work.

*That Massachusetts is not alone in such a small increase as that noticed in the paper, we may take the grand total of our gains in the United States, of 9,296 above losses by death and excommunication (those by letter being simply an interchange between sister churches). Divided among our 3,403 churches we have the average gain of 2 2-3 for each church in the year ending January 1, 1874. But not to regard this year as an exception, let us look at the admirable tables of statistics in the Congregational Quarterly, January 1, 1874. We take the eighteen years from 1857 — 1874. The average number of churches for each year is 2,829 churches. The absolute gain for those eighteen years, above losses by death and excommunication, was 134,367, or an average total gain to each church in eighteen years of nearly 43, — or an average yearly gain of 2 1-3 persons to each church. And we may add that during this time our population has been increased by about twelve millions. We held the field at the outset. These statistics should lead us to stronger efforts, as Congregational Churches, at home as well as abroad.

A STATEMENT CONCERNING THE DEACONESSES OF THE FIRST CHURCH, CHELSEA.

BY REV. ADDISON P. FOSTER.

AFTER the theory on this subject, presented so ably by our brother, it may not be inappropriate to give a statement as to the practice of one of our churches in the same direction.

For a year and a half the First Congregational Church of Chelsea has enjoyed the services of a Board of Deaconesses. The amount of work which these women have found to do, abundantly proves that there is as much need of the office in these modern days as in the time of the apostles.

One department of their effort has regard to new-comers. Whenever new families connect themselves with the congregation, or show any inclination to attend church, the deaconesses take pains to call immediately and give them a welcome, and also to hand their names and residences to the pastor that he may show a similar courtesy. At the church sociables, also, the deaconesses seek to make these strangers acquainted by introducing them to others. These services are of great value in a church like that at Chelsea, inasmuch as people are constantly coming and going, and without continued effort it would be impossible to keep up acquaintance in a population so changeable. So, also, when there are changes of residence in the parish, which are constantly occurring, these ladies take note of the fact, and as soon as possible, inform the pastor that he may know where to find his people.

What can be, is done, in inducing church neglecters to attend public worship. Now and then one is thus persuaded, and more especially are children brought into the Sabbath School. Not so much is done in these directions, however, as might be by the assistance of other church members. The little time which the deaconesses can command is so fully occupied with the needs of those already more or less closely connected with the parish that as yet little work, distinctively outside, has been accomplished.

In cases of sickness the help of the deaconesses is invaluable. They call often to express their sympathy, perhaps to make a prayer at the bedside of the sick, and always to offer their services. In families which are comparatively unknown and with but few friends in the city, they are able to render efficient assistance at such times. When watchers are needed, they either watch themselves or send others. They have a list of several ladies and gentlemen who have volunteered to watch with the sick, whenever called upon. In cases of infirmity, such, for example, as are caused by old age or blindness, they have shown many kindnesses, visiting often, and sometimes spending an hour at a time in reading aloud.

In cases of affliction, the deaconesses are always welcome. They have sometimes assisted in laying out the dead. In families who lacked other aid, and were ignorant as to what to do, they have made arrangements for the funeral. If they learned of sudden trials in business, or in the loss of friends out of town, or of mental distress, however caused, they have sent word to the pastor if they judged that a call from him could carry comfort.

In a parish like the one under mention, there will necessarily be much destitution, and largely among those who are sensitive in regard to assistance. The deaconesses, so far as able, meet this want. A small sum is voted them from the funds of the church, and replenished at their request, to be used at their discretion to supply immediate necessities. For example, one of the deaconesses, calling last winter in the evening, found a family who had been without food or fire since morning, and it had been a bitterly cold day. She instantly bought a basket of coal, and food, from a neighboring store, and the next day made provision for their permanent relief. The deacons are sometimes in doubt as to the direction and extent in which the benefactions of the church should go. Several times the deaconesses have looked up such cases and made a report to guide their action. The same sort of assistance is afforded the Ladies' Benevolent Society. The deaconesses suggest to the Society that such and such things should be done, such clothing furnished, and the Society gladly carries out their wish. Indeed, it is regarded as a part of their duty to enlist the co-operation of others wherever they can. The idea is not that they should do the work of all the rest, but rather supervise certain departments of Christian activity, and lead the way in them. Other boards and organizations in the church are glad of their suggestions. Several ladies stand ready to assist them in whatever ways are possible, and have repeatedly taken up certain activities at their request.

But it were in vain to attempt a list of all that these deaconesses have been able to do. We must not pause to speak of the occupation they have found for poor girls seeking work; of boarding-places secured for strangers; of the neglected or less known in the congregation who have been sought out and made to feel at home; of the statistics collected for the use of the pastor. All this and much more have they been enabled incidentally to accomplish.

We must not forget, however, to bear witness that the help these ladies give the pastor can hardly be exaggerated. On the one hand, they are always ready to do anything which he may suggest; for example, on one occasion a stranger called on the pastor and informed him that at such a number, on such a street, was a large family of little children who would be glad to go to the Sabbath School, but were too poor to go properly clothed. The pastor reported the case to the deaconess in whose district it fell; she called at once at the place indicated, asked aid of the Benevolent Society, and in a Sabbath or two, six or eight bright little children came into the Sabbath School as the result. Many and many a time when the pastor was in doubt as to his own duty in some matter, has he requested the deaconesses to ascertain the facts, and afterward acted on their report. They admirably supplement his pastoral labors. Where frequent calls are needed, as in cases of severe sickness, and he cannot possibly find time to call every day, their presence in his place is very acceptable and largely makes good the lack. It is one of the most pleasant features of their work that they have been, in all families of the congregation, whatever their condition and standing, almost invariably welcome.

On the other hand, the deaconesses give the pastor such information that he can use the few hours each day at his command for pastoral work, to the best advantage. They inform him of those cases which most need his attention. It is thus that he comes to know of sickness, sorrow, religious interest, in his parish, and to find out those who, as new-comers, would receive a visit gladly.

But enough of the work these ladies do. A word as to their organization.

There is a Committee of Nomination in the church whose business it is to keep the Board of Deaconesses full. The term of office is but one year; for though the church desired to make it three years, the ladies would not consent to serve so long. But not only does a term soon run out, but quite frequently, by reason of domestic duties or removal from the city, some one of the incumbents is obliged to resign. It then falls to this committee immediately to decide on some fit person to fill the vacancy, ascertain if she will consent to serve, and put her name in nomination before the church. This is deemed indispensable; for the office of deaconess is such a delicate and responsible position, requiring such peculiar gifts, that it would be unwise, in a church of nearly seven hundred members, to elect one at random and without the careful deliberation of a committee.

It has been found that for deaconesses we need women of devoted piety, of sound judgment, of tact in approaching others, of warm hearts, of closed lips, able sacredly to keep a secret, of sufficient age to ensure them the respect of all and yet not of so great age as that their growing infirmities may check their activities, and, withal, possessed of sufficient leisure to find time for the work before them. This may seem a formidable list of qualifications, and we cannot expect to find them in perfection in any one; and yet scarcely a church is without women who possess largely the essential points of fitness.

There has been no little difficulty in securing ladies who were willing to take the office. The name has stood in the way. At first they were called church-visitors to avoid this objection; but it was felt that it was due the office and no more than proper respect to scriptural precedent, to call these ladies by the name God had given them. There was a definiteness and dignity given to the office by calling them deaconesses which could be secured in no other way. The name, however, was not altogether pleasant to some; it had been, in their minds, connected with those sisterhoods which exist in the Episcopal Church in this country and in some other denominations in the Old World. "Why," said some of our ladies who had been elected to the office, "we are not deaconesses, we do quite a different work from that of the Kaiserwerth deaconesses, or those of Dr. Cullis." It took no little time to convince them that the word was misused in such connections, and that the female diaconate was not a sisterhood, but just such an office as our Congregational Churches are now introducing, in imitation of the practice of primitive Christianity.

There has been the natural diffidence at assuming the office which always attends the introduction of something previously unknown. It was not certain what would be expected of the deaconesses or how they would be received in their work. This difficulty, however, is wearing away, and as the office becomes a more thoroughly recognized part of the church organization, will disappear.

The greatest difficulty of all has been found in the fact that our women are busy. It may be that in some communities the ladies have an abundance of leisure, but it is not so in Chelsea. They have their household affairs to manage and their children to bring up. The latter is a duty which cannot be delegated to nurse or to teacher in week, day, or Sabbath school, and if done properly requires no little time. It is distinctly recognized by pastor and people that home obligations rank first, and that husband and children must not be neglected for the sake of work outside. So when a Christian woman conscientiously declares that the multitude of her home cares forbids her assumption of this office, we do not feel at liberty to press the matter, but look elsewhere for one of more leisure.

The parish is divided into six districts, one for each of the deaconesses. This apportionment is printed in the Annual Record of the church and so distributed throughout the parish. If, then, anything occurs which needs the care of the deaconesses, it is at once known who should be called on. The deaconesses do not confine themselves within the boundaries of their own districts, but feel themselves at liberty to call here and there in any part of the parish where friendship or special fitness may suggest; they, however, are responsible for the districts assigned them.

In their work they have great assistance in a little pocket directory, which the church publishes every few years and in which is given the name of every church member and his residence. Without something of this sort, either printed or privately compiled, their work would be quite impracticable.

There is no public induction into office, but each deaconess receives, on her assumption of her duties, a full paper of instructions, carefully drawn up by the pastor, giving details as to her work and helpful suggestions.

Once a month these ladies meet the pastor and make a report to him of their work. The secretary then records the number of calls each one has made the past month; also, the number of calls on the sick, the number of watchers provided, and other such facts as are worthy of preservation. In this meeting the deaconesses talk over with the pastor the difficulties of their work, confer with him concerning different families and individuals, call to his attention cases which need his personal care, and receive suggestions from him. The meeting has been found to be extremely profitable to all concerned. Both deaconesses and pastor are strengthened by it.

In addition, the deaconesses hold a fortnightly meeting by themselves for prayer, which they declare to be very helpful and stimulating to them in carrying on their work.

No public account of their work has ever been given in the meetings of the church. Very many touching accounts could be given of the good they have done; but their work is of such a private and often delicate character that it is doubtful if any public reports could be made which would not do more harm than good. Even in their conferences among themselves and with their pastor, it is understood that their conversations are, and must be, sacredly confidential. It is possible something more might be done to awaken a general interest on the part of the church in their work, but thus far all public mention of what they are doing has been confined to brief statements in the Annual Record, printed by the church, and in the annual anniversary sermon of the pastor. The statement of the Record for 1874 was as follows:—

“The deaconesses have made during the year 1,399 calls; of these, 511 were on the sick. Watchers provided, 25.”

As to the usefulness of the office, everything depends on the character of those who serve, and we can cherish no kinder wish for those churches who may propose to return to the scriptural practice than to hope that they may be as fortunate as the First Church in Chelsea has been in securing for the position women whose wisdom and devotion shall make the office a grand success.

PRAYER-MEETINGS: HOW TO KILL THEM AND HOW TO MAKE THEM ALIVE.

BY REV. WASHINGTON GLADDEN.

It is easy enough, too easy indeed, to kill a prayer-meeting. I have seen it done by a small kitten. A lively bat or an impulsive June-bug can damage one badly. It is not greatly to the credit of those who meet to pray that their devotions can be so easily disturbed. If our spiritual life were a little more vigorous, our hold upon things unseen and eternal would not be shaken off by such trivial accidents. I speak, however, of what is and not of what ought to be; and nothing is plainer than that those moods of mind which are the conditions of a good prayer-meeting are, with the majority of worshippers, somewhat fitful and mutable. A study of some of the more usual methods by which devotional feeling is shut out, or banished from the assembly, may be of service.

In the first place, a prayer-meeting may be killed by holding it in an uncomfortable room. If the temperature be so low that the feet tingle with the cold, and the singers execute involuntary trills as they discourse the melodies of Zion, it will be difficult, if not impossible, to have an enjoyable meeting. There is not much use in asking people to sing, “Warm our hearts in prayer and praise,

Lift our every thought above,”

When their bodies are shaking with an ague-chill, and in spite of themselves, their every thought is chained to their aching members. If, on the other hand, the room is so warm and the atmosphere so foul that the worshippers are stifled or stupefied by it, the same result will follow. If men were pure spirits, they might be happy and devotional under such circumstances; but they have bodies as well as spirits, and they find it convenient, generally, to take their bodies to prayer-meeting with them; and if you contrive to make these bodies of theirs thoroughly uncomfortable, you will be likely to prevent them from deriving any spiritual profit from the service.

2. Another good way to kill a prayer-meeting is to scatter a small congregation over a large space, so that the people shall hardly be within hailing distance of one another, or else to huddle them together in the back seats, while the leader sits stranded on the platform at the other end of the room, with a waste expanse of empty pews between him and the assembly. It goes far to disturb the devotions of the most devout just to think of the lonesomeness and ludicrousness of the leader's position, perched away up there behind the pulpit, and calling dolefully down across the barren benches to the distant worshippers,

"Though sundered far, by faith we meet Around one common mercy-seat."

It may be so, but it takes a very strong faith to realize it. I have thought not a little about the attraction which the back seats have for the average prayer-meeting goer, and am not quite clear in mind about the reason of it. The same people are affected quite differently when they go to a concert or a lecture; and if, in the distribution of seats in the Lord's house, that one should be assigned to them which they always choose in the prayer-meeting, they would be greatly offended. The fact seems to be that in the prayer-meeting there is some actual service required of those who attend, and for that reason there is a disposition to skulk and hide. Of course, nothing can prosper when any such disposition as this prevails, and the leader ought to exterminate it, even if he have to use heroic remedies. When it is the custom to call upon persons to take part in the meeting, it might be well to make it the invariable rule to call first on those who sit in the back seats. Let it be understood that that is the exposed position. A fire in the rear sometimes has a stimulating effect upon stragglers.

Or if the people will settle down at the rear of the room, let the leader follow them back. By some means let the assembly be made compact. If I had a prayer-room too large for my prayer-meeting, and did not want to see the meeting put to death, I would insist that those who came should sit together; and I would carry my point, too, even if it became necessary to procure ropes and tie up the ends of the pews that I did not want occupied, or to have that portion of the room not needed cut off by screens.

3. It is well known that long speeches and long prayers are usually fatal to a prayer-meeting; and to secure its taking off by this method, it will be useful for the leader to begin by offering a long prayer, and reading a long chapter, and making a long speech, and giving out two long hymns and having them sung to slow tunes. If from twenty minutes to half an hour of the time can be consumed in this way by the leader, the meeting will, as a general thing, be in a moribund condition by the time he sits down. The example which he has set is sure to be followed, and in a very short time some unusually prolix brother will give it its finishing stroke.

4. Debates on doctrinal subjects; especially on those subjects about which nobody in the world knows anything,—on questions purely philosophical or speculative,—are also very effectual in killing prayer-meetings. If you can get up a good lively discussion about foreordination, or perseverance, or the intermediate state, or the nature of the resurrection body, you will put an end to the life of the meeting very soon. That flame of sacred love which burns flickeringly at best on our altars of prayer is quickly put out by a good, stiff breeze of disputation.

5. A free indulgence of criticism by those in attendance upon the prayers or exhortations of those who take part in the meeting will, in time, injure it mortally. Let those who are wont to speak or pray understand that it is the habit of the rest to talk disparagingly of their abilities or their utterances; let their expressions be quoted and turned to ridicule; let their slips of grammar be noted and commented on; let their infelicitous sayings be reported; in short, let it be understood, or at least suspected, that the exercises of the prayer-room are dealt with by a large number of those who frequent the place just as if they were performances; that they are not accepted as the sincere but faulty utterances of souls seeking the truth, crying out in the darkness after God, but are criticised by the canons of rhetoric and taste, and in a very short time there will be no vitality to speak of left in the prayer-meeting. Those who listen in this critical mood are not in the proper frame of mind to receive good, and those who, conscious of this critical atmosphere that surrounds them, undertake to speak or pray, are not apt to have any good thing to impart; and between them the enjoyment and profit of the meeting are destroyed.

6. If none of these means are effectual, there is one thing that never fails to kill. Turn the prayer-room into a wailing-place. Take up a good part of every evening in talking about the coldness and the deadness of the church, and lamenting that so few come up to her solemn feasts. Sing very frequently the familiar verses, —

Fond of these trifling toys;
Our souls can neither fly nor go
To reach immortal joys.

“In vain we tune our formal songs,
In vain we strive to rise;
Hosannas languish on our tongues,
And our devotion dies.”

If you will sing that, and try to enter into the spirit of it, every Thursday evening, your devotion will die after a little. It may live for a while at a poor dying rate; but if it should linger, try a little vigorous scolding of those who are there because others are not there, and that will quickly put it out of its misery.

Such are some of the most approved methods of killing prayer-meetings. I might enlarge upon this branch of the subject, but perhaps it is not necessary.

How to make a prayer-meeting alive is a much harder problem. In most of our Congregational Churches it has at least a name to live; very few of them have abandoned it altogether; and in a great many — I trust the large majority — of them the meeting is thoroughly alive, and bringing forth good fruit every year. That description of the average prayer-meeting which appeared in Scribner's Monthly some months since, was, I trust and believe, a caricature rather than a picture of the actual prayer-meeting of the period. In most of our churches it is a much less stupid affair than it was there represented to be. I am greatly mistaken if these meetings are not, as a general thing, more attractive and more effective for good in this year of grace than they ever were before. It is not, therefore, the miracle of restoring a dead prayer-meeting to life which I am to discuss, but rather the natural and rational methods of maintaining the existence and increasing the vitality of those that are already alive.

1. In the first place, as we have already seen, the place in which the meeting is held has much to do with its pleasantness and profitableness. There are those whose faith is so robust that it can defy untoward circumstances, but it is not so with all; and a good prayer-meeting implies not only the spiritual quickening of a few, but the profiting of the whole assembly. The room ought to be warm in the winter, always warm; so that the people shall have no misgivings when the bell rings as to whether they shall suffer if they answer its summons; it ought to be well ventilated at all seasons of the year.

It is quite possible to have an excellent prayer-meeting in an ordinary lecture-room with fixed pews; but that is not the best model of a prayer-room. A pleasant parlor, carpeted, with pictures on the walls and chairs arranged in circles round the leader, is much better. What we want to secure is freedom and familiarity, and there is likely to be less constraint and less reserve in such a room as this than in one where the people sit in straight rows on immovable benches.

2. Who shall lead the meeting? The best man, whoever he may be. The system of rotating leaders, which is in vogue in many churches, has some advantages; but on the whole, I think it is not the best system. The members of a regiment would not wisely take turns in commanding, whether in camp or on the battle-field. Some special gifts are required for the successful conduct of a prayer meeting,—gifts which are not possessed by a good many of those who attend the meeting. The discipline gained by those who lead may be worth something; but all the discipline in the world will not make some of them good leaders, and what slight benefit they gain from the exercise is gained at too great an expense to their brethren. It is sometimes the case that there are members of the church who are quite as well qualified for this service as the minister; if so, let them be called to perform it; but never spoil a meeting for the sake of giving an incompetent person a chance to exercise gifts which the Lord never gave him.

The interest of the meeting greatly depends upon the leader. He ought to be a man of some personal magnetism, ready and rapid in his mental movements, quick to seize a thought which has been left entangled in an unsuccessful statement, and set it at liberty; skilful to turn the talk of the meeting into a fruitful channel, when it is wasting itself in the sands of unprofitable discussion; prompt with a sentence of application to send the arrow home which has fallen all feathered from the bow of another. Above all, he ought to be a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, so that the meeting shall have, through him, an instant and constant impulse from on high.

His opening of the meeting had better be brief. The whole of the introductory service, singing, prayer, reading of the Scriptures, remarks, may well be brought within ten minutes. It is not always necessary to read a whole chapter; the divisions of God's Word into chapters and verses are not inspired, and may often be disregarded with great profit. There ought to be one theme, and only one, presented for the consideration of the meeting; that theme may be found clearly presented in a single verse, or a very few verses selected from different parts of the Bible. It is better to read only what bears on the subject in hand. The remarks which the leader makes, if he make any, ought to be concise and pointed. Perhaps it may be as well simply to state the question, and leave the rest to unfold the truth about it. In a few well-chosen words, let him indicate the direction which the thought of the meeting ought to take and then give way.

All stereotyped methods of opening or conducting the meeting ought to be avoided. Begin sometimes with reading, sometimes with prayer, sometimes with singing, speak sometimes standing and sometimes, when you have at best a few familiar words to say, sitting. Keep out of everything that looks like a rut. Don't have the same old prayer-meeting every time: have a new one, fresh from heaven, with a life of its own, a lesson of its own, a character of its own, every week.

It is important that the leader should be ready for the meeting. Not only ought he to have a clear understanding of the topic under discussion, but all his preparation ought to be made before he goes into the room; so that he shall have no Scripture or hymns to hunt up while the congregation is waiting, so that he shall go instantly from one exercise to another. If his part of the meeting moves on in this prompt fashion, the rest of it will be more likely to move in the same way.

3. I have assumed that there should always be a theme of prayer and remark announced beforehand, either on Sunday or at the previous meeting. It is better that the service should have some unity of purpose and impression. There is less danger from routine, and more likelihood of intelligent and profitable remark, if the topic be announced and adhered to. Some wisdom is called for, however, in the choice of subjects. It may be well to take from the Bible a series of related passages, such as the parables, or the miracles of our Lord, or the letters to the seven churches; or if single topics are selected, let them be of a practical character,—themes that take hold of the religious life of the individual. Such plain subjects as these we have been talking about in our prayer-meeting lately: “Repentance,” “Conversion,” “Evidences of Conversion; or, How may I know whether I am a Christian or not?” “Consecration,” “The Conditions of Church Membership,” “The Benefits of Church Membership.” We have found no little interest and profit in trying to understand more clearly some of these cardinal truths of practical religion. I think we shall take up, by and by, some of these themes which come a little closer to every-day duty, such as Honesty in Trade; Evil Speaking; Religion in the Family; Neighborly Kindness; Pride and Humility; Ostentation and Simplicity; Good and Bad Temper. We ministers preach about these matters of Christian morality: why should we not encourage our people to talk about them in the conference meetings,—to apply the truth to themselves, and to seek the grace of God in overcoming these common faults? If we want live prayer-meetings, we must bring life into our prayer-meetings,—make them deal largely with questions of life, with religion as applied to life. Such aspects of religion are full of interest to all kinds of people; and if they can see that the prayer-meeting will help them in clearing their ideas of right and wrong and strengthening their hands for the work of life, they will not need so much urging to attend it.

4. Those who take part in the meeting ought to be made to feel the importance of brevity and concentration of thought, both in their words of testimony and in their prayers. The habit of saying just one thing clearly, and stopping when that is said, ought to be cultivated. Let each one present a single aspect of the truth, the one which to him seems most important, and leave something for the rest to say. So with prayer. Encourage those who pray to ask each for that one thing which he wants most for himself or for his brethren. “This one thing I do,” said Paul. To do one thing well is better than to do two things by halves. To say one thing clearly is better than to say a dozen things unintelligibly. The concentration of the thought of each person upon one truth, of the desire of each upon one object, renders the thoughts of all more clear, the desires of all more intense. The expressions of such worshippers will be full of vividness and directness, of fervor and power.

5. The meeting ought to be so free and so familiar that one sitting in his seat might ask a question or drop a remark without rising. Sometimes a thought comes that could be expressed in a sentence. It seems hardly worth while to get up to say it; the uprising and the down-sitting make it sound affectedly sententious. Yet it would be spoken very naturally by one sitting still, if that were the usual practice, and might have a good deal more in it than many long speeches.

I remember a former parishioner of mine, a man of exceeding diffidence, who never made a speech in his life, in prayer-meeting or anywhere else, but whose daily life and conversation were both of them with grace seasoned with salt. We had a habit in our prayer-meeting of talking pretty familiarly; and although he did not often speak, when he did he usually said something. One evening we had the parable of the great supper and the wedding garment; and the fact came out that the master of the feast furnished the guests with raiment. "And is it not so with our Master?" asked somebody. "Does he not clothe us with the robe of his righteousness?"—"He does," I answered. "But we must put it on, must n't we?" asked my friend. Eight words! but nothing was left to be said on that subject.

Now, if we can attain unto a measure of freedom in our prayer-meetings which shall admit of such pithy questions and observations, I am persuaded their interest and value would be very greatly increased. Our Christian women might, in such a condition of things, open their mouths now and then greatly to the profiting of the rest of us. One step in this direction is easily taken, and that is the repetition of texts of Scripture in the pauses of the meeting by old and young, male and female. The subject is known beforehand, and those who come should be requested to bring in their memory verses of Scripture which illustrate it, and recite them as they find room for them during the evening. Sometimes these well-chosen words will go home to the hearts of the hearers with great power. Verses of hymns, or short and pertinent extracts from the writings of good men, might be repeated in the same way with profit.

My friend, Mr. Pratt, in North Adams, sometimes arranges the theme of the meeting under several heads, putting the subdivisions in the form of questions, selecting answers to them from the Bible, and distributing these at the Sunday School, among the people, taking care to include a good many of the children of the church. Thus, if the general subject were Prayer, the first question might be, "How do we know that prayer is a duty?" And the answer, recited promptly, "He spoke a parable unto them, to this end: that men ought always to pray."—"How often should we pray?"—"Pray without ceasing." And so on through as many phases of the subject as he cares to open. He tells me that those to whom verses are thus assigned rarely fail to come and repeat them; and thus not only is their attendance assured, but they get accustomed to the sound of their own voices in the prayer-meeting. His own comments on the words thus recited are brief, and he reads no other Scripture. The subject of the evening is thus pleasantly opened, and it is easy to take it up and go on with it. This calls for a little work, but less, perhaps, than you may suppose;

I have not spoken of the singing, but that must be one important feature of the best prayer-meeting. It is better to have an instrument to lead it. That makes it certain that the tunes will be rightly pitched and encourages timid singers to join their voices in the song; and no other instrument is so good for the prayer-meeting or the Sunday School as the piano-forte. Of singing-books it is well to have, in addition to the one used in the regular church services, some collection of what Mr. Bacon calls spiritual songs,—those lighter and more graceful melodies which are now so commonly in use in the prayer-room. The great majority of our worshippers, especially the younger ones, prefer these. Some of them seem almost puerile in their sentiment; but it is better not to be too fastidious about such matters. A verse that to you or to me may be very faulty, may to some others, as good Christians as we, be full of refreshment and stimulus. Such melodies as, "I need thee every hour," "One more day's work for Jesus," "He leadeth me," "The Valley of Blessing," "More love to thee, O Christ," "Whiter than snow," "The Lord will provide," are full of a tenderness and passion that are not often expressed in the statelier psalms and hymns of the church books. If you have no collection of hymns specially adapted to the prayer-meeting, resort to your Sunday-school singing-book. You will find, in most of these, many such familiar and spirited songs, which are well adapted to the uses of the social-meeting. Indeed, most of the prayer-meeting hymnals are largely made up of selections from the Sunday-school books.

The singing, and indeed all the exercises, should be as nearly as possible spontaneous. The leader may suggest a hymn now and then which fits some sentiment just expressed; and any member of the meeting ought to be free to make the same suggestion or to lead off in the singing of a verse. Never take time to read a hymn in the prayer-meeting unless there be something in it to which you wish to call special attention. It is a superfluous formality. When books were not plenty there was a reason for it: there is none now.

If you can preface the prayer-meeting with a singing-meeting fifteen minutes or half an hour in length, you may find that helpful in more ways than one. The people may be taught in this way to sing many of the tunes in the church hymn-book with which they are not familiar, and thus the congregational singing on the Lord's day may be greatly improved. Moreover, a brief season of devotional singing is an excellent preparation for the service that is to follow.

What I have said has had almost exclusive reference to methods of conducting the prayer-meeting. It will not, however, I trust, be inferred from what has been said that the best methods in the world will of themselves produce good meetings. Methods produce nothing. It is power that produces; it is life that builds. Bad methods may greatly mar the prayer-meeting, but good methods will not make it. What is wanted most is the increase of spiritual power, the invigoration of spiritual life, in those who are called to be saints. The chief reason why prayer-meetings are sometimes dull is that a good many Christian people have very little genuine religious experience to talk about. Their minds are full of other topics than those with which the prayer-meeting deals; their hands are full of other labors than those to which the prayer-meeting points: out of the emptiness of their hearts their mouths won't speak; or if they do they utter inanities. The first thing to be sought by all our churches is, therefore, the spiritual enlargement of all their members. Better praying, wiser talking, truer living, harder working will come from this, no doubt.

Yet though an increase of spiritual life is the first thing, and though methods of administration, whether in the prayer-meeting or the parish work, are subordinate, let nobody go on and say that they are of no consequence. In the nutrition of our bodies it is of course of the first importance that we should have food to eat; but our health and comfort depend in no small degree upon the way in which it is prepared. "First catch your hare"—oh, of course; but is it not then worth while to know how to cook it?

Patriotism and courage are the prime qualities of a soldier: are drill and discipline, then, of no account in an army?

Power is the first requisite in the mechanical industries: but are not the contrivances by which power is applied of some importance?

Life in the seed, sunshine and rain from the sky, fertility in the soil, these are the conditions of a good crop of corn: is it necessary, then, for the farmer to know nothing of the methods of cultivating corn?

In our Christian work we must not suppose that machinery will generate power, or that by any arts of culture we can bring dead souls to life; but on the other hand we must not despise instrumentalities. We speak of means of grace. Well, if grace comes through means, mediums, mediations, there are some, doubtless, that are better than others; it is our business to get the best, and use them faithfully. There is a divine life, but there is also a divine art by which the life finds expression. If we are wise workmen we shall know something of that.

RULES OF THE GENERAL ASSOCIATION.

I. NAME.—This body shall be called THE GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES OF MASSACHUSETTS.

II. OBJECT.—Its object is to secure Christian union, fellowship, and intercourse among the ministers and churches; promote spirituality, and to co-operate with one another and with other ecclesiastical bodies in advancing the Redeemer's kingdom.

III. DOCTRINAL BASIS.—This Association agrees to the Declaration of Faith adopted by the National Council of Congregational Churches in the year 1865; the doctrines therein set forth being understood by us to be distinctly those which, from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the Gospel.

IV. DENOMINATIONAL BASIS.—Being based exclusively upon Congregational principles, this Association shall, under no circumstances, exercise ecclesiastical authority over churches or individuals, or interfere with the government or discipline of the churches, or consent to hear appeals, or give advice in ecclesiastical causes of any kind.

V. MEMBERS.—Each District Association of ministers consenting to the principles above stated may appoint, annually, two delegates; and each District Conference of churches, also so consenting, may appoint, annually, three delegates, who shall be laymen; which delegates, with the Secretary, Registrar, Treasurer, and the pastor of the church with which the annual session is held, shall compose the General Association. Delegates from corresponding bodies, ministers appointed to preach sermons, and chairmen of committees attending to present reports, shall be honorary members, together with such other persons as the Association may vote to admit.

VI. OFFICERS.—1. A Secretary, a Registrar, and a Treasurer shall be chosen by ballot, each to serve three years from the close of the session at which the choice was made; to these offices any member of any Congregational Church connected with this body shall be eligible.

2. A Moderator and an Assistant Registrar shall be chosen by ballot from the members at each session to serve during that session.

3. The Secretary shall conduct the correspondence of the Association, collect the statistics of ministers and churches, and have charge of the printing thereof, distribute the publications of the Association, and preserve, for the permanent use of the Association, copies of all its publications.

4. The Registrar shall make the records of each meeting, and preserve them as the permanent property of the Association; to whom the Assistant Registrar shall render his aid. He shall seasonably notify the time and place of each annual session.

5. The Treasurer shall receive all money raised for the use of the Association, disburse the same as directed, and present an annual report, to be audited as the Association may direct.

6. The Secretary, Registrar, and Treasurer shall be ex-officio members of the Association, and be the Committee of Publication unless another be chosen. Their travelling expenses in attending the several sessions shall be paid by the Association.

VII. QUORUM.—Twenty-five delegates shall constitute a quorum.

VIII. ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual meeting shall be held on the third Tuesday of June, at four o'clock, P. M. (or at some other more convenient hour), at such place as shall have been duly designated.

IX. HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.—The Massachusetts Home Missionary Society may annually elect two delegates, to be members of this body, while it consents that this body may nominate two persons for membership in the Executive Committee of that Society.

X. CORRESPONDENCE.—Official fraternal intercourse with the several State Congregational organizations, and with other denominations, is sufficiently had by the representation of this body in the National Council of the Congregational Churches of the United States.

XI. ORGANIZATION.—The pastor of the church of the place of meeting, or the Secretary, may call the Association to order, and preside in the meeting until it be properly organized. The certificates of the delegates present shall be presented, only the names of members being read by the Registrar. The Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator and an Assistant Registrar, and the Moderator shall open the session with prayer. A Committee on Credentials shall then be appointed, to whom all certificates shall be referred.

XII. COMMITTEES.—1. The committees for the session are these:

(1.) A Committee on Credentials, who shall be appointed by the Moderator immediately after the opening of the session.

(2.) A Committee on Nominations, to nominate the following, and any other committees referred to them.

(3.) A Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the pastor, or some member of the church, shall be one, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session but through the hands and with the approbation of the committee. But if said committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

(4.) A committee to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the churches of the several Conferences connected with this body.

2. To act after the adjournment:

(1.) A Provisional Committee of five, to arrange the schedule for the next annual meeting; to select a preacher for a sermon on Wednesday, and persons to prepare such written papers as they shall deem desirable.

(2.) A State Committee on the Work of the Churches, who shall make an annual report to this body upon the work of the churches and state of religion, unless otherwise ordered at any session.

XIII. EXERCISES. — The time of the annual session shall be occupied by devotional services, the consideration of the state of religion, the wants and methods of home evangelization, addresses, and discussions of practical religious interest, and attention to the objects of benevolent enterprise sustained by the churches.

XIV. SPECIAL ORDERS. — 1. At the opening of the session, on the morning of Wednesday and Thursday, the Moderator shall take the Chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned; shall immediately call the members to order; shall direct the roll to be called; shall open the meeting with prayer; and cause the Minutes of the preceding day to be read; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

2. The associational sermon and Lord's Supper shall be assigned to Thursday P. M., but may be changed to Tuesday evening, at the option of the Provisional Committee. Wednesday evening shall be devoted to exercises having special reference to the people of the place of meeting, or a sermon may be preached, the preacher to be selected by the Provisional Committee. One session of the Association shall be devoted to the cause of Home Missions.

3. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer.

XV. PLACE OF MEETING. — Previously to the close of each meeting the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and designate the Association (in alphabetical order) to appoint a preacher for the sermon before the Lord's Supper. And the church of the place of meeting selected is requested to make preparation to celebrate the Lord's Supper in the course of the service. The Lord's Supper shall be administered, generally, without remarks.

XVI. RULES OF ORDER. — 1. Every motion, on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator or any two members, be reduced to writing; and no motion shall be opened to discussion until it be seconded.

2. The Moderator may speak to points of order in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the House by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the Chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

3. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question, without leave of the Association.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received except for adjournment, laying on the table, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question. The previous question is this: Shall the main question be now put? And the effect of adopting it shall be to put an end to debate, and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon the amendments, if any are pending, and then upon the main question proper.

5. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the Chair, and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members, to call him to order.

XVII. AMENDMENTS. — 1. Any of the above rules, except the first five, may be amended at any annual session by a two-thirds vote, the proposed amendment having been submitted in writing on the day previous to that of action.

2. Amendments to either of the first five articles shall not be made except upon their proposal at the annual meeting next prior to that of action; and after notice has been sent to the several Associations and Conferences; and by a two-thirds vote.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

EXPLANATIONS.

1. The following tables contain the name of all the Congregational Churches in Massachusetts, each in its own county. The counties are arranged in alphabetical order. Towns in each county are arranged alphabetically; churches in each town, according to age; and of each church, (1) its town, (2) its name (if it have a peculiar one), which is always followed by "ch," (3) its locality in the town when that locality has a name distinct from the town; when the name of a church follows the name of a locality subordinate to the town, it shows that the church has a distinct number in that subdivision of the town, or it is evidently needed for clearness.

2. Churches organized since the close of the statistical year (Dec. 31, 1874) are inserted in the county tables in brackets, but not included in the summaries; and are also given with the list of new churches.

3. The contracted headings to the columns of figures are more fully given with the Summary.

4. The column specifying ministers is corrected up to June 30, 1875. Church members are reported as numbered on the morning of Jan. 1, 1875. Admissions, removals, and baptisms cover the year 1874. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females," and "total," but included in them. "Sabbath School" includes total membership of teachers and scholars Jan. 1, 1875, or when the school is in successful operation (if not at that date), covering "branch schools" and "mission schools," so far as maintained by the reporting church, and the "average attendance" for the year 1874. "Benevolent contributions" include no parish expenditures, church building, or the like, and only donations in money.

5. The months and days, in the dates of the organization of churches, are omitted. They will be found in the publication of 1873; those of churches since organized being given in the list of new churches each year.

6. "Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry "by the laying on of hands." "Installed" denotes the date of his present pastorate. "A. P." denotes "acting pastor."

7. All Post-office addresses are to be found in the "List of Ministers," and not in the tables. For churches, see "Index of Towns."

9. In no instance is the report of any church in these Statistics copied from the returns of previous years. But there is included in the totals of each county a careful estimate of the numbers in any unreporting Sunday School; and also the occasionally missing items of "absent" and "average attendance" in Sabbath Schools,—which are assumed to be, in each case, equivalent to the average percentage of their county.

10. Blanks in any column of figures are never equivalent to "none," but mean "no report"; but blanks in the column of ministers do mean that the church has no pastor or acting pastor, and the blank is left for the convenience of those who note changes.

This table necessarily omits one church formed since December 31, 1874.

NOTES. — 1. Of the churches counted "vacant" above, 15 are supplied by licentiates or ministers of other denominations.

2. The column of "other ministers" includes only such (not in pastoral service) as are members of our Associations and reside in Massachusetts. Many of those whose occupation is in Boston reside, and are counted, in other counties.

3. Comparisons. — New churches, 11; dropped, 2. Gain in church-membership, 1,688. Gain in Sabbath Schools, 4,514.

The average attendance in Sabbath Schools is 6,412 of their total membership; in years next preceding, respectively, 6,480, 6,454, 6,752, 6,764, 6,679, 6,718.

Increase in Benevolent Contributions (489 churches reporting, 473 last year), $22,703.17.

Pastors a year ago, 314; of these, during the year, 2 died in office and 37 were dismissed; 11 persons were ordained pastors (one of them over two churches), and 19 other ministers (one over two churches and one as colleague), were installed; making 335 the present total. Ministers not pastors deceased, 8. Ordained without installation, 14.

Six churches have each two pastors; two ministers are pastors, one pastor is acting pastor of another church; and one pastor is acting pastor of another church whose aged pastor is retired but not dismissed.

Churches having pastors a year ago, 307; of these the pastors of two have died, and of 35 dismissed (not counting colleagues in two churches dismissed), making 37 more vacant churches; 12 vacant churches have had (11) pastors ordained during the year, and 19 vacant churches have had pastors installed (besides one received a colleague, while two churches received but one pastor), making 31 vacant churches supplied by settlement; total present number of churches with pastors, 301.

Licentiates under care, 54, — 27 of whom were approbated during the year.

For the above items of changes by counties, see table on next page; lists of new churches, ordinations, etc., follow; and comparison of "totals" with those of preceding years will be found in table further on.

NOTE.—The “year” means what changes were comprised in the twelve months preceding January 1st of the year mentioned; except that the columns under “Ministers” comprise the twelve months ending with the time of closing the “copy” for printing the Minutes, usually reckoned at June 30. The table by counties was begun in 1866; all preceding years now given being compiled from past Minutes,—the number of churches in some years varying from the Minutes as they were to what they should have been.

The changes in list of churches, ordinations, installations, etc., for the past year, condensed in the above table by counties, are given in detail on the next and succeeding pages.

In 1846 Gorham D. took the Senior Class as a nucleus for a separate school of the highest grade. This school afterwards became the Spingler Institute, which bore so distinguished a reputation under his care. After ceasing his connection with it, some time after 1861 he removed to South Natick, Mass., where he supplied the Congregational church there. He resided there until his death, in that place, August 3, 1874. He was a member of Middlesex South Association.

His health failing in that climate, he left that church in 1845, and began labor in Lowell, Mass., where, in 1846, the High Street Church was organized under his care. In 1850 he left it, and went to Brooklyn, N. Y., to take pastoral care of Bridge Street Church (lately represented in the Elm Place Church), with which he remained three years. Re-embarking for Syria in January, 1853, he remained in connection with the Board until 1861, and in missionary work until the spring of 1869. The remaining years of his life were spent in America. NOTES ON THE STATISTICS.

REPORTS have been received from every church in the State. The faithful earnestness of the Scribes of the local organizations in obtaining the statistics, and their industry in obtaining them in season to have all the county tables put in type before the session of the General Association, deserve special mention. The county tables were laid before the Association, in type, and proofs were sent to the Scribes for revision and correction.

Comparisons of the details of this year with those of last year will be found on page 155; with those of preceding years, in the continued summary on the next page.

The additions by profession are greater than those of any other year, save two, in the last twenty-five years.

The gain in Sabbath Schools is larger than in any year, save one, during the same period.

Benevolent Contributions show an increase of $22,705.17, as against a decrease in the preceding year of $42,248.88.

The number of settled pastors shows a small decrease; the number of acting pastors a decided increase; and the number of vacant churches a small decrease.

The number of ministers deceased is but 10, as against 22 the preceding year; of these 10, 2 were settled pastors, 1 acting pastor, and 7 without charge. The average age, 65 years and 19 days, is noticeable.

Prior to 1830, number of churches at given dates. In 1820, — 1; 1830, — 2; 1835, — 13; 1840, — 26; 1850, — 39; 1860, — 83; 1870, — 239; June 17, 1875, — 298; July 4, 1876, — 300; 1879, — 324; 1890, — 343; 1810, — 281, (having dropped all that ever became Unitarian); 1820, — 231; 1825, — 310.

In the above table the columns of "Additions," "Removals," "Baptisms," "Sabbath School Average," and "Benevolent Contributions" cover the twelve months next preceding January 1 of the year mentioned in a given line. The pastoral supply (only) was regularly corrected to a date some months later than January 1 (usually July), but this does not change the general accuracy in any case. The number of churches, members, and of Sabbath Schools was enumerated January 1 of the year mentioned.

* Absentees prior to 1855 doubtless stated too low by defective returns.

AND OF SUCH PARTS OF TOWNS (HAVING CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES)
AS HAVE DISTINCT NAMES.

The county is here given in italics. The statistics of churches in any town will be found in the county tables (pages 140-154). The number affixed to any town, in this list, is the number of the Conference (pages 113-121) with which its churches are connected. If no such number is given, the church is not connected with a Conference. "No Church" means only "no Congregational church." The population of such towns, by census of 1870, is given in parenthesis.

This list includes only pastors or acting pastors and members of Associations; and of such only as reside or are in service in this State. Its post-office addresses may differ from the foregoing pages.

A list of members of our Associations residing in other States follows this list; and an alphabetical list of licentiates follows that.

A star (*) prefixed to any name in this list denotes that the person, although an "acting pastor," is not a member of any Association in this State.

In this list the first column of figures gives the number of the Association of Ministers with which a person is connected. The Association lists are numbered consecutively in pages 122-138, and the number will be found in the running titles at the top of those pages.

The second column of figures in this list gives the number of the County in which a person will be found to be in pastoral service, and these numbers will be found in the running titles of the County tables of churches, pages 140-154. A blank in either case signifies,—in the former, that one is not a member of any Association in this State; in the latter, that he is not reported to be in pastoral service in this State.
